Fast-Moving Storm Brings New Snow To Plains States

IN NEW NOTE TO MOSCOW

Allies May Agree To Summit Meet With Khrushchev

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. officials said Saturday the Allies have virtually completed a note to Russia opening the way for a Big-Four summer summit conference if a worthwhile foreign ministers' meeting on German problems takes place in mid-May.

They said they expected that a "minor disagreement" with the British over wording of the note could be ironed out early next week. They predicted the note would go to Moscow later in the week.

Meanwhile, President Eisenhower's foreign policy advisers have prepared a number of suggestions for his nationwide Monday night radio and television address on Berlin. He is expected to stress the fundamental rights of the Allies in West Berlin and their determination to resist Soviet pressures there.

LEADERS TO CONFER

Foreign policy officials also are preparing for the President's meeting next weekend with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan. They will discuss Allied strategy on dealing with the Russians.

Officials said the British are inclined to hold a summit meeting even if the foreign ministers' session produces no substantial progress towards solving major German problems.

They said this reflects Macmillan's view, communicated to Washington after his Moscow trip, that it is vital to have some sort of negotiations with Russia and the form is definitely of secondary importance.

The United States and France, with the support of West Germany, have insisted that a summit conference should depend upon some progress being made at the foreign ministers' meeting.

Officials said the British now appear willing to go along with this position if the wording of the note does not appear to rule out the holding of a top-level conference.

The Allied note, officials said, will insist that the foreign ministers' conference consider all German problems. It will oppose Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's position in the Russian note of March 2 that such a meeting be confined to a discussion of Soviet proposals on Berlin.

These proposals are that the Western Allies leave West Berlin and permit it to become a free city while the Russians turn over their sector in the eastern part of Berlin to the German Communists.

The Allies have rejected this, as well as the Soviet proposal that a foreign ministers conference considering Germany discuss only Moscow's proposal for a peace conference to write a treaty which would neutralize, isolate and proably permanently divide Germany.

House Space Committee To Begin Probe

Hearings Slated To Open Monday In Washington

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Space Committee Saturday announced plans for a week-long investigation of how rapidly the United States is overcoming Russia in development of huge space-exploring rockets.

The hearings are scheduled to begin Monday. They will cover U.S. rocket developments ranging from present-day liquid propellant missiles to development of rockets powered by exotic fuels of the future and nuclear energy.

TIMETABLE ISSUE

Rocket industry officials from coast to coast will testify.

National Space Administration officials have said repeatedly that Russia's main advantage in the space exploration race is early Soviet development of huge rocket engines capable of launching satellites weighing many tons.

The NASA timetable calls for development of new second-stage rockets during the next two years which when used with the Atlas intercontinental ballistic missile

Gen. Taylor Tells Solons Need Urgent

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Army is studying an urgent appeal for more U.S. troops in Germany to fill vacant places in Seventh Army units and strengthen the defense of Berlin.

Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Army chief of staff, told a congressional subcommittee in testimony made public Saturday that he favors sending the additional men, even though this might involve calling out reservists and organizing new units.

President Eisenhower told his news conference last Wednesday that it would do no good to send more troops to Europe because this country has no intention of fighting a ground war there.

Taylor's views were disclosed in the second installment, released after heavy security deletions, of testimony he gave before the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee Wednesday.

The Army leader agreed with Eisenhower that ground warfare would be futile in East Germany "if there is an all - out use of Soviet ground forces. But I accept that the ultimate case necessarily has to be the actual case."

As of now, in Eastern Europe, he appeared to regard West-East troop strength as about even. He placed the number of NATO divisions at 20, against 25 for the

Grave Danger Of War Seen By Fulbright

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. J. William Fulbright warned Saturday against assuming "there's going to be no war" over Berlin. He said the Russians "may go very far" in their crisis tactics.

The Arkansas Democrat, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, also suggested the possibility of holding a summit conference every six months as a way to ease cold war tensions.

"Instead of being too sticky about summit conferences, we should tend to accept them—in view of world conditions—as a more common practice, perhaps holding one every six months," Fulbright said in a radio-television interview with Sen. George A. Smathers (D-Fla.).

"I regret the assumption that many people make that there's going to be no war I think that's premature," he said.

"I say it's a very serious situation."

HAVANA (UPI)—The arrests of two more U.S. citizens were disclosed Saturday, bringing to 10 the number of Americans held in Havana jails without formal charges since the revolutionary government took over.

Eight of the Americans were picked up during the past 48 hours. They included two women, Elaine Mitchell and Exenia Thornadakis, identified only as New York actresses, who were jailed after police said they discovered $57,000 in Cuban pesos hidden in their undergarments.

ARREST OTHERS

The two latest arrests to be disclosed were those of Paul R. Casovina, of Pearl River, N.Y., and Melvin Chapman, of Burbank, Calif. Both were picked up at the swank Hotel Nacional.

Four men also were arrested at the airport. They were identified as Mike McLaney, operator of a Havana gambling casino, and a resident of Miami, Israel Weinstein of Atlanta, Ga., Edward Solomon, North Miami, Fla., and Jesus Antonio Prieto of Miami.

U.S. To Build Testing Base For Missiles

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States will soon build a base on Kwajalein Island in the central Pacific for testing defenses against intercontinental ballistic missiles, it was revealed Saturday.

The base will be near the Atomic Energy Commission's testing ground in Bikini and Eniwetok. The Nike-Zeus and possibly other types of anti-missiles weapons are expected to be tested.

Plans for the installation have been developed under a security label. The Army and Navy made available only the barest details in answer to questions from United Press International.

There was no comment whatever on reports Kwajalein will be part of the Pacific missile range which has headquarters near Los Angeles.

PLANS CLASSIFIED

"Planned facilities for the range are classified," the Navy said.

There was room for speculation, however, that in the future anti-ICBM's might be fired from Kwajalein in test attempts to intercept Atlas or Titan ballistic missiles launched from the U.S. west coast.

The Navy gave a glimpse of the Kwajalein plan when asked why it was closing its station there but planning to contract with civilians for continued operation of the airbase.

The civilians, the Navy said, will be needed not only for running a military air transport base but for "certain activities related to research and testing of anti-ballistic missiles."

The Army, which is developing the Nike-Zeus, said construction work will start July 1. That is the first day of the new fiscal year and presumably the first day the necessary money will be available.

The Army said there would be 1,000 persons working on the project, 40 military, the remainder civilians.

Perjury Charged On Vote Claims

HOMER, La. (AP) — William S. Shaw, acting as attorney for the Claiborne Parish Registrar of Voters, charged Saturday that perjury had been committed by persons who accused the registrar of denying parish residents of the right to vote.

Shaw, who is also the state's assistant attorney general and special counsel for the joint legislative segregation committee, threatened to involve the U. S. Civil Rights Commission director as an accessory after the fact.

In a letter to Gordon Tiffany, commission director, Shaw demanded the names of four persons who filed complaints with the commission saying they were denied the right to vote because of race, color, religion or national origin.

DENIES CLAIM

Shaw said Mrs. Lannie Linton, the parish registrar, "knows these allegations are false since no such discrimination has been practiced.

Col. A. H. Rosenfeld, chief of the commission's complaint division, said four complaints of denials of registration rights had been received from Claiborne Parish.

In meetings with vote registrars in Caddo and Webster parishes Thursday, Rosenfeld said the commission had received 68 complaints from Louisiana citizens who claimed they were denied voting rights because of race or color.

Rosenfeld's requests to see registration lists for Caddo and Webster parishes were rejected by the registrars, on the advice of state Atty. Gen. Jack Gremillion.

Wife's Talking In Bed Breaks Up Marriage

Night after night, sometimes for weeks on end, Hildegard kept Fred awake nights by talking, a divorce court judge said.

Sometimes Fred would fall asleep, but Hildegard only thought he was kidding to annoy her.

In the end, said the judge, Hildegard got so annoyed she struck him, clawed him, tore his hair out — and once pushed him out of bed.

The court granted Fred a decree on grounds of cruelty, ruling Hildegard had deprived him of "the peace of mind which would enable him to sleep soundly."

Attacks In Syria By Three Iraqi Planes Reported

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—A United Arab Republic military spokesman said three Iraqi jet planes carried out a machinegun-rocket attack Saturday about six miles inside Syrian territory.

The semiofficial Middle East news agency quoted the spokesman of the U.A.R. 1st Syrian Army as saying the planes damaged a vehicle. No mention was made of casualties.

The statement distributed here said three Iraqi Fury aircraft attacked Syrian frontiers Saturday afternoon.

"The Iraqi planes penetrated 10 kilometers—six miles—inside Syrian territory, attacked and damaged an isolated Arab car, using rockets and machine guns," the spokesman said.

(Earlier, a Radio Damascus broadcast heard in London said Iraqi planes had attacked a village about six miles inside Syrian territory.)

Relations between Iraq and Syria have worsened since the government of Iraq Premier Abdel Karim Kassem, put down a revolt in the northern Iraqi city of Mosul early this week.

Demos Threaten Foreign Aid Cuts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower's $3,929,995,000 foreign aid program starts a stormy trip through Congress next week with Democrats primed to trim it where possible.

The House Foreign Affairs Committee opens hearings Monday morning, with acting Secretary of State Christian A. Herter as first witness.

Sen. Russell B. Long (D-La.) voiced the views of many Democrats when he said that "if the President wants to economize, I feel sure Congress will accommodate him on this foreign aid bill."

TOWN FIGHTS EPIDEMICS

Quarantine Halts Church Services

FOUNTAIN CITY, Ind. UPI —A self-imposed quarantine was observed by this tiny Indiana community this weekend in an effort to stamp out twin scourages of flu and scarlet fever.

Streets and stores were practically deserted. Clerks waited for occasional customers.

The town was quiet. Few laughing, shouting voices of children could be heard.

Even a basketball function, almost a "must" event in basketball-made Hoosierland, was postponed.

The community of less than 1,000 persons, usually hustling and bustling on a Saturday, gave up parties, meetings and church services in restricting its activities for three days through Sunday.

Hutchinson called for the anti-epidemic action when about one of every five school children was stricken with one of two infections ailments and local schools shut down. Most youngsters, however, were suffering from influenza.

"I asked them to go on about their buisness doing essentials," Hutchison said, "but to limit meetings and other get-togethers and to keep their children at home.

11 Workers Chain Selves In Factory

BLOOMFIELD, N.J. (AP) — Eleven workers remained chained to a pillar in the General Electric plant Saturday, protesting the company's plan for what they termed an April Fool's Day shutdown.

GE intends to move most of the plant's operations to the South after April 1.

Nearly a score of the workers linked themselves together with a chain Friday and rolled out a banner from fourth floor windows, proclaiming "We want the right to work."

They said they would remain chained in the building until ejected forcibly. A group of them left during the night, however. The reason for the departure was not explained.

Those who stayed in the plant played cards and took turns sleeping on a pile of felt pads in a corner.

The thin chain was wrapped around their wrists or bodies. It had no locks.

The demonstrators used the chain also to hoist food up from the street. They would lower a carton and have it filled with sandwiches and coffee by their wives and fellow members of Local 442, International Union of Electrical Workers.

IN NEW NOTE TO MOSCOW

Allies May Agree To Summit Meet With Khrushchev

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. officials said Saturday the Allies have virtually completed a note to Russia opening the way for a Big-Four summer summit conference if a worthwhile foreign ministers' meeting on German problems takes place in mid-May.

They said they expected that a "minor disagreement" with the British over wording of the note could be ironed out early next week. They predicted the note would go to Moscow later in the week.

Meanwhile, President Eisenhower's foreign policy advisers have prepared a number of suggestions for his nationwide Monday night radio and television address on Berlin. He is expected to stress the fundamental rights of the Allies in West Berlin and their determination to resist Soviet pressures there.

LEADERS TO CONFER

Foreign policy officials also are preparing for the President's meeting next weekend with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan. They will discuss Allied strategy on dealing with the Russians.

Officials said the British are inclined to hold a summit meeting even if the foreign ministers' session produces no substantial progress towards solving major German problems.

They said this reflects Macmillan's view, communicated to Washington after his Moscow trip, that it is vital to have some sort of negotiations with Russia and the form is definitely of secondary importance.

The United States and France, with the support of West Germany, have insisted that a summit conference should depend upon some progress being made at the foreign ministers' meeting.

Officials said the British now appear willing to go along with this position if the wording of the note does not appear to rule out the holding of a top-level conference.

The Allied note, officials said, will insist that the foreign ministers' conference consider all German problems. It will oppose Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's position in the Russian note of March 2 that such a meeting be confined to a discussion of Soviet proposals on Berlin.

These proposals are that the Western Allies leave West Berlin and permit it to become a free city while the Russians turn over their sector in the eastern part of Berlin to the German Communists.

The Allies have rejected this, as well as the Soviet proposal that a foreign ministers conference considering Germany discuss only Moscow's proposal for a peace conference to write a treaty which would neutralize, isolate and proably permanently divide Germany.

Americans Are Jailed By Cubans

HAVANA (UPI)—The arrests of two more U.S. citizens were disclosed Saturday, bringing to 10 the number of Americans held in Havana jails without formal charges since the revolutionary government took over.

Eight of the Americans were picked up during the past 48 hours. They included two women, Elaine Mitchell and Exenia Thornadakis, identified only as New York actresses, who were jailed after police said they discovered $57,000 in Cuban pesos hidden in their undergarments.

ARREST OTHERS

The two latest arrests to be disclosed were those of Paul R. Casovina, of Pearl River, N.Y., and Melvin Chapman, of Burbank, Calif. Both were picked up at the swank Hotel Nacional.

Four men also were arrested at the airport. They were identified as Mike McLaney, operator of a Havana gambling casino, and a resident of Miami, Israel Weinstein of Atlanta, Ga., Edward Solomon, North Miami, Fla., and Jesus Antonio Prieto of Miami.

McLaney and Weinstein arrived on the same plane with the two American women. Solomon and Prieto were arrested later. Police said Solomon carried $159,000 in

Wife's Talking In Bed Breaks Up Marriage

Night after night, sometimes for weeks on end, Hildegard kept Fred awake nights by talking, a divorce court judge said.

Sometimes Fred would fall asleep, but Hildegard only thought he was kidding to annoy her.

Sometimes he snored.

In the end, said the judge, Hildegard got so annoyed she struck him, clawed him, tore his hair out — and once pushed him out of bed.

The court granted Fred a decree on grounds of cruelty, ruling Hildegard had deprived him of "the peace of mind which would enable him to sleep soundly."

Freak Accident Fatal For Cadet

VANDALIA, Ill. (AP)—A military school cadet was killed on a sightseeing trip Saturday when a chunk of metal tore through the floor of a train lounge car and hit him on the side of the head.

A Pennsylvania Railroad spokesman at Indianapolis called the freak accident in Vandalia a "one in a hundred million" occurrence. He said it apparently was caused by a broken wheel.

Driver Attacked After Failing To Dim Auto Lights

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP)—Because he didn't dim his lights for an auto ahead of him, Charles Strickland of Galveston said he was cut, stomped and pistol whipped early Saturday.

Strickland said he approached a car with several men and women in it.

He failed to dim his headlights which reflected in their rear-view mirror. After he passed the car Strickland said, the driver pursued him at speeds up to 85 miles an hour, then forced him to stop.

Strickland told J. B. Kline, Galveston County chief deputy sheriff that three men got out of the car, pulled him from behind the steering wheel, slashed his left arm with a knife, then kicked him.

They also broke out the window of his car, officers reported.

Kline and two deputies took Strickland to the hospital and found a car believed that of the assailants. One of the men, a deputy said was being treated for glass cuts.

Attacks In Syria By Three Iraqi Planes Reported

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—A United Arab Republic military spokesman said three Iraqi jet planes carried out a machinegun-rocket attack Saturday about six miles inside Syrian territory.

The semiofficial Middle East news agency quoted the spokesman of the U.A.R. 1st Syrian Army as saying the planes damaged a vehicle. No mention was made of casualties.

The statement distributed here said three Iraqi Fury aircraft attacked Syrian frontiers Saturday afternoon.

"The Iraqi planes penetrated 10 kilometers—six miles—inside Syrian territory, attacked and damaged an isolated Arab car, using rockets and machine guns," the spokesman said.

(Earlier, a Radio Damascus broadcast heard in London said Iraqi planes had attacked a village about six miles inside Syrian territory.)

Relations between Iraq and Syria have worsened since the government of Iraq Premier Abdel Karim Kassem, put down a revolt in the northern Iraqi city of Mosul early this week.

Demos Threaten Foreign Aid Cuts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower's $3,929,995,000 foreign aid program starts a stormy trip through Congress next week with Democrats primed to trim it where possible.

The House Foreign Affairs Committee opens hearings Monday morning, with acting Secretary of State Christian A. Herter as first witness.

Sen. Russell B. Long (D-La.) voiced the views of many Democrats when he said that "if the President wants to economize, I feel sure Congress will accommodate him on this foreign aid bill."

TOWN FIGHTS EPIDEMICS

Quarantine Halts Church Services

FOUNTAIN CITY, Ind. UPI —A self-imposed quarantine was observed by this tiny Indiana community this weekend in an effort to stamp out twin scourages of flu and scarlet fever.

Streets and stores were practically deserted. Clerks waited for occasional customers.

The town was quiet. Few laughing, shouting voices of children could be heard.

Even a basketball function, almost a "must" event in basketball-made Hoosierland, was postponed.

The community of less than 1,000 persons, usually hustling and bustling on a Saturday, gave up parties, meetings and church services in restricting its activities for three days through Sunday.

Hutchinson called for the anti-epidemic action when about one of every five school children was stricken with one of two infections ailments and local schools shut down. Most youngsters, however, were suffering from influenza.

"I asked them to go on about their buisness doing essentials," Hutchison said, "but to limit meetings and other get-togethers and to keep their children at home.

"They were very quick to

Durrett Sells Stock In Firm

Announcement was made Saturday by Monroe Furniture Company, Inc., local retail and wholesale furniture company, that the corporation has purchased from J. G. Durrett Sr., all of the capital stock owned by Durrett in the corporation and its subsidiaries. The new officers of the corporation are R. D. Kellogg, president, M. J. Carbone, vice-president, Mrs. Joyce Siegle Kellogg, secretary, and Thos. W. Leigh, treasurer.

The company announces that J. G. Durrett, Jr. and William D. Durrett will continue in the employ of the company in administrative capacities, and that the sales and operational policies of the company will continue unchanged.

Clear, Cooler Loom For Area

Today's and Monday's weather should be a direct contrast from the hot, high-humidity night just passed.

The temperature range yesterday was 75 to 55 and Friday's readings were 72 and 40.

PROTEST MOVING PLANS

11 Workers Chain Selves In Factory

BLOOMFIELD, N.J. (AP) — Eleven workers remained chained to a pillar in the General Electric plant Saturday, protesting the company's plan for what they termed an April Fool's Day shutdown.

GE intends to move most of the plant's operations to the South after April 1.

Nearly a score of the workers linked themselves together with a chain Friday and rolled out a banner from fourth floor windows, proclaiming "We want the right to work."

They said they would remain chained in the building until ejected forcibly. A group of them left during the night, however. The reason for the departure was not explained.

Those who stayed in the plant played cards and took turns sleeping on a pile of felt pads in a corner.

The thin chain was wrapped around their wrists or bodies. It had no locks.

The demonstrators used the chain also to hoist food up from the street. They would lower a carton and have it filled with sandwiches and coffee by their wives and fellow members of Local 442, International Union of Electrical Workers.

FROM COMPANY'S FILES

Records Sought By Probers Lost

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Some records sought by the Senate Rackets Committee were "lost" from the files of a Chicago insurance company between visits by investigators, chief counsel Robert F. Kennedy reported Saturday.

He related the incident to newsmen in outlining committee plans to inquire next week into the handling of the insurance business on a number of union pension and welfare funds in Chicago.

He said the committee would trace the channeling of these accounts to the Occidental Insurance Co. of Los Angeles, through the Dearborn Insurance Co. of Chicago.

He said one of the original Dearborn partners had been convicted of income tax evasion and another is under indictment on the same charge. Among those having an interest in the firm, Kennedy said, was former Chicago alderman Frank Keenan.

Kennedy said the business involved commissions, fees and other payments totalling more than a million dollars since 1950.

He said committee investigators looked at certain records in the Dearborn offices but were told during a later visit that the documents had been lost.

He said the company got most of its business from labor groups, including three Chicago Teamster locals and units of the Restaurant Workers Union.

He identified the Teamster Locals as 778, headed by Joey Glimco; 703, headed by Dominic Selese, and 710, headed by union vice president John T. (Sandy) O'Brien.

He recalled previous testimony that Occidental also handles insurance for the Western Conference of Teamsters and once made a $350,000 loan to former Teamster president Dave Beck.

The committee delved extensively into Glimco's activities earlier this week and also touched on Selese. Both invoked the Fifth Amendment to questions about alleged kickbacks, payoffs and misuse of union funds.

Kennedy said the committee would offer more testimony about Glimco next week and take up for the first time in public session some matters involving O'Brien.

Kennedy said the Dearborn Co. was founded in 1949 by a group that included Harland Maris of Oakland, Calif., who worked for Occidental; Elmer Crane, a Chicago attorney, and John Murray, a Chicago insurance broker.

He said Keenan and Allen Creitz, Chicago manager of Occidental's group insurance department, also had an interest in Dearborn but later dropped out.

IN GAS TAX HIKE FIGHT

Oil Industry Relies On Motorists' Aid

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The oil industry is relying on the average motorist for aid in its fight against increased gasoline taxes.

Federal and state tax hike proposals have caused national and state oil groups and committees to keep reminding motorists how much they pay each year in gasoline taxes.

Texas motorists were reminded this week not to forget their state gasoline tax when they figure deductions for their 1958 income tax reports. State taxes on gasoline are deductible items but the three-cents per gallon federal tax is not.

A highway policy adopted last month by the American Petroleum Institute said the average of state and federal motor fuel taxes combined has reached a level which is out of proportion to the levies imposed even on luxury items.

At the end of 1958, API said, gasoline taxes averaged 9 cents a gallon or over 40 per cent of the average retail price of regular grade gasoline.

A recent industry survey said the average state-federal gasoline tax increased from 6.52 cents a gallon in 1949 to 8.94 cents in December.

At the same time, the average price of gasoline, excluding taxes, increased from 20.27 cents a gallon to only 20.36 cents. In the same period the average research octane rating of regular grade jumped from 80.1 to 89.8, and the premium grade rating increased from 86.8 to 97.6.

API's new statement of policy on highways contends that an increase in gasoline taxes is unjustified and that a reasonable part of highway costs should be met out of general tax revenues.

API argues that highway users should not be asked to pay more in that highways aid national defense, open up new areas, create new values, lower transportation costs, expedite essential services, and benefit every citizen in many other ways.

API also contends there would be adequate funds to finance the federal share of the interstate highway system if, in addition to the three-cent tax, all other special federal taxes now paid by motor vehicle owners were applied to road purposes.

Texas motorists paid 170 million dollars in state gasoline taxes last year. The Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Assn. this week suggested that auto owners keep this in mind as they prepare to meet the April 15 deadline for federal income tax returns.

The association estimated that the average motorist driving 5,000 miles last year could deduct $17.86 and that a 20,000-mile driver could deduct $71.43.

Republicans Begin Work On Program

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Republican committee assigned to chart the future course of the GOP set up four task forces Saturday to write a long - range program that will command support from independent voters and "wobbly Democrats."

This action was taken at the windup of a two-day meeting of the 43-member committee picked by Party chairman Meade Alcorn with President Eisenhower's backing to define Republican policy.

The committee also heard an analysis of the 1958 Republican election defeats from Sen. Barry Goldwater (Ariz.), conservative chairman of the GOP Senatorial Campaign Committee.

"The trouble is not that we are Republicans," Goldwater said. "The trouble may be that we are not Republican enough...

"This is not the time to fight a battle of tactics and maneuver so much as to return to the fortress of simple, immovable beliefs based on fundamental principles."

The task forces set up today were:

National Security and Peace, headed by Dr. Albert S. Jacobs, President of Trinity College, Hartford, Conn., to study such questions as national defense, foreign aid and related issues.

Human Rights and Needs, headed by Bertha S. Adkins, Asst. Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, to deal with civil rights, education, health, social insurance, etc.

Science and Technology, headed by Charles E. Ducommun, Los Angeles businessman, to study how science may reshape the American way of life, how government can encourage development, and how scientific progress can be harnessed to benefit the people.

Economic Opportunity and Progress, headed by Gabriel Hauge, New York banker and former economic adviser to President Eisenhower, to study economic growth and price stability, agriculture, labor relations, monopoly and related problems.

The task forces will meet separately during the next month and the full committee will hold its next session at Highland Park, Ill., May 1 to 3. Its report is due by Sept. 1.

Swift Action Follows Fire Call To Hotel

Firemen moved swiftly and silently at 3:07 yesterday morning, to douse a cigarette-caused mattress fire on the second floor of the Penn Hotel.

"Except for the people in the room with the fire, I don't think that anyone else woke up, thank heavens," said relieved fire officials, thinking of how a possible panic was averted.

AWAKENED

Firemen said that Mrs. Sergant awakened, saw that a cigarette had set the bed on fire, and alerted her husband. Thinking they had extinguished the blaze, they did not realize the mattress was still smouldering, but a porter smelled smoke and called fire alarm headquarters.

When Engine companies 1, 10 and ladder 1 arrived, the mattress was still smoking. Firemen used a hand extinguisher to halt it.

The mattress was a complete loss. Other damage included a sheet and blanket

District Chief J. C. Liles was summoned to the blaze. In charge of engine 1 was Capt. R. L. Frantom; engine 10, Capt. T. Finkbeiner; and ladder 1, Capt. M. M. Smith.

Dognapping Leaves Little Boy Lonely

For the first time in 10 months.

And somewhere, a little brown-and-white Chihuahua dog named "Mickey" probably was just as lonesome.

Mr. and Mrs. Travis Lee bought the registered Mexican hairless dog for their son when the puppy was just six weeks old.

Ray, who suffers from asthma, and "Mickey" became inseparable. Mickey slept in his own apple-box house next to Ray's bed.

If Mickey ate anything, he had to see Ray eating it first. He scorned all kinds of dogfood, ate only food from the Lee's dinner table.

At 1 yesterday afternoon, little Mickey was out for a brief stroll, wearing his brown harness and heart-shaped vaccination tag, number 2370.

The Lees thought Mickey was safe. Next door lives West Monroe Police Captain J. B. Hennen. Directly in back, on Slack Street, resides Sheriff Bailey Grant.

Mrs. Hennen happened to glance outside.

A red and white 1955 or 56 Ford drove up, and a young man snatched the brown-eared dog into the auto, then drove off.

'The entire family is upset," sighed Mrs. Lee last night, "but Ray still thinks Mickey will come back."

Special Award To Sicily Island School Student

BATON ROUGE (Special) — A Sicily Island high school student, Clarendon Peck Jr., received the State Superintendent of Public Education Award at the Louisiana State University Livestock Show here.

Peck, who was named "Outstanding Future Farmer of America" of his school, was given the award for superior achievement in his livestock program which included the raising of beef cattle, steers and swine. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarendon Peck Sr., of Sicily Island.

Shelby M. Jackson, state superintendent of public education, also presented awards to Miss Gloria Fay Lindsey, Caddo parish, and Steve Jones, Red River parish.

Miss Lindsey's projects included swine growing, dairy calf management, poultry production and canning. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Lindsey of Shreveport.

Beef calf raising, crop production, forestry and farm and home electrification were included in Jones's projects. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Jones of Coushatta.

No U.S. Ground War

"We certainly are not going to fight a ground war in Europe because we could not win it against Russia's more numerous troops. You have got to go to other means."

These words were bluntly spoken by President Eisenhower when he warned Democrats that any additional U. S. ground troops they might force on him now would be "sent somewhere nice and quite to keep them out of the way."

Such blunt words as these are certain to arouse strong controversy in congress and throughout the nation. There will be true differences of opinion so strong that probably a hot fight will be waged in congress.

Even the outcome of that battle may not determine which is the right and which is the wrong course to follow. The Democrats may overpower the Eisenhower forces in congress by sheer force of numbers, since the Democrats are in the majority. It is possible that some Republicans will decide the President is wrong and will vote to increase, or at least not to reduce, troops. Some Democrats, on this question affecting the very life of our nation, may agree with the president and cast their ballots in favor of other phases of defense development, rather than for a large standing army.

A large proporation of the congressmen in both parties will try to decide what is best for the nation on a basis other than partisanship. It is a question so big that partisanship should be eliminated entirely.

Regardless of the reaction of the Democrats, the Republicans and the nation as a whole, there will be a strong realization that at least a part of what the president said is correct.

When he said, "We certainly are not going to fight a ground war in Europe because we could not win it against Russia's more numerous troops," he put into words a fact that has been realized for many years by all thinking persons, both inside and outside of officialdom. No one should be able to realize this more fully than Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, senate generalissimo, who has taken issue with President Eisenhower on a number of occasions.

During World War II American army officials were amazed at the ability of the Russian army to move forward relentlessly and steadily, once the advance was begun, seldom delaying its advance even to bring up supplies Russia has a greater population than the United States and a standing army which this country could never hope to match in numbers.

If Russia were to attempt a ground invasion of the United States there is every reason to believe that it could be repelled. Russia will not attempt such an invasion. If it should attack, it would be by air, submarine and missile assault.

We know full well that we cannot defend Europe by ground forces, even with the assistance we might receive from Britain, France and West Germany. We know that in a war with Russia the life of this nation would depend upon attack with missiles and nuclear weapons and perhaps some other secret weapons of attack.

France has no heart for war and Britain and West Germany have little. Questionnaries conducted in France have shown that not one man out of 500 would be willing to die for any cause whatever and that the number who would voluntarily go to war is about the same. In addition, France has shown a resurgence of Communism in recent elections. In the event of a ground war, that country would be so badly divided that it would be of litle value to either side and, in all probability, would jump to the side which seemed most likely to win.

These are facts which must be faced and which are well known to President Eisenhower, to Sen. Johnson and to all of our military chiefs.

In deciding on the size of our standing army, we must, as President Eisenhower says, start with the premise that we can't whip Russia with our ground forces. Once having accepted that conclusion, which cannot logically be denied, we are in a better position to determine whether a larger standing army would be advantageous or whether such an army might mean a waste of money that could be spent more effectively in developing missiles, nuclear weapons, interceptors and other devices of scientific attack and defense.

No ordinary citizen can determine this question and it is one that will present the greatest difficulty to those high officials and the members of congress upon whom the decision rests. Any congressman who loves his country more than his own personal ambitions will do his best to lay aside partisanship when making his own individual decision.

We know that love of liberty is not dead in the United States. We know that no one is willing to bow to Russia. We know that in this country we still have millions of men who would willingly fight and die for a cause, yet we do not want useless slaughter.

We reject defeatism wholly and completely and we accept our right to use any weapons which will defeat the enemy and which will hold the loss of American lives to a minimum if we must go to war.

Huge Invisible City

If all of the people now on the civilian federal payroll lived with their families in one new city, it would be the second largest city in the United States, according to information developed by the National Association of Manufacturers.

Announcement has been made by Sen. Harry F. Byrd of Virginia that 2,361,000 civilians now collect their pay from Uncle Sam. Their pay checks total more than a billion dollars every month. Government workers averaged 11 per cent pay increases in 1958, but few taxpayers had any such increases.

Many of the services perform by federal civilian employes are felt to be non-essential or even detrimenal to the welfare of the nation. If so, large sums could be saved by eliminating these services, but even if every program the government now conducts were to be continued, Sen. Byrd assures us that more than 150,000 jobs could be abolished without impairing efficiency in the slighest. This is slightly more than six per cent.

Many business firms feel that they are doing well if they can make a six per cent profit. With the federal government running in the red and having great difficulty in borrowing the money it needs to make up the deficit. Sen. Byrd's suggestion that the country effect savings along this line is just plain common sense.

The highways and streets could be made immensely safer by revoking the driving license of the "other fellow," as he causes nearly all the accidents.

Has anybody ever been satisfied with his appearance as seen in a three-way mirror?

After Three Days And Three Nights

GEORGE SOKOLSKY'S DAY'S

Germany's Division Bars Making Of Peace Treaty

The United States, Great Britain, France and Soviet Russia are in Berlin as an act of war because they defeated Hitler and conquered Germany. Germany itself came to be divided into two parts, East Germany and West Germany. East Germany developed into a satellite of Soviet Russia, a part of the Soviet Universal State; West Germany developed into a free country, rich, effective, competitive in world markets with Great Britain and the United States.

No peace treaty has ever been arranged with Germany because there can be no agreement as to which of these two is Germany. Therefore World War II never ended in Europe.

Errors were made during World War II at Yalta and Potsdam in the determination of the fate of Germany on the assumption that Soviet Russia was a loyal ally which sought the same kind of a peaceful world that the West sought. The imperialistic characteristics of Soviet Russia were not identified, with the result that today, 14 years later, the question of Berlin and of the unification of Germany is still before us and may lead to World War III.

Two courses are open to the United States:

1. Berlin and West Germany can be abandoned to the imperialistic purpose and strength of Soviet Russia;

2. The United States and its allies can refuse to abandon Berlin and West Germany.

The first course would bring the power of Soviet Russia to the Rhine and France would have to prepare to defend itself from being absorbed in the Soviet Universal State; the second course could lead to a general war involving the United States. The second course indicates that patience has been exhausted and that the Western world will defend itself; the first course indicates that the West has become obsolescent and gives up under threat.

Eugene Lyons, who is an authority on Russia and a senior editor of the "Reader's Digest", said:

"The real enigma is why we who are earmarked for conquest prefer to kid ourselves that communism can somehow be bought off, or contained, or induced to commit suicide by suddenly renouncing global conspiracy and world domination. We behave as if this were a conventional disagreement between nations—a question of territory and markets and colonies, as in the past. But it's nothing of the kind. What's involved is the 'permanent revolution' unleased by Lenin, promoted with increasing zeal and increasing success by all his successors. And we're doomed to defeat as long as we subsist on political tranquilizers."

This view is absolutely correct. It can only be hoped that it is not too late. Soviet Russia seeks the absorption of the continent of Europe in the Soviet Universal State which would give the Soviet Universal State an industrial base unequalled in world history.

Strange Planet People Possible

PLANETARY GOLDEN RULE —With all this talk about sending men into outer space some people already are concerned about what to do if we encounter humans on these faraway planets. So it was when Andrew G. Haley, attorney for the American Rocket Society, appeared before the House space committee. Among other things he said we should forget about the "Golden Rule" when dealing with people who are out of this world. "We must not treat them as we would want to be treated but as they want to be treated," he pointed out. "Otherwise, the results could be disastrous. The best thing is try to get into communication before we land, find out what they are like and ask permission to visit them," He also warned the committee that space explorers should be ready for some surprises such as one and two dimensional men.

MISSION ACCOMPLISHED — Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas set a new record for longevity in House on March 4. On that day he surpassed the 46 - year record set in 1923 by the late Joseph G. Cannon of Illinois whose service, twice interrupted, began in 1873. On this anniversary date "Mr. Sam" was spending his 16,802nd day in the House he loves so well. Someone once asked him when h decided he wanted to be Speaker of the House. "Well, I was about 8 or 10 and I was picking cotton when the idea came to me."

MAILS MUST MOVE — Uncle Sam has just finished spending $12 million on the Washington post office which is now described as the world's most mechanized. It has gadgets for sorting up to 18,000 letters an hour to 300 destinations and gadgets to cull, face and cancel mail at a rapid-fire clip. Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield himself admits the old post office had not changed much since Ben Franklin's day. This mechanization program eventually will be extended to other leading post offices around the country.

VOLSTEAD AND VERSE — Thirty years ago Congress was in the midst of a big hassle over an amendment to the Volstead act which would distinghuish between the casual offender and the out-and-out bootlegger. Someone has just recalled a poem which was read on the House floor at the height of the battle. It went like this:

"Prohibition is a failure
It's enforcement is a joke
Just because its own supporters
Will not wear its galling yoke.
And since the Congress fears the issue
Which is easier shunned than met
In both Houses they continue
Voting dry and drinking wet."

RIDE YES, DRIVE NO — The sparks were flying when the Democratic National Committee sat down here to pick a site for the 1960 Democratic convention. The group in favor of Los Angeles won but not without a fight. Gov. A. B. "Happy" Chandler lined himself behind the anti - Los Angeles force and needled the Westerners at every turn. On Los Angeles supporter reminded Chandler and the committee that California came through nobly for the Democrats in 1958 after many years of Republican control. "Well," drawled Chandler, "that may be true. But back in my country I'll tell you how we treat latecomers. In Kentucky we drive with the tail - gate down. We'll stop and pick up a latecomer but we won't let him drive."

OLD IRISH TIES — The question of how loyal Hawaiians of oriental extraction would be if Hawaii is admitted as the 50th State came up during discussion of the statehood bill in the House Rules Committee. Rep. Thomas P. O'Neill, Dem.- Mass., fired one question after another at Rep. Leo W. O'Brien, Dem.-N. Y. Would the Hawaiians, O'Neill wanted to know, have a special feeling for the Asian countries of their parentage, such as China and Japan? "Oh," O'Brien replied, "no more feeling than you or I get in our hearts when we hear somebody sing, 'When Irish Eyes Are Smiling'."

MY ANSWER

by Billy Graham

QUESTION: I have failed to get peace and happiness by self discipline. I have overcome my evil habits but am still overcome with a feeling of guilt. What more is there that I can do? S. F.

ANSWER: Abstinence from evil practice is never the way to obtain peace of soul. The victory over a specific kind of evil may result in a great degree of personal satisfaction and self righteousness, but it will not bring a spontaneous inward joy. Such a victory is at best only temporary, for you are still the same person with the same inclinations to evil. Until a new and controlling principle is brought to bear in your life you will continue to have the sense of guilt you always had. Even a self - righteous attitude is only pampering your pride. Until you are born again by a personal faith in Jesus Christ, you will still be the same person with the same dispositions but with many suppressed desires. If you will receive the Gospel for the healing of your soul you will find the sense of guilt destroyed and a spontaneous joy in its place. Because by this means you are reconciled to God.

Not until you are at peace with God do you find inward peace. You will find wonderful relief and relaxation in the freedom Christ gives!

Views Of Our Readers

To The Editor:

The Monroe Morning World of Sunday, February 22, 1959, published an editorial under the title "Schools, Welfare." This editorial quoted Dr. Paul T. Hendershot, of the faculty of Louisiana Polytechnic Institute. These quotes made reference to both schools and welfare. Since they may have created inaccurate impressions about the welfare program in Louisiana it is important that some clarification of the welfare program be published. In this statement there is no intention to analyze our school system, or its financial needs. Our only concern is to correct inaccurate impressions about the welfare program which may have been created by Dr. Hendershot's comments as quoted in your editorial.

"It is rank stupidity, in terms of morality and economics, to continue public support to profligate women who bring ten to fifteen illegitimate children into the world, while at the same time denying adequate support of our educational system on all levels."

It is somewhat difficult to determine exactly what Professor Hendershot had in mind by this statement, if accurately quoted, and not of context with the rest of his speech. If he meant that mothers with ten or more illegitimate children should be removed from relief and the money given over to our schools, he quite obviously is not aware of the small number of families this involves. In February, 1958, the most recent statistics, there were only eight families in the whole state of Louisiana with ten or more illegitimate children receiving Aid to Dependent Children's Assistance. These eight families represent only 00.034 per cent of the 23,685 Aid to Dependent Children recipient families in the state that month. The large majority of these families had no illegitimate children. It is clear that the money expended on these families, if it had been turned over to the schools instead, would have been less than the proverbial "drop in the bucket" in our total budget for public education.

If Professor Hendershot had in mind the removal of all families with illegitimate children, not just those with ten to fifteen, he did not say so. Actually this would be the harshest proposal made by the critics of this program. It is to be doubted that Professor Hendershot had this in mind, for he must know that cutting such children off from their necessary food, shelter, clothing, medical care, and education would not only result in a serious present hardship for them, but result in a future problem of greater illiteracy, poorer adult workers, and citizens. Nor would it save much actual money for other government services since communities do not tolerate hungry, sick, ill-clothed children. We, the Welfare Department, know that just as soon as children have their Welfare grants removed, people in the community put pressure on the Department to put them back on the assistance rolls again. Either that or they support them by informal handouts or by other social agencies who obtain their funds from the public. But this aid is usually so small that the minimum essentials are not met. In the long run people still have to pay.

Doctor Hendershot also is supposed to have said:

"It is most serious to comtemplate the fact that our problems of welfare will never be solved by merely passing out more money in public welfare benefits, instead of educating our people to be economically productive, capable of earning a living and able to take care of themselves."

This statement shows a lack of awareness of the welfare program, its policies, and what is being done to help people become economically productive and self supporting. Furthermore, it is unfortunate that this statement places welfare and education in an "either or" position rather than as two important, compatible government services neither of which can be slighted without resulting in harmful effects to our people.

The Welfare Department does not "merely" pass out more money. Financial aid is only given after a careful investigation of the need of the person for the basic essentials of life: food, shelter, clothing, medical care, etc. Implicitly if these needs are not met for school age children they cannot make good use of their time in school. A hungry child does not learn reading, writing, arithmetic or any other subject well in school. A poorly clothed child not only does not learn well, but is subjected to the scorn and ridicule of his classmates, and school children can be harsh indeed, so that such children drop out of school at the earliest possible time, and learn to hate everything that is associated with school. The child who is sick also is a poor learner, and may pass on infectious illnesses to other children. This "mere" passing out of welfare money to needy, eligible children adds up to making it possible for them to go to school through grade and high school, if they remain eligible, and can complete high school by their eighteenth birthday, and in exceptional instances for a year or two longer. Thus it is clear that the Welfare Department is making it possible for needy children to go to school, make at least reasonably good use of their school years, and become "economically productive and capable of earning a living."

The Department does not "merely pass out money." In addition to helping needy children get their grants, each welfare visitor works with her families in many ways to see that children do go to school. This includes counselling with parents about the importance of an education, seeing about their health needs and referring them to medical care, helping sight handicapped children get glasses or other eye care, and so on through a variety of non - financial as well as financial services.

It is most significant to note how many teen-age, needy children have already completed more education than their parents had. The Department, by no means, claims all the credit, but it has had an important part in this. Thus the Welfare Department, along with the schools, is actually striking at the "cause of the cancer" rather than only its symptoms, to use another of Doctor Hendershot's phrases.

I do believe these comments will shed some light on the quotes contained in this editorial. I do hope you can publish this.

I would like to take this opportunity of expressing my appreciation for your interest in the 4-H Club livestock projects. We in Tensas Parish appreciate your support of our 4-H Club animals at the district sale in Delhi.

I am sure that you know that our youth derive many useful experiences and worthwhile orientations in conducting their 4-H Club projects. To The Editor,

It is discouraging to note the reluctance of the good citizens of Monroe to accept progress. Typical of this, is our present street improvement program.

We all want progress and improvement; "We all want better streets, roads, highways, schools, and postal service; but we want the government to pay for it." Like too many others, we want, "Something for nothing."

Too few of us realize that the government is the people, and to give to the people, the government must take from the people —and always, it gives back less than it takes!

Let us work together toward a harmonious solution of the pitiful plight of Monroe's streets.

HITS JURY SPENDING

To The Editor,

I see by the paper that the police jury of Ouachita parish had a special meeting to look at some timber which they wanted to sell. The price they were to receive was $1000 and they spent over $500 to go look at the timber. To me that is very bad business. If we businessmen ran our business that way we would soon be broke.

I also see by the same paper that the police jury is asking for a big bond issue to be voted on April 7. Maybe if the jurymen used better business judgment they might not need a bond issue.

I think it is time that we taxpayers began to look at the way our officials spend our money and insist that they use good judgment in spending our tax dollars. If that were done I feel that we could get by on about one half of the tax that we pay.

I want to congratulate your paper on the way you brought this waste of our tax money to our attention. I will have to look at the forthcoming bond issue very carefully. If this is the way these men are spending our money I feel I will have to vote no on the bond issue.

No U.S. Ground War

"We certainly are not going to fight a ground war in Europe because we could not win it against Russia's more numerous troops. You have got to go to other means."

These words were bluntly spoken by President Eisenhower when he warned Democrats that any additional U. S. ground troops they might force on him now would be "sent somewhere nice and quite to keep them out of the way."

Such blunt words as these are certain to arouse strong controversy in congress and throughout the nation. There will be true differences of opinion so strong that probably a hot fight will be waged in congress.

Even the outcome of that battle may not determine which is the right and which is the wrong course to follow. The Democrats may overpower the Eisenhower forces in congress by sheer force of numbers, since the Democrats are in the majority. It is possible that some Republicans will decide the President is wrong and will vote to increase, or at least not to reduce, troops. Some Democrats, on this question affecting the very life of our nation, may agree with the president and cast their ballots in favor of other phases of defense development, rather than for a large standing army.

A large proporation of the congressmen in both parties will try to decide what is best for the nation on a basis other than partisanship. It is a question so big that partisanship should be eliminated entirely.

Regardless of the reaction of the Democrats, the Republicans and the nation as a whole, there will be a strong realization that at least a part of what the president said is correct.

When he said, "We certainly are not going to fight a ground war in Europe because we could not win it against Russia's more numerous troops," he put into words a fact that has been realized for many years by all thinking persons, both inside and outside of officialdom. No one should be able to realize this more fully than Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, senate generalissimo, who has taken issue with President Eisenhower on a number of occasions.

During World War II American army officials were amazed at the ability of the Russian army to move forward relentlessly and steadily, once the advance was begun, seldom delaying its advance even to bring up supplies Russia has a greater population than the United States and a standing army which this country could never hope to match in numbers.

If Russia were to attempt a ground invasion of the United States there is every reason to believe that it could be repelled. Russia will not attempt such an invasion. If it should attack, it would be by air, submarine and missile assault.

We know full well that we cannot defend Europe by ground forces, even with the assistance we might receive from Britain, France and West Germany. We know that in a war with Russia the life of this nation would depend upon attack with missiles and nuclear weapons and perhaps some other secret weapons of attack.

France has no heart for war and Britain and West Germany have little. Questionnaries conducted in France have shown that not one man out of 500 would be willing to die for any cause whatever and that the number who would voluntarily go to war is about the same. In addition, France has shown a resurgence of Communism in recent elections. In the event of a ground war, that country would be so badly divided that it would be of litle value to either side and, in all probability, would jump to the side which seemed most likely to win.

These are facts which must be faced and which are well known to President Eisenhower, to Sen. Johnson and to all of our military chiefs.

In deciding on the size of our standing army, we must, as President Eisenhower says, start with the premise that we can't whip Russia with our ground forces. Once having accepted that conclusion, which cannot logically be denied, we are in a better position to determine whether a larger standing army would be advantageous or whether such an army might mean a waste of money that could be spent more effectively in developing missiles, nuclear weapons, interceptors and other devices of scientific attack and defense.

No ordinary citizen can determine this question and it is one that will present the greatest difficulty to those high officials and the members of congress upon whom the decision rests. Any congressman who loves his country more than his own personal ambitions will do his best to lay aside partisanship when making his own individual decision.

We know that love of liberty is not dead in the United States. We know that no one is willing to bow to Russia. We know that in this country we still have millions of men who would willingly fight and die for a cause, yet we do not want useless slaughter.

We reject defeatism wholly and completely and we accept our right to use any weapons which will defeat the enemy and which will hold the loss of American lives to a minimum if we must go to war.

Huge Invisible City

If all of the people now on the civilian federal payroll lived with their families in one new city, it would be the second largest city in the United States, according to information developed by the National Association of Manufacturers.

Announcement has been made by Sen. Harry F. Byrd of Virginia that 2,361,000 civilians now collect their pay from Uncle Sam. Their pay checks total more than a billion dollars every month. Government workers averaged 11 per cent pay increases in 1958, but few taxpayers had any such increases.

Many of the services perform by federal civilian employes are felt to be non-essential or even detrimenal to the welfare of the nation. If so, large sums could be saved by eliminating these services, but even if every program the government now conducts were to be continued, Sen. Byrd assures us that more than 150,000 jobs could be abolished without impairing efficiency in the slighest. This is slightly more than six per cent.

Many business firms feel that they are doing well if they can make a six per cent profit. With the federal government running in the red and having great difficulty in borrowing the money it needs to make up the deficit. Sen. Byrd's suggestion that the country effect savings along this line is just plain common sense.

The highways and streets could be made immensely safer by revoking the driving license of the "other fellow," as he causes nearly all the accidents.

Has anybody ever been satisfied with his appearance as seen in a three-way mirror?

After Three Days And Three Nights

GEORGE SOKOLSKY'S DAY'S

Germany's Division Bars Making Of Peace Treaty

The United States, Great Britain, France and Soviet Russia are in Berlin as an act of war because they defeated Hitler and conquered Germany. Germany itself came to be divided into two parts, East Germany and West Germany. East Germany developed into a satellite of Soviet Russia, a part of the Soviet Universal State; West Germany developed into a free country, rich, effective, competitive in world markets with Great Britain and the United States.

No peace treaty has ever been arranged with Germany because there can be no agreement as to which of these two is Germany. Therefore World War II never ended in Europe.

Errors were made during World War II at Yalta and Potsdam in the determination of the fate of Germany on the assumption that Soviet Russia was a loyal ally which sought the same kind of a peaceful world that the West sought. The imperialistic characteristics of Soviet Russia were not identified, with the result that today, 14 years later, the question of Berlin and of the unification of Germany is still before us and may lead to World War III.

Two courses are open to the United States:

1. Berlin and West Germany can be abandoned to the imperialistic purpose and strength of Soviet Russia;

2. The United States and its allies can refuse to abandon Berlin and West Germany.

The first course would bring the power of Soviet Russia to the Rhine and France would have to prepare to defend itself from being absorbed in the Soviet Universal State; the second course could lead to a general war involving the United States. The second course indicates that patience has been exhausted and that the Western world will defend itself; the first course indicates that the West has become obsolescent and gives up under threat.

Eugene Lyons, who is an authority on Russia and a senior editor of the "Reader's Digest", said:

"The real enigma is why we who are earmarked for conquest prefer to kid ourselves that communism can somehow be bought off, or contained, or induced to commit suicide by suddenly renouncing global conspiracy and world domination. We behave as if this were a conventional disagreement between nations—a question of territory and markets and colonies, as in the past. But it's nothing of the kind. What's involved is the 'permanent revolution' unleased by Lenin, promoted with increasing zeal and increasing success by all his successors. And we're doomed to defeat as long as we subsist on political tranquilizers."

This view is absolutely correct. It can only be hoped that it is not too late. Soviet Russia seeks the absorption of the continent of Europe in the Soviet Universal State which would give the Soviet Universal State an industrial base unequalled in world history.

Strange Planet People Possible

PLANETARY GOLDEN RULE —With all this talk about sending men into outer space some people already are concerned about what to do if we encounter humans on these faraway planets. So it was when Andrew G. Haley, attorney for the American Rocket Society, appeared before the House space committee. Among other things he said we should forget about the "Golden Rule" when dealing with people who are out of this world. "We must not treat them as we would want to be treated but as they want to be treated," he pointed out. "Otherwise, the results could be disastrous. The best thing is try to get into communication before we land, find out what they are like and ask permission to visit them," He also warned the committee that space explorers should be ready for some surprises such as one and two dimensional men.

MISSION ACCOMPLISHED — Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas set a new record for longevity in House on March 4. On that day he surpassed the 46 - year record set in 1923 by the late Joseph G. Cannon of Illinois whose service, twice interrupted, began in 1873. On this anniversary date "Mr. Sam" was spending his 16,802nd day in the House he loves so well. Someone once asked him when h decided he wanted to be Speaker of the House. "Well, I was about 8 or 10 and I was picking cotton when the idea came to me."

MAILS MUST MOVE — Uncle Sam has just finished spending $12 million on the Washington post office which is now described as the world's most mechanized. It has gadgets for sorting up to 18,000 letters an hour to 300 destinations and gadgets to cull, face and cancel mail at a rapid-fire clip. Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield himself admits the old post office had not changed much since Ben Franklin's day. This mechanization program eventually will be extended to other leading post offices around the country.

VOLSTEAD AND VERSE — Thirty years ago Congress was in the midst of a big hassle over an amendment to the Volstead act which would distinghuish between the casual offender and the out-and-out bootlegger. Someone has just recalled a poem which was read on the House floor at the height of the battle. It went like this:

"Prohibition is a failure
It's enforcement is a joke
Just because its own supporters
Will not wear its galling yoke.
And since the Congress fears the issue
Which is easier shunned than met
In both Houses they continue

RIDE YES, DRIVE NO — The sparks were flying when the Democratic National Committee sat down here to pick a site for the 1960 Democratic convention. The group in favor of Los Angeles won but not without a fight. Gov. A. B. "Happy" Chandler lined himself behind the anti - Los Angeles force and needled the Westerners at every turn. On Los Angeles supporter reminded Chandler and the committee that California came through nobly for the Democrats in 1958 after many years of Republican control. "Well," drawled Chandler, "that may be true. But back in my country I'll tell you how we treat latecomers. In Kentucky we drive with the tail - gate down. We'll stop and pick up a latecomer but we won't let him drive."

OLD IRISH TIES — The question of how loyal Hawaiians of oriental extraction would be if Hawaii is admitted as the 50th State came up during discussion of the statehood bill in the House Rules Committee. Rep. Thomas P. O'Neill, Dem.- Mass., fired one question after another at Rep. Leo W. O'Brien, Dem.-N. Y. Would the Hawaiians, O'Neill wanted to know, have a special feeling for the Asian countries of their parentage, such as China and Japan? "Oh," O'Brien replied, "no more feeling than you or I get in our hearts when we hear somebody sing, 'When Irish Eyes Are Smiling'."

MY ANSWER

by Billy Graham

QUESTION: I have failed to get peace and happiness by self discipline. I have overcome my evil habits but am still overcome with a feeling of guilt. What more is there that I can do? S. F.

ANSWER: Abstinence from evil practice is never the way to obtain peace of soul. The victory over a specific kind of evil may result in a great degree of personal satisfaction and self righteousness, but it will not bring a spontaneous inward joy. Such a victory is at best only temporary, for you are still the same person with the same inclinations to evil. Until a new and controlling principle is brought to bear in your life you will continue to have the sense of guilt you always had. Even a self - righteous attitude is only pampering your pride. Until you are born again by a personal faith in Jesus Christ, you will still be the same person with the same dispositions but with many suppressed desires. If you will receive the Gospel for the healing of your soul you will find the sense of guilt destroyed and a spontaneous joy in its place. Because by this means you are reconciled to God.

Not until you are at peace with God do you find inward peace. You will find wonderful relief and relaxation in the freedom Christ gives!

Views Of Our Readers

To The Editor:

The Monroe Morning World of Sunday, February 22, 1959, published an editorial under the title "Schools, Welfare." This editorial quoted Dr. Paul T. Hendershot, of the faculty of Louisiana Polytechnic Institute. These quotes made reference to both schools and welfare. Since they may have created inaccurate impressions about the welfare program in Louisiana it is important that some clarification of the welfare program be published. In this statement there is no intention to analyze our school system, or its financial needs. Our only concern is to correct inaccurate impressions about the welfare program which may have been created by Dr. Hendershot's comments as quoted in your editorial.

"It is rank stupidity, in terms of morality and economics, to continue public support to profligate women who bring ten to fifteen illegitimate children into the world, while at the same time denying adequate support of our educational system on all levels."

It is somewhat difficult to determine exactly what Professor Hendershot had in mind by this statement, if accurately quoted, and not of context with the rest of his speech. If he meant that mothers with ten or more illegitimate children should be removed from relief and the money given over to our schools, he quite obviously is not aware of the small number of families this involves. In February, 1958, the most recent statistics, there were only eight families in the whole state of Louisiana with ten or more illegitimate children receiving Aid to Dependent Children's Assistance. These eight families represent only 00.034 per cent of the 23,685 Aid to Dependent Children recipient families in the state that month. The large majority of these families had no illegitimate children. It is clear that the money expended on these families, if it had been turned over to the schools instead, would have been less than the proverbial "drop in the bucket" in our total budget for public education.

If Professor Hendershot had in mind the removal of all families with illegitimate children, not just those with ten to fifteen, he did not say so. Actually this would be the harshest proposal made by the critics of this program. It is to be doubted that Professor Hendershot had this in mind, for he must know that cutting such children off from their necessary food, shelter, clothing, medical care, and education would not only result in a serious present hardship for them, but result in a future problem of greater illiteracy, poorer adult workers, and citizens. Nor would it save much actual money for other government services since communities do not tolerate hungry, sick, ill-clothed children. We, the Welfare Department, know that just as soon as children have their Welfare grants removed, people in the community put pressure on the Department to put them back on the assistance rolls again. Either that or they support them by informal handouts or by other social agencies who obtain their funds from the public. But this aid is usually so small that the minimum essentials are not met. In the long run people still have to pay.

Doctor Hendershot also is supposed to have said:

"It is most serious to comtemplate the fact that our problems of welfare will never be solved by merely passing out more money in public welfare benefits, instead of educating our people to be economically productive, capable of earning a living and able to take care of themselves."

This statement shows a lack of awareness of the welfare program, its policies, and what is being done to help people become economically productive and self supporting. Furthermore, it is unfortunate that this statement places welfare and education in an "either or" position rather than as two important, compatible government services neither of which can be slighted without resulting in harmful effects to our people.

The Welfare Department does not "merely" pass out more money. Financial aid is only given after a careful investigation of the need of the person for the basic essentials of life: food, shelter, clothing, medical care, etc. Implicitly if these needs are not met for school age children they cannot make good use of their time in school. A hungry child does not learn reading, writing, arithmetic or any other subject well in school. A poorly clothed child not only does not learn well, but is subjected to the scorn and ridicule of his classmates, and school children can be harsh indeed, so that such children drop out of school at the earliest possible time, and learn to hate everything that is associated with school. The child who is sick also is a poor learner, and may pass on infectious illnesses to other children. This "mere" passing out of welfare money to needy, eligible children adds up to making it possible for them to go to school through grade and high school, if they remain eligible, and can complete high school by their eighteenth birthday, and in exceptional instances for a year or two longer. Thus it is clear that the Welfare Department is making it possible for needy children to go to school, make at least reasonably good use of their school years, and become "economically productive and capable of earning a living."

The Department does not "merely pass out money." In addition to helping needy children get their grants, each welfare visitor works with her families in many ways to see that children do go to school. This includes counselling with parents about the importance of an education, seeing about their health needs and referring them to medical care, helping sight handicapped children get glasses or other eye care, and so on through a variety of non - financial as well as financial services.

It is most significant to note how many teen-age, needy children have already completed more education than their parents had. The Department, by no means, claims all the credit, but it has had an important part in this. Thus the Welfare Department, along with the schools, is actually striking at the "cause of the cancer" rather than only its symptoms, to use another of Doctor Hendershot's phrases.

I do believe these comments will shed some light on the quotes contained in this editorial. I do hope you can publish this.

On "best scientific advice," Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy has put Nike-Zeus development on "highest priority." But he has refused to let the Army start production plans because scientists do not think the missile sufficiently advanced.

In a test last year the Army fired a rocket which developed 450,000 pounds of thrust for a few seconds. It was bolted down for the "captive" test. The Army said it demonstrated ability to hurl a warhead to great heights almost instantaneously.

The aim of the anti-ICBM plan is to have a radar setup that can detect Russian missiles within minutes after they are launched. Tracing will determine roughly what their targets are as they streak through space. The anti-missile then would be placed in the path of the incoming weapon to destroy it with a "kill mechanism," probably nuclear.

McElroy has said any such defense is several years away. He also said it would be far from capable of stopping all missiles launched in a mass attack.

Future Business Leaders Honor 2 Area Youths

BATON ROUGE (Special) — Two northeast Louisiana youths have been honored at the 11th annual convention of the Future Business Leaders of America which closed here yesterday.

They were John C. Cooksey of Olla, who was named Mr. FBLA, and Dickie Heard of Winnfield, who was elected a district vice-president.

Steve Gaines of Denham Springs was elected president of the Louisiana chapter of FBLA and Joahn Crossen of Metairie was selected Miss FBLA.

Other state officers elected were Jean Gilbert, Baton Rouge, reporter; Emilie F. Hebert, Breaux Bridge, secretary; Cathy Vaughn, Destrehan, treasurer, and Jimmie Field, Natchitoches, parliamentarian.

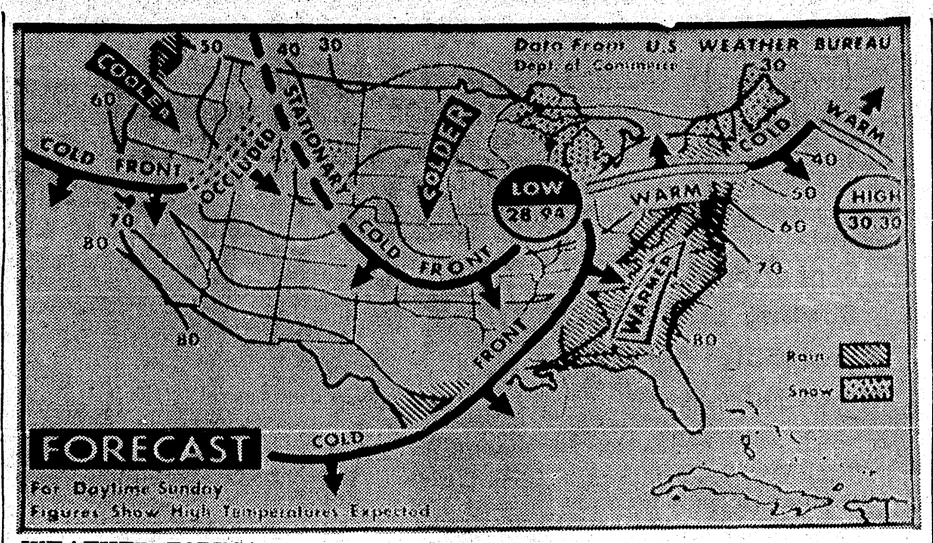
Also named district vice-presidents were Phyllis Dupius, Carencro and Harriet Richard, Destrehan.



WEATHER FORECAST — Precipitation Sunday may occur as snow in northern New England and New York state, rain or snow changing to rain in southern New England and western New York, showers or thundershowers in Connecticut and southeastern New York through Virginias to southeast and central Gulf regions. Southern Texas coast may have some shower activity. Great Lakes region, northern Wyoming and southeastern Idaho are slated for occasional snow or flurries. Rain may fall in Washington state coastal portion. It will be generally fair elsewhere. (AP Wirephoto Map) accept this," he added.

At the local drugstore, a clerk waited quietly for an occasional customer.

"I think the doctor has taken the right step. This thing has been going on and on and it needs to be stopped" the clerk said.

Pastors of the town's churches announced that all Sunday services would be cancelled, and a high school basketball banquet scheduled Friday night was postponed.

Flu outbreaks have struck many schools because of the high number of absences.

Hutchison had no idea whether the quarantine would be effective in stopping the siege of illness. Results of the anti-epidemic restriction won't be known for at least a week, he said.

Though the yearbook staff has been busy since college opened last fall, additional activity has been noted during the last few days. A trip to the Taylor Publishing Company in Dallas is sure to cause extra enthusiasm, according to "Lady" Stahl, faculty adviser of the Chacahoula.

Yearbook Editor, Brenda Gambrell of Ferriday and Sidney "Buck" Anderson of Eastabutchie, Miss., photographer, and "Lady" were guests of the publishing company this week. They were provided plane transportation, hotel accommodations, and many other pleasures besides opportunity to gain a great deal of knowledge in yearbook production through tours of the firm's plant.

Flowers

The Louisiana State Flower Show opened Saturday and will be in full progress today from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the Coliseum of Southeast Louisiana college in Hammond.

Writers

The Louisiana Writers' Club affiliated with the local college plans to charter a bus on April 14 to attend an all-day meet at Centenary college in Shreveport.

Students interested should arrange for a seat in the bus which will leave at 6 a.m. and return at 7 p.m. Any student making the trip can be excused from classes on the day of the meeting.

Feature

As concluding feature of a busy week devoted to the state convention and Fifty-Year Observance of the Daughter's of the American Revolution, the Monroe D. A. R. had its March session in the colonial home of Mrs. J. B. Filhiol, on Columbia highway. The speaker was Clarence E. Faulk Jr., who discussed his work as newspaper publisher, the line in which his late father became noted.

will be capable of launching 6,000-to-8,000-pound satellites.

NASA plans to have a rocket cluster with a thrust of 1,500,000 pounds in 1962. That would be capable of putting a 10-ton satellite into orbit or sending a two-ton spacecraft deep into space beyond the moon.

NASA also plans to have a single 1,500,000-pound thrust rocket a year later. By clustering four together, it hopes to be able to put a 75-ton satellite into orbit in 1965.

Some committee members have asserted the timetable is not fast enough to overtake Russia. They contend the Soviet program appears to be moving at a faster rate and therefore is pulling ever farther ahead.

NASA officials insist that the present U.S. program is being pushed as hard as possible and that additional appropriations would not speed it up significantly. However, some top scientists have insisted that the program can be made to move faster.

Seek Suspect In Beating And Robbery

KILBOURNE (Special) — Authorities are looking for an unidentified suspect who beat and robbed Jesse Evans, about 60, approximately two and a half miles east of here Friday night.

Evans, who lives just west of Eudora, Ark., told lawmen he was riding in a car with a man who suddenly stopped the car and told him that he needed $40 badly because he had a child in the hospital.

After Evans had complied with the request, he said the man told him, "You might as well give me all the money you have."

Then the man attacked Evans with what was believed to be a sharp instrument and took his remaining $31.

The victim suffered a gash over one of his eyes and other head lacerations. He was not hospitalized.

A West Carroll sheriff's deputy said the assailant was charged with armed robbery and attempted murder and that a wide search was underway to apprehend him.

Soviets. But the Soviet divisions are somewhat smaller.

The appeal for more troops came from Gen. Henry I. Hodes, commander of the U. S. Seventh Army, along with a request for more tanks and other weapons. The number of men asked was deleted.

Taylor said: "I personally support the request. It is inescapable that we cannot quickly replace them (men sent to Europe) without calling out reservists or organizing new units."

Other highlights of Taylor's lengthy testimony included:

He would use an airlift to supply Berlin "only as a last resort." The Army favors ground convoys if a blockade is imposed. Taylor said "even to discuss" an airlift "encourages the wrong kind of thinking."

He believes the West could win without using nuclear weapons if the Soviets try to fight with satellite troops only, as in Korea.

But he believes the West must be prepared for all - out nuclear war if the Soviets throw in their full weight. He refused to say whether the United States should "go in alone" if Britain and France fail to support the policy.

Discussions are under way with the British and French to determine exactly what to do if Berlin supplies are stopped. Meanwhile, heavy stockpiles of goods are being built up in Berlin.

He said failure to put the Army Nike - Zeus anti - ICBM missile into production has set back its availability "at least a year." Taylor said the Zeus is just as ready as some other "crash program" weapons and that production, refused by the Defense Department, was a "risk worth taking."

Taylor said "General Hodes wants reinforcements . . . we are readying the forces we might have to send to Europe that is likely to be needed initially."

Asked if the Army can provide the needed troops, Taylor said, "I would say that we can." But, he added:

"The situation certainly calls for very close scrutiny and we must carefully determine when a recommendation should be made to request access to the million-man reserve pool."

Taylor said he was not sure any of the steps planned would save Berlin.

"The disgrace is not in failing," he continued, "but rather it is in not trying. We must make every effort to defend Berlin.

"I think the time has come to disregard the fear of alarming people, and to do openly those things that should be done both as prudent measures of preparation and as evidence of the firmness of our intent.

"I think the most important thing is for us to know in our hearts that we are ready to go the limit to defend Berlin."

Security censors deleted two pages of Taylor's testimony after he suggested that the danger of uprisings in East Germany and other European satellites give the West a good chance of out-bluffing the Soviets on Berlin.

Cuban pesos and Prieto had $30,500 with him.

Present Cuban law forbids bringing in more than $50 in Cuban pesos. The restrictions were imposed when supporters of ousted President Fulgencio Batista who fled the country were reported selling pesos at discount in the United States.

The other two Americans jailed here are Michael Moreno, of Miami, and Alan Nye, of Whiting, Ind. Nye was arrested last Dec. 26 for allegedly plotting to assassinate Fidel Castro. Moreno was taken into custody March 7 when he arrived from Miami in a small private plane.

A U.S. Embassy spokesman said consular officials had visited the jailed Americans and contacted the proper Cuban authorities. He gave no details.

The executions of convicted Cuban "war criminals," continued Saturday. Eleven more died before the firing squads, boosting the unofficial toll in the "war crimes" trials to 453.

For example, Fulbright said, "If a corridor could be established, free of any inspection and with a complete line of access to Berlin, coupled with some form of international control of Berlin, I think that might be an offer very seriously to be considered."

The senator said the crisis is so ticklish that "if things don't go well, it could result in the use of force—and if that ever happens, even on a minor scale, it would be extremely difficult to limit it."

Urging more thought to the possibility of "summit" meetings, Fulbright said "we have to accept the fact that in Russia there isn't any second most important man."

On "best scientific advice," Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy has put Nike-Zeus development on "highest priority." But he has refused to let the Army start production plans because scientists do not think the missile sufficiently advanced.

In a test last year the Army fired a rocket which developed 450,000 pounds of thrust for a few seconds. It was bolted down for the "captive" test. The Army said it demonstrated ability to hurl a warhead to great heights almost instantaneously.

The aim of the anti-ICBM plan is to have a radar setup that can detect Russian missiles within minutes after they are launched. Tracing will determine roughly what their targets are as they streak through space. The anti-missile then would be placed in the path of the incoming weapon to destroy it with a "kill mechanism," probably nuclear.

McElroy has said any such defense is several years away. He also said it would be far from capable of stopping all missiles launched in a mass attack.

Future Business Leaders Honor 2 Area Youths

BATON ROUGE (Special) — Two northeast Louisiana youths have been honored at the 11th annual convention of the Future Business Leaders of America which closed here yesterday.

They were John C. Cooksey of Olla, who was named Mr. FBLA, and Dickie Heard of Winnfield, who was elected a district vice-president.

Steve Gaines of Denham Springs was elected president of the Louisiana chapter of FBLA and Joahn Crossen of Metairie was selected Miss FBLA.

Other state officers elected were Jean Gilbert, Baton Rouge, reporter; Emilie F. Hebert, Breaux Bridge, secretary; Cathy Vaughn, Destrehan, treasurer, and Jimmie Field, Natchitoches, parliamentarian.

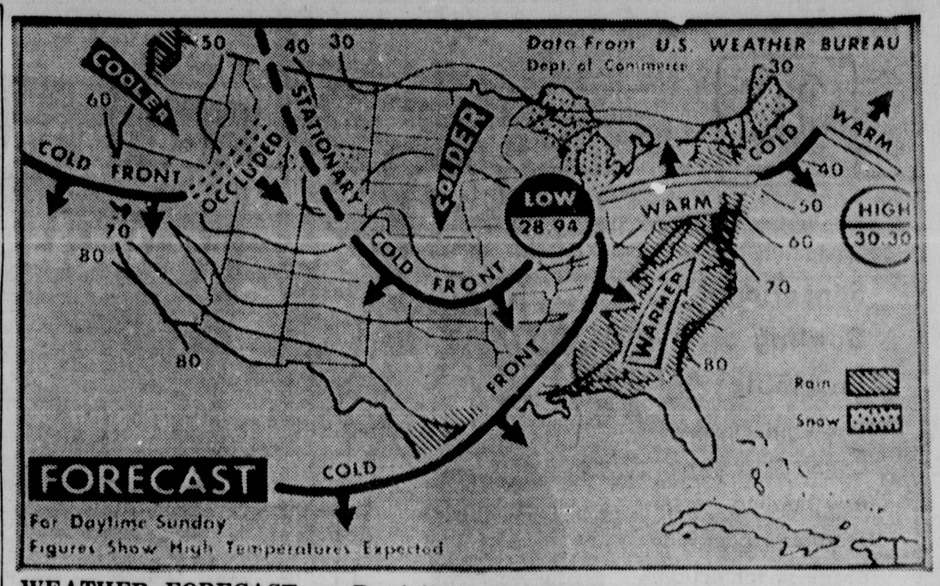
Also named district vice-presidents were Phyllis Dupius, Carencro and Harriet Richard, Destrehan.



WEATHER FORECAST — Precipitation Sunday may occur as snow in northern New England and New York state, rain or snow changing to rain in southern New England and western New York, showers or thundershowers in Connecticut and southeastern New York through Virginias to southeast and central Gulf regions. Southern Texas coast may have some shower activity. Great Lakes region, northern Wyoming and southeastern Idaho are slated for occasional snow or flurries. Rain may fall in Washington state coastal portion. It will be generally fair elsewhere. (AP Wirephoto Map)

Finding 'Perfect' House Is Difficult

NEW YORK (UPI) — Houses, like people, come in all sizes and shapes.

It is up to the individual couple to list their special needs and habits, and then look for a house that meets those needs.

You are not likely to find the 100 per cent "perfect" house. But there are some factors to consider such as size, design, plot and construction.

As for size, the house should have at least 1,000 square feet, according to the experts. Does it have a sufficient number of bedrooms, bathrooms and closets, a recreation room and adequate eating space in the kitchen for your family?

The exterior and interior design of the house should be pleasant and functional. Bedrooms should be situated away from living areas for privacy and freedom from noise.

The type of house—ranch, two-story or split level — is entirely up to you. All three have their pros and cons, so your own preferences and dislikes will be the main factors in this choice.

The lot should be big enough to afford privacy—allowing at least 10 to 12 feet between houses. Landscaping also is important, both for appearance and for shade.

The average home buyer will find it a little difficult to appraise the construction of a house. In this case it usually is best to bring along someone with knowledge of the subject.

You should be alert for cracks in the foundation, seepage, squeaky floors, inadequate insulation, roof leakage, inefficient heating plant, and insufficient electrical outlets.

These are only some of the things to look for in choosing your house. Another suggestion for a family buying a new house is to spend some time looking through newspapers, magazines or books on homes.

Upon finding your "dream house," the United States Savings and Loan League recommends that you make certain of three basic things before signing an agreement to purchase:

—That the house offers full value for the money, and is not overpriced. A professional appraisal is one sure way of avoiding an exaggerated price.

—That the agreement-to-purchase contract provides for the return of your "earnest money" in the event certain conditions cannot be met.

—That the agreement covers such important points as sales price, amount of cash payment and manner of financing; an agreed date of delivery of the property; copy of plans and specifications or the right to inspect them; as well as provision for the delivery of a clear title, and oftentimes a survey. The agreement also should specify what goes with the house, such as carpeting, appliances, drapes, storm windows, etc.

Because of the complexities and size of a home purchase, it is recommended that you have an attorney inspect and offer advice before signing any instrument of sale.

Rev. Spilman Is Main Speaker

The Rev. Father William S. Spilman, rector, Trinity Episcopal Church, Tallulah, will be the principal speaker during "Religious Emphasis Week", March 16-18 at Northeast Louisiana State College.

He will address a general assembly in Brown Auditorium each day of the observance, bringing a different message Topics for each day and the times include: Monday — "Morals and Man", 10 a.m.; Tuesday — "Christ, the Church, and Conscience," 11 a. m.

REV. FATHER SPILMAN

and Wednesday — "In the World But Not of the World", 1 p. m.

The general assemblies have been scheduled for different periods each day to keep from interfering with too many meetings of the same classes, said Marcus Mapp, chairman, Religious Activities Committee.

The theme of the annual event which is being co-sponsored by this committee and the Inter-Faith Council, presided over by Robert (Bud) Littlefield, is "Conscience on the Campus."

OPEN SUNDAY

The week's activities will open Sunday, March 15 with a tea in honor of the speaker and other resource speakers participating in the affair to be held from 3-5 p.m. at President George T. Walker's home on Chauvin Avenue.

Those attending the daily convocations will also be entertained by Mrs. Florence Allbritton at the piano and the Northeast State choir, directed by Davis Bingham. Local ministers will give the invocation and benediction.

Seminars will be held at 6 p.m. each day during the observance. They include a roundtable discussion at the Baptist Student Center, Monday; at each dormitory, Tuesday, and at each religious center, Wednesday.

The roundtable discussion will feature all four Resource Speakers and one speaker wil be present at the various dormitories and religious centers

Resource Speakers appearing include Miss Evelyn Stump, associate state director, Louisiana Baptist Students of Alexandria; the Rev. Ralph Cain, Memorial Methodist Church of Monroe; the Rev. William Clark, First Presbyterian Church of Springhill, and the Rev. Jordan Schell, O. F M., (Catholic) of West Monroe.

Born at Versailles, Ky., Father Spilman, attended high school at Staten Island, N. Y. and served two years with the Army's 24th Division in China and Japan. Following his discharge, he attended the University of Kentucky, where he was a member of Phi Beta Kappa, graduating with a B. A degree in history in 1951. He attended the School of Theology, University of the South, Sewanee, Tenn. from 1951-52 and the Episcopal Theological Seminary in Kentucky at Lexington, receiving a B. D. from the latter seminary in 1954.

He was ordained a deacon in 1953 and a priest in 1954. From 1953 to 1955, he was vicar of St. Philip's Episcopal Church, Harrodsburg, Ky. He has been at his present post since that time.

Father Spilman is married and has two children.

Confederate Vet Is Critically Ill With Pneumonia

The heart of the aged mountaineer was reported weaker. He spent an "uncomfortable" night at a private clinic, but was conscious and was being fed intravenously. Oxygen was administered through a nose tube.

His physician said Salling was in the critical stage of his fight against pneumonia, contracted after he was stricken with influenza and a cold Thursday at his mountain home near Slant, Va.

He enlisted at the age of 14 in a Virginia regiment and spent his Civil War service digging saltpeter, an ingredient of gunpowder, in the southwest Virginia caves. He did not participate in fighting.

Congress Urged To Pass Labor Reform Measure

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (UPI) — A group of industrialists from 31 states Saturday urged Congress to pass a comprehensive labor reform law "to protect the American people against any misuse of political and economic power by labor union leaders."

The 31st Institute on Industrial Relations, concluding a week-long study of labor-management problems, called for legislation to curb "monopolistic powers of unions" and to eliminate violence, coercion and racketeering in unions.

The conference sent copies of its resolution to chairmen of the Senate and House Labor Relations Committees.

"No issue facing the Congress today is more vital than labor law reform," the resolution read.

It specifically called for a ban on secondary boycotts, organizational picketing and compulsory unionism.

Some 175 management leaders attended the Institute sponsored by the National Assn. of Manufacturers.

Sheriffs Get Warning On Liquor Laws

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Gov. J. P. Coleman warned sheriffs Saturday he would continue his strict enforcement of the statewide prohibition law during his final year in office.

He promised to use the National Guard in whisky raids in every county where the prohibition laws are violated against the wishes of the people

"I was elected governor on a law enforcement platform," he told a news conference. "While others may weaken during the last of their service, I am not going to weaken."

Coleman's policy has been to raid counties upon petition from citizens that sheriffs failed to enforce the law.

Those attending the daily convocations will also be entertained by Mrs. Florence Allbritton at the piano and the Northeast State choir, directed by Davis Bingham. Local ministers will give the invocation and benediction.

Seminars will be held at 6 p.m. each day during the observance. They include a roundtable discussion at the Baptist Student Center, Monday; at each dormitory, Tuesday, and at each religious center, Wednesday.

The roundtable discussion will feature all four Resource Speakers and one speaker wil be present at the various dormitories and religious centers

Resource Speakers appearing include Miss Evelyn Stump, associate state director, Louisiana Baptist Students of Alexandria; the Rev. Ralph Cain, Memorial Methodist Church of Monroe; the Rev. William Clark, First Presbyterian Church of Springhill, and the Rev. Jordan Schell, O. F M., (Catholic) of West Monroe.

Born at Versailles, Ky., Father Spilman, attended high school at Staten Island, N. Y. and served two years with the Army's 24th Division in China and Japan. Following his discharge, he attended the University of Kentucky, where he was a member of Phi Beta Kappa, graduating with a B. A degree in history in 1951. He attended the School of Theology, University of the South, Sewanee, Tenn. from 1951-52 and the Episcopal Theological Seminary in Kentucky at Lexington, receiving a B. D. from the latter seminary in 1954.

He was ordained a deacon in 1953 and a priest in 1954. From 1953 to 1955, he was vicar of St. Philip's Episcopal Church, Harrodsburg, Ky. He has been at his present post since that time.

Father Spilman is married and has two children.

Confederate Vet Is Critically Ill With Pneumonia

The heart of the aged mountaineer was reported weaker. He spent an "uncomfortable" night at a private clinic, but was conscious and was being fed intravenously. Oxygen was administered through a nose tube.

His physician said Salling was in the critical stage of his fight against pneumonia, contracted after he was stricken with influenza and a cold Thursday at his mountain home near Slant, Va.

He enlisted at the age of 14 in a Virginia regiment and spent his Civil War service digging saltpeter, an ingredient of gunpowder, in the southwest Virginia caves. He did not participate in fighting

Congress Urged To Pass Labor Reform Measure

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (UPI) — A group of industrialists from 31 states Saturday urged Congress to pass a comprehensive labor reform law "to protect the American people against any misuse of political and economic power by labor union leaders."

The 31st Institute on Industrial Relations, concluding a week-long study of labor-management problems, called for legislation to curb "monopolistic powers of unions" and to eliminate violence, coercion and racketeering in unions.

The conference sent copies of its resolution to chairmen of the Senate and House Labor Relations Committees.

"No issue facing the Congress today is more vital than labor law reform," the resolution read.

It specifically called for a ban on secondary boycotts, organizational picketing and compulsory unionism.

Some 175 management leaders attended the Institute sponsored by the National Assn. of Manufacturers.

Sheriffs Get Warning On Liquor Laws

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Gov. J. P. Coleman warned sheriffs Saturday he would continue his strict enforcement of the statewide prohibition law during his final year in office.

He promised to use the National Guard in whisky raids in every county where the prohibition laws are violated against the wishes of the people

"I was elected governor on a law enforcement platform," he told a news conference. "While others may weaken during the last of their service, I am not going to weaken."

Coleman's policy has been to raid counties upon petition from citizens that sheriffs failed to enforce the law.

Four Nabbed After County Jail Escape

MAGNOLIA, Ark. (AP) — Four prisoners escaped the Columbia County jail here Saturday by cutting out of their cells and threatening the sheriff with a toy pistol.

They were captured without resistance about 10 hours later by a 15-man posse which found the escapees sleeping in a wooded area five miles from town.

State police identified the four as Wendell Mayo, 29, Mrs. Mayo 44, her daughter, Deane Howarth, 24, all of Longview, Tex.; and Wayne Johnson, 24, no address.

Officers said the four had been in the jail four months awaiting trial on charges of forging checks throughout Arkansas. They were also wanted on similar charges in Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas, authorities said.

Sheriff Jack Stevens said he was investigating a noise in the jail when Mayo and Johnson suddenly appeared and pointed what seemed to be a gun at him.

STATE DRIVE KICK-OFF

Cancer Crusade Meet Held Here

The Louisiana Division of the American Cancer Society held a state kick-off meeting for the 1959 Cancer Crusade here yesterday at a local motor hotel.

Fred Huenefeld Jr., 1959 state Crusade chairman, presided at the meet which included a talk on leukemia by Dr. Charles C. Sprague, associate professor of medicine at Tulane University in New Orleans.

An official welcome from the city of Monroe was extended to the group by Mayor W. L. (Jack) Howard.

"Public Education Saves Lives" was the topic of an address to the gathering by Dr. David Hall, president of the Lincoln parish unit.

Another talk entitled "Yes-You Are Needed!" was delivered by the 1959 Crusade chairman of the Ouachita parish unit, David Chennault.

VARIED GROUP

Speaking on leukemia, Dr. Sprague said the term "leukemia" embrares a varied group of disorders, rather than a single always-fatal disease.

In some cases, he explained, death comes very quickly, while on the other hand, leukemia patients live for many years and never require any treatment.

The disease, considered a malignant or cancerous disorder where there is uncontrolled growth and proliferation of white blood cells, is generally classified as acute or chronic, Sprague stated.

Research is being conducted which may reveal differences in the metabolism of leukemic and normal cells which would provide a means of treatment where the leukemic cells could be selectively destroyed, the doctor opinted out.

Concluding, Sprague said, "All of us who have the privilege of working in this area of investigation are exeremely grateful to the ASC for the job it is doing in supporting basic research and promoting student fellowships.

"Although you as lay persons cannot participate in investigation and research in this exciting and challenging field, you can and are playing an invaluable role in making this possible for others."

Red China's Labor Camps Are Assailed

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — The Vatican City newspaper Osservatoe Romano assailed Communist personality."

It was the latest, and hottest, of a series of editorial blasts at Communist China, a subject to which Catholic Church leaders including Pope John XXIII have been devoting increasing attention.

Pope John has dedicated several speeches to the fate of Catholics and Christians in Red China and the "nihilist" program of the Red state.

Osservatore Romano discussed the formation of "chinese communes" which, it said, "have the objective of regimenting tens of millions of persons. men and women, in formations of obligatory labor to increase industrial and agricultural production and 'perfect' education and military defense."

The newspaper said that the "communes" comprise nuclei of 20,000 persons, gruoped in various villages with discipline assured by "peoples militia" and with a regimented schedule.

"As men," the newspaper said, "we have the right to protest against a situation that one would not believe credible if it were not confirmed by irrefutable testimony.

"As Christians, we must rebel against the annihilation of the personality of man, who is made to the image of God, and we must denounce the brutal and total negation of the rights of individual religious conscience."

"The social and moral effects of the 'communes' which most directly interest us as Catholics are those regarding religious life. With the new organizations which transform China into an immense forced labor camp, children are cut off from family education.

"From birth, they belong to the Party which controls the education and the kind of work. It becomes arduous, if not practically impossible, to attend church and practice religion.

"Every hour of the day is controlled and there is word also where in certain villages even the Catholic churches have become offices or dormitories. Forced transfer of families has dispersed the Catholic communities.

"Priests are tried and condemned with the usual charges. A Communist newspaper of Mongolia tells us that two priests of the Archdiocese of Suiyan have been condemned to 20 and 15 years in prison and eight faithful sentenced to various terms.

"For what crimes? For having 'obstructed' the patriotic movement."

Two Broadway Plays Hailed As Theatrical Hits

NEW YORK (AP)—Unanimous critical raves hailed two new arrivals this week on Broadway's theatrical hit list.

Only five previous shows this season have scored the critical sweep.

"As Christians, we must rebel against the annihilation of the personality of man, who is made to the image of God, and we must denounce the brutal and total negation of the rights of individual religious conscience."

"The social and moral effects of the 'communes' which most directly interest us as Catholics are those regarding religious life. With the new organizations which transform China into an immense forced labor camp, children are cut off from family education.

"From birth, they belong to the Party which controls the education and the kind of work. It becomes arduous, if not practically impossible, to attend church and practice religion.

"Every hour of the day is controlled and there is word also where in certain villages even the Catholic churches have become offices or dormitories. Forced transfer of families has dispersed the Catholic communities.

"Priests are tried and condemned with the usual charges. A Communist newspaper of Mongolia tells us that two priests of the Archdiocese of Suiyan have been condemned to 20 and 15 years in prison and eight faithful sentenced to various terms.

"For what crimes? For having 'obstructed' the patriotic movement."

Two Broadway Plays Hailed As Theatrical Hits

NEW YORK (AP)—Unanimous critical raves hailed two new arrivals this week on Broadway's theatrical hit list.

Only five previous shows this season have scored the critical sweep.

FOR RESEARCH

Professor Here Receives Grant

A Northeast Louisiana State College professor has beer awarded a $4,000 one-year grant by the National Science Foundation for research in the field of polarography, President George T. Walker announced.

Dr. Raymond Annino, associate professor of chemistry, will begin the study at the college this summer. It will be entitled, "A Polargraphis Investigation of Mucochloric and Dichloromaleic Acids."

This investigation is expected to add to the fundamental knowledge of electrochemical processes.

The announcement of his selection for the research grant was made in a telephone call from Dr. Walter R. Kirner, program director of chemistry, Division of Mathematics, Physical and Engineering Sciences, National Science Foundation, Washington, D. C.

Annino, who is in his second year on the Northeast faculty where he teaches physical chemistry and general chemistry courses, is a former indusrial chemist.

Prior to coming here in 1957, he was supervisor, Analytical Research, Research Department, Westvaco Chlor-Alkali Division, Food Machinery and Chemical Corporation at Charleston, W. Va.

WITH TEAM

During the two years he was at Westvaco, he worked as a team member in the developement of rocket fuel for the second stage of the Vanguard Rocket and also for the second stage of the Jupiter C Rocket.

Annino, who is originally from Babylon, Long Island, earned a B. A. in chemistry at Columbia University and the Ph. D. at Oklahoma State University in 1955, serving as a research assistant at the latter school. Before going into advanced study, he worked two and one-half years for the National Dairy Research Laboratories at Oakdale, Long Island.

He has written for professional journals in the fields of analytical and physical chemistry. Annino is a member of the American Chemical Society; Society of Sigma Xi, research society in physical sciences; Phi Lambda Upsilon, honorary chemical fraternity; Sigma Pi Sigma, honorary physics fraternity, and the Louisiana Academy of Sciences.

Bermuda Invite To Gov. Almond Is Challenged

HAMILTON, Bermuda (UPI)—A Negro member of Parliament Saturday challenged an invitation to segregationist Gov. J. Lindsay Almond of Virginia to attend Bermuda's birthday celebrations in May.

The Trade Development Board announced that Almond had accepted an invitation to stay at Government House May 9-12 as a guest of Bermuda Gov. Sir John Goodall during Virginia week.

E. T. Richards, in a parliamentary debate on expenses for the anniversary, questioned whether it was wise to invite Almond when he had 'defied the constituted authority of the Supreme Court of the United States" even though he later withdrew from his stand.

The board went ahead with its plans anyway.

A spokesman said Almond will attend commemorative services at St. Peter's Church and unveil a plaque at the site where Virginia-bound settlers were shipwrecked and built new ships to continue their journey to Virginia.

Labor Force Now Larger Than Demand

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Labor Department has advised key congressmen that unemployment will continue high for many months, it was disclosed Saturday.

The department explained that the labor force is growing faster than demand. Moreover, it said, output per worker is higher now than a few years ago.

Even wiht some further economic recovery, the department predicted that during the 12 months starting next July 1 an average of 2,100,000 persons each month would draw jobless pay and 2,005,000 persons would exhaust their state benefits.

That compares with an estimated monthly average of 2,250,000 drawing jobless pay in the current fiscal year during which 2,540,000 persons are expected to exhaust their benefits.

The number drawing benefits is usually a good gauge to overall employment, which is always considerably higher. Some economists calculate that insured unemployment is about two-thirds of the total number of job-seekers.

The projections for the coming year were given in testimony presented behind closed doors Friday to the House Ways and Means Committee which has jurisdiction over legislation dealing with unemployment compensation.

After hearing the testimony, the committee overwhelmingly approved a bill to prevent an estimated 300,000 persons from being cut off from jobless pay on April 1. It would extend temporarily a program of federal benefits.

The measure is schedulde for House action and almost certain approval Monday. Before Congress recesses for its 12-day Easter vacation on March 26, the Senate is expected to send the legislation to the White House.

Key House Republicans have predicted the President will sign it since it would not continue federal outlays beyond June 30, and therefore would not upset his balanced budget for the new fiscal year which starts then.

But the legislation won't satisfy organized labor's demand for a sweeping and permanent improvement in the federal-state unemployment insurance program.

Organized labor's big objective is a federal law setting minimum standards for the amounts and duration of unemployment compensation which now vary widely from state to state.

The big fight for this legislation will get underway April 7 at public hearings before the Ways and Means Committee. Employers are lining up in opposition to the legislation. It would require employers in many states to pay higher taxes to finance unemployment compensation.

'Green Candle' Program Pressed By Kiwanians

Taking their cue from the oppressed people behind the Iron Curtain, Kiwanis Clubs throughout this country and Canada are promoting the "Green Candle of Hope" program.

The program, sponsored locally by the North Monroe Kiwanis Club, will be in charge of the support of churches committee. The "Green Candle" program expresses, through faith and prayer, the concern persons everywhere have for the captive peoples behind the Iron Curtain.

These often unwilling subjects of Communism realize that resistance against their ordered life is futile. Yet in celebrating the Christmas festival of the fir tree, many families place on their trees a single green candle, a color symbol of hope. Now, the hopeful also place a single green candle on their tables at Easter. They call it the candle of "Hope and Resurrection."

Refugees have spread the idea all over the free world. Kiwanians have promoted the program from a spiritual standpoint.

Locally, posters are being distributed and "prayer reminders" are being placed in public eating places throughout the Twin Cities.

NEGOTIATONS FAIL

BELGRADE (UPI)—A government spokesman said Friday that discussions to reestablish diplomatic relations between Yugoslavia and West Germany had been broken off.

Drago Kunc, government press spokesman, said the discussions, which he called "contacts," collapsed because West Germany insisted Yugoslavia freeze or break relations with East Germany.

Special Tax Relief Bill's Chances Good

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Treasury Secretary Robert B. Anderson asserted Saturday that a bill to give tax relief to the self-employed would benefit the wealthy without helping the wage earner.

He also renewed his recent warning that the controversial measure would cost the Treasury at least 365 million dollars in annual revenue and would seriously affect chances of balancing the budget.

The House, however, is almost certain to pass the bill Monday. Some backers believe chances are good for Senate approval—if not this year, next.

A self-employed person could postpone until age 65 the payment of taxes on 10 per cent of his earnings if he voluntarily placed that amount in a retirement fund. The ceiling on the amount of tax deferral would be $2,500 a year

The Cabinet officer estimated that abou' 80 per cent of the total tax relief under the bill would go to self-employed who earn more than $10,000 a year.

Opponents have argued similarly that if the bill becomes law re will be moves to give the same relief to other groups—for example, to make tax exempt the contributions of employes covered b/ social security and railroad retirement.

Woman Injured In Auto Wreck On Highway 165

A 30-year-old Negro maid, enroute to work at Conway Memorial Hospital last night, got there the hard way — in an ambulance.

Rosie C. Beard, 815 Camp St., driving south on U.S. 165 just beyond L.T.I., suffered hip injuries when her car was struck by another Negro shortly before 11 p.m.

State police from Troop F who investigated said that James Williams, 34, Negro of 59C Carver Homes, was driving north on U.S. 165 "at an excessive rate of speed."

Both the front and left side of his car, and her auto were nearly demolished. Wreckers were called to tow the cars away.

The Beard car was thrown off the highway and travelled several yards in the grass before halting.

Williams was charged with driving while intoxicated.

JAIL REPORTS "BREAK"

GREENOCK, Scotland (UPI)—Red-faced Greenock Prison officials admitted Friday that thieves broke into the prison Thursday night. They said the intruders cut through two iron bars on the window of the main prison office and ransacked the room, apparently in search of pay envelopes of employes. The envelopes were locked up, however.

Teachers Vote No Action On Group Report

The Fifth District Classroom Teachers Association at yesterday's meeting voted to take no action on the report of the joint committee to study retirement systems of Louisiana.

Deferment of action was considered more practical until the House of Delegates of the Louisiana Teachers Association holds its session in Alexandria Saturday at 9:30 a. m. at the Junior High School.

Association President Charles M. Tillman of the Northeast State education faculty provided a program which featured several speakers who discussed the legislative committee report on retirement and a period for questions pertaining to he proposed changes recommended by he committee.

Approximately 250 persons attended the conference at the education building of the First Baptist Church here. The group comprised retired teachers, visiting teachers, principals, classroom teachers, and other school personnel.

Principal speaker at the meeting was W. E. Groves, New Orleans actuary who has been retained by Rep. Vail Delony's legislative committee as consultant to assist in studying the state's 15 public retirement systems. He made the key recommendation to the committee and indicated at yesterday's meeting the impact of those recommendations on the retirement system.

SPEAKERS

Other speakers were H. G. Robinson, secretary-treasurer of the Louisiana Teachers' Retirement System, N. B. Hackett, executive secretary of the Louisiana Teachers Association, and Rep. Laurence Gibbs, who assured teachers that he would give them his full support in the decision which they considered best for their profession.

The agenda at the House of Delegates meeting in Alexandria will include a discussion of the proposed legislative program presented by the legislative committee, recommendations given by the joint legislative retirement committee, and a report from the Louisiana Teachers Association public relations committee on a program of action for the year.

Action on the part of the Fifth District Classroom Teachers Association has been postponed until the organization meets in May.

Urged by the conference yesterday was attendance at the Alexandria meeting of presidents of presidents of local LTA units, chairmen of LTA public relations committees, superintendents of parish and city school systems, college presidents, and other people who are interested in education.

Mother Charged With Cruelty To Her Young Baby

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Police arrested a 25-year-old unmarried mother in a bar here Saturday and booked her for cruelty to her two-month-old abandoned baby boy.

A night nurse found the blanket-wrapped child on a sidewalk near the St. Vincent Infant Asylum three days ago.

Jap Attack Leader Repents, Preaches

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Japanese airman who led the Pearl Harbor attack preached the doctrine of forgiveness Saturday night to a gathering of young Americans and told how he became a Christian through the efforts of one of the Doolittle Tokyo raiders.

Mitsuo Fuchida, now 56, once a captain in the Japanese Navy air arm, traced his conversion from Buddhism to the teachings of Jesus Christ in a prepared talk called "From Pearl Harbor to Calvary—My Testimony."

On Dec. 7, 1941, he recalled, he was seated in the first place of a 360-plane squadron which had taken off unnoticed from six carriers 200 miles north of Pearl Harbor.

"After seeing that the main force of the American Pacific Fleet was anchored in the bay," he said, "I gave my first order, 'Whole squadron plunge into attack!' and that terrible war was opened."

"When the war ended," he said, 'I came to believe that I had been supported by some great unseen power."

His next step, he said, in what he called his path to Calvary was when he heard the story of a young American girl whose missionary parents were killed by the Japanese in the Philippines.

The girl, named Margaret Covell, was in America at the time and made a point of visiting Japanese war prisoners. He said her ability to forgive the Japanese took him a long way on his path.

Then, fatefully one day in Tokyo as he was walking to Gen Douglas MacArthur's headquarters to talk about testimony in war crimes trials, he was handed a religious tract written by Jacob Deshazer who took part in the April 18, 1942 raid on Tokyo led by Gen. James Doolittle.

Deshazer was bitter at first against the Japanese during his long years in a prison camp but then vowed to become a missionary and work among the Japanese people.

"This story," said Fuchida, "inspired me to buy a bible so that I might read this wonderful book for myself."

The passage which became fixed in his mind, he said, was the quotation from Christ as he hung on the cross, "Father, forgive them for they know not what they do."

Then, he said, he could understand the story of Margaret Covell and her forgiveness of the Japanese soldiers who killed her parents.

"I am not ashamed to say that my eyes filled with tears," he recalled. "I found the source of the love that can forgive enemies. It comes from the cross of Calvary. Right at that moment I met Jesus Christ. He came into my heart. Right away I accepted Christ as my personal savior."

Hays Gives Little Rock Crisis Views

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Rep. Brooks Hays (D-Ark) puts part of the blame for the Little Rock crisis on the Justice Department and some political advisers of Gov. Orval Faubus of Arkansas.

Hays presents his account of the troubled school situation in "A Southern Moderate Speaks," a book published Saturday by the University of North Carolina Press. He represented Little Rock in Congress when President Eisenhower sent federal troops to implement integration of Central High School there during the fall of 1957.

Hays describes the failure of the meeting between Eisenhower and Faubus at Newport R. I. The congressman had helped to arrange the conference in hopes of preventing the federal-state clash that eventually followed.

Hays said the rigid attitude of Herbert Brownell, then U.S. attorney general, "gave me some forebodings."

Brownell, according to Hays, refused to make these concessions:

1. Hold off court action for integration in Little Rock until a final determination on whether Arkansas segregation laws were valid. If the state laws had been declared invalid, Hays said, Faubus then would have been able to answer segregationists pressuring him to prevent integration.

2. Allow U.S. marshals to escort the nine Negroes into Central High School.

3. Join the school board in working out an integration plan.

Hays said the Justice Department should have acted affirmatively and imaginatively to uphold the federal court's integration order with civil, not military, power.

On the other hand, Hays wrote, political advisers prevented his views from making headway with Faubus.

"The governor had been impressed by my reasoning that federal law would ultimately prevail," Hays said. "Then in came the 'practical men.'

" 'Don't let Brooks talk you into something, he's too visionary,' I could hear them say. And the Governor, priding himself on political acumen, accepted this ruling."

In his book, Hays has many complimentary things to say about the activity of Faubus in the crisis. But, in a preface, the former congressman added that the book was written before his defeat in the last election by Rep. Dale Alford (D-Ark) a segregationist. Hays said that Alford had the support of Faubus in his write-in campaign.

Hays wrote that, in the Little Rock controversy, Faubus "was not happy about the turn of events and I do not believe he is happy about it today.

"There were moments of exaltation, perhaps, when the glow of acclaim in the Deep South brought a smile to the countenance that had come to symbolize the region's resistance, but underneath was a wistfulness for a smoother path to political glory and power."

Dulles To Leave Hospital Sunday

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles plans to leave Walter Reed Medical Center Sunday for another short afternoon auto ride, the State Department said Saturday.

Dulles took a 30-minute ride through Rock Creek Park, near the hospital, last Saturday, and a 1½ hour ride on Sunday, when he stopped at his home for 20 minutes. It was his first time away from the hospital since he entered Feb. 10 for a hernia operation.

NEGOTIATING LOAN

Special Tax Relief Bill's Chances Good

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Treasury Secretary Robert B. Anderson asserted Saturday that a bill to give tax relief to the self-employed would benefit the wealthy without helping the wage earner.

He also renewed his recent warning that the controversial measure would cost the Treasury at least 365 million dollars in annual revenue and would seriously affect chances of balancing the budget.

The House, however, is almost certain to pass the bill Monday. Some backers believe chances are good for Senate approval—if not this year, next.

A self-employed person could postpone until age 65 the payment of taxes on 10 per cent of his earnings if he voluntarily placed that amount in a retirement fund. The ceiling on the amount of tax deferral would be $2,500 a year

The Cabinet officer estimated that abou 80 per cent of the total tax relief under the bill would go to self-employed who earn more than $10,000 a year.

Opponents have argued similarly that if the bill becomes law there will be moves to give the same relief to other groups—for example, to make tax exempt the contributions of employes covered by social security and railroad retirement.

Woman Injured In Auto Wreck On Highway 165

A 30-year-old Negro maid, enroute to work at Conway Memorial Hospital last night, got there the hard way — in an ambulance.

Rosie C. Beard, 815 Camp St., driving south on U.S. 165 just beyond L.T.I., suffered hip injuries when her car was struck by another Negro shortly before 11 p.m.

State police from Troop F who investigated said that James Williams, 34, Negro of 59C Carver Homes, was driving north on U.S. 165 "at an excessive rate of speed."

Both the front and left side of his car, and her auto were nearly demolished. Wreckers were called to tow the cars away.

The Beard car was thrown off the highway and travelled several yards in the grass before halting.

JAIL REPORTS "BREAK"

GREENOCK, Scotland (UPI)—Red-faced Greenock Prison officials admitted Friday that thieves broke into the prison Thursday night. They said the intruders cut through two iron bars on the window of the main prison office and ransacked the room, apparently in search of pay envelopes of employes. The envelopes were locked up, however.

Teachers Vote No Action On Group Report

The Fifth District Classroom Teachers Association at yesterday's meeting voted to take no action on the report of the joint committee to study retirement systems of Louisiana.

Deferment of action was considered more practical until the House of Delegates of the Louisiana Teachers Association holds its session in Alexandria Saturday at 9:30 a. m. at the Junior High School.

Association President Charles M. Tillman of the Northeast State education faculty provided a program which featured several speakers who discussed the legislative committee report on retirement and a period for questions pertaining to he proposed changes recommended by he committee.

Approximately 250 persons attended the conference at the education building of the First Baptist Church here. The group comprised retired teachers, visiting teachers, principals, classroom teachers, and other school personnel.

Principal speaker at the meeting was W. E. Groves, New Orleans actuary who has been retained by Rep. Vail Delony's legislative committee as consultant to assist in studying the state's 15 public retirement systems. He made the key recommendation to the committee and indicated at yesterday's meeting the impact of those recommendations on the retirement system.

SPEAKERS

Other speakers were H. G. Robinson, secretary-treasurer of the Louisiana Teachers' Retirement System, N. B. Hackett, executive secretary of the Louisiana Teachers Association, and Rep. Laurence Gibbs, who assured teachers that he would give them his full support in the decision which they considered best for their profession.

The agenda at the House of Delegates meeting in Alexandria will include a discussion of the proposed legislative program presented by the legislative committee, recommendations given by the joint legislative retirement committee, and a report from the Louisiana Teachers Association public relations committee on a program of action for the year.

Action on the part of the Fifth District Classroom Teachers Association has been postponed until the organization meets in May.

Urged by the conference yesterday was attendance at the Alexandria meeting of presidents of presidents of local LTA units, chairmen of LTA public relations committees, superintendents of parish and city school systems, college presidents, and other people who are interested in education.

Mother Charged With Cruelty To Her Young Baby

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Police arrested a 25-year-old unmarried mother in a bar here Saturday and booked her for cruelty to her two-month-old abandoned baby boy.

A night nurse found the blanket-wrapped child on a sidewalk near the St. Vincent Infant Asylum three days ago.

Jap Attack Leader Repents, Preaches

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Japanese airman who led the Pearl Harbor attack preached the doctrine of forgiveness Saturday night to a gathering of young Americans and told how he became a Christian through the efforts of one of the Doolittle Tokyo raiders.

Mitsuo Fuchida, now 56, once a captain in the Japanese Navy air arm, traced his conversion from Buddhism to the teachings of Jesus Christ in a prepared talk called "From Pearl Harbor to Calvary—My Testimony."

On Dec. 7, 1941, he recalled, he was seated in the first place of a 360-plane squadron which had taken off unnoticed from six carriers 200 miles north of Pearl Harbor.

"After seeing that the main force of the American Pacific Fleet was anchored in the bay," he said, "I gave my first order, 'Whole squadron plunge into attack!' and that terrible war was opened."

"When the war ended," he said, 'I came to believe that I had been supported by some great unseen power."

His next step, he said, in what he called his path to Calvary was when he heard the story of a young American girl whose missionary parents were killed by the Japanese in the Philippines.

The girl, named Margaret Covell, was in America at the time and made a point of visiting Japanese war prisoners. He said her ability to forgive the Japanese took him a long way on his path.

Hays Gives Little Rock Crisis Views

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Rep. Brooks Hays (D-Ark) puts part of the blame for the Little Rock crisis on the Justice Department and some political advisers of Gov. Orval Faubus of Arkansas.

Hays presents his account of the troubled school ituation in "A Southern Moderate Speaks," a book published Saturday by the University of North Carolina Press. He represented Little Rock in Congress when President Eisenhower sent federal troops to implement integration of Central High School there during the fall of 1957.

Hays describes the failure of the meeting between Eisenhower and Faubus at Newport R. I. The congressman had helped to arrange the conference in hopes of preventing the federal-state clash that eventually followed.

Hays said the rigid attitude of Herbert Brownell, then U.S. attorney general, "gave me some forebodings."

Brownell, according to Hays, refused to make these concessions:

1. Hold off court action for integration in Little Rock until a final determination on whether Arkansas segregation laws were valid. If the state laws had been declared invalid, Hays said, Faubus then would have been able to answer segregationists pressuring him to prevent integration.

2. Allow U.S. marshals to escort the nine Negroes into Central High School.

3. Join the school board in working out an integration plan.

Hays said the Justice Department should have acted affirmatively and imaginatively to uphold the federal court's integration order with civil, not military, power.

On the other hand, Hays wrote, political advisers prevented his views from making headway with Faubus.

Wedding In New York Of Special Interest

Of special interest to friends in Monroe was the marriage of Miss Marguerite Lamkin to Rory Dion Harrity which took place at 5 o'clock in the afternoon of March 10 in New York City.

Their vows were said in the Park Avenue home of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Hickman before members of the two families and a few close friends with the Reverend Dr. H. C. Reed officiating.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Speed Lamkin and was attended by Lady Jeanne Campbell, of London and New York. Mr. Richard Craven served his brother as best man. A reception was held following the ceremony.

Miss Lamkin is the daughter of Mrs. Ebb Tyler Lamkin and the late Mr. Lamkin of this city. She is a graduate of Finch and Newcomb Colleges and has been residing in Beverly Hills and New York City for the past several years.

Mr. Harrity is the son of Mrs. Davenport Camp, of Ocala, Florida, and Mr. Richard Harrity of New York City. He is a graduate of Harvard University where he was a member of Hasty Pudding and The Spee Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrity are making their home in New York.

MISS LINDA GAYLE ARDOIN'S engagement to Frank Allen Johnston, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Johnston, of West Monroe, is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Ardoin of Grove, Texas. The wedding will take place May 30 in the First Pentecostal Church in Monroe. The bride is a senior at Port Neches-Grove High School and the prospective groom is a graduate of West Monroe High School.

Now Heating 'All Outdoors'

A new flameless gas heating system introduced is expected to make such establishments and semi - enclosed home patios and porches comfortable for year-round use.

The heaters, a refinement of those used in drive - in theaters in cold weather, are suspended from the ceiling of a plastic-sided canvas tent. They operate on either natural or propane gas, and eventually may be used to warm building lobby entrances, enclosed swimming pools and the interior of trucks where food products must be kept warm while on the road.

Miss Julia Olive Rhodes And Patrick B. Collins To Repeat Vows May 16

The marriage of Miss Julia Olive Rhodes and Patrick Babin Collins will be an event of May 16, at eleven o'clock in the morning. Miss Rhodes is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vance Joshua Rhodes of West Monroe and Mr. Collins' parents are Mr. and Mrs. Elmo A. Collins Sr., of Houston, Texas.

Miss Margaret Hunter of Monroe will serve the bride as maid of honor. The bridesmaids will be Miss Carol Collins and Miss Carolyn Sparkman of Houston, and Mrs. Sidney Fuller of Ruston.

Serving as best man will be Thomas E. Collins, brother of the groom of Houston. Ushers will be George Broussard, Donald Spearman and George Truitt, all of Houston.

Grandparents of Miss Rhodes are Mrs. F. A. Bertin of Baton Rouge, and the late Mr. Bertin, and the late Dr. and Mrs. Robert Riely Rhodes of Malvern and Little Ark. Miss Rhodes is a graduate of Louisiana State University, has done graduate work at the University of Houston and is a member of Chi Omega.

Grandparents of Mr. Collins are Mrs. Cyril Babin of Houston, and the late Mr. Babin, and the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Collins of Biloxi, Miss. He is a graduate of University of Houston and has done graduate work at University of Texas. He is a member of American Institute of Certified Public Accountants and Texas Society of Certified Public Accountants.

Tea Compliments Miss Williamson In Godfery Home

A tea in the home of Mrs. Jarrell E. Godfrey in Winnfield marked the beginning of a series of entertainments planned honoring Miss Eleanor Williamson whose engagement and approaching marriage was recently announced. Serving as co-hostess with Mrs. Godfrey was Mrs. Elizabeth Henry.

Receiving with the hostesses were Miss Williamson and her mother Mrs. Thomas E. Williamson. The honoree was wearing a pretty trousseau afternoon model designed with a boat neckline and full skirt fashioned of navy blue polka dot silk. She wore a pink camellia corsage. Mrs. Williamson was attired in a stunning yellow printed silk with a shawl collar falling away from the neckline. She wore a Herne varigated camellia. Mrs. Henry wore attractive black linen sheath model with embrodery of white and green, with an avocado green satin belt complimenting the waistline. Mrs Godfrey chose a black and white sheer spring model styled with full skirt and boat neckline accented by a wide patent belt. They each wore camellia corsages.

After guests were registered they were introduced to Miss Nell Percy, Miss Kate Young and Mrs. Arthur Shepard who were seated in the spacious living room.

The reception rooms were decorated with spring flowers at their seasonal peak. Camellias, of the Reverend John Bennett variety, and bridal wreath arranged with paper white narcissus and pear blossoms were noted in this area.

The tea table was a scenic picture of loveliness with pink and white the decor motif. The table was overlaid with an elegant drawn work table linen with pink satin ribbon extending crosswise the table to each corner. Three candle holders held the burning white tapers which were entwined with greenery and pink perfection camellias. The camellias were also used with fern at the satin bows on either corner of the table.

The silver punch service and silver coffee service graced the table. Alternating at the services were Miss Rowena Ramage, Mrs. H. M. Butler of Monroe, Mrs. Charles Ramage, Mrs. Albert Greenwald, Mrs. James McGraw, Mrs. T. W. Stodghill and Mrs. Bruce Landis.

Miss Jane Mims Complimented At Bridal Shower

A shower was held last Friday to honor Miss Jane Mims, fiancee of Harold Nubles. Mrs. Lloyd Cole, Mrs. Bobby Roberson, Mrs. Huel Spence, Mrs. Chester Rhodes and Mrs. Fred Peters were the hostesses. Spring flowers in yellow and white decorated the room. In the center of the table was a round arrangement of bridal wreath filled with specimen yellow jonquils.

Mrs. H. P. Buatt, Mrs. Margaret Larche, aunts of the bride, Mrs. E. M. Nubles, Mrs. Louis Shaw, Mrs. Foster Johnson, Mrs. J. Hollock, Mrs. Jimmy Maxey, Mrs. Floyd Lightsey, Mrs. F. H. Holderman and Donna, and Miss Gail Simmons.

Mushroom Treatment

Give yesterday's green beans the mushroom treatment. Saute sliced fresh mushrooms in butter or margarine and fresh lemon juice. Add cooked fresh snap beans and heat thoroughly.

Chlorine in tap water may cause house plants to die. Remove the chlorine by boiling the water, then cooling it before watering plants.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♥	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
2 ♥	Pass	4 ♥	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Queen of ♠.

It is curious to observe how differently a combination of cards may look when viewed from one side of the table or from the other. South fell short of his goal in playing the hand from the South seat, whereas I am quite convinced that had he occupied the North seat, and played with South as the dummy, he would have brought in the contract.

West opened the queen of spades. Declarer won with the ace and drew three rounds of trumps. He then tried to run the clubs, but found himself one trick short of his contract when West proved to have a stopper in that suit. South was quick to take the floor in the inevitable post-mortem, pointing with disdain to partner's bid of four hearts.

With this evenly balanced hand, he contended, North should have chosen three no trump as the final call, seeking a quick nine trick contract with a hand that offered no distributional advantages.

Three no trump, to be sure, was in this case an invincible contract, but South does not appear to this department to be in good grace to quibble over North's choice of bids when he had before him a laydown for 10 tricks with hearts as trumps.

Observing a singleton spade in his own hand, South should have used his hand for ruffing, and employed the king, jack, ten of hearts in the North hand for drawing trumps.

After winning the opening spade lead, declarer should ruff a spade in his own hand; then lead a heart to dummy's ten and ruff another spade in the South hand; then re-enter dummy with the jack of hearts. Dummy's last spade is now ruffed with the ace of hearts. Declarer enters dummy with the ace of clubs, and the last trump is drawn with the king of hearts, on which South discards one of his losing diamonds. This assures him of 10 tricks, even if the club jack does not fall.

SCIENCE DISCOVERS AGING, DRY SKIN NEEDS ESSENTIAL POLYUNSATURATES TO FRESHEN, BEAUTIFY COMPLEXION

Recently, science discovered that young, 20-year-old skin is almost twice as abundant in vital elements called essential polyunsaturates as skin at forty. As you grow older, or as you deplete your natural supply through low-fat diets, these essential polyunsaturates drain away. Dry, lifeless skin, wrinkles, premature lines and crow's feet may follow.

Rich, concentrated Polyderm lets you "beauty-feed" these essential polyunsaturates back to your skin . . . helping your complexion bloom again with radiance and vigor.

In just a few days you begin to see a noticeable improvement. Fine lines fade. Pores seem finer, and your skin is smoother, healthier-looking.

Wedding In New York Of Special Interest

Of special interest to friends in Monroe was the marriage of Miss Marguerite Lamkin to Rory Dion Harrity which took place at 5 o'clock in the afternoon of March 10 in New York City.

Their vows were said in the Park Avenue home of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Hickman before members of the two families and a few close friends with the Reverend Dr. H. C. Reed officiating.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Speed Lamkin and was attended by Lady Jeanne Campbell, of London and New York. Mr. Richard Craven served his brother as best man. A reception was held following the ceremony.

Miss Lamkin is the daughter of Mrs. Ebb Tyler Lamkin and the late Mr. Lamkin of this city. She is a graduate of Finch and Newcomb Colleges and has been residing in Beverly Hills and New York City for the past several years.

Mr. Harrity is the son of Mrs. Davenport Camp, of Ocala, Florida, and Mr. Richard Harrity of New York City. He is a graduate of Harvard University where he was a member of Hasty Pudding and The Spee Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrity are making their home in New York.

MISS LINDA GAYLE ARDOIN'S engagement to Frank Allen Johnston, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Johnston, of West Monroe, is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Ardoin of Grove, Texas. The wedding will take place May 30 in the First Pentecostal Church in Monroe. The bride is a senior at Port Neches-Grove High School and the prospective groom is a graduate of West Monroe High School.

Now Heating 'All Outdoors'

A new flameless gas heating system introduced is expected to make such establishments and semi - enclosed home patios and porches comfortable for year-round use.

The heaters, a refinement of those used in drive - in theaters in cold weather, are suspended from the ceiling of a plastic-sided canvas tent. They operate on either natural or propane gas, and eventually may be used to warm building lobby entrances, enclosed swimming pools and the interior of trucks where food products must be kept warm while on the road.

Miss Julia Olive Rhodes And Patrick B. Collins To Repeat Vows May 16

The marriage of Miss Julia Olive Rhodes and Patrick Babin Collins will be an event of May 16, at eleven o'clock in the morning. Miss Rhodes is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vance Joshua Rhodes of West Monroe and Mr. Collins' parents are Mr. and Mrs. Elmo A. Collins Sr., of Houston, Texas.

Miss Margaret Hunter of Monroe will serve the bride as maid of honor. The bridesmaids will be Miss Carol Collins and Miss Carolyn Sparkman of Houston, and Mrs. Sidney Fuller of Ruston.

Serving as best man will be Thomas E. Collins, brother of the groom of Houston. Ushers will be George Broussard, Donald Spearman and George Truitt, all of Houston.

Grandparents of Miss Rhodes are Mrs. F. A. Bertin of Baton Rouge, and the late Mr. Bertin, and the late Dr. and Mrs. Robert Riely Rhodes of Malvern and Little Ark. Miss Rhodes is a graduate of Louisiana State University, has done graduate work at the University of Houston and is a member of Chi Omega.

Grandparents of Mr. Collins are Mrs. Cyril Babin of Houston, and the late Mr. Babin, and the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Collins of Biloxi, Miss. He is a graduate of University of Houston and has done graduate work at University of Texas. He is a member of American Institute of Certified Public Accountants and Texas Society of Certified Public Accountants.

Tea Compliments Miss Williamson In Godfery Home

A tea in the home of Mrs. Jarrell E. Godfrey in Winnfield marked the beginning of a series of entertainments planned honoring Miss Eleanor Williamson whose engagement and approaching marriage was recently announced. Serving as co-hostess with Mrs. Godfrey was Mrs. Elizabeth Henry.

Receiving with the hostesses were Miss Williamson and her mother Mrs. Thomas E. Williamson. The honoree was wearing a pretty trousseau afternoon model designed with a boat neckline and full skirt fashioned of navy blue polka dot silk. She wore a pink camellia corsage. Mrs. Williamson was attired in a stunning yellow printed silk with a shawl collar falling away from the neckline. She wore a Herne varigated camellia. Mrs. Henry wore attractive black linen sheath model with embrodery of white and green, with an avocado green satin belt complimenting the waistline. Mrs Godfrey chose a black and white sheer spring model styled with full skirt and boat neckline accented by a wide patent belt. They each wore camellia corsages.

After guests were registered they were introduced to Miss Nell Percy, Miss Kate Young and Mrs. Arthur Shepard who were seated in the spacious living room.

The reception rooms were decorated with spring flowers at their seasonal peak. Camellias, of the Reverend John Bennett variety, and bridal wreath arranged with paper white narcissus and pear blossoms were noted in this area.

The tea table was a scenic picture of loveliness with pink and white the decor motif. The table was overlaid with an elegant drawn work table linen with pink satin ribbon extending crosswise the table to each corner. Three candle holders held the burning white tapers which were entwined with greenery and pink perfection camellias. The camellias were also used with fern at the satin bows on either corner of the table.

The silver punch service and silver coffee service graced the table. Alternating at the services were Miss Rowena Ramage, Mrs. H. M. Butler of Monroe, Mrs. Charles Ramage, Mrs. Albert Greenwald, Mrs. James McGraw, Mrs. T. W. Stodghill and Mrs. Bruce Landis.

Miss Jane Mims Complimented At Bridal Shower

A shower was held last Friday to honor Miss Jane Mims, fiancee of Harold Nubles. Mrs. Lloyd Cole, Mrs. Bobby Roberson, Mrs. Huel Spence, Mrs. Chester Rhodes and Mrs. Fred Peters were the hostesses. Spring flowers in yellow and white decorated the room. In the center of the table was a round arrangement of bridal wreath filled with specimen yellow jonquils.

Guests included Miss Helen Wilson, Mrs. D. W. Rhodes, Mrs. Emory Johnson, Mrs. Gus Gunther, Mrs. Vane Brazil, Mrs. Carl Freeman, Mrs. Bert Adams, Mrs. Clyde Bradford, Sr., Mrs. Jeff Spence, Miss Ruby Meeks, Mrs. Lloyd Whittington, Mrs. J. L. Stafford, Mrs. P. C. Dortholon, Mrs. R. L. Morgan, Mrs. Max Sanders, Mrs. Deryl Smith, Miss Maxine Sanders, Mrs. Lena Belle Rhodes, Mrs. E. J. Sackett, Mrs. Pete Meeks, Mrs. J. D. Mims, Miss Bobbye Meeks, Miss Phyllis Spence, Mrs. Robert Gill, Miss Susan Spence, Mrs. Clyde Lloyd, Miss Connie McKnight, Mrs. Charlie Harrison, Miss Wanda Meeks, Mrs. Florence Clark.

Mrs. H. P. Buatt, Mrs. Margaret Larche, aunts of the bride, Mrs. E. M. Nubles, Mrs. Louis Shaw, Mrs. Foster Johnson, Mrs. J. Hollock, Mrs. Jimmy Maxey, Mrs. Floyd Lightsey, Mrs. F. H. Holderman and Donna, and Miss Gail Simmons.

Mushroom Treatment

Give yesterday's green beans the mushroom treatment. Saute sliced fresh mushrooms in butter or margarine and fresh lemon juice. Add cooked fresh snap beans and heat thoroughly.

Chlorine in tap water may cause house plants to die. Remove the chlorine by boiling the water, then cooling it before watering plants.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♥	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
2 ♥	Pass	4 ♥	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Queen of ♠.

It is curious to observe how differently a combination of cards may look when viewed from one side of the table or from the other. South fell short of his goal in playing the hand from the South seat, whereas I am quite convinced that had he occupied the North seat, and played with South as the dummy, he would have brought in the contract.

West opened the queen of spades. Declarer won with the ace and drew three rounds of trumps. He then tried to run the clubs, but found himself one trick short of his contract when West proved to have a stopper in that suit. South was quick to take the floor in the inevitable post-mortem, pointing with disdain to partner's bid of four hearts.

With this evenly balanced hand, he contended, North should have chosen three no trump as the final call, seeking a quick nine trick contract with a hand that offered no distributional advantages.

Three no trump, to be sure, was in this case an invincible contract, but South does not appear to this department to be in good grace to quibble over North's choice of bids when he had before him a laydown for 10 tricks with hearts as trumps.

Observing a singleton spade in his own hand, South should have used his hand for ruffing, and employed the king, jack, ten of hearts in the North hand for drawing trumps.

After winning the opening spade lead, declarer should ruff a spade in his own hand; then lead a heart to dummy's ten and ruff another spade in the South hand; then re-enter dummy with the jack of hearts. Dummy's last spade is now ruffed with the ace of hearts. Declarer enters dummy with the ace of clubs, and the last trump is drawn with the king of hearts, on which South discards one of his losing diamonds. This assures him of 10 tricks, even if the club jack does not fall.

Easter Theme Used At Luncheon Meeting Of Junior Charity League

The Junior Charity League of Monroe held its monthly meeting at the Bayou DeSiard Country Club. As the ladies entered the ballroom for lunch they viewed an egg tree made of aqua tulle and covered with pastel Easter eggs. Continuing with the theme Mrs. Herbert Land, Jr. and Mrs. Benton Wakefield used white narcissus and yellow jonquils arranged as large eggs and surrounded by a nest of violets and ivy as the center pieces for the speakers' table. Along the center of the side tables were gaily colored paper eggs in nests of ivy, camellias and violets.

The president, Mrs. Jamar Adcock, introduced three out-of-town guests, Mrs. Alton Westbrook of Jackson, Mrs. Albert Clarey of Baton Rouge, and Mrs. E. D. Massey of Natchez. Mrs. Roy Cole who has returned to Monroe from Baton Rouge was welcomed back into active membership.

Joining the inactive members' roll this year will be Mrs. Jamar Adcock, Mrs. T. O. Bancroft, Jr., Mrs. J. C. Brown, Jr., Mrs. William Durrett, Mrs. Tommy Fortenberry, Mrs. W. K. Harris, Mrs. Burchall Liles, Mrs. Charles McKenzie, Jr., Mrs. Mike Pickett, Mrs. W. J. Riley, Jr., Mrs. Theo Terzia, Mrs. H. D. Touchstone and Mrs. Fred Westrom.

After turning the gavel over to the new president, Mrs. Miles Sager, Mrs. Adcock was presented a gift by the members of the league in appreciation of her service as president.

Of particular interest to those present was the announcement by Mrs. T. A. Calloway, social service chairman, that the league was serving ten families in the area with milk during the month of March.

Members present were: Mrs. Jamar Adcock, Mrs. Miles Sager, Jr., Mrs. Branton Kellogg, Mrs. John Mullens, Mrs. Lee Vanderpool, Mrs. Mike Pickett, Mrs. T. A. Summer Camps Must Have Useful Program

If your teen-age youngster has announced that he's not going back to camp this summer, you may still be able to persuade him to change his mind if you suggest a camp that satisfies his need to do something useful. It may have a recreational, special-interest, work, study, or travel program, but it should be exclusively teenage or separate older and younger campers, according to Mrs. Dorothy Siegel writing in the current (February issue of Parent's Magazine.

A counselor-in-training program may be the answer for the sixteen or seventeen-year-old who would like to help younger children enjoy camping. He'll spend part of his time polishing up his basic skills—majoring in one activity and minoring in a couple of others—and, in addition, he'll get actual training for future counseling.

In study camps, academic subjects are stressed for part of the day. Campers may brush up or work ahead in many fields or take school courses to improve their grades. At a special-interest camp, a youngster may specialize in natural sciences (archeology or geology, for example), in one of the fine or performing arts or in a sport. Both special-interest and study camps can offer a well rounded program, leaving part of the day free for other activities and workshops.

Constructive activity is especially emphasized in work camps. Devoting part of each day to actual work experience, such camps set high, long-term goals. Campers on a construction crew may erect new camp buildings. The farm crew weeds the garden, gathers the harvest, milks the cows. Forestry crew members put up overnight shelters or work on conservation projects. After chores, campers participate in regular camp activities, sports and workshops.

Travel camps include canoe and or wilderness camps, caravan camps and straight tours. Several commercial organizations, together with the American Youth Hostels, specialize in tours for teens. For some older boys and girls, canoe or wilderness camping is the "last word" in camping experience. Appealing to a taste for adventure and exploration, such programs show campers the pleasures and satisfactions of simple living minus the gadgets and gimmicks of civilization.

Check on the physical setup of any camps you're considering, Mrs. Siegel advises. Obviously, the best way to judge is to visit them in session. If you can't do this, try to talk with parents of campers.

Look for arrangements that ensure the safety and well-being of your child and don't be dazzled by luxury features. A guarded, safe waterfront is more important than toilets in every cabin. A good deal of health, safety and sanitation depends on a camp director's attitude toward "housekeeping." In a well kept camp, for example, there are no piles of lumber lying around inviting fires.

Mrs. Siegel approves of co-ed camps. They give teen-agers a chance, "particularly when there is constructive activity in the program, to size each other up as complete individuals and not just as possible dates," she says. "Working towards a common goal takes the tension out of boy-girl relationships and gives them more than dating to think of."

Mrs. Dunn Is Speaker At Sorority Meet

Alpha Nu Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma met at the Hollywood Restaurant for a combined dinner and business meeting. Miss Eleona Brinsmade, president, called attention to the high aims of the organization and urged attendance at the State Convention to be held in Monroe March 21 and 22. It was agreed to have a representative at the Open House of the Library during Library Week.

After the regular business session, Mrs. Eunice Dunn talked on the Symbolism of Delta Kappa Gamma and presented to the president the crest of the organization painted by Newt Caldwell on styrofoam.

Others present were Mrs. Sara Ellen Bottorf, Miss Geneve Castles, Mrs. Madelle Doughty, Miss Hermione Driskell, Mrs. Cynthia Leigh, and Mrs. Fay Wilson.

Expert Speaks For Feet's Sake

To keep flats on their feet, teen - age girl wear shoes too short, Dr. Irvin Hendryson said.

The result — bunions that in some cases need surgery, he added.

The father of five children, Dr. Hendryson said he has as many misgivings about cowboy boots for boys. But he found a solution.

"When the kids watched TV and then demanded cowboy boots, I bought them, all right—and I made them wear them till their feet hurt so much that they were glad to get rid of them. I bought them a little bit short, by the way."

If a child's feet are a little flat, but he suffers no pain, let him alone, said the surgeon.

Parents worry more about flat feet than do doctors who saw 50,000 pairs of feet in their Army days and realize that most feet are flat by old standards.

A counselor-in-training program may be the answer for the sixteen or seventeen-year-old who would like to help younger children enjoy camping. He'll spend part of his time polishing up his basic skills—majoring in one activity and minoring in a couple of others—and, in addition, he'll get actual training for future counseling.

In study camps, academic subjects are stressed for part of the day. Campers may brush up or work ahead in many fields or take school courses to improve their grades. At a special-interest camp, a youngster may specialize in natural sciences (archeology or geology, for example), in one of the fine or performing arts or in a sport. Both special-interest and study camps can offer a well rounded program, leaving part of the day free for other activities and workshops.

Constructive activity is especially emphasized in work camps. Devoting part of each day to actual work experience, such camps set high, long-term goals. Campers on a construction crew may erect new camp buildings. The farm crew weeds the garden, gathers the harvest, milks the cows. Forestry crew members put up overnight shelters or work on conservation projects. After chores, campers participate in regular camp activities, sports and workshops.

Travel camps include canoe and or wilderness camps, caravan camps and straight tours. Several commercial organizations, together with the American Youth Hostels, specialize in tours for teens. For some older boys and girls, canoe or wilderness camping is the "last word" in camping experience. Appealing to a taste for adventure and exploration, such programs show campers the pleasures and satisfactions of simple living minus the gadgets and gimmicks of civilization.

Check on the physical setup of any camps you're considering, Mrs. Siegel advises. Obviously, the best way to judge is to visit them in session. If you can't do this, try to talk with parents of campers.

Look for arrangements that ensure the safety and well-being of your child and don't be dazzled by luxury features. A guarded, safe waterfront is more important than toilets in every cabin. A good deal of health, safety and sanitation depends on a camp director's attitude toward "housekeeping." In a well kept camp, for example, there are no piles of lumber lying around inviting fires.

Mrs. Siegel approves of co-ed camps. They give teen-agers a chance, "particularly when there is constructive activity in the program, to size each other up as complete individuals and not just as possible dates," she says. "Working towards a common goal takes the tension out of boy-girl relationships and gives them more than dating to think of."

Mrs. Dunn Is Speaker At Sorority Meet

Alpha Nu Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma met at the Hollywood Restaurant for a combined dinner and business meeting. Miss Eleona Brinsmade, president, called attention to the high aims of the organization and urged attendance at the State Convention to be held in Monroe March 21 and 22. It was agreed to have a representative at the Open House of the Library during Library Week.

After the regular business session, Mrs. Eunice Dunn talked on the Symbolism of Delta Kappa Gamma and presented to the president the crest of the organization painted by Newt Caldwell on styrofoam.

Others present were Mrs. Sara Ellen Bottorf, Miss Geneve Castles, Mrs. Madelle Doughty, Miss Hermione Driskell, Mrs. Cynthia Leigh, and Mrs. Fay Wilson.

Expert Speaks For Feet's Sake

To keep flats on their feet, teen - age girl wear shoes too short, Dr. Irvin Hendryson said.

The result — bunions that in some cases need surgery, he added.

The father of five children, Dr. Hendryson said he has as many misgivings about cowboy boots for boys. But he found a solution.

"When the kids watched TV and then demanded cowboy boots, I bought them, all right—and I made them wear them till their feet hurt so much that they were glad to get rid of them. I bought them a little bit short, by the way."

If a child's feet are a little flat, but he suffers no pain, let him alone, said the surgeon.

Parents worry more about flat feet than do doctors who saw 50,000 pairs of feet in their Army days and realize that most feet are flat by old standards.

Haven't we had spring this week?. . . Shirt sleeves one day; raincoats the next . . . . Spring seems to work on the theory that it's better to be a headache than a bore, and we've had no dull days.

Half the fun of spring is the new hat. We saw CHARLOTTE HAMILTON out in a mauve straw encircled with mauve cornflowers . . . FLORENCE GARRETSON in a natural straw ringed with strawberries . . . and ETOYLE BALLARD, accenting a sheer gray wool dress with an orange hat . . . ADA HENRY also chose an orange straw, and NITA GOLSON, red straw trimmed with cherries . . . With a gold silk suit, JACKIE WOODS wore a gold - banded green straw.

We called at the lovely new home of MR. and MRS. CLIFFORD STRAUSS on Deborah Drive. This gem of a house was designed by SAUL MINTZ, who is not a practicing architect but did this house as a labor of love for his parents - in - law . . . The drive curves up to the wrought iron gates set in the used brick wall. One crosses a patio and enters the hall, which is "papered" with grass cloth in a large diamond pattern. A beautiful cabinet of burl walnut hangs on the wall opposite the front door. The wall stops short of the ceiling, and is topped with a planter box backed by a panel of smoked glass.

To the right of the entry is the living room, with the dining room on to the left. These rooms, with their glass walls, form two sides of a patio to the back of the house. Third wall is made of old brick laid in an openwork pattern, while the fourth side is open with a sweeping view of the bayou. Both living and dining rooms use wall of redwood panelling and the old brick which is used in the outside construction. Carpeting is white, with sheer draperies making a background for the brilliant blues and greens of the upholstered pieces.

A sliding door of Rama fretwork divides the dining room and the den. Two walls of the den are of glass, covered with draperies of drawn linen in colors of brown and charcoal. Easy chairs of these colors are pulled up before the brick wall with its fireplace and built-in bookcase.

In moving from the entry to the living room to the dining room and thence to the den, the visitor has almost completely encircled the kitchen, which is built in the center of the living wing. A luminous ceiling is used in this room, with its gum panelling and terrazzo flooring. Much of the "working part" of the kitchen is built into an island in the center of the room. Even a home ice maker is included here.

Between the kitchen and the den is the spot which is the most outstanding feature of the house —the mosaic tile wall. Beautiful blues, greens, and yellows are used on the wall and continue onto the dining - height counter which curves into the den. Enclosed behind the counter are a tiny sink and a grill for indoor "cook - outs" . . . The other side of the wall forms a passage into the kitchen. A skylight built into the roof picks up the colors of the mosaic and lights the planter box built into the floor at the base of the wall.

Space prevents us describing all the perfection of detail to be found in this house, but we must mention the master suite. The bedroom is done in the blues and greens found throughout the house, here used with gold accents. Sheer draperies of white printed with blue and green draw across the glass wall which overlooks the bayou. The room's inner wall has two doors into the L-shaped dressing area which completely wraps the room on two sides. Here are found built-in drawers and cabinets, hanging spaces, divided baths, and dressing rooms, all engineered for "his" and "hers."

GLO WRIGHT and MARY FORTNER entertained with a luncheon Tuesday in honor of ROSEMARY HUNT, whose marriage to JOHN HUNT was celebrated in Ruston last month. The Hunts are now at home at 2608 Hawthorne . . . The party was held at the Wright home, which was decorated with camellias. White Empress blossoms were used on the coffee table, and pink Hermes on the mantel . . . The twelve guests were seated at two tables in the dining. Twin arrangements of stock, blue Dutch iris, candytuft, and ranunculas centered the tables. Highlighting the menu were such delicacies as broiled steak, devilled oysters, and fresh strawberry pie.

MRS. HORACE FLUKER is home from Metairie, where she made the acquaintance of her new granddaughter, AMY FAULK FERGUSON. Born February 18, Amy is the fourth child and third daughter of BENNIE and DAN FERGUSON. Her paternal grandmother is MRS. JOE RICE FERGUSON of Leesville . . . Young Miss KAREN FERGUSON came home with her grandmother for a visit here.

In Hammond this weekend are CARRIE M'KENZIE and MARY MARGARET JARDINE, who went down for the state flower show. They entered an exhibit representing the Monroe Garden Club. The show is being held in the Coliseum at Southeastern Louisiana college and will be open to the public from nine this morning until four this afternoon.

This week Monroe has gained some new citizens who have moved here to be near their children and grandchildren. The A. S. OLIVERS, formerly of St. Louis, are now at 1001 N. Seventh street. Their daughter is ALICE PEAT, who with JACK and the children has been living here for several years.

JEAN and SAUL MINTZ have returned from a week's visit to Scarsdale, New York. They were guests of Saul's sister and her husband, BELLA and IRWIN SHLANSKY. They made several trips into New York City and saw both "The World of Susie Wong" and "The Flower Drum Song."

Young misses JUDY JACOBS and PEGGY DAWSON, with their parents, MARGARET JACOBS and the O. D. DAWSONS, are in Natchez this weekend. The girls, dressed in ante - bellum costumes, ushered at last night's Confederate pageant and will assist in receiving at "Hawthorne" today.

Guests of MRS. F. L. FAULK this week were her daughter, VIRGINIA WILLIAMS and her children, BARBARA and MARION . . . On Tuesday BARBARA HARKEY entertained at a home luncheon honoring her sister. Pink camellias were used in the living room, and an arrangement of flowering peach centered the dining table. Ten guests enjoyed the meal of shrimp salad and baked asparagus with lemon charlotte for dessert . . . Virginia and the children returned to their home in Birmingham, Alabama, on Friday.

JAN ADCOCK entertained with a party for twenty members of the high school set at her home. The group went on a scavenger hunt, searching for such items as a derby hat and a left blue saddle shoe. Members of the winning team were JUDY PORT, ALEX MYATT, JUDY NEAL, and MIKE M'CREADY, who were awarded candy Easter eggs . . . After the hunt, the group danced to records. Jan served sandwiches and cake, with spring punch.

The ALBERT CLARYS (she is the former Lucille Moseley) were here last weekend, with their children, DOUG, DALE and CHARLES. They were guests of her mother, MRS. C. H. MOSELEY, who has returned with them to Baton Rouge for a visit.

And then there is New Orleans, always a favorite spot for a weekend trip. ANN and TOMMY HOLMES are due back today from a three day pleasure trip . . . and ELEANOR and LEO TERZIA, JR., are leaving today and will be in the Crescent City until Thursday.

The gardens of these our Twin Cities at this time of year bring to mind William Wordsworth's words on "The Daffodils":

I wandered lonely as a cloud
That floats on high o'er vales and hills,
When all at once I saw a crowd,
A host of golden daffodils,
Beside the lake, beneath the trees,
Fluttering and dancing in the breeze.
The waves beside them danced, but they
Outdid the sparkling waves in glee;
A poet could not but be gay
In such a jocund company.
I gazed and gazed, but little thought
What wealth the show to me had brought;
For oft when on my couch I lie
In vacant or in pensive mood,
They flash upon that inward eye
Which is the bliss of solitude;
And then my heart with pleasure fills;
And dances with the daffodils.

MR. AND MRS. HENRY HAMPTON of Oak Grove announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Martha, To C. E. Broen of Tallulah. The marriage will take place on March 27, at seven o'clock in the evening in the Little Mission Church in Ole Town. The Rev. Glenn Pippins will perform the ceremony.

New Members Welcomed At Woodlawn HDC

Mrs. Doyle Raborn and Mrs. Gilbert Snowden were welcomed as new members when the Woodlawn Home Demonstration Club held their March meeting in the home of Mrs. Ernie Frith with one guest and 14 members present.

"Altering the Pattern to Fit the Figure" was the demonstration presented by Mrs. Audrey Dawson, Ouachita Parish Demonstration Agent. Mrs. Dawson revealed the correct way to alter any portion of a pattern so that each individual may be properly fitted.

"We can't repair the past but we don't have to repeat it." This thought for the day was given by the president, Mrs. Truman Wright, who led the business session. The club members repeated the Club Collect, gave the pledge to the flag, and sang together the song "Easter Parade," and a congenial atmosphere prevailed.

Nutrition Leader, Mrs. G. E. Rutledge, stressed the importance of meat and milk in the daily diet as both are good protein foods. Mrs. Wallace Snowden, Family Life Leader, encouraged parents to be more relaxed and to enjoy the fellowship of their children more.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Frith, and cohostess, Mrs. C. A. Hollingsworth, to the guests, Mrs. Dawson and Mrs. B. M. Fuller, and Mesdames Harvey Larche, J. E. Rutledge, Gerald Morehead, John Bush, Truman Wright, J. E. Murphy, Erby Tisdale, Ruby Morehead, Gilbert Snowden, Wallace Snowden, Doyle Raborn, G. E. Rutledge, and Keith Cobb.

April meeting will be with Mrs. Keith Cobb, with Mrs. Harvie Eady, co-hostess, at 2:00 p.m. April 3.

Sliced Beets

Give sliced cooked beets a fresh outlook with a sour-cream and caraway dressing. Heat beets thoroughly, drain and toss with cream and whole caraway seed.

Use ground beef within two days of purchase. The beef is subject to more bacterial action, drying and flavor loss than other cuts.

Easter Style Show Outstanding Event

An outstanding event of the season was the style show held at the Flamingo Room for members of the Mon Amie Newcomers Club and their guests Thursday at one o'clock in the afternoon.

The Easter Season was very much in evidence in the decorations throughout the spacious room. The white covered tables held attractive favors carrying out the Easter theme. At the entrance, a handsome arrangement of grass, eggs and bunnies surrounded a large crystal bowl filled with pink and white camellias.

Fashions for Spring, Easter and summer were presented from a famous dress shop as was the newest in hair styles. Mrs. Fred Dillard read the commentary. Modeling was Bess Courtman, lovely in a silk suit with a pencil skirt and a semi-loose jacket completed with a rolled collar for softness, with a hat trimmed with a lay of flowers which easily converted into a tailored hat for after Easter. She also modeled an ensemble of silk faintly printed for a hip high jacket and a matching skirt attached to a blouse of beige crepe. With this she chose a burnt straw trimmed with white.

A dress with easy flattering lines was worn by Waena May. Bands of lace trimmed the bodice and the velvet belt was accented by a flower. She also modeled a shirtwaist dress with the pure silk look. With this she wore a cloche of white toyo straw trimmed with a matching dotted band.

Pretty in a smart classic dress with the shirtwaist look and a straw hat and a spectator sport dress for the town and country look was Mona Tarver.

An elegant silk broadcloth in the shirtwaist and a blue and green check for sportswear were modeled by Dottie McKinley.

Another ensemble perfect for early Easter and through summer was modeled by Katherine Statler. The sheath dress was of rayon and silk with roll cuff sleeves and flattering neckline. The full length coat was of hoppsacking lined in matching silk. She wore a straw hat.

An all time favorite black and white ensemble was worn by Elsie Beggs. The jacket was of cotton in block check and the sheath dress was of silk with short sleeves and jewel neckline. The straw hat was trimmed with a touch of white.

Following the revue, members and guests enjoyed an afternoon of bridge and canasta.

Sliced Beets

Give sliced cooked beets a fresh outlook with a sour-cream and caraway dressing. Heat beets thoroughly, drain and toss with cream and whole caraway seed.

Use ground beef within two days of purchase. The beef is subject to more bacterial action, drying and flavor loss than other cuts.

Easter Style Show Outstanding Event

An outstanding event of the season was the style show held at the Flamingo Room for members of the Mon Amie Newcomers Club and their guests Thursday at one o'clock in the afternoon.

The Easter Season was very much in evidence in the decorations throughout the spacious room. The white covered tables held attractive favors carrying out the Easter theme. At the entrance, a handsome arrangement of grass, eggs and bunnies surrounded a large crystal bowl filled with pink and white camelias.

Fashions for Spring, Easter and summer were presented from a famous dress shop as was the newest in hair styles. Mrs. Fred Dillard read the commentary. Modeling was Bess Courtman, lovely in a silk suit with a pencil skirt and a semi-loose jacket completed with a rolled collar for softness, with a hat trimmed with a lay of flowers which easily converted into a tailored hat for after Easter. She also modeled an ensemble of silk faintly printed for a hip high jacket and a matching skirt attached to a blouse of beige crepe. With this she chose a burnt straw trimmed with white.

A dress with easy flattering lines was worn by Waena May. Bands of lace trimmed the bodice and the velvet belt was accented by a flower. She also modeled a shirtwaist dress with the pure silk look. With this she wore a cloche of white toyo straw trimmed with a matching dotted band.

Pretty in a smart classic dress with the shirtwaist look and a straw hat and a spectator sport dress for the town and country look was Mona Tarver.

An elegant silk broadcloth in the shirtwaist and a blue and green check for sportswear were modeled by Dottie McKinley.

Another ensemble perfect for early Easter and through summer was modeled by Katherine Statler. The sheath dress was of rayon and silk with roll cuff sleeves and flattering neckline. The full length coat was of hoppsacking lined in matching silk. She wore a straw hat.

An all time favorite black and white ensemble was worn by Elsie Beggs. The jacket was of cotton in block check and the sheath dress was of silk with short sleeves and jewel neckline. The straw hat was trimmed with a touch of white.

Following the revue, members and guests enjoyed an afternoon of bridge and canasta.

MRS. RICHARD SOIGNIER

Marilyn Jean Huntsman, R. Soignieer Say Vows

In a double ring ceremony with a setting of white gladioli and ferns, Miss Marilyn Jean Huntsman and Richard Soignier exchanged marriage vows. The Rev. James Huntsman, uncle of the bride, of Little Rock, performed the ceremony at four o'clock in the afternoon on March seventh, at the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, in West Monroe.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marion Huntsman and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Adricote Soignier, all of West Monroe.

BRIDE

The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father. She was gowned in white imported French lace with a scalloped neckline outlined with tiny pearls. The long fitted sleeves came to points at the wrists. The bouffant skirt swept up to a back peplum over alternate rows of pleated tulle and lace ruffles forming a chapel train. The veil of illusion was attached to a tiara of lace and seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of orchids and stephanotis.

Miss Cindy Huntsman served her sister as maid of honor. Her gown was blue peau de soie with a sweetheart neckline and a bouffant skirt. She carried a bouquet of white mums. The bridesmaids were Misses Suzanne Bueker, Priscilla Thompson, Barbara Colvin, and Mrs. Johnnie Huntsman. Their dresses and bouquets were identical to the maid of honor. Flower girl was Kathy Engelkes. She wore a gown of white lace identical to that of the bride. Candlelighters were Karen Huntsman and Freddie Huntsman.

Billy Ewing served the groom as best man. Ring bearer was Alma Newton Huntsman. Johnnie Huntsman, Lloyd Salter Jr., Billy Joe Thompson and Garland Webb were groomsmen and ushers.

The bride's mother chose to wear for the wedding, a blue lace model with matching accessories. At her shoulder was a corsage of white carnations.

RECEPTION

Following the wedding, a reception was held at the Highland Park Country Club. The bride's table was covered with white lace over blue. To one end was the silver punch service while the tiered cake was placed at the other end. Presiding here were Miss Wanda Mouton, Miss Coleen Fuller, Mrs. C. E. Engelkes and Mrs. Kenneth Vose.

Mrs. Bill Mewnly registered the guests at a table holding a memory candle surrounded by mums and fern.

The bride chose for travel, a pink wool suit accented by the orchid taken from her bouquet. After a wedding trip, the couple will be at home in West Monroe.

Out - of - town guests were Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Newton, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Vose, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Newton and children, Doane, Albert, Elmer Dewy, Donna and Margaret, of Stuttgart, Ark., Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Engelkes and children, Linda, Kathy and Jackie of Boydell, Ark.; Art Saylor of Deerwood, Minn.; Jounir Martin of Remer, Minn., and Miss Puaala Bugbee of Kailua, Oahu, Hawaii.

The Ruston Art Club Celebrates Federation Day

The Arts Club of Ruston met in the home of Mrs. L. K. Brooks with Mrs. E. L. McNeely as cohostess, for the annual business meeting and celebration of Federation Day. Upon arrival, each guest was pinned with a camellia, after which a salad plate was served.

Mrs. Roy Willard, club president, called the meeting to order, and led the members in repeating the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag, and she then read the Club Collect. Mrs. L. P. McLane, of the program committee, presented Mrs. Fairy McBride, who gave an illustrated lecture on "Machines Talk."

The annual business session then followed. It was announced that Mrs. E. L. McKneely would represent the club in the Vogue Sewing Contest at the Fifth District Federated Club Convention in Harrisonburg. The club voted unanimously to support the hospital plan. The nominating committee presented the following slate for officers for the 1959-60 club year, who were elected: president, Mrs. Roderick C. Duchesne; vice president, Mrs. E. Lee Young; recording secretary, Mrs. Hale Shadow; treasurer, Mrs. Earl Bump; corresponding secretary, Mrs. E. L. McKneely; and parliamentarian, Mrs. Roy Willard.

A MERRY TOOT

BIRMINGHAM, England (UPI) —David Smith, 21, charged with having a siren on his car that police said sounded like a wartime air raid siren, was acquitted Friday.

Magistrate J. F. Milward said he would take Smith's word for it that the siren was used only "to have a merry toot at pretty girls."

Cheese grates more easily if chilled first.

Dianne Short Becomes Bride Of R. Sisk, Jr.

Miss Dianne Short, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Short of Bastrop, and Robert Charles Sisk, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Charles Sisk Sr., of Crossett, Ark., were united in marriage on March third, at the home of the bride's parents.

The Rev. Thomas Lee performed the ceremony at three o'clock in the afternoon before an improvised altar of white blossoms.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a spring suit of blue accented by white. She carried a bouquet of white carnations and stock.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held. The bride's table was adorned with a large arrangement of white blossoms and greenery. To one end was the tiered wedding cake and on the other was the crystal punch service.

The couple will make their home in Bastrop after a short wedding trip.

No Problem To Reheat Leftovers

Reheating leftover Brussels sprouts is no problem when you cook with soup. Heat 1 can cream of chicken soup thinned with ¼ cup milk. Toss with 3 cups cooked Brussels sprouts and ½ cup grated American or cheddar cheese. Turn into lightly greased 1-quart casserole. Top with 1 cup buttered bread cubes and bake 20 minutes or until crumbs are brown in preheated 375-degree oven.

SALES RISE

DEARBORN, Mich. (UPI) — U. S. sales of English Fords in February rose 79.3 per cent above the same month last year to 3,900 units, M-E-L Division of Ford Motor Co. announced Wednesday. The division added that German Taunus sales also increased in February to 536 units from 447 in January.

For a quick, easy pie filling, combine 2 cups canned apple sauce with 1 (1-pound) jar mincemeat and ½ cup light brown sugar. This makes enough filling for a 9-inch two-crust pie. Bake in 425-degree oven 30 to 40 minutes, and serve warm.

Showers Honors Recent Bride, Mrs. R. Stucky

The home of Mrs. Monroe Taylor on Paradise Hill in Farmerville was a scene of a miscellaneous shower on Monday afternoon, given by her daughter, Miss Cleo Taylor, Mrs. Layton Hester, Mrs. T. L. Gaddis and Mrs. Prentice Taylor, complimenting Mrs. Richard Stucky, who before her recent marriage was Miss Lyndia Stringfellow, daughter of Mr, and Mrs. J. C. Stringfellow of Farmerville.

Receiving with the hostesses and the honor guest were the two mothers, Mrs. Stringfellow and Mrs. T. W. Stucky of Haynesville, all becomingly gowned and wearing corsages of camellias. The honoree chose from her trousseau for this occasion an early spring model of pink linen lace, fashioned on princess lines, accented by a shoulder corsage of white camellias.

A profusion of King Alfred daffodils, camellias and other early spring flowers lent their beauty to the entertaining suite. The mantle in the living room was adorned with a pair of antique figurines, rosy red quince blossoms and ivy against a mirrored background. An artistic arrangement of Pink Perfection camellias and white lacy spirea graced the coffee table.

Miss Mildred Neal presided at the bride's book in which the guests registered. On the table was a dainty nosegay arrangement of violets. The guests were invited by Miss Ann Ballard to view the display of gifts in the bride's chosen pattern of china, crystal, and many other useful articles, which were attractively displayed on long tables draped in white. Noted in the room was a crescent arrangement of specimen King Alfred daffodils, complimenting a round mirror.

The service table in the dining room was laid with a white linen cut-work cloth. Tall white tapers burning in silver branched candelabra, while twin arrangements of pink perfection camellias and buds, white spirea and soft pink quince blossoms, graced the center. A similar arrangement in an antique silver and crystal bowl was placed on the buffet and reflected in a long wall mirror.

Pink and white pillow mints, individual embossed cakes, salted nuts and dainty chicken - salad sandwiches in silver and crystal compotes and trays were placed along the board.

Approximately 90 guests called between the receiving hours of 3 and 5:30 o'clock.

Margaret Moore Is Hostess To CAR Meeting

The home of Miss Margaret Moore on Lakeside Drive was the scene of the March meeting of the Lt. Joseph Bowmar Society, Children of the American Revolution. Co-hostesses were Misses Marilyn Gallman and Anna Williams.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Patty Prophit. Officers for the coming year were elected. Serving with our new president, Dottie Amman, will be Margaret Moore, vice - president, Bunny Buckner, secretary, Nancy Wilson, treasurer, Sage Redding, chaplain, Minta Goyne, historian, Cynthia Leigh, parliamentarian, Dale Guilkey, reporter and Noel Standley, registrar.

After the business meeting an informative program was presented. Allen Foster gave a talk on the history of parliamentary procedure and answered questions of the members on this subject. Minta Goyne spoke on "The History of C. A. R. — Its Ideals and Aspirations." "We Are Proud of Our Southern Mountain Friends" was the subject of Marilyn Gallman's talk. Sally Pierce read an essay on "Thomas Jefferson."

Mattie Wagner, Gilbert Briggs Repeat Vows

A wedding of interest is that of Miss Mattie Wagner and Gilbert Briggs of Jonesville.

The Rev. Harold Davis, pastor of the Pleasant Grove Baptist Church performed the double-ring ceremony on Saturday evening at 7:45 in the parsonage. Lovely and colorful narcissus and camelias decorated the parsonage.

The bride was attired in a beige suit with beige accessories. Mr. and Mrs. Wedon McMillin served as attendants.

Those attending the wedding were Mrs. Harold Davis, Tom Davis, Ann Davis, Linda McMillin, Betty Lutrull, Fro Davis, Wedon and Beverly McMillin, Bob Parker, Mr. and Mrs. Sonny Champlin and Miss Shirley Briggs.

Fruit - biscuit fanciers will go for pitted plumped prunes baked in a casing of biscuit dough.

Spring hats are designed to wear level or tipped back on the head. Some styles have a decided tilt, worn at provocative angles. The Millinery Creators of America, a group of 17 designers, shows wide, floppy brimmed picture hats which give two different effects, depending on the angle. They hide the face when worn straight or frame the face in a youthful manner, dipping to the shoulder in back, when tilted.

Veils are in abundance—swathing evening hats, obscuring the face in a cloud, or falling from brim to neckline in harem fashion. These long Turkish veils often are trimmed at the bottom with fabric matching trim on the hat or with colored flowers, resembling a boa which falls around the shoulders.

Look for the Miss in missiles, say engineers with a Milwaukee metal spinning firm, which manufactures rocket parts. They noticed a marked similarity between shapes of fashions and the rockets.

For example, the trapeze look, popular last year, is repeated in the conical spinning which forms part of the Honest John missile. The chemise, another 1958 style, looks like the cylinder that forms the first part of many missile spinnings. And the sheath, back in fashion this year, resembles a nozzle component from another missile.

The women in white now can wear mix - n - match uniforms. Skirts fasten to blouses by means of the new nylon adhesive closure (Velcro). Thus blouses cannot pull out, giving a messy appearance. The uniform separates come in white slub - textured Dacron. Skirts are wrap - around style, with a single patch pocket. Blouses have deep V-seaming in front and cuffed cap sleeves.

Mohair shows from the skinside out these days. Important for fall were the big, colorful mohair coats and mohair - blend sweaters. Now Paris is turning out mohair sportswear and lounging items for mid-winter.

One style is a white, loosely-knit mohair combination negligee and tea gown with pink satin drawstrings and bows. The shawl collar stands away from the neck, the waistline is raised, sleeves are three - quarter length, and buttons open down the front.

Jacques Heim shows an after-ski outfit of amethyst velveteen knee - length tights with high, boned corselet top. A pale yellow mohair dress slips over the ensemble. He suggests ribbed knitted wool stockings, worn with velveteen flats to complete the costume.

Pleasant To Be Able To Set Pretty Table

Undoubtedly one of the most pleasant of the housekeeping chores is setting a pretty table. All of us take pride in using candles, flowers, lovely glass and china to express our own creativity and individuality. It's a joy to own lovely table accessories, and using them seems to make meals more appetizing and mealtimes more fun.

Tablesettings today need not be as formal as mother's were, but they should certainly be as attractive. No need, either, to wait until you have company. Plan to set an attractive table even if it's only family.

A charming table could be done for family breakfast on Easter morn using handcrafted milk glass hens and rooster as the centerpiece, and plates, cups and saucers in milk glass with an edging of pure crystal. Use a gay runner - type tablecloth in turquoise with colored banding in gold and black and deep turquoise blue. If you are planning a party for your friends, you might want to consider an Easter brunch served buffet style, so that you can be carefree and enjoy the party, too. For your centerpiece, make a festive bunny out of yellow crepe paper and flank it with candles. Your tablecloth could be in lavender, sparked with yellow napkins and handcrafted amethyst table appointments.

Highland Park Garden Club Holds Meeting

The Highland Park Garden Club held its March meeting in the home of Mrs. W. A. Lewis.

The project at Charity Hospital was discussed and plans were made to put pictures or plaques on the walls in the pediatrics wards. The club also voted to buy some pine trees for the new library grounds.

The guest speaker, Mrs. J. W. Nettles, made several arrangements using waxed flowers. A committee was appointed to nominate officers for the coming year.

Attending were Mesdames, Percy Pace, W. B. Hollingsworth, M. L. Lee, Monroe Dunlap, Billy Briggs, H. F. Dossett, J. D. Dees, Calvin Murphy, Jack O'Neal, W. G. Kelly and John R. Wilson.

'Altering The Pattern To Fit Your Figure'

"Altering Pattern to Fit Your Figure" was the demonstration given by Mrs. Audrey Dawson when the Drew Home Demonstration Club met March 9th at 1:00 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Albert Frost with Mrs. Mae Bourland as hostess.

In absence of the president the meeting was opened by Mrs. W. O. Northcutt, with the thought for the day. The Club Collect was followed by the Pledge of Allegiance. After singing "Easter Parade," the minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. Roll call gave 10 members and three visitors.

Report on "Family Life" was given by Mrs. W. M. Johnston.

Refreshments were served to Mrs. B. F. Henry, Mrs. G. A. Strozier, Mrs. W. O. Northcutt, Mrs. Sue Henry, Mrs. J. C. Humble, Mrs. W. M. Johnston, Mrs. Audrey Dawson, Mrs. Rogers, Mrs. Shaver, Mrs. Albert Frost, Mrs. Audrey Holly, Mrs. J. R. Again, and Mrs. Mae Bourland.

The April meeting will be held on the 13th at 1:00 p.m. with Mrs. J. E. Ware, at which time she will give a demonstration on "Baking the Staff of Life."

MISS KAY LYNN PAYNE

Miss Payne Is Engaged To Wed Harold Watson

An engagement of interest is that of Miss Kay Lynn Payne and Harold Miller Watson, both of Crowville, who will be married March 26, at 8 o'clock in the evening.

Miss Payne is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jay L. Payne and the bridegroom - elect's parents are Mr. and Mr. Howard Watson.

The Rev. C. T. Smith, pastor of the Crowville Baptist Church will officiate at the wedding which will be in the Crowville Baptist Church. He will be assisted by the Rev. E. H. House, Jr., pastor of Crowville Methodist Church.

Miss Marileon Gravelle, cousin of the bride, will serve as maid of honor. Miss Camille Etier will be brdesmaid.

Howard Watson will be his son's best man. Ward Miller will be the groomsman. Serving as ushers will be Don Payne and Roger Miller, Jr.

Miss Payne is the granddaughter of Mrs. Mattie Morse and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Payne. She was graduated from Crowville High School and will graduate from Northeast Louisiana College in May.

Mr. Watson graduated from Crowville High School and attended Louisiana Tech and Sunflower Junior College in Mississippi.

SALES RISE

DEARBORN, Mich. (UPI) — U. S. sales of English Fords in February rose 79.3 per cent above the same month last year to 3,900 units, M-E-L Division of Ford Motor Co. announced Wednesday. The division added that German Taunus sales also increased in February to 536 units from 447 in January.

For a quick, easy pie filling, combine 2 cups canned apple sauce with 1 (1-pound) jar mincemeat and ½ cup light brown sugar. This makes enough filling for a 9-inch two-crust pie. Bake in 425-degree oven 30 to 40 minutes, and serve warm.

Showers Honors Recent Bride, Mrs. R. Stucky

The home of Mrs. Monroe Taylor on Paradise Hill in Farmerville was a scene of a miscellaneous shower on Monday afternoon, given by her daughter, Miss Cleo Taylor, Mrs. Layton Hester, Mrs. T. L. Gaddis and Mrs. Prentice Taylor, complimenting Mrs. Richard Stucky, who before her recent marriage was Miss Lyndia Stringfellow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Stringfellow of Farmerville.

Receiving with the hostesses and the honor guest were the two mothers, Mrs. Stringfellow and Mrs. T. W. Stucky of Haynesville, all becomingly gowned and wearing corsages of camellias. The honoree chose from her trousseau for this occasion an early spring model of pink linen lace, fashioned on princess lines, accented by a shoulder corsage of white camellias.

A profusion of King Alfred daffodils, camellias and other early spring flowers lent their beauty to the entertaining suite. The mantle in the living room was adorned with a pair of antique figurines, rosy red quince blossoms and ivy against a mirrored background. An artistic arrangement of Pink Perfection camellias and white lacy spirea graced the coffee table.

Miss Mildred Neal presided at the bride's book in which the guests registered. On the table was a dainty nosegay arrangement of violets. The guests were invited by Miss Ann Ballard to view the display of gifts in the bride's chosen pattern of china, crystal, and many other useful articles, which were attractively displayed on long tables draped in white. Noted in the room was a crescent arrangement of specimen King Alfred daffodils, complimenting a round mirror.

The service table in the dining room was laid with a white linen cut-work cloth. Tall white tapers burning in silver branched candelabra, while twin arrangements of pink perfection camellias and buds, white spirea and soft pink quince blossoms, graced the center. A similar arrangement in an antique silver and crystal bowl was placed on the buffet and reflected in a long wall mirror.

Pink and white pillow mints, individual embossed cakes, salted nuts and dainty chicken - salad sandwiches in silver and crystal compotes and trays were placed along the board.

Approximately 90 guests called between the receiving hours of 3 and 5:30 o'clock.

Margaret Moore Is Hostess To CAR Meeting

The home of Miss Margaret Moore on Lakeside Drive was the scene of the March meeting of the Lt. Joseph Bowmar Society, Children of the American Revolution. Co-hostesses were Misses Marilyn Gallman and Anna Williams.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Patty Prophit. Officers for the coming year were elected. Serving with our new president, Dottie Amman, will be Margaret Moore, vice - president, Bunny Buckner, secretary, Nancy Wilson, treasurer, Sage Redding, chaplain, Minta Goyne, historian, Cynthia Leigh, parliamentarian, Dale Guilkey, reporter and Noel Standley, registrar.

After the business meeting an informative program was presented. Allen Foster gave a talk on the history of parliamentary procedure and answered questions of the members on this subject. Minta Goyne spoke on "The History of C. A. R. — Its Ideals and Aspirations." "We Are Proud of Our Southern Mountain Friends" was the subject of Marilyn Gallman's talk. The Skating Stars Sew Their Own

Latest group to join the nation's growing army of home-sewing fans are the girls who dance on ice.

Among the cast of the 1959 Ice Follies are a number of skating stars who travel with their own portable sewing machines and make repairs on their costumes between the acts. Skating costumes, they explain, lead a dangerous life and are often torn in action.

These girls also make their own date dresses. Since they are seldom in one city long enough to go shopping, they find it easier to sew their own clothes. And they need plenty of party dresses, since they usually go out for dinner and dancing after the final performance of the show each evening.

Lingerie Model Is Busy Wife And Student

All day she poses for photographs in slips, bras and girdles, dashing from showroom to studio. In the evening she rushes home to cook a gourmet dinner for her husband in their New York apartment. And when the dishes are done she dashes off to night classes at Columbia University.

A bride of a year, Alicia has been the top model in her field for the last four years. Despite her fondness for Italian food, she never varies from her normal measurements-34-23-34, 5 feet 7½. Says she:

"I eat three full meals a day, but I guess I burn up the extra calories. Our favorite dinner menu is veal scallopini, glazed carrots, tossed salad with Roquefort dressing and pear compote with chocolate rum cake. We never drink coffee-prefer wine instead."

Most Of Us Are For Saving Grocery Money

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — If it'll save money in the grocery division, most of us are all for it.

That is why in recent months I find myself frantically saving coupons, adding this habit to older ones of pasting trading stamps in little books or finishing such lines as "I like Mrs. Gulek's bean soup because."

It turns out that I'm just one of the millions of women who today at a record rate are saving coupons like crazy from soap, cereal, coffee, frozen food and other grocery products. Those little slips of paper announcing "five cents off on next purchase" add up to a billion dollar business.

Coupon-ing has reached the stage that now we shoppers can buy and entire magazine of nothing but coupons to return to the manufacturer for cash.

COUPON USE INCREASES

"Some 10 billion coupons worth 1 billion dollars are offered annually as extra food and grocery money," said Paul S. Willis, president of the Grocery Manufacturers of America. "Their use is steadily increasing; they are very popular."

Add this cash-in value to the worth of merchandise given through trading stamps and other premium methods and we consumers are receiving 3.4 billion dollars a year in "extras" at our markets, retailers say.

The Premium Advertising Assn. of America estimated the total wholesale value of premiums other than coupon "cash" at 2.4 billion dollars a year. This latter figure includes trading stamps, box-top offers, the in-package products ranging from dishes to toys, and awards in contests to complete a limerick or finish a line such as "I like so-and-so detergent because."

STARTED IN 1853

Both trading stamps and coupons are old in the merchandising world. Most sources credit a soap manufacturer with starting coupons in 1853.

Schuster's department store in Milwaukee offered trading stamps in 1892, and stamps as we know them today at food markets, gasoline stations, drug and other stores, were introduced in 1896 by Sperry and Hutchinson.

A spokesman for S and H said the trading stamp "boom" began in the 1940's when food stores began offering them. The firm now estimates that 35 million families save theirs and-or their competitors' stamps.

The retail value of merchandise exchanged runs between 450 and 500 million dollars a year. And premiums range from blankets to barbecue equipment to baseball bats. Some stamp firms offer theater tickets and trips.

NOW SELL COUPON MAGAZINE

But trade sources report a "levelling off" in the stamp business—to the extent that the increase in 1958 over 1957 was less than in previous years.

To boost the coupon business, and also ease the book-keeping headaches of merchants, the Kable Printing Co., is out with "Coupon Magazine," which costs the shopper 20 cents but includes $5 in coupons redeemable in cash.

Its publishers say the circulation of the first edition was two million copies to stores along the Atlantic Coast. Its second edition, May 14, is expected to reach three million in the East and another two million on the Pacific Coast.

All the homemaker needs do is clip the coupons, save parts of packages or wrappers as prescribed on each, mail to a central point, and get a check back. And, buy the products of course.

SELLS ASSETS

NEW YORK (UPI) — Rheem Manufacturing Co. Wednesday announced sale of the assets of its subsidiary, Wedgewood - Holly Corp. of Culver City, Calif., to a group of companies organized by Henry Honor, former president of Wedgewood - Holly. Terms of sale were not disclosed.

Today's Home

By MARGUERITE DAVIS

A light in the window is warm and friendly — but please, not centered on a spindly legged table placed squarely in the middle of a picture window.

Interior decorators fear that the ruffled lamp shade, centered in a picture window, may become a national symbol. There are other and better ways to show off a picture window to its best advantage.

If you haven't window draperies, get them. Cafe curtains are attractive, and assure privacy without claustrophobia, and are comparatively inexpensive.

If the full - dress treatment is preferred, use sheer under-curtains which can be drawn to give the illusion of privacy, and heavier over - curtains.

Locate the lamp to one side, aimed at the plants, or on the cornice so that the light can shine on the curtains as well as the plants below. Or use two pole lamps, one on either side of the window.

A low bench, no higher than the window sill, is another effective treatment for a picture window. It provides extra seats for parties, or can be used as a table for knicknacks which can be enjoyed from the outside as well as inside.

Picture windows were designed to permit the enjoyment of a view, these decorators said, and if you're not lucky enough to have a pretty view outside you must provide it inside.

French fried potatoes will be crisper if allowed to stand in cold water about half an hour before frying.

To remove dents from furniture, put a moist blotter over the spot and apply heat from an iron. The heat and moisture will cause the wood to swell.

DAYLIGHT HOLDUP

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (UPI) — Police Friday sought three armed bandits who seized 3,600,000 pesos (about $51,000) and a "large" sum of U.S. dollars in a daring noontime raid on a down town money exchange office.

The haul was one of the largest in recent Argentine history. Police said the men walked into the office, bound five occupants and opened a safe with the key taken from the manager.

The Skating Stars Sew Their Own

Latest group to join the nation's growing army of home-sewing fans are the girls who dance on ice.

Among the cast of the 1959 Ice Follies are a number of skating stars who travel with their own portable sewing machines and make repairs on their costumes between the acts. Skating costumes they explain, lead a dangerous life and are often torn in action.

These girls also make their own date dresses. Since they are seldom in one city long enough to go shopping, they find it easier to sew their own clothes. And they need plenty of party dresses, since they usually go out for dinner and dancing after the final performance of the show each evening.

Most Of Us Are For Saving Grocery Money

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — If it'll save money in the grocery division, most of us are all for it.

That is why in recent months I find myself frantically saving coupons, adding this habit to older ones of pasting trading stamps in little books or finishing such lines as "I like Mrs. Gulek's bean soup because."

It turns out that I'm just one of the millions of women who today at a record rate are saving coupons like crazy from soap, cereal, coffee, frozen food and other grocery products. Those little slips of paper announcing "five cents off on next purchase" add up to a billion dollar business.

Coupon-ing has reached the stage that now we shoppers can buy and entire magazine of nothing but coupons to return to the manufacturer for cash.

COUPON USE INCREASES

"Some 10 billion coupons worth 1 billion dollars are offered annually as extra food and grocery money," said Paul S. Willis, president of the Grocery Manufacturers of America. "Their use is steadily increasing; they are very popular."

Add this cash-in value to the worth of merchandise given through trading stamps and other premium methods and we consumers are receiving 3.4 billion dollars a year in "extras" at our markets, retailers say.

The Premium Advertising Assn. of America estimated the total wholesale value of premiums other than coupon "cash" at 2.4 billion dollars a year. This latter figure includes trading stamps, box-top offers, the in-package products ranging from dishes to toys, and awards in contests to complete a limerick or finish a line such as "I like so-and-so detergent because."

STARTED IN 1853

Both trading stamps and coupons are old in the merchandising world. Most sources credit a soap manufacturer with starting coupons in 1853.

Schuster's department store in Milwaukee offered trading stamps in 1892, and stamps as we know them today at food markets, gasoline stations, drug and other stores, were introduced in 1896 by Sperry and Hutchinson.

A spokesman for S and H said the trading stamp "boom" began in the 1940's when food stores began offering them. The firm now estimates that 35 million families save theirs and-or their competitors' stamps.

The retail value of merchandise exchanged runs between 450 and 500 million dollars a year. And premiums range from blankets to barbecue equipment to baseball bats. Some stamp firms offer theater tickets and trips.

NOW SELL COUPON MAGAZINE

But trade sources report a "levelling off" in the stamp business —to the extent that the increase in 1958 over 1957 was less than in previous years.

To boost the coupon business, and also ease the book-keeping headaches of merchants, the Kable Printing Co., is out with "Coupon Magazine," which costs the shopper 20 cents but includes $5 in coupons redeemable in cash.

Its publishers say the circulation of the first edition was two million copies to stores along the Atlantic Coast. Its second edition, May 14, is expected to reach three million in the East and another two million on the Pacific Coast.

All the homemaker needs do is clip the coupons, save parts of packages or wrappers as prescribed on each, mail to a central point, and get a check back. And, buy the products of course.

SELLS ASSETS

NEW YORK (UPI) — Rheem Manufacturing Co. Wednesday announced sale of the assets of its subsidiary, Wedgewood - Holly Corp. of Culver City, Calif., to a group of companies organized by Henry Honor, former president of Wedgewood - Holly. Terms of sale were not disclosed.

MR. AND MRS. NORMAN HESTER, of Crossett, announce the enagagement of their daughter, Norma, to Reginald White, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. White, also of Crossett. The bride-elect is now attending Arkansas Baptist School of Nursing in Little Rock. Mr. White is a junior at Arkansas A. and M. College in Monticello. The wedding will be in early June.

Today's Home

By MARGUERITE DAVIS

A light in the window is warm and friendly — but please, not centered on a spindly legged table placed squarely in the middle of a picture window.

Interior decorators fear that the ruffled lamp shade, centered in a picture window, may become a national symbol. There are other and better ways to show off a picture window to its best advantage.

If you haven't window draperies, get them. Cafe curtains are attractive, and assure privacy without claustrophobia, and are comparatively inexpensive.

If the full - dress treatment is preferred, use sheer under-curtains which can be drawn to give the illusion of privacy, and heavier over - curtains.

Locate the lamp to one side, aimed at the plants, or on the cornice so that the light can shine on the curtains as well as the plants below. Or use two pole lamps, one on either side of the window.

A low bench, no higher than the window sill, is another effective treatment for a picture window. It provides extra seats for parties, or can be used as a table for knicknacks which can be enjoyed from the outside as well as inside.

Picture windows were designed to permit the enjoyment of a view, these decorators said, and if you're not lucky enough to have a pretty view outside you must provide it inside.

French fried potatoes will be crisper if allowed to stand in cold water about half an hour before frying.

To remove dents from furniture, put a moist blotter over the spot and apply heat from an iron. The heat and moisture will cause the wood to swell.

Lingerie Model Is Busy Wife And Student

All day she poses for photographs in slips, bras and girdles, dashing from showroom to studio. In the evening she rushes home to cook a gourmet dinner for her husband in their New York apartment. And when the dishes are done she dashes off to night classes at Columbia University.

A bride of a year, Alicia has been the top model in her field for the last four years. Despite her fondness for Italian food, she never varies from her normal measurements-34-23-34, 5 feet 7½. Says she:

"I eat three full meals a day, but I guess I burn up the extra calories. Our favorite dinner menu is veal scallopini, glazed carrots, tossed salad with Roquefort dressing and pear compote with chocolate rum cake. We never drink coffee-prefer wine instead."

Mrs. Brooks Speaks To West Oak Garden Club

The West Oak Garden Club held its regular meeting in the home of Mrs. Louis Evangelista in Oak Park. Beautifully arranged spring flowers brightened the attractive new home of the hostess, who welcomed the memebers and the guests, Mrs. Gloria Carr and Mrs. J. Y. Brooks, the speaker for the evening.

Mrs. Brooks spoke of the universal appreciation of flowers, in the yard, in the home, and in arrangements sent to friends on many occasions. She emphasized the need for using different types of containers for the various rooms in a home.

The speaker also talked of the possibilities of using many different shrubs as bacground material or as "green arrangements." Some of the plants she showed were Euonymus, variegated pittosporum, ligustrum, loquat, holly, sansevieria, nephritis, the new leather - leaf fern, and many others.

At the conclusion of the talk the president, Mrs. Hugo Angelini had charge of the business for the evening. Two new members were welcomed, Mrs. Evelyn Scarpulla and Mrs. Kern. Plans were made for the first flower show for the club. Each person was assigned a particular type of arrangement to make and bring to the next meeting for judging and constructive criticism.

Two Hostesses To Meeting Of Logtown HDC

The March meeting of Logtown Home Demonstration Club was held in the home of Mrs. Verne Hanson in Green Acres Subdivision recently. Mrs. J. G. Haynes, Sr. served as co - hostess.

An interesting and informative demonstration "Altering the Pattern to Fit Your Figure" was presented by Mrs. Audrey Dawson. The agent gave helpful suggestions on selecting a pattern, as well as the method to use in determining correct pattern size. She pointed out that some patterns allow as much as 4 inches for the bust; 1-2 inches for waist, and 1-2 inches for the hips, while others allow less. It is therefore important to consider those points when selecting a pattern. To have a quality garment, the grain must go straight, she declared, and showed how to accomplish this when lengthening or shortening the waist, or adding fullness through the shoulders of the garment. Mrs. Dawson urged club members to take advantage of instruction offered at the Simple Sewing Workshop conducted at the Agricultural Building in West Monroe.

Mrs. Thomas Stockwell gave a detailed account of plans made by the various clubs in observance of National Library Week April 12 through 18.

A recreation period followed under the direction of Mrs. George Tarleton, Sr. The hostesses served refreshments to Mrs. Audrey Dawson, Mrs. F. M. McHenry, Mrs. J. T. Bennett, Mrs. Peggy Joiner and Miss Betty Gail Lee, guests; and to the following members: Mesdames W. J. Lowe, J. B. Filhiol, Sr., Neil McHenry, George Tarleton, Sr., C. C. Scharf, E. M. Granberry, A. T. Stout, W. A. Calloway, Emmett Lee, J. T. Lee, Neil Long, Garland Shipp and Thomas Stockwell.

New President Elected At Annual Meeting

During the business session, Mrs. T. W. Meriwether, was elected the new president.

A social hour followed. Members of the association in this area are: Mrs. Henry Bernstein Jr., Mrs. G. E. Clay Jr., Mrs. J. S. Drew, Mrs. Thomas C. Holmes Jr., Mrs. Anthony F. Fischer, Mrs. Lealis Law Hale, Mrs. William R. Hammond, Mrs. Stanton, E. Huey, Mrs. Cary H. McHenry, Mrs. Jim Fortner, Mrs. Louis P. Milner Jr., Mrs. John Salisbury, Mrs. Wesley Shafto, Mrs. Edwin Gordon Wright.

Mrs. Joseph Andrews Davenport, Mrs. Lettie Morgan, Mrs. Langston Yancey, Mrs. John C. Ritchie, Mrs. T. W. Meriwether, Mrs. Robert Dougherty, Mrs. Francis S. Barringer, Mrs. A. L. Clary, Mrs. Gordon C. Cummings, Mrs. Scott Hamilton, Mrs. Claude Harrison, Mrs. E. T. Lamkin, Mrs. Floyd Martin, Mrs. H. W. McSherry, Mrs. Stanley Wyatt, Mrs. Robert B. Oliver, Miss Mary Olive Davis, Mrs. George E. Panky and Mrs. Hyman Sachs.

Garden Club Installs New '59 Officers

Officers installed at a meeting of the Good Earth Garden Club held at the home of Mrs. Horace Lee were Mrs. George Yerger Jr., president; Mrs. Horace Lee, vice president; Mrs. R. N. Ware, secretary; Mrs. George Kimbrough, treasurer; Mrs. Zack Chambless, historian. As installing officer Mrs. Albert Sevier conducted an impressive ceremony and presented each new officer with a nosegay of violets.

Mrs. J. E. Neill, program leader presented Mrs. Glenn R. Whetstone who spoke on "Table Settings for Everyone" basing her remarks from the book by Dorothy Biddle and Dorothea Blom.

Interesting features of the meeting were demonstrations of different table settings with appropriate appointments as follows: formal dinner table by Mrs. R. L. Bailey and Mrs. Hugh Montgomery; Christmas table by Mrs. Jim Griswold and Mrs. John Currey; patio table by Mrs. Edward Yerger and Mrs. Henry C. Sevier; Thanksgiving table by Mrs. George Yerger and Mrs. M. A. Phillips and mantel decorations by Mrs. A. T. Palmer and Mrs. Andrew Yerger.

Others in attendance were Mrs. William Yerger, Mrs. Lamar T. Loe, Mrs. Maxwell Yerger, Mrs. C. B. DeMoss, Mrs. W. L. Rountree and Mrs. Grace Mary Grace of London, England.

Baxter HD Club Meets In Home Of Mrs. Bonner

Presiding was Mrs. W. P. Rushing who opened the meeting in the usual order which was followed by the reading of the minutes and the treasurer's report. Mrs. Rushing read a letter to the members from Miss Euynce Howard, HD agent who expressed her appreciation for the cooperation of the club in the preparation and serving of the dinner at the NE Home Demonstration Council meeting.

Mrs. R. C. Johnson gave instructions and demonstrations on sewing a zipper into a garment; how to put a hem in a dress and other phases of sewing. Mrs. Bonner displayed a rag rug she had made of woolen scraps. Mrs. H. T. Van Fossen, International Relations Chairman informed on the value of the Fellowship Program Fund.

Mrs. W. P. DuBois talked on Consumer Education in which she discussed the selection of foods to be used in Easter menus, that would fit the pocket book and family needs.

Mrs. F. A. Babb, Health Chairman, gave objectives of the year which emphasizes that each member have a physical check-up once a year; also that they give assistance to 4-H Club members enrolled in health projects.

It was announced that March 26th is date set for the Home Demonstration Council meeting to be held at the Fellowship Hall of the Methodist Church.

March Meeting Of Tallulah Book Club Held

Mrs. Roy Davis of Shreveport was the guest speaker at the March meeting of the Tallulah Book Club held at the book club building. Mrs. Davis, who is a district director of the Louisiana Federation of Garden Clubs and chairman of the Holiday in Dixie Garden Tour, showed a number of color slides of Hodges Gardens, and slides she had taken of the Kupenhof Gardens in Holland.

Mrs. Webb Williams, program leader, introduced Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Marion Hortman of Minden, director of Public Relations of State Parks who accompanied Mrs. Davis to Tallulah.

Mrs. A. L. Sevier presided and announced the Book Club's assignment in the Clean-up campaign.

During the social period which followed the program, refreshments of assorted sandwiches, salted nuts and confections were served with punch from a beautifully appointed table centered with an arrangement of yellow blossoms.

Hostesses were Mrs. Jim Parker, Mrs. Frances A. Robinson, Mrs. Myles Hopkins and Mrs. J. G. Wyly.

Mrs. Gimler Is Hostess To Legion Aux'l

Mrs. Louis Gimler was hostess to the regular monthly meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary, Unit No. 13. Mrs. Gimler, president, called the meeting to order. After a regular opening, minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

Reports were given by different committee chairmen. Donations have been given to the Heart Fund in memory of Mr. Ed Rowland and Mr. H. G. Cooper, husbands of Auxillary members.

Poppies have been ordered for Poppy Sale on Memorial Day, May 30, 1959. Proceeds from the Poppy Sale are used in the Rehabilitation work of the Auxiliary and for Child Welfare.

An invitation was read from Lake Providence Unit to attend the testimonial banquet for Mrs. Bessie Walsworth, our state president, on March 21st. Mrs. Gimler urged all who could to attend. It was also voted to participate in the opening of the new Ouachita Parish Library in April. Mrs. Gimler was to meet with the committee March 6th.

A social hour was enjoyed after the meeting adjourned.

MISS MARGARET BOYD

Miss Boyd To Speak To The DKG Society

Miss Margaret Boyd, past president of the Delta Kappa Gamma International Society for Women will be the guest speaker for the Presidents' and Founders, Banquet, the main social event of the State Convention of Epsilon State Organization Convention to be held at the Virginia Hotel on Saturday Marsh 21 with Eta and Alpha Nu chapters serving as hostesses. Miss Boyd is assistant superintendent of the Steubenville Ohio School System and is nationally known in the field of education. Her record for community service is impressive and she served as the Ohio representative at the mid-century White House Conference.

Miss Mabel Lann, president of Eta Chapter and Miss Eleona Brinsmade, president of Alpha Nu Chapter are busy with plans for the conference. Miss Carrie Dee Drew and Miss Harriett Boyle are co-chairman for the convention and all members of the local chapter are serving on the committees.

Although the convention is a one day affair, it will be a busy day for the women educators of the state, who belong to this society. Registration will begin at 8:00 in the Virginia Hotel lobby, with Miss Anne Smith serving as chairman of registration. The executive board will meet at 8:15 and the Alpha Nu chairman, with Mrs. Ida Lee King Wilbert as chairman will serve coffee from 8:30 to 10:30. A general session, with Miss Lessie Moore, state president, presiding will be the next event, followed by the birthday luncheon at which Miss Mabel Lann will preside. A short memorial service will be held at 2:30 followed by another business meeting, at which time the nominating committee will make its report of officers for the coming year.

The outstanding event of the day will be the President's and Founder's banquet held at 7:30 on Saturday night. At this time Miss Boyd will talk on the subject of "Women on the international scene: Perspectives and prophecies. Since this is the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Epsilon State Organization, the State Founders and Past Presidents will be specially honored at this banquet. The founders of the state society are Dr. Grace Agate, Dr. May Allen, Dr. Sara Clapp, Mrs. Conway, Miss Ellen Lenoir and Miss Catherine Winters. Of these Dr. Agate and Dr. Allen served as the first state presidents. Other past presidents are Miss Dorothy Vickers, Mrs. McCook, Miss Mary Thornton, Mrs. Florence Amy, Miss Alma Levins and Miss Beatrice Moore.

At 8:00 on Sunday morning a breakfast and post session meeting of the executive board will close the convention. An attendance of around 200 members is expected at the convention.

Sprig And Twig Garden Club Holds Meeting

The Sprig and Twig Garden Club of Monroe held a meeting in the home of Mrs. J. W. Bailey with Mrs. J. A. Coleman serving as co-hostess.

Mrs. R. F. Wilson, president, presided during the business session. The horticulture report was given by Mrs. J. W. Bailey. A guest, Mrs. V. L. Whitlock, was introduced.

A lecture on design and depth in flower arrangement was given by Mrs. M. H. Kulcke. Each member brought an arrangement illustrating these principles.

Mrs. J. W. Keller used forsythia and daffodils, of several varieties, in a triangular design. At the base of the arrangement she used daffadils with orange centers. Golden Harvest daffodils graduated in size and color up the vertical line of forsythia. White daffodils were placed at the top - most section. The container was a footed amber crystal compote.

A green leaf - shaped pottery container was used for Mrs. J. W. Bailey's triangular arrangement of pear blossoms, red bud and purple magnolias. Gracefully curved branches from the pear tree created the vertical line which was emphasized by the placement of red bud branches. Purple magnolia blossoms were clustered at the base of the design and graduated in size as they followed the line of the pear and red bud branches.

Mrs. B. L. Talton used branches of flowering pink almond to create a crescent design. Wide open camellias were the center in size to the bud stage, following the curved line. Foliage of camellias was used in the back-arrangement was placed in a soft green boat - shaped container.

Mrs. Haddox Creates Arrangements At Monroe Garden Club Meeting

"Period arrangements reflect the march of Humanity", stated Mrs. Irene Haddox of Dallas, Texas, in her lecture and demonstration of arrangements varying from the Dutch cottage to an English castle, given before the Monroe Garden Club, "The Artist is the Mouthpiece of History."

Egypt, with examples of art in terrific size, such as the Pyramids, naturally used large containers for flower arrangements even though their flowers were the same as we grow now. In Greece the urn came into use with symetrical arrangements. During the Dark Ages there was no art of any form but the Italian Renaissance, after so long a denial of culture, was rich in color and flowers and fruits were abundantly used, those of velvety texture being especially favored.

Mrs. Haddox made a lovely Dutch and Flemish arrangement using predominantly yellow flowers in a very old Flemish urn. She explained that the rulers of the countries set the pattern of living and style in art whether bold or delicate. The peasants, following these styles made the provincial arrangements, copying as nearly as possible in simpler style. The Hogarth curve, thought to be modern, was very popular during these early times and accessories and fruit were commonly used.

The French periods of Louis XIV, XV and XVI depicted rather accurately their monarchs taste and personality. Louis XIV arrangements were very large, windswept with dark masculine colors. Louis XV, thought to be much of a ladies man, brought forth arrangements more feminine, delicate and with curved lines. Louis XVI arrangements were typical of petite Marie Antionette, everything was dainty and on a smaller scale.

The English arrangements were beautiful and impressive. A late Georgian arrangement, using strong color contrast was in an exquisite Georgian silver compote. Typifying an early Victorian arrangement Mrs. Haddox assembled this completely in her hand, as was done in that time and tied the stems together before placing in the gold and white vase without use of mechanics. A mid-Victorian arrangement in a lovely silver and crystal epergne was beautifully done in mauve tones depicting the sadness in the Victorian reign due to the death of the prince consort.

Mrs. Haddox was most charming and interesting. She has traveled widely throughout Europe, Asia and South America searching for new ideas on arrangement, and has been accorded many national honors.

Mrs. Jamar Adcock, president of the Monroe Garden Club, announced that the state flower show would be held March 14 and 15 in the coliseum of Southeastern Louisiana College in Hammond. Mrs. C. E. McKenzie and Mrs. Norman Jardine will attend as representatives of the garden club.

Mrs. Kennedy Abington and Mrs. J. L. Adams were chairmen of the meeting.

London Guest Complimented At Parties

Mrs. Grace Mary Grace of London, England, who is the guest of Miss Cornelia Kell has been the honoree at a number of delightful affairs in Tallulah and Vicksburg.

On Saturday evening Miss Kell was hostess at a party at her home. A centerpiece of yellow spring flowers was used for the table covered with a pretty drawn work linen cloth where Mrs. Hugh Montgomery presided at the silver tea and coffee service. Delectable sandiwches, nuts, cakes and mints were served and at an adjoining table glasses of sherry.

Mrs. Brooks Speaks To West Oak Garden Club

The West Oak Garden Club held its regular meeting in the home of Mrs. Louis Evangelista in Oak Park. Beautifully arranged spring flowers brightened the attractive new home of the hostess, who welcomed the memebers and the guests, Mrs. Gloria Carr and Mrs. J. Y. Brooks, the speaker for the evening.

Mrs. Brooks spoke of the universal appreciation of flowers, in the yard, in the home, and in arrangements sent to friends on many occasions. She emphasized the need for using different types of containers for the various rooms in a home.

The speaker also talked of the possibilities of using many different shrubs as bacground material or as "green arrangements." Some of the plants she showed were Euonymus, variegated pittosporum, ligustrum, loquat, holly, sansevieria, nephritis, the new leather - leaf fern, and many others.

At the conclusion of the talk the president, Mrs. Hugo Angelini had charge of the business for the evening. Two new members were welcomed, Mrs. Evelyn Scarpulla and Mrs. Kern. Plans were made for the first flower show for the club. Each person was assigned a particular type of arrangement to make and bring to the next meeting for judging and constructive criticism.

Two Hostesses To Meeting Of Logtown HDC

The March meeting of Logtown Home Demonstration Club was held in the home of Mrs. Verne Hanson in Green Acres Subdivision recently. Mrs. J. G. Haynes, Sr. served as co - hostess.

An interesting and informative demonstration "Altering the Pattern to Fit Your Figure" was presented by Mrs. Audrey Dawson. The agent gave helpful suggestions on selecting a pattern, as well as the method to use in determining correct pattern size. She pointed out that some patterns allow as much as 4 inches for the bust; 1-2 inches for waist, and 1-2 inches for the hips, while others allow less. It is therefore important to consider those points when selecting a pattern. To have a quality garment, the grain must go straight, she declared, and showed how to accomplish this when lengthening or shortening the waist, or adding fullness through the shoulders of the garment. Mrs. Dawson urged club members to take advantage of instruction offered at the Simple Sewing Workshop conducted at the Agricultural Building in West Monroe.

Mrs. Thomas Stockwell gave a detailed account of plans made by the various clubs in observance of National Library Week April 12 through 18.

A recreation period followed under the direction of Mrs. George Tarleton, Sr. The hostesses served refreshments to Mrs. Audrey Dawson, Mrs. F. M. McHenry, Mrs. J. T. Bennett, Mrs. Peggy Joiner and Miss Betty Gail Lee, guests; and to the following members: Mesdames W. J. Lowe, J. B. Filhiol, Sr., Neil McHenry, George Tarleton, Sr., C. C. Scharf, E. M. Granberry, A. T. Stout, W. A. Calloway, Emmett Lee, J. T. Lee, Neil Long, Garland Shipp and Thomas Stockwell.

MISS MARGARET BOYD

Miss Boyd To Speak To The DKG Society

Miss Margaret Boyd, past president of the Delta Kappa Gamma International Society for Women will be the guest speaker for the Presidents' and Founders, Banquet, the main social event of the State Convention of Epsilon State Organization Convention to be held at the Virginia Hotel on Saturday Marsh 21 with Eta and Alpha Nu chapters serving as hostesses. Miss Boyd is assistant superintendent of the Steubenville Ohio School System and is nationally known in the field of education. Her record for community service is impressive and she served as the Ohio representative at the mid-century White House Conference.

Miss Mabel Lann, president of Eta Chapter and Miss Eleona Brinsmade, president of Alpha Nu Chapter are busy with plans for the conference. Miss Carrie Dee Drew and Miss Harriett Boyle are co-chairman for the convention and all members of the local chapter are serving on the committees.

Although the convention is a one day affair, it will be a busy day for the women educators of the state, who belong to this society. Registration will begin at 8:00 in the Virginia Hotel lobby, with Miss Anne Smith serving as chairman of registration. The executive board will meet at 8:15 and the Alpha Nu chairman, with Mrs. Ida Lee King Wilbert as chairman will serve coffee from 8:30 to 10:30. A general session, with Miss Lessie Moore, state president, presiding will be the next event, followed by the birthday luncheon at which Miss Mabel Lann will preside. A short memorial service will be held at 2:30 followed by another business meeting, at which time the nominating committee will make its report of officers for the coming year.

The outstanding event of the day will be the President's and Founder's banquet held at 7:30 on Saturday night. At this time Miss Boyd will talk on the subject of "Women on the international scene: Perspectives and prophecies. Since this is the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Epsilon State Organization, the State Founders and Past Presidents will be specially honored at this banquet. The founders of the state society are Dr. Grace Agate, Dr. May Allen, Dr. Sara Clapp, Mrs. Conway, Miss Ellen Lenoir and Miss Catherine Winters. Of these Dr. Agate and Dr. Allen served as the first state presidents. Other past presidents are Miss Dorothy Vickers, Mrs. McCook, Miss Mary Thornton, Mrs. Florence Amy, Miss Alma Levins and Miss Beatrice Moore.

At 8:00 on Sunday morning a breakfast and post session meeting of the executive board will close the convention. An attendance of around 200 members is expected at the convention.

Sprig And Twig Garden Club Holds Meeting

The Sprig and Twig Garden Club of Monroe held a meeting in the home of Mrs. J. W. Bailey with Mrs. J. A. Coleman serving as co-hostess.

Mrs. R. F. Wilson, president, presided during the business session. The horticulture report was given by Mrs. J. W. Bailey. A guest, Mrs. V. L. Whitlock, was introduced.

A lecture on design and depth in flower arrangement was given by Mrs. M. H. Kulcke. Each member brought an arrangement illustrating these principles.

Mrs. J. W. Keller used forsythia and daffodils, of several varieties, in a triangular design. At the base of the arrangement she used daffadils with orange centers. Golden Harvest daffodils graduated in size and color up the vertical line of forsythia. White daffodils were placed at the top - most section. The container was a footed amber crystal compote.

A green leaf - shaped pottery container was used for Mrs. J. W. Bailey's triangular arrangement of pear blossoms, red bud and purple magnolias. Gracefully curved branches from the pear tree created the vertical line which was emphasized by the placement of red bud branches. Purple magnolia blossoms were clustered at the base of the design and graduated in size as they followed the line of the pear and red bud branches.

Mrs. B. L. Talton used branches of flowering pink almond to create a crescent design. Wide open camellias were the center in size to the bud stage, following the curved line. Foliage of camellias was used in the backarrangement was placed in a soft green boat - shaped container.

Mrs. Haddox Creates Arrangements At Monroe Garden Club Meeting

"Period arrangements reflect the march of Humanity", stated Mrs. Irene Haddox of Dallas, Texas, in her lecture and demonstration of arrangements varying from the Dutch cottage to an English castle, given before the Monroe Garden Club, "The Artist is the Mouthpiece of History."

Egypt, with examples of art in terrific size, such as the Pyramids, naturally used large containers for flower arrangements even though their flowers were the same as we grow now. In Greece the urn came into use with symetrical arrangements. During the Dark Ages there was no art of any form but the Italian Renaissance, after so long a denial of culture, was rich in color and flowers and fruits were abundantly used, those of velvety texture being especially favored.

Mrs. Haddox made a lovely Dutch and Flemish arrangement using predominantly yellow flowers in a very old Flemish urn. She explained that the rulers of the countries set the pattern of living and style in art whether bold or delicate. The peasants, following these styles made the provincial arrangements, copying as nearly as possible in simpler style. The Hogarth curve, thought to be modern, was very popular during these early times and accessories and fruit were commonly used.

The French periods of Louis XIV, XV and XVI depicted rather accurately their monarchs taste and personality. Louis XIV arrangements were very large, windswept with dark masculine colors. Louis XV, thought to be much of a ladies man, brought forth arrangements more feminine, delicate and with curved lines. Louis XVI arrangements were typical of petite Marie Antionette, everything was dainty and on a smaller scale.

The English arrangements were beautiful and impressive. A late Georgian arrangement, using strong color contrast was in an exquisite Georgian silver compote. Typifying an early Victorian arrangement Mrs. Haddox assembled this completely in her hand, as was done in that time and tied the stems together before placing in the gold and white vase without use of mechanics. A mid-Victorian arrangement in a lovely silver and crystal epergne was beautifully done in mauve tones depicting the sadness in the Victorian reign due to the death of the prince consort.

Mrs. Haddox was most charming and interesting. She has traveled widely throughout Europe, Asia and South America searching for new ideas on arrangement, and has been accorded many national honors.

Mrs. Jamar Adcock, president of the Monroe Garden Club, announced that the state flower show would be held March 14 and 15 in the coliseum of Southeastern Louisiana College in Hammond. Mrs. C. E. McKenzie and Mrs. Norman Jardine will attend as representatives of the garden club.

Mrs. Kennedy Abington and Mrs. J. L. Adams were chairmen of the meeting.

London Guest Complimented At Parties

Mrs. Grace Mary Grace of London, England, who is the guest of Miss Cornelia Kell has been the honoree at a number of delightful affairs in Tallulah and Vicksburg.

On Saturday evening Miss Kell was hostess at a party at her home. A centerpiece of yellow spring flowers was used for the table covered with a pretty drawn work linen cloth where Mrs. Hugh Montgomery presided at the silver tea and coffee service. Delectable sandiwches, nuts, cakes and mints were served and at an adjoining table glasses of sherry.

The following evening Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Montgomery entertained for Mrs. Grace at a supper party and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Griswold were hosts at a dinner at the Tallulah Country Club honoring Mrs. Grace and Miss Kell.

At the attractive Hecla plantation home at Mound Mrs. Edward Yerger entertained with a luncheon as did Mrs. George W. Webb at her home at Dalkieth plantation.

Fisherman's Wharf Offers Adventures In Dining

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Lenten dining is an adventure in the salty atmosphere of San Francisco's Fisherman's Wharf.

Here, among open air fish stalls, boiling crab pots and anchored fishing boats, dozens of restaurants serve an infinite variety of seafood fresh from the Pacific.

Located in a four-block area at the city's Embarcadero, the Wharf is just a fish net's throw from the last stop on the famous Powell St. cable car. Here is a cook's tour of some restaurants which make this spot a mecca for diners.

Typical of the colorful eating places is A. Sabella's. Like most wharf restaurants, it has been in the same Sicilian family since it opened 38 years ago. Owner Lucien Sabella, 28, inherited it from his father, Antone, who came here from Sicily as a fisherman.

One of Sabella's most popular items is a fisherman's favorite, Crab Cioppino. The crab is boiled, then cracked into several pieces which are simmered, shell and all, about 15 minutes in a rich sauce containing olive oil, tomato paste, peeled canned tomatoes, bay leaves, oregano, salt, pepper and a dash of sauterne. It is served bubbling hot in individual casseroles.

Across the street from Sabella's, Exposition Fish Grotto has been in business since 1937. Chef Gus Piscia, a native of northern Italy, is especially proud of his deviled crab. He mixes shredded boiled crab meat with a touch of chopped garlic, minced onion, powdered mustard, salt and pepper. The dry ingredients are bound with a thick white sauce containing sherry and sauterne, stuffed in cleaned crab shells, and baked in about 15 minutes at 350 degrees.

Perched on redwood stilts, overlooking San Francisco Bay and Alcatraz, is the Franciscan Restaurant, a newcomer opened in 1956. Its modern three-tiered dining room and gleaming kitchen are the domain of part-owner and chef William Harper.

A native of Memphis, Tenn., Harper features stuffed turbot. He heaps the crab in the center of one turbot filet, then covers it with two other filets overlapping the top. The fish is then smothered in sauce poulette, a white sauce with minced shallots, a touch of garlic, sliced fresh mushrooms and sauterne, and baked in a moderate oven.

Fisherman's Grotto has one of the most colorful locations on the Wharf. At the entrance, fish vendors display their iced mounds of crab, prawns, and lobster. The dining rooms overlook the lagoon where the fishing fleet is moored.

The restaurant is run by Nino Geraldi and his three brothers, whose Sicilian father first operated a fish market on the location. Chef Frank Pipia, also of Sicily, recommends his "crab legs a la Tofanelli," named for a San Francisco businessman who patronized the restaurant.

Pipia first breads boiled crab leg meats in egg and cracker meal and sautes them in butter with a touch of olive oil. Then they are simmered about 10 minutes in white wine with chopped parsley, chopped basilico (Italian parsley), sliced mushrooms and garlic.

DiMaggio's Restaurant, opened in 1937 when Joe, Dom and Vince played baseball, has a modern dining room overlooking the Wharf and lagoon. Among its seafood dishes is grilled sea bass a dore.

The bass is sliced into filets about ½ inch thick, dipped in egg and cracker meal, and grilled in butter. Sauterne is dashed over the fish at the last minute of cooking. DiMaggio's chef, George Hollinger, also recommends this method for other fish filets.

Like the other establishments, Tarantion's attracts many celebrities, including Bing Crosby, Gregory Peck and California's new governor, Edmund G. Brown.

Gene McAteer, recently elected state senator, bought the restaurant from the Tarantino family and retained the name because his own Irish name would have been "out of keeping" with Wharf tradition.

Tarantino's chef, Don Lynam, specializes in baked oysters on the half shell. His recipe is a variation of "oysters Rockefeller," a famous New Orleans dish.

It calls for six oysters per person and the following sauce ingredients per order — 2 tablespoons spinach, finely chopped, 1 fine chopped green onion, 1 teaspoon grated cheese, ½ cup white sauce, 2 tablespoons sauterne, and 1 egg yolk.

Lynam stirs all ingredients but the egg yolk in a sauce pan until the mixture comes to a rolling boil. The yolk is added while the sauce is boiling and must be stirred constantly.

The sauce is done when it is stiff enough to stand heaped on a spoon. Another egg yolk may be added if necessary.

Lynam then embeds six oyster shells in mounds of rock salt piled in a pie tin. The oysters are placed in the shells, heaped with the sauce, sprinkled with grated cheese and brushed with butter. They should be baked in a 450-degree oven until golden brown.

Kitchen safety note: Keep a fire extinguisher handy. A dry-chemical type gives protection against any type of kitchen fire.

'DEAR ABBY'

Change Your "Slant" On Her And Give Her Help

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Every time my mother-in-law comes over to see me she falls down. I can smell the liquor on her breath three feet away, but she says she hasn't had a drop. She tries to tell me my floor slants. Nobody else falls here. I would like to let her know once and for all that I am wise to her condition and she is not getting away with the excuse that my floor slants. Another thing, if she falls here again and breaks her leg or something, I understand that we are hooked for the doctor bills. I wish you'd help me figure this out without causing a family fight.

QUIET AND PEACEFUL

DEAR QUIET: It's useless trying to level with someone whose perspective is "a-rye!" When you see her coming, lead her to a chair lest she get fractured literally as well as figuratively. Someone in the family should get to the bottom of her trouble before she gets to the bottom of the bottle. The poor soul needs help.

DEAR ABBY: May I tell PHILOSOPHER that one of the reasons our government is spending millions of dollars to explore outer space is because if we didn't the Russians would wipe us off the face of the earth. PHILOSOPHER said, "If the good Lord wanted us to get to the moon he would have built a bridge." I wonder how many of your readers remember when the Wright brothers declared that man could fly and all the old fuddy duds said, "If the good Lord intended for us to fly he would have given us wings!" God does'nt give us wings or build bridges. He just gives us intelligence and lets us figure it out for ourselves.

PHYSICS STUDENT

DEAR ABBY: My wife has started to call me "Lardy." I admit I'm getting a little chubby around the middle. I am 47 years old and it's not as easy to take off weight as it used to be. Do you know of any exercise that will slim me down?

BOB

DEAR BOB: Exercise a little will power.

DEAR ABBY: Instead of being a "problem child" — I have a "problem" mother. I am 16 and she treats me like I was 4 or 5. I know she means well, but I wish she would let me run my own affairs. When I have a disagreement with my boy friend (or one of my girlfriends; she gets on the telephone and calls them (and sometimes their mothers) and tries to straighten everything out. She only messes things up worse. Could you tell me what to do before I end up alone and friendless?

"PROBLEM MOTHER'S CHILD

DEAR CHILD: Tell your mother you know she means well, but as a favor to you she must refrain from "straightening out" our affairs. If this doesn't work —tell her less.

CONFIDENTIAL TO THE BAKER: You've got strudel in your noodle. No fishing off the company dock!

OLD PAPER REPORTS CUSTER'S 'Last Stand'

By MRS. ORA BENNETT
(Staff Correspondent)

START — The tattered, moldy remanants of a Tribune Extra, giving a detailed account of "Custer's Last Stand" was found recently by Larry Lofton, a Rayville High School student from near Girard.

Exploring an out building at an old homestead on which his family had just taken residence, Larry came across the partial front page which was printed in Bismark, D. T. (Dakota Territory) on July 6, 1876.

"First account of the Custer — (probably massacree)" a full page headline catches the eye while "Massacred!" stabs out as a column headline. Piecing together the fragments, one comes out with "Massacred! Custer and 261 men victims —" in smaller type.

Pictorial descripitons of the encounter were no doubt given in the entirety, for the preserve portion of the second, third and fourth columns of the half page report such lines as:

"had to recross the Little Horn, and at the ford, the hottest fight occurred. It was here where Lieutenants McIntosh, Hogdson, and Dr. DeWolf fell; where Charley Reynolds fell in a hand to hand conflict with a dozen or more Siouxs, emptying several chambers of his revolver, each time bringing down a redskin before he was brought down — shot through the heart.

"It was here Bloody Knife surrendered his spirit to the one who gave it fighting the natural and hereditary foes — A panic all at once was created among the Indians, and they stampeded from the hills and from the valleys and the village was soon deserted except for the dead.

'STRONG MEN WEPT'

"Ren, and his brave band felt that ——ccar was nigh. Gen. Terry came in sight and strong men wept upon each others necks, but no word from Custer. Hand shaking and congratulations were scarcely over when Lt. Bradley reported that he had found Custer dead with one hundred — and ninety — men.

"We said of those who went into battle with Custer none are living — one Crow scout hid himself in the field and witnessed and survived the battle. His story is plausible and is accepted, but we have not room for it now. The names of the wounded are as follows: Private Davis Corey, Co. 1, 7th Cav. right hip; Patrick McDonald, D. left leg; Sergt. John Paul; Private Michael C. MaK, right leg; Wm. George, H, left side, died July 3d, at 4 a.m."

A list of surnames follows in two other columns and probably is a list of the dead. The yellowed account was printed several days after Custer and his men fought the Battle of Little Big Horn in Montana on June 25, 1876. Fighting to end attacks on white settlers by Indian leaders, Sitting Bull, Rain-in-the-Face, and Crazy Horse, he and the men engaged in the fatal 20-minute battle with the Sioux Indians led by Crazy Horse, with Sitting Bull directing total Indian movements.

DISCOVERS GOLD

According to history, George Armstrong (Autie) Custer was in the party which discovered gold in the Black Hills. The ensuing rush of miners to the area aroused the Sioux and Cheyennes in 1876, and Custer led a regiment in the campaign which was undertaken to subdue them.

Three columns were sent out with Custer's regiment being assigned to Alfred H. Terry's command. Meanwhile the Siouxs leader, Sitting Bull, had mustered a force of about 4,000 Indians on the Little Bighorn River in southern Montana.

On June 22, Terry dispatched Custer's forces, with Bloody Knife, Custer's faithful Indian scout, directly to Little Bighorn while the remainder of his force went up the Yellowstone River. Orders were for Custer with his 12 companies to wait until Terry's and Col. Gibbon's troops joined him before attacking.

IGNORES ORDERS

Unaware of the vast number of Sitting Bull's detachment, he reached the Indian camp on the morning of June 25. Realizing that the presence of his troops had been discovered, he decided to attack, ignoring Terry's orders.

He sent three companies under Major Marcus Reno across the river to attack the southern end of the enemy's camp. Captain F. W. Benteen, also with three companies, he sent to Reno's left. One company was assigned to bring up supplies while Custer with the remaining five companies attacked the upper portion of the encampment.

His strategy has been called excellent and probably could have been successful had the Indians not been so numerous and had they not discovered the weakness of Custer's forces.

The three companies forded the river, no doubt under surveillance of the Redskins who were hidden by a rise of land. Some believe that Bloody Knife probably warned Custer of the hidden forces, but he didn't realize they were so vastly outnumbered.

SURROUNDED

As Custer and his immediate command of 264 swept down the hill for the center of the foe's lines, they were completely surrounded.

Reno ordered a retreat and Benteen had not reached the scene of battle. The failure of their part of his plan has been blamed for the disaster. While some military critics have blamed Custer for being so foolish for attempting such a plot and launching an attack before the agreed time.

The once bloody terrain where the fatal encounter occurred was made a national cemetery in 1886 and designated a national monument in 1946. The area, covering approximately 765 acres, lies about 65 miles east of Billings and is called Custer Battlefield National Monument.

The only clue to the identity of the person who placed the treasured newspaper where it has lain unmolested through the years came from Mrs. Mary Lou Jowers Bairnsfather of Girard. She recalls, "The house was built by my parents, Leon and Sevilla Etier Jowers about 1910. Later when Daddy became a salesman they moved and his mother and brother took residence to manage the farm.

RELATIVE OF CLEVELAND

"Grandmother was said to have collected all sorts of things. The only possibility that I can think of is that Grover Cleveland, a near relative of mine, sent it to grandmother, who was Lola Williams Cleveland Jowers. She died in 1943."

A thorough search of the buildings on the premises of the old site has been continued by the Loftin children with Mrs. Bairnsfather and others hoping that additional portions of the treasured publication might be located. Only some musty, illegible papers were found among the odd bottles, old trunks and cartons and the other silent companions of the storage rooms. The decaying walls and sagging room can reveal no secrets about the small part which miraculously escaped obliteration and somehow remained strong enough to handle with ease.

Regardless of its former owner, it has served a purpose a second time. It is a tangible link to the past and has led several adults as well as youngsters to pore over biographical sketches and history books for correlations to the "First Account of Custer."

Speculators In Canadian Gold Hoping For Easy Riches

FEATURES

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP) — How would you like to make a million-dollar profit on a cash investment of $28,600?

Involved is the state of Uncle Sam's buried treasure, which has suffered an unprecedented outflow in the past year, and the broader questions of currency and the U.S. economy.

The speculators are buying Canadian gold bars at $35 an ounce, hoping to sell out later at a much higher price. The figure most often mentioned as a possibility is $70 an ounce.

For the scheme to succeed, Uncle Sam would have to devalue the dollar by agreeing to give more dollars for an ounce of gold. If he did this, the speculators in Canadian gold—they can't buy the stuff in this country—would reap enormous profits. Their gains would be sky high because they're buying largely on credit.

For each ounce of gold bought on the Toronto Stock Exchange at $35, the speculator has to put up only $1 in cash. He borrows the rest from brokers. If he can sell later at $70 an ounce, he'll show a gross profit of $35 for each $1 of cash invested.

At that rate, $28,600 would get you a cool million.

Why, then isn't everyone buying Canadian gold bricks on credit?

The biggest reason is that a lot of people doubt that Uncle Sam will devalue the dollar in the foreseeable future.

If he doesn't, the speculators are sunk. They must pay interest on the money they borrow plus storage charges on their gold. The gold itself pays them no dividends or interest.

The gambler, to back up his hopes for a price boost, points out that 2¼ billion dollars worth of gold has been drained from Uncle Sam's vast hoard in the past year. This outflow of bullion to other countries began a year ago and has exceeded all records.

To the speculator, this is a signal that the rest of the world may be losing faith in the soundness of the U.S. dollar. Foreigners want gold and distrust dollars, he claims, because inflation is pricing American goods out of the world market.

If the United States can't sell its goods abroad, he says, the American economy will go into a tailspin and the dollar will have to be devalued — just like the French franc.

The U.S. treasury discounts such talk. It says the government "firmly adheres to the position" that the price of gold should remain unchanged at $35 an ounce —the price is established in 1934.

Officials here contend the gold outflow is a sign of European strength rather than American weakness. They say Europe can now afford more gold whereas the United States has the stuff to spare

The United States holds 20½ billion dollars of gold—more than all other non-Communist countries combined.

Two other explanations also are offered here for the recent outflow:

1. A lot of it represented the return to Europe of bullion which migrated to the United States in 1957 because of the Suez crisis.

2. Some of it also was made possible by heavy U.S. investment abroad in 1958. Americans, in effect, increased their productive investments in exchange for gold.

Officials do concede that an inflationary binge could produce an unhealthy gold drain. If prices of American goods increased out of proportion to world prices, they say the U.S. economy would suffer and devaluation of the dollar could then become a reality.

The speculator in Canadian gold says U.S. goods may already be losing out abroad. For evidence, he points to the 18 per cent drop in exports in the first nine months of last year.

Government people argue the decline was deceptive and probably temporary.

In any case, they say foreigners are not losing faith in American currency; otherwise, why did they increase their dollar holdings by about 500 million dollars last year, even as they were withdrawing gold?

Actually, you don't have to be a prophet of doom to expect an increase in the price of gold.

Gold miners and some bankers and economists want the price raised to encourage more production. They claim there isn't enough gold to satisfy the world's monetary needs. Mining is discouraged, they say because the price of gold hasn't changed in 25 years whereas everything else has gone up and up.

Money men in Washington aren't buying this argument. They say there is no shortage of the metal—only a shortage of nations with the money to buy gold.

There is no doubt that U.S. gold mining has been discouraged by rising costs and a fixed selling price. Production has fallen steadily since 1953. World output, however, has been rising in the same period.

This aspect of the gold debate centers on the metal's unique place in the affairs of men.

Gold is a symbol of real wealth because it won't shrink, rot, evaporate or tarnish. Supplies are limited and can only be increased by hard labor and at great expense. Man now can make synthetic diamonds but he can't make gold.

In all the years since Columbus discovered America, world output has hardly exceeded 50,000 tons.

Because gold can't be tampered with or inflated willy nilly, it is regarded as the most dependable basis for international money transactions.

Nations with the strongest finances are prepared at all times to honor their international commitments with payment in gold.

A foreign businessman can sell goods in the United States with the assurance that the dollars he receives can be converted into gold through international channels. This gives him a good feeling about doing business here.

Only a few nations can make this offer without attaching some string. Their number is growing, however, and most Western European countries moved closer to the goal of convertibility late in December.

Gold also serves as the backing of strong currencies. In the United States, Congress has decreed there must be enough gold on hand to cover 25 per cent of the money supply.

The current ratio of gold to dollars is about 42 per cent, compared with 47 per cent a year ago.

Whenever gold is discussed, the mystery of Soviet gold crops up. The Soviets aren't putting out any figures, but it is generally believed they are the world's No. 2 gold producer, next to South Africa. And next to the United States, the Soviets hold more gold than any other country in the world.

What will they do with their gold?

Some people suggest they might dump it in the West at cut-rate prices. That would certainly upset the international gold market — and Uncle Sam. It also would give the West a windfall profit—something officials here doubt the Soviets would provide.

There also is speculation that the Soviets might raise the price of gold. In that case, no one would buy their gold but would want to sell them more.

Money experts here ask: Why would the Soviets want more gold? How would they pay for it? And, again, why would they give a windfall to the West?

"Gold is probably the least effective and least fearsome of Soviet weapons," a Federal Reserve economist commented. "I wish it were their only weapon."

Best Role In History

By STEVE LOWELL

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — To 110 special men, Dr. W. Randolph Lovelace represents the power to give one—just one—the chance to play a role denied all other men in history.

The man ultimately chosen will be America's first space traveler.

Dr. Lovelace's part in making the choice is a crucial one. He is Chairman of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's special advisory committee on life sciences.

In this capacity, he is directing each step of testing and training the 110 flying officers selected as possible candidates for Project Mercury, America's manned satellite venture. These men were picked without their knowledge because of special characteristics they possess qualifying them as astronauts.

The group will be whittled down to 12 and these will undergo months of intensive training. Not until shortly before departure will the final selection be made.

No man can anticipate what it will be like to take the giant step into the unknown. But Dr. Lovelace knows from his own experience something of what a man goes through in subjecting himself to experimentation.

The greying, sturdy, 51-year-old surgeon was the human guinea pig in a World War II experiment to test bail-out oxygen equipment. At the time, he was chief of the aero-medical laboratory at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Dayton, Ohio.

At 40,200 feet, he jumped out of an airplane.

"We had believed that the shock of the opening parachute would put a force of less than eight gs (gravitational force) on the jumper at that high altitude. But we were wrong. It later was computed that the force was 32 gs."

What happened when Lovelace jumped?

The shock knocked him out. When the parachute popped open, its force snapped off his gloves. Unconscious, he hung in an upright position—the worst possible one for recovery—as he fell earthward. Without gloves, his left hand was badly frostbitten.

From this high-altitude jump came the method that helped hundreds of fliers thereafter. This was to delay the opening of the parachute until the jumper reached an atmosphere much nearer normal.

Lovelace was awarded the distinguished flying cross for this work.

But for the influence of an uncle, he might never have entered the path that led him into aviation medicine. His father, now 78, ran a New Mexico ranch. On winter visits to his physician-uncle in Albuquerque, he was taken along on the doctor's medical rounds.

This convinced him he wanted to become a surgeon. But there was a pull from another quarter, too—the sky. An air circus had set up shop in Albuquerque, Lovelace recalls.

"I was in the seventh grade," he says. "In order to get a ride in one of those crates I sold tickets and carved a wooden model of a plane for a contest. I won a ride, but when it came time to go my family wouldn't let me."

His family also stopped him from a career in aviation at the age of 20 after he had completed the first phase of pilot training at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station, near Chicago.

In his career as a surgeon and as an expert in aviation medicine, Lovelace has reaped many an honor.

With Dr. W. M. Boothby and Col. H. G. Armstrong, Lovelace was co-winner of the Collier Trophy for the greatest achievement in aviation in 1939. This was for work on oxygen equipment for high altitude flying. And in 1948 he received the John Jeffries Award for outstanding contributions to the advancement of aeronautics through medical research.

He holds the Army Commendation Ribbon, the Air Medal and three combat stars, the Exceptional Service Award of the Air Force and the Royal Order of the Sword, a decoration from Sweden.

He is active as a member or chairman of many government and professional committees dealing with aviation medicine.

With all his varied activities he has found time to help his wife rear three daughters. Two young sons died a number of years ago of polio.

Massed on the walls of his office and in the hall outside are autographed photos of famed friends. One is of space scientist Wernher Von Braun. There are others of Lewis Strauss, former chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission; Maj. Chuck Yeager, the first U.S. pilot to fly faster than sound, Jackie Cochrane, famous woman pilot; the late President Franklin Roosevelt, and Orville Wright, who made the first successful heavier-than-air flight just after the turn of the century.

Lovelace recalls that Wright was the only man who could get around the air development center at Wright-Patterson without a pass during World War II. He says that although the pioneer aviator was in his 70s he was keenly interested in flight research going on there. Lovelace observed:

"He would have made an excellent subject for space exploration."

IN THE EMERALD ISLE

St. Patrick Tradition

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — As the Friendly Irish Sons of St. Patrick swing easily down Fifth Avenue in New York March 17, Puerto Ricans will stage a parade of their own in the good saint's honor at a small town here.

Although their parade can't hold a shamrock to the famous New York celebration, the Puerto Rican marchers in the village of Loiza Aldea do have their counterparts in Manhattan topped in one important respect: their parade dates back to the year 1536, more than 300 years prior to the first St. Patrick's Day march in New York.

The reason this village makes such a fiesta out of St. Patrick's Day is a belief that he did their ancestors just as a big favor as the one he performed for the Irish when he drove the snakes of Ireland into the sea.

According to local legend, the little fishing village of Loiza Aldea — one of the first Spanish settlements on this island — was overwhelmed by a plague of ants in 1536. They crunched underfoot and dropped in gobs from the rafters.

For young and old alike, sleep was either dangerous or impossible. The ants ravaged larders and menaced crops.

The islanders prayed to St. John the Baptist, for whom Columbus named Puerto Rico when he discovered the island in 1493, but the prayers went unanswered.

Finally the villagers of Loiza Aldea decided to appeal to another saint. And, legend says, they agreed to pick their new patron by the cast of dice.

The first throw indicated San Patricio. The dice throwers, unfamiliar with saints of northern climes, had never heard of him. Dissatisfied, they decided to cast again.

When the name San Patricio came up on the second throw, the Irish saint began to pick up support. When he took the third cast also the doubters were routed.

The legend continues that after prayers asking St. Patrick to intercede to end the plague of ants, heavy rains fell and the pests were destroyed.

To honor their new benefactor, the villagers built a church and dedicated it to St. Patrick. Ever since the town has celebrated his feast day with a procession and fiesta, and the claim is that it never since has had a problem with ants.

Speculators In Canadian Gold Hoping For Easy Riches

FEATURES

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP) — How would you like to make a million-dollar profit on a cash investment of $28,600?

Gold is a symbol of real wealth because it won't shrink, rot, evaporate or tarnish. Supplies are limited and can only be increased by hard labor and at great expense. Man now can make synthetic diamonds but he can't make gold.

In all the years since Columbus discovered America, world output has hardly exceeded 50,000 tons.

Because gold can't be tampered with or inflated willy nilly, it is regarded as the most dependable basis for international money transactions.

Nations with the strongest finances are prepared at all times to honor their international commitments with payment in gold.

A foreign businessman can sell goods in the United States with the assurance that the dollars he receives can be converted into gold through international channels. This gives him a good feeling about doing business here.

Only a few nations can make this offer without attaching some string. Their number is growing, however, and most Western European countries moved closer to the goal of convertibility late in December.

Gold also serves as the backing of strong currencies. In the United States, Congress has decreed there must be enough gold on hand to cover 25 per cent of the money supply.

The current ratio of gold to dollars is about 42 per cent, compared with 47 per cent a year ago.

Whenever gold is discussed, the mystery of Soviet gold crops up. The Soviets aren't putting out any figures, but it is generally believed they are the world's No. 2 gold producer, next to South Africa. And next to the United States, the Soviets hold more gold than any other country in the world.

What will they do with their gold?

Some people suggest they might dump it in the West at cut-rate prices. That would certainly upset the international gold market — and Uncle Sam. It also would give the West a windfall profit—something officials here doubt the Soviets would provide.

There also is speculation that the Soviets might raise the price of gold. In that case, no one would buy their gold but would want to sell them more.

Money experts here ask: Why would the Soviets want more gold? How would they pay for it? And, again, why would they give a windfall to the West?

"Gold is probably the least effective and least fearsome of Soviet weapons," a Federal Reserve economist commented. "I wish it were their only weapon."

Best Role In History

By STEVE LOWELL

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — To 110 special men, Dr. W. Randolph Lovelace represents the power to give one—just one—the chance to play a role denied all other men in history.

The man ultimately chosen will be America's first space traveler.

Dr. Lovelace's part in making the choice is a crucial one. He is Chairman of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's special advisory committee on life sciences.

In this capacity, he is directing each step of testing and training the 110 flying officers selected as possible candidates for Project Mercury, America's manned satellite venture. These men were picked without their knowledge because of special characteristics they possess qualifying them as astronauts.

The group will be whittled down to 12 and these will undergo months of intensive training. Not until shortly before departure will the final selection be made.

No man can anticipate what it will be like to take the giant step into the unknown. But Dr. Lovelace knows from his own experience something of what a man goes through in subjecting himself to experimentation.

The greying, sturdy, 51-year-old surgeon was the human guinea pig in a World War II experiment to test bail-out oxygen equipment. At the time, he was chief of the aero-medical laboratory at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Dayton, Ohio.

At 40,200 feet, he jumped out of an airplane.

"We had believed that the shock of the opening parachute would put a force of less than eight gs (gravitational force) on the jumper at that high altitude. But we were wrong. It later was computed that the force was 32 gs."

What happened when Lovelace jumped?

The shock knocked him out. When the parachute popped open, its force snapped off his gloves. Unconscious, he hung in an upright position—the worst possible one for recovery—as he fell earthward. Without gloves, his left hand was badly frostbitten.

From this high-altitude jump came the method that helped hundreds of fliers thereafter. This was to delay the opening of the parachute until the jumper reached an atmosphere much nearer normal.

Lovelace was awarded the distinguished flying cross for this work.

But for the influence of an uncle, he might never have entered the path that led him into aviation medicine. His father, now 78, ran a New Mexico ranch. On winter visits to his physician-uncle in Albuquerque, he was taken along on the doctor's medical rounds.

This convinced him he wanted to become a surgeon. But there was a pull from another quarter, too—the sky. An air circus had set up shop in Albuquerque, Lovelace recalls.

"I was in the seventh grade," he says. "In order to get a ride in one of those crates I sold tickets and carved a wooden model of a plane for a contest. I won a ride, but when it came time to go my family wouldn't let me."

His family also stopped him from a career in aviation at the age of 20 after he had completed the first phase of pilot training at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station, near Chicago.

In his career as a surgeon and as an expert in aviation medicine, Lovelce has reaped many an honor.

With Dr. W. M. Boothby and Col. H. G. Armstrong, Lovelace was co-winner of the Collier Trophy for the greatest achievement in aviation in 1939. This was for work on oxygen equipment for high altitude flying. And in 1948 he received the John Jeffries Award for outstanding contributions to the advancement of aeronautics through medical research.

He holds the Army Commendation Ribbon, the Air Medal and three combat stars, the Exceptional Service Award of the Air Force and the Royal Order of the Sword, a decoration from Sweden.

He is active as a member or chairman of many government and professional committees dealing with aviation medicine.

With all his varied activities he has found time to help his wife rear three daughters. Two young sons died a number of years ago of polio.

Massed on the walls of his office and in the hall outside are autographed photos of famed friends. One is of space scientist Wernher Von Braun. There are others of Lewis Strauss, former chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission; Maj. Chuck Yeager, the first U.S. pilot to fly faster than sound, Jackie Cochrane, famous woman pilot; the late President Franklin Roosevelt, and Orville Wright, who made the first successful heavier-than-air flight just after the turn of the century.

Lovelace recalls that Wright was the only man who could get around the air development center at Wright-Patterson without a pass during World War II. He says that although the pioneer aviator was in his 70s he was keenly interested in flight research going on there. Lovelace observed:

"He would have made an excellent subject for space exploration."

IN THE EMERALD ISLE

St. Patrick Tradition

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — As the Friendly Irish Sons of St. Patrick swing easily down Fifth Avenue in New York March 17, Puerto Ricans will stage a parade of their own in the good saint's honor at a small town here.

Although their parade can't hold a shamrock to the famous New York celebration, the Puerto Rican marchers in the village of Loiza Aldea do have their counterparts in Manhattan topped in one important respect: their parade dates back to the year 1536, more than 300 years prior to the first St. Patrick's Day march in New York.

The reason this village makes such a fiesta out of St. Patrick's Day is a belief that he did their ancestors just as a big favor as the one he performed for the Irish when he drove the snakes of Ireland into the sea.

According to local legend, the little fishing village of Loiza Aldea — one of the first Spanish settlements on this island — was overwhelmed by a plague of ants in 1536. They crunched underfoot and dropped in gobs from the rafters.

For young and old alike, sleep was either dangerous or impossible. The ants ravaged larders and menaced crops.

The islanders prayed to St. John the Baptist, for whom Columbus named Puerto Rico when he discovered the island in 1493, but the prayers went unanswered.

Finally the villagers of Loiza Aldea decided to appeal to another saint. And, legend says, they agreed to pick their new patron by the cast of dice.

The first throw indicated San Patricio. The dice throwers, unfamiliar with saints of northern climes, had never heard of him. Dissatisfied, they decided to cast again.

When the name San Patricio came up on the second throw, the Irish saint began to pick up support. When he took the third cast also the doubters were routed.

The legend continues that after prayers asking St. Patrick to intercede to end the plague of ants, heavy rains fell and the pests were destroyed.

To honor their new benefactor, the villagers built a church and dedicated it to St. Patrick. Ever since the town has celebrated his feast day with a procession and fiesta, and the claim is that it never since has had a problem with ants.

Indian Thinclads Win Meet

PAUL MARTIN LOOKS 'EM OVER

Time To Change

If some high school athletic leaders can swing it, there will be a change in the playoff systems for deciding Louisiana's prep basketball champions.

From James H. Napper, principal of Simsboro High School where the Tiger quintet has been a power in Class B boys' basketball for several years, comes the following declaration on cage playoffs:

"There is no doubt that four years ago when the present system . . . was installed and the old rally system dropped that a great step forward was made . . . yet, there still seems to be something desired . . . "the present system has proved itself financially, except maybe for Class C. They are trying a different method this year; however, from reports on the regional playoffs in Class C, the financial situation hasn't been greatly improved."

Disadvantages of the current system were listed by Principal Napper as many cases where schools and basketball have been placed in a bad light, mainly because of tremendous spectator interest, and overcrowding gyms so that most games were a farce for lack of playing space; home court advantage; so many games on the same nights that good officials are hard to secure and schools bid for services of the best; insufficient news coverage with all games competing for space; protests and penalties against schools for fans' conduct; inability of commissioner and executive members to attend games; players missing classes for as much as two weeks during playoffs; all classifications having different times to begin and complete playoffs; school officials being put on spot because of existing conditions.

Recommendations: Keep present system until semi - finals reached as most gyms can handle crowds to this point; bring four leading teams of each class into one locality for a playoff tourney; empower T. H. Waters, state high school athletic commissioner, to handle and distribute all tourney funds, and always match a "north" team against a "south" in the semi - finals.

Principal Napper also recommends such a master tournament be awarded to Hirsch Memorial Building at the state fair grounds in Shreveport.

"The building is owned by the tax payers of Louisiana with the finest facilities available in the state. Sleeping and eating accommodations are both available within this building. Quarters are available for team units so that a coach could look after his team closely and not be bothered by other teams.

"Main objections is that Shreveport is not centrally located. Yet, it is more centrally located than many places our neighboring states hold their state playoffs. Under the present system some teams are going to have to travel the length of the state. Expenses will be paid (to Shreveport) so that all teams shall be reimbursed and with our modern transportation no one will be inconvenienced in attending.

"Most objections seem to come from the Class AAA schools and from all classificatons in south Louisiana. Most people in that area don't know what type facilities Shreveport has to offer."

BOBBY JAMES

We only saw Ruston's Bobby James when he appeared in high school basketball games against Monroe's Neville High in those battles for district double-A supremacy, but he impressed us as a fine type of youth with a great future ahead. Bobby went to Southern Methodist U. where he was recently selected to the all-Southwest Conference basketball team. It was tragic that Bobby's career ended so suddenly in the fire that claimed his life a week ago at his Ruston home.

Larry Fox, of the Louisiana Tech faculty, who writes "Diamond Dope," for the Ruston paper, wrote:

"Had just finished over half of my column . . . When I heard the news of the tragic death of Bobby James. I was so shocked that I tore up that which I had written and now I am in a quandry as to what to say. Many frown on the fact that I include a 'Sunday Thought' in my column every Friday. After all, God likes to be included in all our activities and I am positive He thought a good deal of Bobby, not only as a potential All - American basketball player, but as an All - American Christian Boy. When words fail us in a crisis we resort to prayer. Anyway, let us hope and pray that we are as ready for the final call as I believe Bobby was."

Coach "Doc" Hayes of SMU, in Ruston for Bobby's funeral, said members of athletic teams at the university would establish a memorial to their fellow player. Mustang team members, who served as pallbearers, said friends of Bobby and other interested persons are welcome to contribute to the fund for establishment of the memorial. Contributions may be sent to the Bobby James Memorial, SMU, Dallas, Tex.

RACER TALKS SAFETY

Bob Veith, famed Indianapolis and Monza race driver, one of seven internationally known automobile racers touring the country for the "Champions Highway Safety Program," has been a Monroe visitor since Thursday, and appeared in a safety program Friday at Neville High. He will make a school appearance in Ruston Tuesday, and Monday week has an appointment at a Vicksburg school.

Veith ran better than 174 miles per hour on the Monza, Italy, track, and is to run again in the Indianapolis Motor Speedway classic again this spring.

Bob got his big chance at Indianapolis through close relationship with the late Bill Vuckovich. Veith was driving Vuky's midget car on the west coast, and Vuckovich talked him into trying his luck in the big cars at Indianapolis. Highway safety is stressed by the racers who claim attention of students wherever they appear.

ORGANIZE LEAGUE

The Madison - Tensas Babe Ruth Baseball League has been organized for this season with William Laird, Tallulah, president; J. D. Caldwell, Tallulah, Horace Curry, Newellton, Howard Joyce, St. Joseph, and Whit Butler, Waterproof, all as vice-presidents. Caldwell will be remembered as manager of the Columbia team in the Northeast Louisiana Baseball League a few years ago.

The league, for boys 13, 14, and 15 years of age, is seeking one more club, possibly Lake Providence of East Carrol parish. The season will open the last week in May.

Tallulah was host last summer to the state Babe Ruth tournament won by a New Orleans Recreation Department entry. The tournament will be held at Metairie this year.

SHORT AND SNAPPY

K. D. Kilpatrick and Bill Martin of Ruston recenty obtained a five - year - lease on Corney Lake in Union parish. Lake was leased from forestry division of Department of Interior. Ray Germany and Jack Moreland, the Tech athletes, will teach swimming, archery and firearms handling at the lake this summer.

The Bastrop Lions Club will sponsor a baseball game between Northeast State and Louisiana State U. at Bastrop's Baron Park, 8 p.m., March 26, for the benefit of the Bastrop High band. Four Bastrop athletes, Ronnie Johnston, Frank Naff, and the twins, Bill and Bob Loftin, are members of the LSU squad.

Quitman's 6-foot-6 Jay Dye was a big reason for the success this year of Oglethorpe University's fine basketball season. Lost only one game on 22-game slate. Dye credits success at Georgia school to coaching of R. E. Crowe at Quitman where he made Louisiana all-state in 1952. Career was interrupted by two-year army hitch.

Mable Leonard, Monroe, took over second place in the Women's State Bowling Tournament's singles competition last week with 685, just two pins behind Dean Aronet of Lafayette. Tourney at Lake Charles ends today. Troy and Nichols of Monroe was runner - up for team title going into final session with 2,992 pins against leading Pelican Grill of Sulphur, 3,002.

E. D. Perkins of Ruston High coaching staff, has been granted a leave of absence for further study.

Louisiana sports writers are meeting today in Alexandria to select their all - press all - state prep cage teams. The Louisiana Sports Writers Association is also compiling annual record of leading high school scorers in state, and any coach with a player who scored 500 or more points should send the information to Truman Stacey, sports editor, American Press, Lake Charles, La. Stacey compiling the list for the association wants full name, age, height, weight, class in school, number of games played, field goals, free tried, and total points scored. Also want dope on top offensive teams, averaging 60 or more points per game, and top defensive teams, holding foes to an average of less than 40 points per game; dope on season's longest winning streaks, or free try marksmen who converted 20 or more free throws in a row. Coaches use all games played, including tournaments and playoffs.

Woodhouse's 9.3 Equals 100 Record

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Chunky Bill Woodhouse of Abilene Christian, aided by a 25 m.p.h. wind, equalled the world's 100-yard dash record of 9.3 Saturday.

Although the wind prevented him from sharing the world's record with seven other men, his time went in the books as a record for the Southwestern Recreation track meet.

Texas rolled up 72 1-5 points to repeat as the university class Champion. Abilene Christian, which led the Longhorns down to the wire, lost its chance when it had to withdraw from the mile relay after Frank Taylor, its ace lead off man, pulled a muscle in the 220.

Texas set a meet record of 3:13.4 for the mile relay, anchor man Eddie Southern turning in a 4.7 quarter.

Abilene Christian woundup second with 64 3-5 points as Woodhouse not only won the 100 but pressed the great Southern to the last yards in the 220. Woodhouse, leading with two steps to go, suffered a leg cramp and faltered just enough for Southern to edge him out in 20.9.

Northeast Louisiana State, led by its twin cyclones—Dave and Don Styron — upset defending champion East Texas State in the college division, winning by a single point, 54-53.

The Styrons accounted for 32 points between them. Dave got 17½ with a victory in the 100, second in the 220 and broad jump and laps on the second place sprint and winning mile relay teams. Don got 14½ points by winning both hurdles and running on the relay teams.

Four over-all meet records were set in the university class. They were Woodhouse's 100, a 1:51.7 half-mile by Jarrell Edwards of Abilene Christian, a heave of 51 feet, 9½ inches in the shot put by Jim Allison of Texas and the Texas mile relay mark.

There was one over-all meet record set in the college division. It came in the preliminaries when Sidney Garton, East Texas State freshman, ran the 220 in 20.5. Thi not only surpassed the college class record of 0.7 but also bettered the 20.8 in the university division. Garton won the 220 in the finals with 21.4.

One university class record was tied by Don Stewart, Southern Methodist high jumper, who leaped 6 feet, 8¾ inches.

Five records and a tie were set in the college division. Russ Seitzinger of Hardin-Simmons hung up a discus mark of 160 feet, 8 inches, George Brown of Texas A&I did 48 flat for a record in the 440. The Northeast Louisiana State mile relay team set a record of 3:17.6.

And then there was Baird's broad jump and Garton's 220. Garton also tied the 100-yard dash record in 9.6 in the preliminaries although he lost in the finals to Dave Styron's 9.7.

Styrons Star In SW Recreation

FORT WORTH, Tex. (Special) — Northeast's mile relay team — Dave Styron, Jim Mouser, Dick Hays and Don Styron — streaked to a new college division record of 3:17.6 and gave Northeast the team championship by one point in the Southwestern Recreation Track and Field Meet here Saturday.

Trailing defending champion and heavily-favored East Texas State going into the mile relay, 49-44, Northeast picked up 10 points with the triumph while East Texas got four points with a fourth-place finish, giving coach Lew Hartzog's Indian thinclads the team championship of the college division, 54-53.

Northeast's same mile relay team provided the surprise of the Sugar Bowl meet last year by winning the event in the time of 3:19.

Texas repeated as champion in the university division with 72 1-5 points and Abilene Christian's Bill Woodhouse equalled the world's 100-yard dash record of 9.3.

Northeast's Don Styron lost out to Woodhouse for the meet's most valuable man award. Don won both hurdles, the high in 14.4 and the low in 23.7, and anchored the 440 and mile relay teams to score 14½ individual points. His 14.4 high hurdles' time was a new school record.

Brother Dave Styron was the division's top individual scorer with 17½ points, winning the 100 in 9.7, placing second in the 220 and broad jump and leading off the 440 and mile relay teams.

The meet cost Northeast one of its top performers when Gene Hagan suffered what was described by Hartzog as "probably a broken foot" trying for a meet record in the pole vault.

Hagan won the vault with a 13'2" leap and was going for a higher vault when he was injured.

Northeast's other points came in Jerry Ivy's fourth place in the broad jump and Bob Jaenicke's fourth in the 880.

Northeast's triumph was its second in as many meets this season. The Indian thinclads whipped Louisiana Tech and McNeese last week in a triangular meet in Monroe.

Tech participated in the meet and had seven performers place.

Russell Lewis was third in the 880 and Frank Heathman fifth. Garret was fourth in the 100.

Tenn. A&I Wins Third NAIA Crown

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The Tennessee A&I Tigers put on their customary blistering second half scoring attack and defeated the Pacific Lutheran College Lutes 97-87 for a third straight NAIA basketball championship Saturday night.

Southwest Texas State of San Marcos took third place by defeating Fort Hays, Kan., State 87-80 in the opening game before a crowd of 7,500.

Dick Barnett set a career record for the tournament by tallying 26 points, bringing his total scoring in three meets to 390.

ROBERTSON TURNS FEEDER

Cincinnati Upsets Kansas State In Midwest Tourney

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP)—Cincinnati, with All-America Oscar Robertson turning feeder and rebounder in the second half, upset Kansas State 85-75 in the finals of the NCAA Midwest Regional Basketball Tournament Saturday night

The victory, coming after Texas Christian defeated DePaul 71-65 for third place, sent the Cincinnati Bearcats into the NCAA round of four at Louisville next Friday.

Robertson scored 24 points, far off his usual pace, but it was his brilliant feeding and control of the ball that carried the Missouri Valley Conference champion to victory over the nation's No. 1 team.

Bob Boozer, Kansas State All-America, tallied 31 points for high scoring honors, but he was no match for the clever Big O as the Cincinnati ace kept his team in the game and engineered a late drive that scored 10 points to K-State's one in the last two minues.

Until Cincinnati broke open the game in the last two minutes it was a nip-and-tuck affair and early in the contest threatened to be a bitter one. Referee Al Lighner of Salem, Ore., had to call the two captains, Don Matuszak and Robertson, together after a double foul had been called on the two All-Americas and sharp words flew back and forth among the players.

Never more than five points separated the two teams until Cincinnati's final drive. The Bearcats threatened to pull away with 14 minutes to go when they established a 28-23 lead but Boozer personally took charge of the K-State attack.

He scored 14 of the Wildcats' 18 points in the last six minutes of the first half to give them a 41-39 margin at intermission.

Braves, Redmen Gain NIT Wins

By TED MEIER

NEW YORK (AP)— With sophomore Tony Jackson playing in sensational fashion, St. John's of New York upset third-seeded St. Bonaventure 82-74 in the National Invitational Basketball Tournament Saturday night and joined top-seeded Bradley in next Thursday's semifinals.

An enthusiastic crowd of 16,307 thrilled to an equally exciting contest in the first game of the night doubleheader when Bradley piled up an 11-point lead early in the second half. The Braves then barely staved off a furious late rally by Butler to beat the Bulldogs 83-77.

n an afternoon doubleheader winding up the first round, New York University wore down Denver 90-81 and Providence nipped Manhattan 68-66 on Johnny Egan's 35-foot jump shot with six seconds left. Providence plays second-seeded St. Louis and NYU meets fourth - seeded Oklahoma City in quarter-final games Tuesday night.

Jackson almost single-handedly kept St. John's in the running in the first half when the Bonnies threatened to pull away. He flipped in 27 points on 12 field goals and three fouls, snared 16 rebounds and batted away many shots that appeared to be sure St. Bonaventure baskets. He was given an ovation when he left the game with 33 seconds left.

The Bonnies, sparked by Sam Stith's 22 points, led at halftime, 39-36, and still were out in front 45-43 when St. John's flipped in eight straight points to go ahead for good.

The boys from Olean, N.Y. rallied to within 52-51 and kept the Redmen from scoring a field goal for 6½ minutes, but to no avail. During this span, St. John's made 10 straight free throws and widened its advantage to 66-57 and later to 12 points at 70-58. As time ran out luck turned against the Bonnies. They twice missed easy layups after stealing the ball.

St. John's scored first at the start but the Redmen hurriedly called time out when the Bonnies canned three quick baskets for a 7-1 lead. Three straight baskets by Lou Roethel put St. John's back in the running and, after Al Seiden's goal tied it at 14-14 at the 10 minute mark, it was nip and tuck the rest of the first half.

The lead switched seven times and the score was tied at six different occasions before the Bonnies erased a 27-25 St. John's lead and went on to their halftime edge. It was Jackson's great play that kept St. John's close. He scored 14 points on seven baskets and turned in a great rebounding job.

Next to Jackson, Seiden was high for St. John's with 21 points, 15 on free throws. After Stith, Don Newhook scored 15 for the Bonnies.

Lamar, Byrd, Houston Win At Shreveport

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — Houston, Lamar Tech and host Byrd High School won division championships today in the inaugural Shreveport Relays.

Nineteen schools were represented in the three divisions.

Houston edged Texas A&M 57-49 for the title in the university division. Arkansas was third with 30 points.

Lamar Tech outpointed McNeese State 57 1-3-30 for the championship in the college division. Next were Northwestern 28 2-3, Southeastern Louisiana 10, and Centenary 5.

Byrd piled up 86 points in winning the high school division crown. Sulphur was second with 49. Other scoring included Fair Park 25½, Ruston 25, Tallulah 24, Lafayette 23½, Mansfield 12½, Jena 9, Neville 4, and Bossier City 3½.

Arkansas half-miler Ray Dyck was voted outstanding university competitor on basis of his 1:53.7 time in the 880-yard run.

The top college award went to Gavin Carragher of Lamar Tech, an Australian sprinter, who won the 100-yard dash in 9.8 and was on two winning relay teams.

Fair Park's Jerry Dyes, winner of three events and second and third in others, was named top high school division individual competitor. Dyes hurled the javelin 194-4½, four feet better than national sophomore champion Joe Cage of Neville of Monroe.

(University Division)

Houston 57, Texas A&M 49, Arkansas 30

(College division)

Lamar Tech 57 1-3, McNeese 30, Northwestern 28 2-3, Southeastern Louisiana 10, Centenary 5

(High School division)

Byrd 81, Sulphur 47, Fair Park 25½, Ruston 25, Tallulah 24, Lafayette 23½, Mansfield 12½, Jena 9, Neville 4, Bossier City 3½

Babin Beats Hinds To Cop Hawsey Title

WINNSBORO, (Special) —Former Louisiana Tech ace L. V. Norris bucketed 42 points in a sensational scoring display as Jerry Babin Motors slipped past Hines County of Mississippi, 108-105, to take first place honors in the independent boys division of the twelfth annual Charles Hawsey Memorial Tournament in the Ogden gym Saturday night.

Other division titles went to Pioneer girls and Baskin boys in high school play and the Franklin Parish All-stars among the independent girls.

Babin Motors led Hines in every quarter turn, 33-28, 59-53 and 82-78, but the Mississippi invaders tied up the game at 100-all with three minutes left. Hines then took the lead on a two-pointer, but the champions stormed back to take the lead for good.

Pennington poured in 32 points to pace the Hines County quintet from the floor.

Pioneer's girls downed Crowville, 60-38, to take their crown as Ross rammed in 37 points. Cassidy tallied 22 for Crowville.

Baskin, after a close decision over Forest in the semi-finals, cruised past Block of Jonesville, 39-30, to cop the high school boys' championship. Jarrette put in 11 for the winners and Edwards contributed 16 for the losers. The champions barely squeezed past Forest, 39-37, to gain the finals. Jarrette was again high with 13 points, while Butler netted 17 for Forest.

Fort Necessity, playing without its aces, A. J. Burlew and Milton Linder, bowed to Block, 56-54, in a semi-final tussle. Edwards topped Block with 26 points and Taylor collected 20 for the Fort.

Thompson scored 24 points as the Franklin Parish All-Stars edged Northeast Travelers, 61-52, in the independent girls finale. Jarrette contributed 25 points in the losing cause.

Thompson's 44 points in the semi-final game gave the All-stars a 76-30 verdict over Ogden. Peel led Ogden with 18 points. Jarrette, with 25 counters, again paced the Travelers to a 60-24 win over Baskin in another semi-final scrap. Humphries dropped in 13 for Baskin.

Babin Ford dropped Monterey, 93-70, and Hines County stopped the West Carroll Jaycees, 71-57, to advance to the finals in the independent boys bracket. Norris led Babin Ford with 32 and Ranchino sparked Monterey with 22. Pennington hit 22 for Hines and May, with 20 markers, paced the Jaycees.

Louisville Tops Michigan State

By JERRY LISKA

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Louisville continued as the giant killer of the NCAA Basketball Tournament Saturday night, spurting for 12 straight points at the outset of the second half to defeat Big Ten champion Michigan State 88-81 in the Mideast Regional finals.

Kentucky defeated Marquette, 98-69, in the consolation game.

Louisville, paced by sophomore John Turner's 22 points, now moves into the NCAA semifinals against West Virginia next Friday night on its home court in Louisville.

Louisville's Cardinals, who Friday night eliminated defending champion Kentucky, several itmes trailed Michigan State by seven points in the first half and lagged 43-40 at halftime.

After the second half was less than four minutes old, Louisville had piled up 12 straight points to move ahead of the Spartans, 52-43.

With eight minutes of the game left, Michigan State lost hot-rebounding Johnny Green on fouls. Without Green, who scored 29 points, the Michigan State case was lost.

Within the last five minutes, Louisville's 6-11 Fred Sawyer scored four consecutive field goals, actually dunking them from above the rim, to give the Cardinals an 82-70 margin.

In the key spurt at the outset of the second half, Turner collected five of the 12 points which broke Michigan State's back. In quick succession, the 6-5 sophomore sank two field goals and a free throw.

Louisville started fast, grabbing a 7-1 lead in the first two minutes but the Spartans tied it at 10-10 two minutes later and moved ahead for the first time 13-12 on Lance Olson's free throw with the game five minutes old.

Kentucky swished to an 18-point lead 19-1 within the first five minutes of play and held a halftime margin of 54-24, on the phenomenal shooting of Bennie Coffman and Don Mills.

Coffman, who wound up as the game's high scorer with 28 points, and Mills hit on 16 of 19 shots between them in the first half. Mills finished with 24 points.

Marquette shot only 28 per cent in the futile first half showing in which the Warriors went more than five minutes before scoring their first field goal.

For the entire game, Kentucky shot a sizzling 51 per cent, hitting 43 of 83 field shots. The previous field goal mark for a single NCAA tourney game was 42 by Utah in a record 108-85 victory over Seattle, March 12, 1955.

Marquette's usual high scoring Walt Mangham and Don Kojis were completely shut out in the first half. Kojis finally got going in the second half for 15 points, but Mangham failed to hit his first fielder until about six minutes remained and ended with only four points.

Big Mike Moran led the Warriors with 18 points—12 in the first half in which Kentucky led at one time by 31 points 52-21.

Mountaineers Sweep Past Boston, 86-82

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (AP) — Heavily favored West Virginia had to pull out all stops in the closing minutes Saturday night to beat the Boston University Terriers suddenly turned tiger 86-82 in the finals of the NCAA Eastern Regional Basketball Tournament.

All-America Jerry West, superb scoring machine and floor man for West Virginia, rallied the Mountaineers in the last 12 minutes to provide the clutch points in the last 12 minutes to provide the clutch points in the rousing battle that had 11,651 fans in an uproar.

West had 33 points, cramming 10 in a row into a four-minute stretch late in the game. That effort staked the Mounties to a 71-67 lead with eight minutes left.

B.U. never could catch up but had the Southern Conference champions hustling to preserve their razor-thin margin. The game marked the 14th time in 18 contests West Virginia has won after trailing in the second half.

West Virginia's only basket in the last five minutes was Bob Smith's toss that just beat the final horn. Before that the Mounties had made seven fouls to remain precariously ahead of the battling New Englanders.

B.U. scored the game's first eight points, then West Virginia got the next eight. The half ended 45-all after seven ties and five lead changes.

The fast-moving Mounties spurted ahead 55-48 early in the second half, but Boston made it a down to the wire affair after that. It took all of West's heroics on drives and free throws to regain the lead.

Indian Thinclads Win Meet

PAUL MARTIN LOOKS 'EM OVER

Time To Change

If some high school athletic leaders can swing it, there will be a change in the playoff systems for deciding Louisiana's prep basketball champions.

From James H. Napper, principal of Simsboro High School where the Tiger quintet has been a power in Class B boys' basketball for several years, comes the following declaration on cage playoffs:

"There is no doubt that four years ago when the present system . . . was installed and the old rally system dropped that a great step forward was made . . . yet, there still seems to be something desired . . . "the present system has proved itself financially, except maybe for Class C. They are trying a different method this year; however, from reports on the regional playoffs in Class C, the financial situation hasn't been greatly improved."

Disadvantages of the current system were listed by Principal Napper as many cases where schools and basketball have been placed in a bad light, mainly because of tremendous spectator interest, and overcrowding gyms so that most games were a farce for lack of playing space; home court advantage; so many games on the same nights that good officials are hard to secure and schools bid for services of the best; insufficient news coverage with all games competing for space; protests and penalties against schools for fans' conduct; inability of commissioner and executive members to attend games; players missing classes for as much as two weeks during playoffs; all classifications having different times to begin and complete playoffs; school officials being put on spot because of existing conditions.

Recommendations: Keep present system until semi - finals reached as most gyms can handle crowds to this point; bring four leading teams of each class into one locality for a playoff tourney; empower T. H. Waters, state high school athletic commissioner, to handle and distribute all tourney funds, and always match a "north" team against a "south" in the semi - finals.

Principal Napper also recommends such a master tournament be awarded to Hirsch Memorial Building at the state fair grounds in Shreveport.

"The building is owned by the tax payers of Louisiana with the finest facilities available in the state. Sleeping and eating accommodations are both available within this building. Quarters are available for team units so that a coach could look after his team closely and not be bothered by other teams.

"Main objections is that Shreveport is not centrally located. Yet, it is more centrally located than many places our neighboring states hold their state playoffs. Under the present system some teams are going to have to travel the length of the state. Expenses will be paid (to Shreveport) so that all teams shall be reimbursed and with our modern transportation no one will be inconvenienced in attending.

"Most objections seem to come from the Class AAA schools and from all classificatons in south Louisiana. Most people in that area don't know what type facilities Shreveport has to offer."

BOBBY JAMES

We only saw Ruston's Bobby James when he appeared in high school basketball games against Monroe's Neville High in those battles for district double-A supremacy, but he impressed us as a fine type of youth with a great future ahead. Bobby went to Southern Methodist U. where he was recently selected to the all-Southwest Conference basketball team. It was tragic that Bobby's career ended so suddenly in the fire that claimed his life a week ago at his Ruston home.

"Had just finished over half of my column . . . When I heard the news of the tragic death of Bobby James. I was so shocked that I tore up that which I had written and now I am in a quandry as to what to say. Many frown on the fact that I include a 'Sunday Thought' in my column every Friday. After all, God likes to be included in all our activities and I am positive He thought a good deal of Bobby, not only as a potential All - American basketball player, but as an All - American Christian Boy. When words fail us in a crisis we resort to prayer. Anyway, let us hope and pray that we are as ready for the final call as I believe Bobby was."

Coach "Doc" Hayes of SMU, in Ruston for Bobby's funeral, said members of athletic teams at the university would establish a memorial to their fellow player. Mustang team members, who served as pallbearers, said friends of Bobby and other interested persons are welcome to contribute to the fund for establishment of the memorial. Contributions may be sent to the Bobby James Memorial, SMU, Dallas, Tex.

RACER TALKS SAFETY

Bob Veith, famed Indianapolis and Monza race driver, one of seven internationally known automobile racers touring the country for the "Champions Highway Safety Program," has been a Monroe visitor since Thursday, and appeared in a safety program Friday at Neville High. He will make a school appearance in Ruston Tuesday, and Monday week has an appointment at a Vicksburg school.

Veith ran better than 174 miles per hour on the Monza, Italy, track, and is to run again in the Indianapolis Motor Speedway classic again this spring.

Bob got his big chance at Indianapolis through close relationship with the late Bill Vuckovich. Veith was driving Vuky's midget car on the west coast, and Vuckovich talked him into trying his luck in the big cars at Indianapolis. Highway safety is stressed by the racers who claim attention of students wherever they appear.

ORGANIZE LEAGUE

The Madison - Tensas Babe Ruth Baseball League has been organized for this season with William Laird, Tallulah, president; J. D. Caldwell, Tallulah, Horace Curry, Newellton, Howard Joyce, St. Joseph, and Whit Butler, Waterproof, all as vice-presidents. Caldwell will be remembered as manager of the Columbia team in the Northeast Louisiana Baseball League a few years ago.

The league, for boys 13, 14, and 15 years of age, is seeking one more club, possibly Lake Providence of East Carrol parish. The season will open the last week in May.

Tallulah was host last summer to the state Babe Ruth tournament won by a New Orleans Recreation Department entry. The tournament will be held at Metairie this year.

SHORT AND SNAPPY

K. D. Kilpatrick and Bill Martin of Ruston recenty obtained a five - year - lease on Corney Lake in Union parish. Lake was leased from forestry division of Department of Interior. Ray Germany and Jack Moreland, the Tech athletes, will teach swimming, archery and firearms handling at the lake this summer.

The Bastrop Lions Club will sponsor a baseball game between Northeast State and Louisiana State U. at Bastrop's Baron Park, 8 p.m., March 26, for the benefit of the Bastrop High band. Four Bastrop athletes, Ronnie Johnston, Frank Naff, and the twins, Bill and Bob Loftin, are members of the LSU squad.

Quitman's 6-foot-6 Jay Dye was a big reason for the success this year of Oglethorpe University's fine basketball season. Lost only one game on 22-game slate. Dye credits success at Georgia school to coaching of R. E. Crowe at Quitman where he made Louisiana all-state in 1952. Career was interrupted by two-year army hitch.

Mable Leonard, Monroe, took over second place in the Women's State Bowling Tournament's singles competition last week with 685, just two pins behind Dean Aronet of Lafayette. Tourney at Lake Charles ends today. Troy and Nichols of Monroe was runner - up for team title going into final session with 2,992 pins against leading Pelican Grill of Sulphur, 3,002.

E. D. Perkins of Ruston High coaching staff, has been granted a leave of absence for further study.

Louisiana sports writers are meeting today in Alexandria to select their all - press all - state prep cage teams. The Louisiana Sports Writers Association is also compiling annual record of leading high school scorers in state, and any coach with a player who scored 500 or more points should send the information to Truman Stacey, sports editor, American Press, Lake Charles, La. Stacey compiling the list for the association wants full name, age, height, weight, class in school, number of games played, field goals, free tried, and total points scored. Also want dope on top offensive teams, averaging 60 or more points per game, and top defensive teams, holding foes to an average of less than 40 points per game; dope on season's longest winning streaks, or free try marksmen who converted 20 or more free throws in a row. Coaches use all games played, including tournaments and playoffs.

Woodhouse's 9.3 Equals 100 Record

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Chunky Bill Woodhouse of Abilene Christian, aided by a 25 m.p.h. wind, equalled the world's 100-yard dash record of 9.3 Saturday.

Although the wind prevented him from sharing the world's record with seven other men, his time went in the books as a record for the Southwestern Recreation track meet.

Texas rolled up 72 1-5 points to repeat as the university class Champion. Abilene Christian, which led the Longhorns down to the wire, lost its chance when it had to withdraw from the mile relay after Frank Taylor, its ace lead off man, pulled a muscle in the 220.

Texas set a meet record of 3:13.4 for the mile relay, anchor man Eddie Southern turning in a 4.7 quarter.

Abilene Christian woundup second with 64 3-5 points as Woodhouse not only won the 100 but pressed the great Southern to the last yards in the 220. Woodhouse, leading with two steps to go, suffered a leg cramp and faltered just enough for Southern to edge him out in 20.9.

Northeast Louisiana State, led by its twin cyclones—Dave and Don Styron — upset defending champion East Texas State in the college division, winning by a single point, 54-53.

The Styrons accounted for 32 points between them. Dave got 17½ with a victory in the 100, second in the 220 and broad jump and laps on the second place sprint and winning mile relay teams. Don got 14½ points by winning both hurdles and running on the relay teams.

Four over-all meet records were set in the university class. They were Woodhouse's 100, a 1:51.7 half-mile by Jarrell Edwards of Abilene Christian, a heave of 51 feet, 9½ inches in the shot put by Jim Allison of Texas and the Texas mile relay mark.

There was one over-all meet record set in the college division. It came in the preliminaries when Sidney Garton, East Texas State freshman, ran the 220 in 20.5. Thi not only surpassed the college class record of 0.7 but also bettered the 20.8 in the university division. Garton won the 220 in the finals with 21.4.

One university class record was tied by Don Stewart, Southern Methodist high jumper, who leaped 6 feet, 8¾ inches.

Five records and a tie were set in the college division. Russ Seitzinger of Hardin-Simmons hung up a discus mark of 160 feet, 8 inches, George Brown of Texas A&I did 48 flat for a record in the 440. The Northeast Louisiana State mile relay team set a record of 3:17.6.

And then there was Baird's broad jump and Garton's 220. Garton also tied the 100-yard dash record in 9.6 in the preliminaries although he lost in the finals to Dave Styron's 9.7.

Styrons Star In SW Recreation

FORT WORTH, Tex. (Special) — Northeast's mile relay team — Dave Styron, Jim Mouser, Dick Hays and Don Styron — streaked to a new college division record of 3:17.6 and gave Northeast the team championship by one point in the Southwestern Recreation Track and Field Meet here Saturday.

Trailing defending champion and heavily-favored East Texas State going into the mile relay, 49-44, Northeast picked up 10 points with the triumph while East Texas got four points with a fourth-place finish, giving coach Lew Hartzog's Indian thinclads the team championship of the college division, 54-53.

Northeast's same mile relay team provided the surprise of the Sugar Bowl meet last year by winning the event in the time of 3:19.

Texas repeated as champion in the university division with 72 1-5 points and Abilene Christian's Bill Woodhouse equalled the world's 100-yard dash record of 9.3.

Northeast's Don Styron lost out to Woodhouse for the meet's most valuable man award. Don won both hurdles, the high in 14.4 and the low in 23.7, and anchored the 440 and mile relay teams to score 14½ individual points. His 14.4 high hurdles' time was a new school record.

Brother Dave Styron was the division's top individual scorer with 17½ points, winning the 100 in 9.7, placing second in the 220 and broad jump and leading off the 440 and mile relay teams.

The meet cost Northeast one of its top performers when Gene Hagan suffered what was described by Hartzog as "probably a broken foot" trying for a meet record in the pole vault.

Hagan won the vault with a 13'2" leap and was going for a higher vault when he was injured.

Northeast's other points came in Jerry Ivy's fourth place in the broad jump and Bob Jaenicke's fourth in the 880.

Northeast's triumph was its second in as many meets this season. The Indian thinclads whipped Louisiana Tech and McNeese last week in a triangular meet in Monroe.

Tech participated in the meet and had seven performers place.

Russell Lewis was third in the 880 and Frank Heathman fifth. Garret was fourth in the 100.

Tenn. A&I Wins Third NAIA Crown

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The Tennessee A&I Tigers put on their customary blistering second half scoring attack and defeated the Pacific Lutheran College Lutes 97-87 for a third straight NAIA basketball championship Saturday night.

Southwest Texas State of San Marcos took third place by defeating Fort Hays, Kan., State 87-80 in the opening game before a crowd of 7,500.

Dick Barnett set a career record for the tournament by tallying 26 points, bringing his total scoring in three meets to 390.

ROBERTSON TURNS FEEDER

Cincinnati Upsets Kansas State In Midwest Tourney

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP)—Cincinnati, with All-America Oscar Robertson turning feeder and rebounder in the second half, upset Kansas State 85-75 in the finals of the NCAA Midwest Regional Basketball Tournament Saturday night

The victory, coming after Texas Christian defeated DePaul 71-65 for third place, sent the Cincinnati Bearcats into the NCAA round of four at Louisville next Friday.

Robertson scored 24 points, far off his usual pace, but it was his brilliant feeding and control of the ball that carried the Missouri Valley Conference champion to victory over the nation's No. 1 team.

Bob Boozer, Kansas State All-America, tallied 31 points for high scoring honors, but he was no match for the clever Big O as the Cincinnati ace kept his team in the game and engineered a late drive that scored 10 points to K-State's one in the last two minues.

Until Cincinnati broke open the game in the last two minutes it was a nip-and-tuck affair and early in the contest threatened to be a bitter one. Referee Al Lighner of Salem, Ore., had to call the two captains, Don Matuszak and Robertson, together after a double foul had been called on the two All-Americas and sharp words flew back and forth among the players.

Never more than five points separated the two teams until Cincinnati's final drive. The Bearcats threatened to pull away with 14 minutes to go when they established a 28-23 lead but Boozer personally took charge of the K-State attack.

He scored 14 of the Wildcats' 18 points in the last six minutes of the first half to give them a 41-39 margin at intermission.

Braves, Redmen Gain NIT Wins

By TED MEIER

NEW YORK (AP)— With sophomore Tony Jackson playing in sensational fashion, St. John's of New York upset third-seeded St. Bonaventure 82-74 in the National Invitational Basketball Tournament Saturday night and joined top-seeded Bradley in next Thursday's semifinals.

An enthusiastic crowd of 16,307 thrilled to an equally exciting contest in the first game of the night doubleheader when Bradley piled up an 11-point lead early in the second half. The Braves then barely staved off a furious late rally by Butler to beat the Bulldogs 83-77.

n an afternoon doubleheader winding up the first round, New York University wore down Denver 90-81 and Providence nipped Manhattan 68-66 on Johnny Egan's 35-foot jump shot with six seconds left. Providence plays second-seeded St. Louis and NYU meets fourth - seeded Oklahoma City in quarter-final games Tuesday night.

Jackson almost single-handedly kept St. John's in the running in the first half when the Bonnies threatened to pull away. He flipped in 27 points on 12 field goals and three fouls, snared 16 rebounds and batted away many shots that appeared to be sure St. Bonaventure baskets. He was given an ovation when he left the game with 33 seconds left.

The Bonnies, sparked by Sam Stith's 22 points, led at halftime, 39-36, and still were out in front 45-43 when St. John's flipped in eight straight points to go ahead for good.

The boys from Olean, N.Y. rallied to within 52-51 and kept the Redmen from scoring a field goal for 6½ minutes, but to no avail. During this span, St. John's made 10 straight free throws and widened its advantage to 66-57 and later to 12 points at 70-58. As time ran out luck turned against the Bonnies. They twice missed easy layups after stealing the ball.

St. John's scored first at the start but the Redmen hurriedly called time out when the Bonnies canned three quick baskets for a 7-1 lead. Three straight baskets by Lou Roethel put St. John's back in the running and, after Al Seiden's goal tied it at 14-14 at the 10 minute mark, it was nip and tuck the rest of the first half.

The lead switched seven times and the score was tied at six different occasions before the Bonnies erased a 27-25 St. John's lead and went on to their halftime edge. It was Jackson's great play that kept St. John's close. He scored 14 points on seven baskets and turned in a great rebounding job.

Next to Jackson, Seiden was high for St. John's with 21 points, 15 on free throws. After Stith, Don Newhook scored 15 for the Bonnies.

Lamar, Byrd, Houston Win At Shreveport

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — Houston, Lamar Tech and host Byrd High School won division championships today in the inaugural Shreveport Relays.

Nineteen schools were represented in the three divisions.

Houston edged Texas A&M 57-49 for the title in the university division. Arkansas was third with 30 points.

Lamar Tech outpointed McNeese State 57 1-3-30 for the championship in the college division. Next were Northwestern 28 2-3, Southeastern Louisiana 10, and Centenary 5.

Byrd piled up 86 points in winning the high school division crown. Sulphur was second with 49. Other scoring included Fair Park 25½, Ruston 25, Tallulah 24, Lafayette 23½, Mansfield 12½, Jena 9, Neville 4, and Bossier City 3½.

Arkansas half-miler Ray Dyck was voted outstanding university competitor on basis of his 1:53.7 time in the 880-yard run.

The top college award went to Gavin Carragher of Lamar Tech, an Australian sprinter, who won the 100-yard dash in 9.8 and was on two winning relay teams.

Fair Park's Jerry Dyes, winner of three events and second and third in others, was named top high school division individual competitor. Dyes hurled the javelin 194-4½, four feet better than national sophomore champion Joe Cage of Neville of Monroe.

Babin Beats Hinds To Cop Hawsey Title

WINNSBORO, (Special) —Former Louisiana Tech ace L. V. Norris bucketed 42 points in a sensational scoring display as Jerry Babin Motors slipped past Hines County of Mississippi, 108-105, to take first place honors in the independent boys division of the twelfth annual Charles Hawsey Memorial Tournament in the Ogden gym Saturday night.

Other division titles went to Pioneer girls and Baskin boys in high school play and the Franklin Parish All-stars among the independent girls.

Babin Motors led Hines in every quarter turn, 33-28, 59-53 and 82-78, but the Mississippi invaders tied up the game at 100-all with three minutes left. Hines then took the lead on a two-pointer, but the champions stormed back to take the lead for good.

Pennington poured in 32 points to pace the Hines County quintet from the floor.

Pioneer's girls downed Crowville, 60-38, to take their crown as Ross rammed in 37 points. Cassidy tallied 22 for Crowville.

Baskin, after a close decision over Forest in the semi-finals, cruised past Block of Jonesville, 39-30, to cop the high school boys' championship. Jarrette put in 11 for the winners and Edwards contributed 16 for the losers. The champions barely squeezed past Forest, 39-37, to gain the finals. Jarrette was again high with 13 points, while Butler netted 17 for Forest.

Fort Necessity, playing without its aces, A. J. Burlew and Milton Linder, bowed to Block, 56-54, in a semi-final tussle. Edwards topped Block with 26 points and Taylor collected 20 for the Fort.

Thompson scored 24 points as the Franklin Parish All-Stars edged Northeast Travelers, 61-52, in the independent girls finale. Jarrette contributed 25 points in the losing cause.

Thompson's 44 points in the semi-final game gave the All-stars a 76-30 verdict over Ogden. Peel led Ogden with 18 points. Jarrette, with 25 counters, again paced the Travelers to a 60-24 win over Baskin in another semi-final scrap. Humphries dropped in 13 for Baskin.

Babin Ford dropped Monterey, 93-70, and Hines County stopped the West Carroll Jaycees, 71-57, to advance to the finals in the independent boys bracket. Norris led Babin Ford with 32 and Ranchino sparked Monterey with 22. Pennington hit 22 for Hines and May, with 20 markers, paced the Jaycees.

Louisville Tops Michigan State

By JERRY LISKA

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Louisville continued as the giant killer of the NCAA Basketball Tournament Saturday night, spurting for 12 straight points at the outset of the second half to defeat Big Ten champion Michigan State 88-81 in the Mideast Regional finals.

Kentucky defeated Marquette, 98-69, in the consolation game.

Louisville, paced by sophomore John Turner's 22 points, now moves into the NCAA semifinals against West Virginia next Friday night on its home court in Louisville.

Louisville's Cardinals, who Friday night eliminated defending champion Kentucky, several itmes trailed Michigan State by seven points in the first half and lagged 43-40 at halftime.

After the second half was less than four minutes old, Louisville had piled up 12 straight points to move ahead of the Spartans, 52-43.

With eight minutes of the game left, Michigan State lost hot-rebounding Johnny Green on fouls. Without Green, who scored 29 points, the Michigan State case was lost.

Within the last five minutes, Louisville's 6-11 Fred Sawyer scored four consecutive field goals, actually dunking them from above the rim, to give the Cardinals an 82-70 margin.

In the key spurt at the outset of the second half, Turner collected five of the 12 points which broke Michigan State's back. In quick succession, the 6-5 sophomore sank two field goals and a free throw.

Louisville started fast, grabbing a 7-1 lead in the first two minutes but the Spartans tied it at 10-10 two minutes later and moved ahead for the first time 13-12 on Lance Olson's free throw with the game five minutes old.

Kentucky swished to an 18-point lead 19-1 within the first five minutes of play and held a halftime margin of 54-24, on the phenomenal shooting of Bennie Coffman and Don Mills.

Coffman, who wound up as the game's high scorer with 28 points, and Mills hit on 16 of 19 shots between them in the first half. Mills finished with 24 points.

Marquette shot only 28 per cent in the futile first half showing in which the Warriors went more than five minutes before scoring their first field goal.

For the entire game, Kentucky shot a sizzling 51 per cent, hitting 43 of 83 field shots. The previous field goal mark for a single NCAA tourney game was 42 by Utah in a record 108-85 victory over Seattle, March 12, 1955.

Marquette's usual high scoring Walt Mangham and Don Kojis were completely shut out in the first half. Kojis finally got going in the second half for 15 points, but Mangham failed to hit his first fielder until about six minutes remained and ended with only four points.

Big Mike Moran led the Warriors with 18 points—12 in the first half in which Kentucky led at one time by 31 points 52-21.

Mountaineers Sweep Past Boston, 86-82

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (AP) — Heavily favored West Virginia had to pull out all stops in the closing minutes Saturday night to beat the Boston University Terriers suddenly turned tiger 86-82 in the finals of the NCAA Eastern Regional Basketball Tournament.

All-America Jerry West, superb scoring machine and floor man for West Virginia, rallied the Mountaineers in the last 12 minutes to provide the clutch points in the last 12 minutes to provide the clutch points in the rousing battle that had 11,651 fans in an uproar.

West had 33 points, cramming 10 in a row into a four-minute stretch late in the game. That effort staked the Mounties to a 71-67 lead with eight minutes left.

B.U. never could catch up but had the Southern Conference champions hustling to preserve their razor-thin margin. The game marked the 14th time in 18 contests West Virginia has won after trailing in the second half.

West Virginia's only basket in the last five minutes was Bob Smith's toss that just beat the final horn. Before that the Mounties had made seven fouls to remain precariously ahead of the battling New Englanders.

B.U. scored the game's first eight points, then West Virginia got the next eight. The half ended 45-all after seven ties and five lead changes.

The fast-moving Mounties spurted ahead 55-48 early in the second half, but Boston made it a down to the wire affair after that. It took all of West's heroics on drives and free throws to regain the lead.

A'S-SENATORS

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — The Kansas City Athletics shut out the Washington Senators 5-0 Saturday behind the four-hit pitching of Russ Meyer, Ray Herbert and Tom Gorman.

Meyer, former National League knuckleballer who has been out of baseball for a year and a half, retired the first 11 batters he faced before he issued a walk in the fourth and Roy Sievers singled. In two Grapefruit League outings Meyer, a free agent, has yielded four hits and no earned runs over nine innings.

The As tagged Washington starter Vito Valentinetti for all of their runs before he retired with a pulled right forearm muscle in the fourth inning.

Lefty Jack Kralick, who is listed on the Senators' farm club roster at Chattanooga, pitched himself a bit closer to a job with the parent team with a fine one-hit shut-out job over his 3 1-3 innings. Kralick, in three Grapefruit League appearances, has yielded no runs and four hits in eight innings.

CARDS-WHITE SOX

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Chuck Essegian, former Stanford fullback, hit a homer in each of two St. Louis six - run innings Saturday as the Cardinals trounced the Chicago White Sox 12-6.

Chicago starter Dick Donovan was shelled for 11 hits in the Cardinals' 12-run attack in the first two innings. The bombardment also included a homer by shortstop Julio Gotay in the first and another by catcher Hal Smith in the second.

Essegian's second inning homer came with two on base.

GIANTS-CUBS

YUMA, Ariz. (AP) — The San Francisco Giants defeated the Chicago Cubs 5-1 Saturday on a barrage of homers and tight pitching by Johnny Antonelli and Jack Sanford.

All the power shots came off rookie Dick Ellsworth, a high priced bonus boy from Fresno, Calif., who won 115 high school games and lost only five.

Antonelli worked five innings giving up the lone run, walking two and striking out two. The run came in the first when Tony Taylor walked, stole second, went to third on an Alvin Dark single and scored on a force out.

Antonelli gave up four hits, Sanford three.

REDS-TIGERS

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—Rookie Whammy Douglas drove home two runs that broke a 1-1 tie in the seventh inning while pitching the Cincinnati Reds to a 4-1 victory Saturday over the Detroit Tigers.

The Tigers outhit the Redlegs 9-8 but four double plays discouraged early scoring threats as Detroit went down to its third defeat in six Grapefruit League starts. Narleski was charged with the loss.

Cincinnati has won five and lost three exhibition games.

PIRATES-BRAVES

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates lambasted Lew Burdette for three runs and Warren Spahn for four Saturday to beat the Milwaukee Braves 8-1 for the third straight time in the current exhibition season.

Roman Mejias clouted a 3-run homer off starter Burdette in the second inning and Bill Mazeroski gave Spahn the same treatment in the fifth. Harry Bright smashed a round-tripper off Humberto Robinson, the Braves' third pitcher, in the ninth.

Braves' bats continued on the quiet side as Bob Friend, George Witt and Elroy Face limited the National League champions to seven hits. Milwaukee had a couple of good chances to score—in the second when Wes Covington singled and Del Crandall doubled, and in the fourth when Covington and Eddie Haas singled.

The Pirates and Braves won't meet again until April 10 when they open the National League season in Pittsburgh.

ORIOLES—PHILS

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP)—The Baltimore Orioles spotted Philadelphia two runs, then clobbered pitcher Ken Lehman for four markers and grabbed a 5-3 exhibition victory Saturday.

Ruben Gomez and Robin Roberts held the Orioles to a single unearned run. The Phils cracked a 1-1 tie in their half of the seventh with Valmy Thomas' triple and Stan Lopata's pinch single accounting for two RBI.

Then in the eighth, the Orioles reached Lehman for a walk, a single, a triple and two more singles, all in succession, making it 4-3.

The Phils lost a chance to tie when Sparky Anderson sent a scorching liner at Baltimore pitcher Arnold Portocarrero in the eighth and advanced on a walk to Ed Bouchee and Harry Anderson's third hit of the day, a single. Anderson, racing from second, rounded third and stopped abruptly for a second, apparently not hearing Coach Johnny Riddle yelling for him to keep going. He got started again, but the throw from right field got home well ahead of him.

Baltimore added another in the ninth on a walk to Chico Carrasquel, a wild throw by Lehman on Joe Ginsberg's sacrifice bunt, and a sacrifice fly.

DODGERS—YANKS

ST. PETERSBURG (AP)—Los Angeles pushed across seven runs in the ninth inning Saturday to nail the New York Yankees 9-7.

Bobby Shantz and Murry Dickson were shelled after the Bombers led 5-2 going into the final inning. The Dodgers tied it at 5-5, off Shantz, who left with the bases full. Dickson relieved and his first pitch was clouted for a base-clearing triple by Don Demeter. Joe Pignatano squeezed in Demeter with the seventh run on the next pitch.

The Yankees bounced back with two in their half, knocking out Fred Kipp but Reno Valdes came on to retire John Blanchard, a pinch hitter, for the final out.

Murray Reports On State Meet

Club secretary V. J. Scott reported the club's membership was estimated at 140 after a recent membership drive. A goal of 350 members has been set by the organization.

North-South Next Stop For Lady Golfers

PINEHURST, N. C. (AP)—The touring women amateur golfers, swinging northward after two months in Florida and Georgia, open the 57th annual North and South tournament here Wednesday.

Heading the list of early entries is Mrs. Philip Cudone of West Caldwell, N. J., the defending champion. The runner-up, Barbara McIntire of Lake Park, Fla., who won in 1957, also is in the field.

Mrs. Maurice Glick of Baltimore and Betty Kerby of Akron, Ohio, Florida circuit winners, also have entered.

Marge Burns of Greensboro, N. C., having one of her best winter seasons, is the top home threat. She reached the semi-finals in three Florida tournaments and was medalist twice.

Wednesday's 32 low qualifiers over the 6,000-yard (front tees) No. 2 course of the Pinehurst Country Club begin match play Thursday. One 18-hole round will be played daily, with the finals on Monday, March 23.

Wall Far In Front Among Cash Winners

Wall, 35, of Pocono Manor, Pa., has pocketed $11,630, thanks to a victory in the Bing Crosby tourney and second place finishes in the Los Angeles and Phoenix Opens during the first six weeks of the year.

Gene Littler of Singing Hills, Calif., moved into the runner-up spot by winning the Phoenix and Tucson events. The 28-year-old Navy veteran's total take is $9,-423.93.

California golfers also hold the next two spots. John McMullin of Fair Oaks ranks third with $6,-795.83 and Ken Venturi of Palo Alto fourth with $5,907.27.

PGA figures show four others bunched tightly behind the first four. They are Mike Souchak, $5,-546.02; Doug Ford, $5,408.07; Marty Furgol, $5,292.88; and Wes Ellis Jr., $5,123.43.

Hotel Manager Turns Sleuth, Regains Loot

CHICAGO AP — A hotel manager turned private detective to recover uniforms of the New Bedford Tech basketball team after they were stolen during a Chicago visit.

The equipment was in a trunk stolen from the baggage compartment of the team's chartered bus the night of Feb. 23. The theft was reported to police. But Ken Thurston, manager of the team's South Sile hotel, took his own steps.

"The team members were such a wonderful bunch," he said. "I talked to the owner of the parking lot and he helped me interview residents of the apartments which overlook the lot.

"One woman described a man she saw beside the bus, and we just took a chance on his identity. We didn't find him, but told acquaintances we had his name and we wanted the equipment back fast-or else."

Thurston said the uniforms were dumped in front of the parking lot the next night. He sent them to New Bedford.

MOON OUT AT SECOND — Los Angeles Dodger Wally Moon is out at second base as New York Yankee shortstop Bobby Richardson strains to make the throw to first base in time to get Duke Snider for a double play in the first inning of yesterday's game at St. Petersburg, Fla. 'YOU'VE GOT TO'

Sal Admits Hurling High Tight One Now And Then

By ED WILKS

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) —"Sure every good pitcher throws a high tight one now and then," said Sal Maglie, the oldest established barber still in business. "You've got to. A pitcher's got to protect himself from the hitters.

"More hitters are swinging for home runs these days. Why not? That's where the money is. But a pitcher's got to live, too."

The St. Louis Cardinals' right-hander, a veteran at 42 who has pitched the Giants and Dodgers to pennants and has helped the Yankees collect in the American, was shagging an occasional fly at Al Lang Field.

A fella had been standing out of harm's way and talking of how Walter (Boom Boom) Beck had mentioned the other day that most good pitchers go to the high, inside pitch, but not as often as they used to. And how Cookie Lavagetto recalled that in his first game in the majors he was sent to the dirt every time he came to the plate. "They didn't waste any time finding out what kind of a player you were," Cookie said.

Beck pitched for the Dodgers when they were managed by Casey Stengel. Lavagetto, also a former Dodger, now is managing the Washington Senators and Boom Boom is his pitching coach.

"There are a lot of reasons why more home runs are hit now than before," Maglie said. "But one reason, maybe, is that you don't see pitchers throwing at the hitters so much any more.

"I don't know when it changed. I think I first noticed it in '51 or along in there. There wasn't any rule against it. Not until last year, they put a fine on throwing knock down pitches.

"I won't say how much effect tight pitches would have on some of these home run hitters. But look at Henry Aaron. What was he doing early last season before they put in the rule? He did a lot better afterward.

"But you have to throw high inside sometimes. It's just part of moving the ball around so the hitter won't be getting set for a pitch. You pitch him high inside low outside, low outside and high inside. You mix it up, of course. You have to keep moving the ball.

"I'd say they do more of it in than league than in the American. I wasn't over there very long, but I didn't see too much of it.

"You don't see many young pitchers doing it. You have to have a reputation for it before it's effective. Throwing high inside just once in a while doesn't do any good. Look at Robin Roberts last year. He knocked down four or five guys, but everyone knows he has good control so they just get set against him."

"I don't throw at every hitter," Sal said. "Maybe you only throw at one and it takes care of the whole team.

"When I throw at a guy, I put it right here—," and he made a swipe under his chin with his hand, "so he can't hit it."

"But I never throw to hit a man," Sal added.

"It's a gentleman's game now."

SPORTS DIAL

Walter Cronkite Sports Car Fan

By JIM KENSIL

NEW YORK (AP)—"The day I drove my first used sports car off the lot I was fascinated. Soon I was to realize that sports car racing was the most exciting experience of my life, except war."

Walter Cronkite is no engine-struck, pedal-happy speed lover. He's an intelligent 42-year-old news correspondent. Most people know him as one of the top newscasters on television and radio. He often faced danger during World War II, and his appraisal of sports car racing is based on the belief that participating in it is safer than a Sunday drive on a turnpike.

Next Saturday he will combine business and pleasure when he broadcasts for CBS radio the Florida International Grand Prix of Endurance. Cronkite, the newscaster, will be heard while Cronkite, the driver, is not whirling around the 5.2 mile course in an Italian-made Lancia Zagato.

"Yes," he agrees, "there was a time when I shared the general public opinion that sports car racing was pretty silly. I pooh-poohed the idea that it proved anything, but now I find it the most intriguing hobby imaginable."

What does his wife think about his hobby?

"She's so darn good about it I sometimes think I'm over-insured."

"Well, as I told her, 'it's not as safe as not driving,' but you have to look at it this way:

"People who drive sports cars just plain love to drive. And when you love something, you think about it. That's why the highway accident ratio on sports cars is very low.

"And the trend carries over into the racing end of it. The drivers themselves pass on an individual's qualifications to race. A race driver must complete courses at three driving schools. A driver can be 'black flagged' off a course for irresponsible driving. There are frequent physical examinations for drivers. The cars are carefully tested. The courses are controlled, and the men who drive on them are safe drivers."

Cronkite, who has been driving sports cars only three years, admits his career in racing will be short because of physical limitations that go with age, but he is looking forward eagerly to his first crack at the 12-hour Sebring race.

He will team with Peter Baumberger, a chemical executive, and Warren Rohlfs, a printing executive, in driving the 4-cylinder Gran Turismo (grand touring) closed type sports car. Compared to the well-known Ferrari and Masserati cars, it has about half as much engine power and a top speed of about 105 m.p.h. The Maseratis and Ferraris can hit 175.

Cronkite will broadcast from Sebring at 9:55-10 a.m., EST, 11:05-11:15 a.m., 12:05-12:15, 1:05-1:15, 6:05-6:15, 7:10-7:20, 8:15-8:25 and 10:15-10:30 p.m.

He plans to do most of his driving during the afternoon hours while the less daring Metropolitan Opera is on the air.

LSU Thinclads Take Easy Win Over Fla. State

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) — Louisiana State University scored an 86-50 track meet victory over Florida State Saturday as the Tigers swept 12 of 16 first places.

All-America football star Billy Cannon and sprinter - hurdler Cannon won the 100-yard dash in 9.5 seconds, a step ahead of Fabian. Fabian won the 220-yard dash with Cannon trailing by a like margin.

Cannon also won the shotput event, and Fabian won the 220 low hurdles.

Big gun for Florida State was Jim Casteel, who won the 440 dash and placed third in the 220 dash and broad jump.

Southland 'Cap

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Mrs. Emil Denemark's stretch - running Racetracker easily won the $6,500 Southland Handicap at Oaklawn Park Saturday, registering his third straight triumph.

A record-breaking crowd of 17,-735 watched as Racetracker reached the end of the mile and 70 yard test 2½ lengths ahead of Mrs. A. M. Creech's Styrunner.

60-YARD DASH

Herb Carper Ties Own Indoor Mark

By HARVEY HUDSON

PARIS (AP)—Herb Carper, former University of Pittsburgh sprinter, equalled his own world indoor record for the 60-yard dash Saturday by running the distance in 6 seconds flat.

Only two weeks ago, in a meet in Germany, Carper became the first man in history to clock 6 seconds for the 60-yard dash indoors. In fact, only Jim Golliday, a former Northwestern runner, has hit 6 seconds for the distance outdoors.

A turnaway crowd of more than 11,000 — the largest gathering to watch an indoor meet in Paris since long before World War — —turned out to watch Carper and four fellow Americans perform.

Later, however, some doubt was cast on the accuracy of the timers by Morgan State's Paul Winder, who made practically a clean sweep of the dashes in the U.S. indoor season the past two months.

Winder was clocked in 6.1 seconds in his heat. That equalled the official world indoor record held jointly by more than 20 runners, but he couldn't believe the clocking.

"I couldn't have done it in 6.1," he said. "I was slowing up. In the States it would have been about 6.3."

But the crowd went wild and gave Carper a mighty cheer when the time was announced. Indoor track has been practically dead in France for many a year and officials happily predicted this meet might be the start of a new era.

Elias Gilbert of Winston-Salem Teachers College, a prime Olympic candidate, captured the 60 - yard high hurdles in 7.2 seconds, beating Robert Dohen of France by about four yards.

George Dennis of Morgan State won the high jump with a leap of 6 feet, 9 inches. He tried once at 6-10 and missed. Then he quit because his knee, which he injured in the Milwaukee Journal Games last Monday, bothered him.

Don Bragg of Philadelphia, who holds the world indoor pole vault record, also gave the crowd something to cheer about. He cleared 15 feet, 5 inches and then took three tries at 15-10½, which would have broken his own mark by one inch.

Each time he went down the runway, the crowd was hushed and each time he missed, there were groans. But, like Carper, he got a tremendous ovation when he finished.

The runway was built up eight inches from the floor and was spongy, a factor which made it difficult for the vaulters.

Utah Choice To Take Jr. College Meet

HUTCHITSON, Kan. (UPI) — The flashiest show in junior college basketball — the annual National Tournament—opens here at noon Tuesday with a fast and free-scoring Utah team favored to win its first championship.

Seeding doesn't mean much in the National Tournament since it's done by drawing from a hat. But Weber College of Ogden, Utah has a record that means a great deal. In a schedule that took it over several western and midwestern states against the toughest competition they had to offer, it lost just three of 33 games.

Besides Weber, the teams that have qualified for the tournament are the Cameron Aggies, Lawton, Okla.; Independence, Kan. Jr. College; Lasalle-Peru-Ogilsby of Illinois; Pratt, Kan. Jr. College; Macon Institute of Alabama; Chipola Jr. College, Marianna, Fla.; Mesa Jr. College, Grand Junction, Colo.; Henry Ford Community College of Michigan; Bethany Lutheran, Mankato, Minn.; Paris Tex., Jr. College; Alfred Tech of New York; Lindsey - Wilson, Columbia, Ky.; San Angelo, Tex. Jr. College, and Greenville Jr. College of Tigerville, S.C.

Pettit, Baylor Selected For NBA Honors

ST LOUIS (AP)—The Sporting News Saturday named record scorer Bob Pettit of the St. Louis Hawks as player of the year, heading a National Basketball Assn. all-star team selected by a poll of NBA players.

Others on the first team were Elgin Baylor of Minneapolis, also voted rookie of the year, and three Boston Celtics players—Bill Russell, Bob Cousy and Bill Sharman.

On the second team were Ken Sears and Richie Guerin of the New York Knickerbockers, Larry Costello and Dolph Schayes of the Syracuse Nationals and Paul Arizin of the Philadelphia Warriors.

Pettit's 2,105 points and a 29.2 average were NBA records. He also set marks for field goals, free throws and free throws attempted.

Barranquilla Tennis Crown To Mrs. Knode

BARRANQUILLA, Colombia (AP)—Mrs. Dorothy Knode of Forest Hills, N. Y., Saturday won the womens singles title in the City of Barranquilla International Tennis Tournament by defeating Maria Esthe Bueno of Brazil, 1-6, 6-2, 6-2, in the finals.

The womens doubles championship was won by the Mexican pair of Rosa Maria Reyes and Yolanda Ramirez, who triumphed over Miss Bueno and Janet Hopps, of Seattle, 6-3, 6-3.

Luis Ayala of Chile and Bernard Bartzen of San Angelo, Tex., advanced to the men's singles final. Ayala won an uphill contest against Budge Patty of Los Angeles, 2-6, 3-6, 7-5, 6-4, 7-5, and Bartzen whipped Mexico's Mario Llamas, 3-6, 6-3, 6-3, 6-2.

In the men's doubles semifinals, Ayala and Jaroslav Drobny of Egypt, defeated Bartzen and Jack Forst, of San Francisco, 6-4, 6-4, 6-2.

Two Gridders Dropped By Pittsburgh U.

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A University of Pittsburgh official said Saturday night that two members of last season's varsity football squad have been dismissed and two others have withdrawn from school.

Asst. Chancellor Dr. John Geise said all four of the football players were in their sophomore year. He declined to discuss the reasons for either the dismissals or the withdrawals.

Dr. Geise confirmed that fullback Marty Baracca of Blairsville, Pa., and center Mike Lucci of Ambridge, Pa., were dismissed.

Quarterback Ed Sharockman of St. Clair, Pa., and fullback Pat Morsillo of Ambridge withdrew. The players could not be reached for comment.

Dr. Geise said the students withdrawing will be permitted to apply for reinstatement but those dismissed will not be permitted to do so.

A'S-SENATORS

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — The Kansas City Athletics shut out the Washington Senators 5-0 Saturday behind the four-hit pitching of Russ Meyer, Ray Herbert and Tom Gorman.

Meyer, former National League knuckleballer who has been out of baseball for a year and a half, retired the first 11 batters he faced before he issued a walk in the fourth and Roy Sievers singled. In two Grapefruit League outings Meyer, a free agent, has yielded four hits and no earned runs over nine innings.

The As tagged Washington starter Vito Valentinetti for all of their runs before he retired with a pulled right forearm muscle in the fourth inning.

Lefty Jack Kralick, who is listed on the Senators' farm club roster at Chattanooga, pitched himself a bit closer to a job with the parent team with a fine one-hit shut-out job over his 3 1-3 innings. Kralick, in three Grapefruit League appearances, has yielded no runs and four hits in eight innings.

CARDS-WHITE SOX

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Chuck Essegian, former Stanford fullback, hit a homer in each of two St. Louis six - run innings Saturday as the Cardinals trounced the Chicago White Sox 12-6.

Chicago starter Dick Donovan was shelled for 11 hits in the Cardinals' 12-run attack in the first two innings. The bombardment also included a homer by shortstop Julio Gotay in the first and another by catcher Hal Smith in the second.

Essegian's second inning homer came with two on base.

GIANTS-CUBS

YUMA, Ariz. (AP) — The San Francisco Giants defeated the Chicago Cubs 5-1 Saturday on a barrage of homers and tight pitching by Johnny Antonelli and Jack Sanford.

All the power shots came off rookie Dick Ellsworth, a high priced bonus boy from Fresno, Calif., who won 115 high school games and lost only five.

Antonelli worked five innings giving up the lone run, walking two and striking out two. The run came in the first when Tony Taylor walked, stole second, went to third on an Alvin Dark single and scored on a force out.

Antonelli gave up four hits, Sanford three.

REDS-TIGERS

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—Rookie Whammy Douglas drove home two runs that broke a 1-1 tie in the seventh inning while pitching the Cincinnati Reds to a 4-1 victory Saturday over the Detroit Tigers.

The Tigers outhit the Redlegs 9-8 but four double plays discouraged early scoring threats as Detroit went down to its third defeat in six Grapefruit League starts. Narleski was charged with the loss.

Cincinnati has won five and lost three exhibition games.

PIRATES-BRAVES

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates lambasted Lew Burdette for three runs and Warren Spahn for four Saturday to beat the Milwaukee Braves 8-1 for the third straight time in the current exhibition season.

Roman Mejias clouted a 3-run homer off starter Burdette in the second inning and Bill Mazeroski gave Spahn the same treatment in the fifth. Harry Bright smashed a round-tripper off Humberto Robinson, the Braves' third pitcher, in the ninth.

Braves' bats continued on the quiet side as Bob Friend, George Witt and Elroy Face limited the National League champions to seven hits. Milwaukee had a couple of good chances to score—in the second when Wes Covington singled and Del Crandall doubled, and in the fourth when Covington and Eddie Haas singled.

The Pirates and Braves won't meet again until April 10 when they open the National League season in Pittsburgh.

ORIOLES—PHILS

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP)—The Baltimore Orioles spotted Philadelphia two runs, then clobbered pitcher Ken Lehman for four markers and grabbed a 5-3 exhibition victory Saturday.

Ruben Gomez and Robin Roberts held the Orioles to a single unearned run. The Phils cracked a 1-1 tie in their half of the seventh with Valmy Thomas' triple and Stan Lopata's pinch single accounting for two RBI.

Then in the eighth, the Orioles reached Lehman for a walk, a single, a triple and two more singles, all in succession, making it 4-3.

The Phils lost a chance to tie when Sparky Anderson sent a scorching liner at Baltimore pitcher Arnold Portocarrero in the eighth and advanced on a walk to Ed Bouchee and Harry Anderson's third hit of the day, a single. Anderson, racing from second, rounded third and stopped abruptly for a second, apparently not hearing Coach Johnny Riddle yelling for him to keep going. He got started again, but the throw from right field got home well ahead of him.

Baltimore added another in the ninth on a walk to Chico Carrasquel, a wild throw by Lehman on Joe Ginsberg's sacrifice bunt, and a sacrifice fly.

DODGERS—YANKS

ST. PETERSBURG (AP)—Los Angeles pushed across seven runs in the ninth inning Saturday to nail the New York Yankees 9-7.

Bobby Shantz and Murry Dickson were shelled after the Bombers led 5-2 going into the final inning. The Dodgers tied it at 5-5, off Shantz, who left with the bases full. Dickson relieved and his first pitch was clouted for a base-clearing triple by Don Demeter. Joe Pignatano squeezed in Demeter with the seventh run on the next pitch.

The Yankees bounced back with two in their half, knocking out Fred Kipp but Reno Valdes came on to retire John Blanchard, a pinch hitter, for the final out.

Wall Far In Front Among Cash Winners

Wall, 35, of Pocono Manor, Pa., has pocketed $11,630, thanks to a victory in the Bing Crosby tourney and second place finishes in the Los Angeles and Phoenix Opens during the first six weeks of the year.

Gene Littler of Singing Hills, Calif., moved into the runner-up spot by winning the Phoenix and Tucson events. The 28-year-old Navy veteran's total take is $9,423.93.

California golfers also hold the next two spots. John McMullin of Fair Oaks ranks third with $6,795.83 and Ken Venturi of Palo Alto fourth with $5,907.27.

PGA figures show four others bunched tightly behind the first four. They are Mike Souchak, $5,546.02; Doug Ford, $5,408.07; Marty Furgol, $5,292.88; and Wes Ellis Jr., $5,123.43.

Hotel Manager Turns Sleuth, Regains Loot

CHICAGO AP — A hotel manager turned private detective to recover uniforms of the New Bedford Tech basketball team after they were stolen during a Chicago visit.

The equipment was in a trunk stolen from the baggage compartment of the team's chartered bus the night of Feb. 23. The theft was reported to police. But Ken Thurston, manager of the team's South Sile hotel, took his own steps.

"The team members were such a wonderful bunch," he said. "I talked to the owner of the parking lot and he helped me interview residents of the apartments which overlook the lot.

"One woman described a man she saw beside the bus, and we just took a chance on his identity. We didn't find him, but told acquaintances we had his name and we wanted the equipment back fast-or else."

Thurston said the uniforms were dumped in front of the parking lot the next night. He sent them to New Bedford.

Murray Reports On State Meet

Club secretary V. J. Scott reported the club's membership was estimated at 140 after a recent membership drive. A goal of 350 members has been set by the organization.

North-South Next Stop For Lady Golfers

PINEHURST, N. C. (AP)—The touring women amateur golfers, swinging northward after two months in Florida and Georgia, open the 57th annual North and South tournament here Wednesday.

Heading the list of early entries is Mrs. Philip Cudone of West Caldwell, N. J., the defending champion. The runner-up, Barbara McIntire of Lake Park, Fla., who won in 1957, also is in the field.

Mrs. Maurice Glick of Baltimore and Betty Kerby of Akron, Ohio, Florida circuit winners, also have entered.

Marge Burns of Greensboro, N. C., having one of her best winter seasons, is the top home threat. She reached the semi-finals in three Florida tournaments and was medalist twice.

Wednesday's 32 low qualifiers over the 6,000-yard (front tees) No. 2 course of the Pinehurst Country Club begin match play Thursday. One 18-hole round will be played daily, with the finals on Monday, March 23.

'YOU'VE GOT TO'

Sal Admits Hurling High Tight One Now And Then

By ED WILKS

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) —"Sure every good pitcher throws a high tight one now and then," said Sal Maglie, the oldest established barber still in business. "You've got to. A pitcher's got to protect himself from the hitters.

"More hitters are swinging for home runs these days. Why not? That's where the money is. But a pitcher's got to live, too."

The St. Louis Cardinals' right-hander, a veteran at 42 who has pitched the Giants and Dodgers to pennants and has helped the Yankees collect in the American, was shagging an occasional fly at Al Lang Field.

A fella had been standing out of harm's way and talking of how Walter (Boom Boom) Beck had mentioned the other day that most good pitchers go to the high, inside pitch, but not as often as they used to. And how Cookie Lavagetto recalled that in his first game in the majors he was sent to the dirt every time he came to the plate. "They didn't waste any time finding out what kind of a player you were," Cookie said.

Beck pitched for the Dodgers when they were managed by Casey Stengel. Lavagetto, also a former Dodger, now is managing the Washington Senators and Boom Boom is his pitching coach.

"There are a lot of reasons why more home runs are hit now than before," Maglie said. "But one reason, maybe, is that you don't see pitchers throwing at the hitters so much any more.

"I don't know when it changed. I think I first noticed it in '51 or along in there. There wasn't any rule against it. Not until last year, they put a fine on throwing knock down pitches.

"I won't say how much effect tight pitches would have on some of these home run hitters. But look at Henry Aaron. What was he doing early last season before they put in the rule? He did a lot better afterward.

"But you have to throw high inside sometimes. It's just part of moving the ball around so the hitter won't be getting set for a pitch. You pitch him high inside low outside, low outside and high inside. You mix it up, of course. You have to keep moving the ball.

"I'd say they do more of it in than league than in the American. I wasn't over there very long, but I didn't see too much of it.

"You don't see many young pitchers doing it. You have to have a reputation for it before it's effective. Throwing high inside just once in a while doesn't do any good. Look at Robin Roberts last year. He knocked down four or five guys, but everyone knows he has good control so they just get set against him."

"I don't throw at every hitter," Sal said. "Maybe you only throw at one and it takes care of the whole team.

"When I throw at a guy, I put it right here—," and he made a swipe under his chin with his hand, "so he can't hit it."

"But I never throw to hit a man," Sal added.

"It's a gentleman's game now."

SPORTS DIAL

Walter Cronkite Sports Car Fan

By JIM KENSIL

NEW YORK (AP)—"The day I drove my first used sports car off the lot I was fascinated. Soon I was to realize that sports car racing was the most exciting experience of my life, except war."

Walter Cronkite is no engine-struck, pedal-happy speed lover. He's an intelligent 42-year-old news correspondent. Most people know him as one of the top newscasters on television and radio. He often faced danger during World War II, and his appraisal of sports car racing is based on the belief that participating in it is safer than a Sunday drive on a turnpike.

Next Saturday he will combine business and pleasure when he broadcasts for CBS radio the Florida International Grand Prix of Endurance. Cronkite, the newscaster, will be heard while Cronkite, the driver, is not whirling around the 5.2 mile course in an Italian-made Lancia Zagato.

"Yes," he agrees, "there was a time when I shared the general public opinion that sports car racing was pretty silly. I pooh-poohed the idea that it proved anything, but now I find it the most intriguing hobby imaginable."

What does his wife think about his hobby?

"She's so darn good about it I sometimes think I'm over-insured."

"Well, as I told her, 'it's not as safe as not driving,' but you have to look at it this way:

"People who drive sports cars just plain love to drive. And when you love something, you think about it. That's why the highway accident ratio on sports cars is very low.

"And the trend carries over into the racing end of it. The drivers themselves pass on an individual's qualifications to race. A race driver must complete courses at three driving schools. A driver can be 'black flagged' off a course for irresponsible driving. There are frequent physical examinations for drivers. The cars are carefuliy tested. The courses are controlled, and the men who drive on them are safe drivers."

Cronkite, who has been driving sports cars only three years, admits his career in racing will be short because of physical limitations that go with age, but he is looking forward eagerly to his first crack at the 12-hour Sebring race.

He will team with Peter Baumberger, a chemical executive, and Warren Rohlfs, a printing executive, in driving the 4-cylinder Gran Turismo (grand touring) closed type sports car. Compared to the well-known Ferrari and Masseratti cars, it has about half as much engine power and a top speed of about 105 m.p.h. The Maseratis and Ferraris can hit 175.

Cronkite will broadcast from Sebring at 9:55-10 a.m., EST, 11:05-11:15 a.m., 12:05-12:15, 1:05-1:15, 6:05-6:15, 7:10-7:20, 8:15-8:25 and 10:15-10:30 p.m.

He plans to do most of his driving during the afternoon hours while the less daring Metropolitan Opera is on the air.

LSU Thinclads Take Easy Win Over Fla. State

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) — Louisiana State University scored an 86-50 track meet victory over Florida State Saturday as the Tigers swept 12 of 16 first places.

All-America football star Billy Cannon and sprinter - hurdler points for LSU. Cannon won the 100-yard dash in 9.5 seconds, a step ahead of Fabian. Fabian won the 220-yard dash with Cannon trailing by a like margin.

Cannon also won the shotput event, and Fabian won the 220 low hurdles.

Big gun for Florida State was Jim Casteel, who won the 440 dash and placed third in the 220 dash and broad jump.

Southland 'Cap

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Mrs. Emil Denemark's stretch - running Racetracker easily won the $6,500 Southland Handicap at Oaklawn Park Saturday, registering his third straight triumph.

A record-breaking crowd of 17,735 watched as Racetracker reached the end of the mile and 70 yard test 2½ lengths ahead of Mrs. A. M. Creech's Styrunner.

60-YARD DASH

Herb Carper Ties Own Indoor Mark

By HARVEY HUDSON

PARIS (AP)—Herb Carper, former University of Pittsburgh sprinter, equalled his own world indoor record for the 60-yard dash Saturday by running the distance in 6 seconds flat.

Only two weeks ago, in a meet in Germany, Carper became the first man in history to clock 6 seconds for the 60-yard dash indoors. In fact, only Jim Golliday, a former Northwestern runner, has hit 6 seconds for the distance outdoors.

A turnaway crowd of more than 11,000 — the largest gathering to watch an indoor meet in Paris since long before World War ——turned out to watch Carper and four fellow Americans perform.

Later, however, some doubt was cast on the accuracy of the timers by Morgan State's Paul Winder, who made practically a clean sweep of the dashes in the U.S. indoor season the past two months.

Winder was clocked in 6.1 seconds in his heat. That equalled the official world indoor record held jointly by more than 20 runners, but he couldn't believe the clocking.

"I couldn't have done it in 6.1," he said. "I was slowing up. In the States it would have been about 6.3."

But the crowd went wild and gave Carper a mighty cheer when the time was announced. Indoor track has been practically dead in France for many a year and officials happily predicted this meet might be the start of a new era.

Elias Gilbert of Winston-Salem Teachers College, a prime Olympic candidate, captured the 60 - yard high hurdles in 7.2 seconds, beating Robert Dohen of France by about four yards.

George Dennis of Morgan State won the high jump with a leap of 6 feet, 9 inches. He tried once at 6-10 and missed. Then he quit because his knee, which he injured in the Milwaukee Journal Games last Monday, bothered him.

Don Bragg of Philadelphia, who holds the world indoor pole vault record, also gave the crowd something to cheer about. He cleared 15 feet, 5 inches and then took three tries at 15-10½, which would have broken his own mark by one inch.

Each time he went down the runway, the crowd was hushed and each time he missed, there were groans. But, like Carper, he got a tremendous ovation when he finished.

The runway was built up eight inches from the floor and was spongy, a factor which made it difficult for the vaulters.

Utah Choice To Take Jr. College Meet

HUTCHITSON, Kan. (UPI) — The flashiest show in junior college basketball — the annual National Tournament—opens here at noon Tuesday with a fast and free-scoring Utah team favored to win its first championship.

Seeding doesn't mean much in the National Tournament since it's done by drawing from a hat. But Weber College of Ogden, Utah has a record that means a great deal. In a schedule that took it over several western and midwestern states against the toughest competition they had to offer, it lost just three of 33 games.

Besides Weber, the teams that have qualified for the tournament are the Cameron Aggies, Lawton, Okla.; Independence, Kan. Jr. College; Lasalle-Peru-Ogilsby of Illinois; Pratt, Kan. Jr. College; Macon Institute of Alabama; Chipola Jr. College, Marianna, Fla.; Mesa Jr. College, Grand Junction, Colo.; Henry Ford Community College of Michigan; Bethany Lutheran, Mankato, Minn.; Paris Tex., Jr. College; Alfred Tech of New York; Lindsey - Wilson, Columbia, Ky.; San Angelo, Tex. Jr. College, and Greenville Jr. College of Tigerville, S.C.

Pettit, Baylor Selected For NBA Honors

ST LOUIS (AP)—The Sporting News Saturday named record scorer Bob Pettit of the St. Louis Hawks as player of the year, heading a National Basketball Assn. all-star team selected by a poll of NBA players.

Others on the first team were Elgin Baylor of Minneapolis, also voted rookie of the year, and three Boston Celtics players—Bill Russell, Bob Cousy and Bill Sharman.

On the second team were Ken Sears and Richie Guerin of the New York Knickerbockers, Larry Costello and Dolph Schayes of the Syracuse Nationals and Paul Arizin of the Philadelphia Warriors.

Pettit's 2,105 points and a 29.2 average were NBA records. He also set marks for field goals, free throws and free throws attempted.

Barranquilla Tennis Crown To Mrs. Knode

BARRANQUILLA, Colombia (AP)—Mrs. Dorothy Knode of Forest Hills, N. Y., Saturday won the womens singles title in the City of Barranquilla International Tennis Tournament by defeating Maria Esthe Bueno of Brazil, 1-6, 6-2, 6-2, in the finals.

The womens doubles championship was won by the Mexican pair of Rosa Maria Reyes and Yolanda Ramirez, who triumphed over Miss Bueno and Janet Hopps, of Seattle, 6-3, 6-3.

Luis Ayala of Chile and Bernard Bartzen of San Angelo, Tex., advanced to the men's singles final. Ayala won an uphill contest against Budge Patty of Los Angeles, 2-6, 3-6, 7-5, 6-4, 7-5, and Bartzen whipped Mexico's Mario Llamas, 3-6, 6-3, 6-3, 6-2.

In the men's doubles semifinals, Ayala and Jaroslav Drobny of Egypt, defeated Bartzen and Jack Forst, of San Francisco, 6-4, 6-4, 6-2.

Two Gridders Dropped By Pittsburgh U.

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A University of Pittsburgh official said Saturday night that two members of last season's varsity football squad have been dismissed and two others have withdrawn from school.

Asst. Chancellor Dr. John Geise said all four of the football players were in their sophomore year. He declined to discuss the reasons for either the dismissals or the withdrawals.

Dr. Geise confirmed that fullback Marty Baracca of Blairsville, Pa., and center Mike Lucci of Ambridge, Pa., were dismissed.

Quarterback Ed Sharockman of St. Clair, Pa., and fullback Pat Morsillo of Ambridge withdrew. The players could not be reached for comment.

Dr. Geise said the students withdrawing will be permitted to apply for reinstatement but those dismissed will not be permitted to do so.

BASTROP'S BRAKEFIELD TOP CHOICE

Ouachita's Crowe, Rebels' Lewis On All District Team

By JIM DAWSON
Shreveport Times
(Written for La. Sports Writers Assn.)

Bastrop scoring ace Larry Brakefield and two members of the district champion Bossier team, Bobby Kile and Cecil Upshaw, head the all-District 1-AAA basketball squad selected by the circuit's six coaches.

Others named to the six-man first team were Linus Lopez of Fair Park, Larry Lewis of West Monroe and Harry (Rabbit) Crowe, Ouachita's one-man whirlwind. The six-man team came about when three players tied in voting points.

Voting on the all-district team were coaches John (Hound) McConathy of Bossier, Clem Henderson of Fair Park, Scotty Robertson of Byrd, Wig Riley of Bastrop, L. V. Norris of West Monroe and Herbert Holliman of Ouachita. A first-team vote was worth 10 points, a second-team ballot five points.

Two Byrd standouts, Jimmy Williams and Bobby Watson, head the second team which also includes O'Brian Smith of Fair Park, Troy Spigner of Bastrop and Dennis Kile of Bossier. Four players—Bossier's Ronnie Smith, Fair Park's Jerry Burton and Kelton Bacon and Don Tatum of West Monroe— received honorable mention support from the coaches.

Brakefield, a 6-3 senior, was the district's top rebounder and second-best scorer. The Ram jumping-jack averaged eight rebounds and 17.1 points per game against conference foes and was the only unanimous first-team choice.

Lopez sparked Fair Park to a second-place finish and a state playoff berth. The 6-0 senior lacked only one vote of being a unanimous selection after canning 13.8 points per game.

Bobby Kile, 6-2½ Bossier senior, hit 12.9 points per game in district play, was a rugged rebounder and became the loop's finest playmaker. Always at his best in crucial games, Bobby plunked in 31 points in Boosier's only close conference game, a 59-56 squeeze past Byrd, and hit 21 points in Bossier's playoff game against East Jefferson.

The Bearkats won the title with a perfect 10-0 record and had a four-game bulge on runner-up Fair Park. Bossier was bounced out of the playoffs by East Jefferson while Fair Park bowed to Fortier in its post-session fling.

Upshaw, at 6-5 the tallest player on the team, averaged 13.8 points per game, was Greater Shreveport's scoring champion for the season and the top rebounder on the Bearkat team. The stringbean forward is only a junior and should become one of the state's outstanding players next season.

The 5-11 Lewis was the big gun in West Monroe's attack. The senior sharpshooter averaged 16.6 markers per game over the season and 14 in conference play and was a fierce competitor.

Crowe, another in the seemingly endless line of Ouachita's famed athletic brothers, clicked for 20.8 points per game to grab the loop scoring crown. Only a junior, the pesky Lion guard won the Twin Cities individual scoring title with a 16.8 average for the season.

Defense Paid Off On GSC Courts

LAKE CHARLES, La.— Which is more important in college basketball — a good offense or a good defense? Is the best defense a good offense, as they say in football? Or vice versa?

Proponets of defensive basketball may be able to use the Gulf States Conference's 1958-59 campaign as a case in point. Over the full season, the two best defensive outfits wound up in the first two places in the standings.

On the other hand, the best offensive outfit wound up in fourth place.

Louisiana Tech's Bulldogs won the conference championship with a 9-1 record, and compiled the best full - season mark: 21 victories and four defeats.

The Bulldogs ranked second in team defense for the complete season, giving up an average of 59 points per game to 25 foes. The defensive leader — for the seventh straight year over the full - season mark — was McNeese, with a 58.4 average.

SLI's Bulldogs, on the other hand, averaged 81.9 points per game, equalling the conference record set by Northwestern's Demons in 1954-55. SLI was also the cellar team in defense, yielding an average of 83.1 points per game to 24 foes.

SLI had the best field goal shooting percentage, the Bulldogs caging 44 per cent of their shots from the floor. Louisiana Tech was second with a 42.5 average.

Northwestern took first place in the other two team categories. The Demons had the best free try percentage (70 per cent), and committed the most personal fouls (23.6 per game).

WRESTLING CARD

Russian Royal Featured Monday

A new face and four familiar grapplers headline tomorrow night's weekly wrestling card at the B&B Arena in a Russian Royal scramble slated to kick off the action at 8:15 p.m.

Promoter August Baumgartner, who has recently brought a number of new wrestlers to the local scene, and who says he plans to eventually have every wrestler in the business here for the fans to see, has imported newcomer Jerry Miller for the five-man tussle.

A clever and fast matman, Miller has been described as "hard to beat" and should furnish plenty of rugged spectator action.

Also billed are perennial favorite Jack Curtis, the Alexandria fire eater Phil Brummett, villian Charley Laye and Bill Strong. Strong, a nice-looking, well-built boy, appeared in his debut here last week and fans were well pleased with his performance.

Brummett, also tabbed the "pride of Alexandria", has been taking lessons from the old pros and is just about ready for a state title match.

The Russia Royal opens with five men in the ring, with the main objective to throw any or all of the other four batlers over the top rope. The first man to make this airborne exit will be finished for the night.

The next two combatants forced from the ring will be matched in the night's semi-final scrap, and the final pair remaining will clash in the main event.

CHARLEY LAYE

Indian Pitchers Impressive In Early Workout

CLINTON, La. (Special) — Northeast's baseball squad, pointing for the 1959 season opener against Oklahoma Baptist College in Monroe Friday, held a practice session against Mississippi College here Saturday afternoon.

Although no score was kept and both teams substituted freely throughout the 14 inning workout, Northeast ment or George Luffey reported he was well pleased with the Redskin pitching staff.

Jay Gross looked impressive for Northeast in a brief three - inning stint on the mound, and veteran Louis Sikes showed up well. Jerry Rouse, a Perkinston Junior College transfer, and Jerry Collins and Darrell Boothe, both freshmen, also pitched creditable ball.

Luffey also voiced satisfaction with the club's fielding, but added the hitting was below par. He plans to send the team through extensive batting drills before Friday's battle with Oklahoma Baptist.

SMITH, SUGGS

Two Still Share Lead At Augusta

By MERCER BAILEY

AUGUSTA, Ga (AP) — Louise Suggs and Wiffi Smith finished the third round of the 10th Women's Titleholders Golf Tournament Saturday the same way they started—deadlocked for first place.

Each fired a 3-over-par 75 for a 226 total. Par for the rolling, 6,302-yard Augusta Country Club course is 36-36—72.

Betsy Rawls of Spartanburg, S.C., picked up two eagles en route to her 74 and climbed into third place at 228. She started the round tied for fifth.

Mickey Wright slipped to a 78 and fourth place at 230. The tall San Diego, Calif., blonde lost two strokes on the final hole, blasting from a sand trap completely over the green. She took a double-bogey 6.

Miss Smith, 22-year-old slammer from St. Clair, Mich., had a fine opportunity to move out front alone until she ran into an old jinx—the back nine. She made the turn with a fine one-under-par 35 and at that point was two strokes ahead of Miss Suggs, who plays out of Sea Island, Ga.

But the back nine brought trouble again, just as in the second round when she took a 41 coming in. Most of the damage came on No. 15, where Wiffi needed four strokes to get down from 25 feet and lost two strokes to par.

Fay Crocker, of Montevideo, Uruguay, who was only one shot off the pace in the first two rounds, putted herself out of the picture. Four 3 putt greens plus a triple-bogey 7 on No. 3 sent her to 80 and 232.

"I just threw the Titleholders away," said the former USGA Open champion who has never done particularly well in this event.

Joyce Ziske of Milwaukee held fifth place with a steady 77 for 231. Marlene Bauer Hagge of Delray Beach, Fla., had a 75 for 233 and Marilynn Smith of Wichita, Kan., a 78 for 234.

Smith Appointed Cage Coach At Washington U.

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Charles Glenn Smith, 31-year-old Washington graduate and coach at Parkway High School in St. Louis County, Saturday was named head basketball coach at Washington University, replacing the late Blair Gullion.

Athletic Director Harry Burrus predicted the Bears' basketball program would grow stronger under Smith. He said he and the new coaches would attend the coaches' meetings in Louisville next weekend.

Red Sox Trade Dean Stone For Cards' Chittum

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—The Boston Red Sox Saturday traded southpaw pitcher Dean Stone to the St. Louis Cardinals in exchange for pitcher Nelson Chittum and an undisclosed sum.

The 26-year-old Chittum was 12-8 with Omaha. He appeared in 13 games for the Cards in '58.

Bucyk Goals Give Bruins 4-2 Decision

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Bruins came to life in the third period Saturday to defeat Detroit 4-2 on two goals by winger Johnny Bucyk in their televised National Hockey League game.

Bucyk, 23-year-old member of the Bruins' famed "Uke" line, made the difference as the home forces loosed a furious barrage over the final 20 minutes and broke a 2-2 deadlock. The goals were his 21st and 22nd.

Detroit goalie Terry Sawchuk made nine of his 21 saves and his defenses provided countless more when the Bruins decided to breathe some fire into what had been a dull contest.

Don McKenney's 30th goal at 15:56 of the middle period enabled Boston to pull into a 2-2 tie.

Bucyk's deciding tally was a 20 foot wide angle shot he lifted over the fallen Sawchuk. Uke - mate Bronco Horvath, who collected three assists for the afternoon, deflected the puck to him. The time was 8:42.

Bucyk's total of 22 goals surpasses his previous major league high of 21 set a year ago.

Doug Mohns, Bruins defenseman, scored with a soft 45-foot backhand flip 12 seconds after the game started for a near-record goal. The NHL's quickest goal in history came in eight seconds.

But the great Gordie Howe collected his 31st goal just before the period ended and rookie Stuart McNeill made it 2-1 at 3:33 of the second with his first major league goal.

Termites Swarming In Monroe Area

Pete Heflin, manager of Bruce Terminix, member of the world's largest termite control organization, says termites have begun swarming in the Monroe area. Sometimes confused with "flying ants," these winged reproductives of the termite colony are frequently the only warning home owners have that their property is being damaged by these tiny insects. For while termites carry on their destructive work 24 hours a day, 365 days a year, they only come out in the open where they can be seen during the mating season, which usually begins in the spring.

Termite damage in the United States is now over $100,000,000 annually because many home owners wait until they see evidence of termites before doing anything about them. By this time, the chances are great that serious damage has already been done.

During the past 5 years, many wise property owners in the Monroe area have taken advantage of the nationally-advertised Bruce-Terminix Protection Plan to safeguard against sudden, expensive treating and repair bills caused by termite attack. This plan offers the strongest, most complete termite protection available to propery owners at amazingly low cost—particularly to owners of property not yet infested by termites.

Under the Terminix Insured Protection Contract, Bruce-Terminix, which has successfully protected over a quarter million structures against termites, assumes complete responsibility for protecting your property against termite damage. If termites are already in your home, Bruce-Terminix, will stop their attack and issue Terminix Insured Protection against any future damage.

The Terminix Insured Protection Contract also provides a $5,000 damage guarantee which will cover completely the cost of repairs and replacements caused by termite damage in the average home. This guarantee covers not only damage to the structure of a home or building, but contents as well. Costly carpets and rugs, valuable heirlooms, books—they're all covered by the $5,000 damage guarantee.

There's no fine print or confusing legalistic terminology in the Terminix Protection Contract. It states in clear easy-to-understand language exactly what it provides. And the contract carries no time limit—it's non-cancellable on the part of the company and transferrable to a new owner in event of sale of the property. Provisions of the Terminix Insured Protection Contract are guaranteed by E. L. Bruce Co., world's largest maker of hardwood floors. Further they are insured by Sun Insurance Office, Ltd., world's oldest insurance company.

Don't wait until termite damage occurs to protect your property. If you are planning to build, have Bruce Terminix Co. look over your plans and recommend preventive measures. If you own a home and do not have termite protection, let Bruce Terminix Co. inspect your house to qualify it for low cost Terminix Insured Protection. (There's no cost or obligation.) Cup Players In Gulf Coast Invitational

By ED TUNSTALL

GULFPORT, Miss. (AP) — A field dotted with three former Walker Cup team members and one-time Ryder Cup team player Dick Metz opens play Thursday in the $5,000 Gulf Coast Invitational golf tournament, the "national open" for golf's home professionals.

The 72-hole tournament, played over the 6,016-yard Great Southern Country Club course, is unique in that it bars the touring professionals, the boys who grab the headlines each week. The event is a holiday for the home pros who spend the year teaching duffers the finer points.

Joe Taylor of South Charleston W. Va., will return to defend the crown he won last year in a mad dash to the wire with Dick Cline of West Point, Ga.

Metz won the tournament two years ago and set a course record of nine-under-par 62 in the process. The 21-year-old Metz, now the host pro at a Fort Worth, Tex., club, was runnerup to Ralph Guldahl in the 1938 National Open and only a series of errors in the final round kept the husky Texan from taking the title. Metz was on the Ryder Cup team that whipped the best the British had to offer 8-4 in 1937.

Dale Morey of Indianapolis, Ind., who had been on a number of Walker Cup teams, will be on hand to try for his second straight triumph as the tournament's amateur king.

Hillman Robbins of Memphis, Tenn., former National Amateur champ and Western Amateur winner, and Mason Rudolph of Clarksdale, Tenn. are the other former Walker Cuppers in the tournament. Both are now professionals, but are serving indoctrinary probation and cannot accept prize money.

Its trim fairways are lined with tall pines and the golfer who can keep his drives and approach shots true is rewarded with good-sized, fast greens.

The $800 first place money isn't the chief incentive driving the pros to victory. Each has his pet method of teaching and the tournament gives them a chance to compare styles.

Doping Cases Cleared At Bowie Track

BOWIE, Md. (AP) — Two possible "doping" cases at Bowie race course turned out to be duds Saturday and the Maryland Racing Commission indicated it might be the culprit.

Commission Chairman D. Eldred Rinehart said the "trace" of caffeine discovered Friday actually was the result of soiled gauze used to obtain the saliva smples. The only persons to touch the gauze were a commission veterinarian and his assistant.

"We believe after a careful examination," said Rinehart, "that neither horse had caffeine in his saliva when the race was run.

"If you want to place the blame on us, I guess you can. We certainly feel that it's better to tell what actually happened than to unjustly suspend two trainers for something they didn't do."

Records Set In Recreation Cage Program

A record number of leagues and teams participated in the Monroe Recreation Department's basketball program this winter, assistant director Jackie Neal revealed yesterday.

Fifteen leagues were in operation with 96 teams playing a total of 613 games, Neal said.

League champions were the 49ers in the Junior "A" League, Speedsters in Junior "B," Lenwil in Pee Wee Girls, Ransom in Pee Wee "B," Goldwaves in Southside Girls, Colts in Southside Pee Wee, Owls in Southside Bantam, Eaglettes in Northside Girls, Sharpshooters in Northside Bantam, Wildcats in Northside Pee Wee, College Place in Midget, West Monroe Baptist in Pee Wee, Frenchie's in City, L. T. I. in Church "A" and Brownville in Church "B."

Neal expressed the department's appreciation to the parish and city school systems, L.T.I. and Northeast State for the use of their gymnasiums and to the News-Star—World for its coverage of the cage program.

Neal said the different softball and baseball leagues are to begin organizing in April and anyone interested in participating should come by or call Community Center at phone FA 2-2170.

Bastrop scoring ace Larry Brakefield and two members of the district champion Bossier team, Bobby Kile and Cecil Upshaw, head the all-District 1-AAA basketball squad selected by the circuit's six coaches.

Others named to the six-man first team were Linus Lopez of Fair Park, Larry Lewis of West Monroe and Harry (Rabbit) Crowe, Ouachita's one-man whirlwind. The six-man team came about when three players tied in voting points.

Voting on the all-district team were coaches John (Hound) McConathy of Bossier, Clem Henderson of Fair Park, Scotty Robertson of Byrd, Wig Riley of Bastrop, L. V. Norris of West Monroe and Herbert Holliman of Ouachita. A first-team vote was worth 10 points, a second-team ballot five points.

Two Byrd standouts, Jimmy Williams and Bobby Watson, head the second team which also includes O'Brian Smith of Fair Park, Troy Spigner of Bastrop and Dennis Kile of Bossier. Four players—Bossier's Ronnie Smith, Fair Park's Jerry Burton and Kelton Bacon and Don Tatum of West Monroe— received honorable mention support from the coaches.

Brakefield, a 6-3 senior, was the district's top rebounder and second-best scorer. The Ram jumping-jack averaged eight rebounds and 17.1 points per game against conference foes and was the only unanimous first-team choice.

Lopez sparked Fair Park to a second-place finish and a state playoff berth. The 6-0 senior lacked only one vote of being a unanimous selection after canning 13.8 points per game.

Bobby Kile, 6-2½ Bossier senior, hit 12.9 points per game in district play, was a rugged rebounder and became the loop's finest playmaker. Always at his best in crucial games, Bobby plunked in 31 points in Boosier's only close conference game, a 59-56 squeeze past Byrd, and hit 21 points in Bossier's playoff game against East Jefferson.

The Bearkats won the title with a perfect 10-0 record and had a four-game bulge on runner-up Fair Park. Bossier was bounced out of the playoffs by East Jefferson while Fair Park bowed to Fortier in its post-session fling.

Upshaw, at 6-5 the tallest player on the team, averaged 13.8 points per game, was Greater Shreveport's scoring champion for the season and the top rebounder on the Bearkat team. The stringbean forward is only a junior and should become one of the state's outstanding players next season.

The 5-11 Lewis was the big gun in West Monroe's attack. The senior sharpshooter averaged 16.6 markers per game over the season and 14 in conference play and was a fierce competitor.

Crowe, another in the seemingly endless line of Ouachita's famed athletic brothers, clicked for 20.8 points per game to grab the loop scoring crown. Only a junior, the pesky Lion guard won the Twin Cities individual scoring title with a 16.8 average for the season.

WRESTLING CARD

Russian Royal Featured Monday

A new face and four familiar grapplers headline tomorrow night's weekly wrestling card at the B&B Arena in a Russian Royal scramble slated to kick off the action at 8:15 p.m.

Promoter August Baumgartner, who has recently brought a number of new wrestlers to the local scene, and who says he plans to eventually have every wrestler in the business here for the fans to see, has imported newcomer Jerry Miller for the five-man tussle.

A clever and fast matman, Miller has been described as "hard to beat" and should furnish plenty of rugged spectator action.

Also billed are perennial favorite Jack Curtis, the Alexandria fire eater Phil Brummett, villian Charley Laye and Bill Strong. Strong, a nice-looking, well-built boy, appeared in his debut here last week and fans were well pleased with his performance.

Brummett, also tabbed the "pride of Alexandria", has been taking lessons from the old pros and is just about ready for a state title match.

The Russia Royal opens with five men in the ring, with the main objective to throw any or all of the other four batlers over the top rope. The first man to make this airborne exit will be finished for the night.

The next two combatants forced from the ring will be matched in the night's semi-final scrap, and the final pair remaining will clash in the main event.

Red Sox Trade Dean Stone For Cards' Chittum

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—The Boston Red Sox Saturday traded southpaw pitcher Dean Stone to the St. Louis Cardinals in exchange for pitcher Nelson Chittum and an undisclosed sum.

The 26-year-old Chittum was 12-8 with Omaha. He appeared in 13 games for the Cards in '58.

Bucyk Goals Give Bruins 4-2 Decision

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Bruins came to life in the third period Saturday to defeat Detroit 4-2 on two goals by winger Johnny Bucyk in their televised National Hockey League game.

Bucyk, 23-year-old member of the Bruins' famed "Uke" line, made the difference as the home forces loosed a furious barrage over the final 20 minutes and broke a 2-2 deadlock. The goals were his 21st and 22nd.

Detroit goalie Terry Sawchuk made nine of his 21 saves and his defenses provided countless more when the Bruins decided to breathe some fire into what had been a dull contest.

Don McKenney's 30th goal at 15:56 of the middle period enabled Boston to pull into a 2-2 tie.

Bucyk's deciding tally was a 20 foot wide angle shot he lifted over the fallen Sawchuk. Uke - mate Bronco Horvath, who collected three assists for the afternoon, deflected the puck to him. The time was 8:42.

Bucyk's total of 22 goals surpasses his previous major league high of 21 set a year ago.

Doug Mohns, Bruins defenseman, scored with a soft 45-foot backhand flip 12 seconds after the game started for a near-record goal. The NHL's quickest goal in history came in eight seconds.

But the great Gordie Howe collected his 31st goal just before the period ended and rookie Stuart McNeill made it 2-1 at 3:33 of the second with his first major league goal.

Termites Swarming In Monroe Area

Pete Heflin, manager of Bruce Terminix, member of the world's largest termite control organization, says termites have begun swarming in the Monroe area. Sometimes confused with "flying ants," these winged reproductives of the termite colony are frequently the only warning home owners have that their property is being damaged by these tiny insects. For while termites carry on their destructive work 24 hours a day, 365 days a year, they only come out in the open where they can be seen during the mating season, which usually begins in the spring.

Termite damage in the United States is now over $100,000,000 annually because many home owners wait until they see evidence of termites before doing anything about them. By this time, the chances are great that serious damage has already been done.

During the past 5 years, many wise property owners in the Monroe area have taken advantage of the nationally-advertised Bruce-Terminix Protection Plan to safeguard against sudden, expensive treating and repair bills caused by termite attack. This plan offers the strongest, most complete termite protection available to propery owners at amazingly low cost—particularly to owners of property not yet infested by termites.

Under the Terminix Insured Protection Contract, Bruce-Terminix, which has successfully protected over a quarter million structures against termites, assumes complete responsibility for protecting your property against termite damage. If termites are already in your home, Bruce-Terminix, will stop their attack and issue Terminix Insured Protection against any future damage.

The Terminix Insured Protection Contract also provides a $5,000 damage guarantee which will cover completely the cost of repairs and replacements caused by termite damage in the average home. This guarantee covers not only damage to the structure of a home or building, but contents as well. Costly carpets and rugs, valuable heirlooms, books—they're all covered by the $5,000 damage guarantee.

There's no fine print or confusing legalistic terminology in the Terminix Protection Contract. It states in clear easy-to-understand language exactly what it provides. And the contract carries no time limit—it's non-cancellable on the part of the company and transferrable to a new owner in event of sale of the property. Provisions of the Terminix Insured Protection Contract are guaranteed by E. L. Bruce Co., world's largest maker of hardwood floors. Further they are insured by Sun Insurance Office, Ltd., world's oldest insurance company.

Don't wait until termite damage occurs to protect your property. If you are planning to build, have Bruce Terminix Co. look over your plans and recommend preventive measures. If you own a home and do not have termite protection, let Bruce Terminix Co. inspect your house to qualify it for low cost Terminix Insured Protection. (There's no cost or obligation.) Indian Pitchers Impressive In Early Workout

CLINTON, La. (Special) — Northeast's baseball squad, pointing for the 1959 season opener against Oklahoma Baptist College in Monroe Friday, held a practice session against Mississippi College here Saturday afternoon.

Although no score was kept and both teams substituted freely throughout the 14 inning workout, Northeast mentor George Luffey reported he was well pleased with the Redskin pitching staff.

Jay Gross looked impressive for Northeast in a brief three - inning stint on the mound, and veteran Louis Sikes showed up well. Jerry Rouse, a Perkinston Junior College transfer, and Jerry Collins and Darrell Boothe, both freshmen, also pitched creditable ball.

Luffey also voiced satisfaction with the club's fielding, but added the hitting was below par. He plans to send the team through extensive batting drills before Friday's battle with Oklahoma Baptist.

SMITH, SUGGS

Two Still Share Lead At Augusta

By MERCER BAILEY

AUGUSTA, Ga (AP) — Louise Suggs and Wiffi Smith finished the third round of the 10th Women's Titleholders Golf Tournament Saturday the same way they started—deadlocked for first place.

Each fired a 3-over-par 75 for a 226 total. Par for the rolling, 6,302-yard Augusta Country Club course is 36-36—72.

Betsy Rawls of Spartanburg, S.C., picked up two eagles en route to her 74 and climbed into third place at 228. She started the round tied for fifth.

Mickey Wright slipped to a 78 and fourth place at 230. The tall San Diego, Calif., blonde lost two strokes on the final hole, blasting from a sand trap completely over the green. She took a double-bogey 6.

Miss Smith, 22-year-old slammer from St. Clair, Mich., had a fine opportunity to move out front alone until she ran into an old jinx—the back nine. She made the turn with a fine one-under-par 35 and at that point was two strokes ahead of Miss Suggs, who plays out of Sea Island, Ga.

But the back nine brought trouble again, just as in the second round when she took a 41 coming in. Most of the damage came on No. 15, where Wiffi needed four strokes to get down from 25 feet and lost two strokes to par.

Fay Crocker, of Montevideo, Uruguay, who was only one shot off the pace in the first two rounds, putted herself out of the picture. Four 3 putt greens plus a triple-bogey 7 on No. 3 sent her to 80 and 232.

"I just threw the Titleholders away," said the former USGA Open champion who has never done particularly well in this event.

Joyce Ziske of Milwaukee held fifth place with a steady 77 for 231. Marlene Bauer Hagge of Delray Beach, Fla., had a 75 for 233 and Marilynn Smith of Wichita, Kan., a 78 for 234.

Barbara McIntire of Lake Park, Fla., shot a 79 to hold the amateur lead at 243.

Cup Players In Gulf Coast Invitational

By ED TUNSTALL

GULFPORT, Miss. (AP) — A field dotted with three former Walker Cup team members and one-time Ryder Cup team player Dick Metz opens play Thursday in the $5,000 Gulf Coast Invitational golf tournament, the "national open" for golf's home professionals.

The 72-hole tournament, played over the 6,016-yard Great Southern Country Club course, is unique in that it bars the touring professionals, the boys who grab the headlines each week. The event is a holiday for the home pros who spend the year teaching duffers the finer points.

Joe Taylor of South Charleston W. Va., will return to defend the crown he won last year in a mad dash to the wire with Dick Cline of West Point, Ga.

Metz won the tournament two years ago and set a course record of nine-under-par 62 in the process. The 21-year-old Metz, now the host pro at a Fort Worth, Tex., club, was runnerup to Ralph Guldahl in the 1938 National Open and only a series of errors in the final round kept the husky Texan from taking the title. Metz was on the Ryder Cup team that whipped the best the British had to offer 8-4 in 1937.

Dale Morey of Indianapolis, Ind., who had been on a number of Walker Cup teams, will be on hand to try for his second straight triumph as the tournament's amateur king.

Hillman Robbins of Memphis, Tenn., former National Amateur champ and Western Amateur winner, and Mason Rudolph of Clarksdale, Tenn. are the other former Walker Cuppers in the tournament. Both are now professionals, but are serving indoctrinary probation and cannot accept prize money.

Its trim fairways are lined with tall pines and the golfer who can keep his drives and approach shots true is rewarded with good-sized, fast greens.

The $800 first place money isn't the chief incentive driving the pros to victory. Each has his pet method of teaching and the tournament gives them a chance to compare styles.

Doping Cases Cleared At Bowie Track

BOWIE, Md. (AP) — Two possible "doping" cases at Bowie race course turned out to be duds Saturday and the Maryland Racing Commission indicated it might be the culprit.

Commission Chairman D. Eldred Rinehart said the "trace" of caffeine discovered Friday actually was the result of soiled gauze used to obtain the saliva smples. The only persons to touch the gauze were a commission veterinarian and his assistant.

"We believe after a careful examination," said Rinehart, "that neither horse had caffeine in his saliva when the race was run.

"If you want to place the blame on us, I guess you can. We certainly feel that it's better to tell what actually happened than to unjustly suspend two trainers for something they didn't do."

Records Set In Recreation Cage Program

A record number of leagues and teams participated in the Monroe Recreation Department's basketball program this winter, assistant director Jackie Neal revealed yesterday.

Fifteen leagues were in operation with 96 teams playing a total of 613 games, Neal said.

League champions were the 49ers in the Junior "A" League, Speedsters in Junior "B," Lenwil in Pee Wee Girls, Ransom in Pee Wee "B," Goldwaves in Southside Girls, Colts in Southside Pee Wee, Owls in Southside Bantam, Eaglettes in Northside Girls, Sharpshooters in Northside Bantam, Wildcats in Northside Pee Wee, College Place in Midget, West Monroe Baptist in Pee Wee, Frenchie's in City, L. T. I. in Church "A" and Brownville in Church "B."

Neal expressed the department's appreciation to the parish and city school systems, L.T.I. and Northeast State for the use of their gymnasiums and to the News-Star—World for its coverage of the cage program.

Neal said the different softball and baseball leagues are to begin organizing in April and anyone interested in participating should come by or call Community Center at phone FA 2-2170.

Defense Paid Off On GSC Courts

LAKE CHARLES, La.— Which is more important in college basketball — a good offense or a good defense? Is the best defense a good offense, as they say in football? Or vice versa?

Proponets of defensive basketball may be able to use the Gulf States Conference's 1958-59 campaign as a case in point. Over the full season, the two best defensive outfits wound up in the first two places in the standings.

On the other hand, the best offensive outfit wound up in fourth place.

Louisiana Tech's Bulldogs won the conference championship with a 9-1 record, and compiled the best full - season mark: 21 victories and four defeats.

The Bulldogs ranked second in team defense for the complete season, giving up an average of 59 points per game to 25 foes. The defensive leader — for the seventh straight year over the full - season mark — was McNeese, with a 58.4 average.

SLI's Bulldogs, on the other hand, averaged 81.9 points per game, equalling the conference record set by Northwestern's Demons in 1954-55. SLI was also the cellar team in defense, yielding an average of 83.1 points per game to 24 foes.

SLI had the best field goal shooting percentage, the Bulldogs caging 44 per cent of their shots from the floor. Louisiana Tech was second with a 42.5 average.

Northwestern took first place in the other two team categories. The Demons had the best free try percentage (70 per cent), and committed the most personal fouls (23.6 per game).

Smith Appointed Cage Coach At Washington U.

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Charles Glenn Smith, 31-year-old Washington graduate and coach at Parkway High School in St. Louis County, Saturday was named head basketball coach at Washington University, replacing the late Blair Gullion.

Athletic Director Harry Burrus predicted the Bears' basketball program would grow stronger under Smith. He said he and the new coaches would attend the coaches' meetings in Louisville next weekend.

Dynamic Deer Management Program Needed In State

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first in a series of stories dealing with outdoor problems. The Morning World begins this series in recognition of "National Wildlife Week," March 15-21. Today's article is a bold approach to problems facing the Louisiana deer herds. Don't miss this series of other wildlife problems in the News-Star starting Monday through Friday.

By E. R. McDONALD SR.
Chairman, La. Wild Life and Fisheries Commission

Louisiana has always had deer management problems!

A reluctance on the part of the general public to accept the principles of game management and the lack of recognition of a rapidly expanding hunter population and the decreasing accessible land areas to the hunters are three of the many deer problems confronting the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission today.

Among the other problems are a rapidly expanding deer population; a lack of adequate regulatory control measure over the harvest of deer and the lack of a comprehensive statewide deer tagging system.

During the past ten years, "the commission, largely through its trapping and transplanting program, has established a number of new deer herds throughout the state in areas where there has been good deer range. These transplanted deer have prospered well and increased in numbers in those areas where the local people were interested and provided protection during the years when the herd was being established.

As a result of this trapping and transplanting program, we have been able to open a number of areas to deer hunting that have not been open in many, many years. It is anticipated that several additional areas will be open for deer hunting during the next few years.

Because of this increase in our deer population, it becomes increasingly important that the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries commission put into effect a sound dynamic program of deer management here in Louisiana. In order to do this, a number of obstacles must be overcome. It is going to take the wholehearted cooperation of all sportsmen in Louisiana to institute such a program ... and members of the Louisiana Wildlife Federation are in a better position than any other organized group in the state to take the lead in getting the necessary cooperation in order that this important program may succeed.

The greatest obstacle facing us today in our deer management program is the lack of necessary authority for the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries commission to establish deer seasons designed to harvest an adequate number of deer ... regardless of sex or age.

Louisiana has been known as a "BUCK LAW" state! The Louisiana Legislature, during the 1958 regular session, gave the commission the authority to fix any sex deer seasons provided local parish officials approved such action.

From the experience gained during the past deer season, we have found this authority to be inadequate.

The reason is simply that this management practice cannot be applied in all places where needed. It has been amply demonstrated that the harvest of Buck Deer only, is not the answer for proper management of deer herds. However, before this commission can fix deer seasons which will provide for the harvesting of any deer, regardless of sex or age, we must have a planned method for controlling the taking of deer on an individual herd basis.

The only proven method devised to this date is a statewide, enforceable tagging system should be flexible to the extent that the harvest of deer in one given herd may differ from that of another herd. For instance, it may be necessary to take bucks and does or just doe deer in one area of the state and bucks only in another area.

The modern concept of game management indicates that the harvest of only buck deer may be necessary only during the period of early establishment of a deer herd.

This brings up another important problem ... that is the apparent reluctance on the part of the general public to accept the principles of sound game management. Adherence to these principles may be more important in deer management than in the management of other game species.

For instance, improper management of a small game species may result in the waste of the resources. However, mismanagement of a deer herd not only results in the waste of a resource, but also reduces the deer herd and the range at that time and possibly forever.

After a range reaches its optimum carrying capacity under poor management, you can expect a decrease in reproductive success, antler growth and body weight and an increase in the danger of disease and parasites.

With this same range under good management, a deer herd could be maintained at near optimum or most favorable population levels resulting in good reproductive success, good antler growth, good body weight. . .and a decrease in disease and parasites. Furthermore, under good management, a greater annual harvest of deer could be realized.

This type of management cannot be obtained other than in a well-regulated harvest of any deer, regardless of sex or age. Under a good deer management program the hunter can expect to harvest as many as five 1½-year-old deer in good condition in comparison with one deer under poor herd management.

It is recognized that we are faced with a rapidly expanding hunter population and a decreased amount of accessible land areas to the hunter. This points up the necessity for managing our deer herds in order to get maximum production.

An effective tagging system should provide the answer to this rapidly expanding hunter population. This should give a more equitable distribution of the kill among an ever-increasing number of deer hunters in our state... and as you know, these numbers are fantastic!

Although the season limit has been two bucks for many years, it has been impossible to enforce it because there was no way to determine just how many bucks were killed in any one season by any one hunter. You and I know MANY hunters have taken more than the season bag limit of two Bucks.

If an effective method of control can be put into practice, there will be more deer available to all the sportsmen of the state.

Since we agree that the hunting population is increasing, year by year, it is time to wake up to the fact that the land areas available to the hunter are rapidly shrinking.

It is a well-known fact that large acreages formerly open to the general public are now closed because of the increased number of hunting clubs in our state. In addition to the increased number of hunting clubs, that remove acreage from public hunting, agricultural and industrial expansion is taking the toll of more land acres that once was open to the public for hunting. This limits public hunting opportunities! Althoughh this commission recognizes hunting clubs as a part of our American heritage, they are, nevertheless, creating a public hunting problem, and we must therefore redouble our efforts to provide additional hunting opportunities for the individual sportsman.

Another major problem that faces the individual hunter today is the landowner-sportsman relationship. This not only applied to deer, but to all other game species. This is a problem of the sportmen of the state and one over which the Wild Life and Fisheries commission has no control.

Although it is written in our Constitution that the game belongs to the people of the state, we must state the fact that the landowner controls access to the land and is responsible for the production of most of our game.

The day that the sportsman realizes that he must offer some help to the landowner, then that will be the day of closer relationship between the landowner and the sportsman. . .and this presents a challenge to every member of the Louisiana Wildlife Federation.

I suggest the Louisiana Wildlife Federation appoint a committee of its hardest working members to study this problem.

The Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries commission is also faced with a challenge. In acknowledging these problems, as we recognize them, our objective is to establish a sound deer management program that will meet the needs of the Louisiana sportsmen.

Our game management areas are distributed throughout the State of Louisiana. It is our intention to utilize these areas to the fullest extent in order to provide maximum hunting opportunities. This game management area program is a continuous one and we intend to exert every effort toward the expansion of this program. Additional acreage is being considered for more game management areas. In the past, we have experienced difficulties at the local level in managing these areas as needed. Accordingly, better cooperation on the part of the local people will be necessary if we are going to invest the sportsman's dollars in providing future hunting opportunities.

Members of the Wildlife Federation, through their local units, can make a valuable contribution toward overcoming these obstacles. Cooperation of sportsmen in support of such a program is most essential if we are to see it to a successful conclusion.

The information obtained through the operation of our game management areas will be applied where applicable to other deer herds.

We need specific information concerning the deer herds of Louisiana in addition to those in the game management areas.

It is our intention to draft proper and necessary legislation which will be presented to the next regular session of the Louisiana Legislature. Such legislation will include the permission to inaugurate a comprehensive statewide tagging system. It will also include provisions that will give the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries commission necessary authority to establish any sex deer seasons wherever and whenever needed.

Possibly the best approach to this would be a big game license which would assist in the implementation of a comprehensive tagging system and provide additional funds that are needed to carry out such a program.

I want to assure you that the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries commission will exert every effort toward carrying out a deer management program designed to meet the needs of an expanding deer population and an ever-increasing number of hunters on the scene today.

The Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries commission will use every education media available, including the LOUISIANA CONSERVATIONIST, to acquaint the general public with these problems and principles regarding good deer management in our state.

Your wholehearted support of this dynamic program is needed. You may rest assured that the members and staff of the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries commission are vitally interested in this giant undertaking and by working as a team with the officers and members of the Louisiana Wildlife Federation, we hope to see a new day of deer management here in Louisiana.

WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Kid Bassey Risks Feather Title Against Davey Moore

LOS ANGELES (AP) — World champion Hogan (Kid) Bassey of Nigeria risks his featherweight title for the second time Wednesday night in a 15-round fight with Davey Moore of Springfield, Ohio.

The little Nigerian won the championship when he whipped Cherif Hamia in Paris in 1957.

And last April here he strengthened his rule over the world's 126-pounders with a spectacular 3-round knockout over the dangerous puncher from Mexico, Ricardo (Pajarito) Moreno.

Moore, at 24 two years younger than the champion, has won 13 straight fights, dating back to 1957. He capped his drive toward a championship encounter when he blasted Moreno out in one round here last Dec. 11

Willie Ketchum, Davey's astute handler who had been clamoring for a crack at the title for months, and matchmaker George Parnassus of the Olympic Auditorium Fight Club promptly came to terms.

ABC does the TV, starting at 10 p. m., EST.

Bassey, who earned a $75,000 guarantee for the Moreno fight, which was held outdoors in Wrigley Field, gets a guarantee of 66 bouts. Bassey was stopped twice because of severe cuts.

Moore was dropped to the canvas in the first round by Charley Riley of St. Louis in 1954, when Riley was a knockout menace. Davey got up and went on to win the fight.

Moore's stock soared considerably when Bassey hit the deck in his non-title engagement last December with Ernesto Parra of Mexico. Parra is not rated a deadly puncher but he scored a clear knockdown. Bassey recovered and went on to win the decision in 10 rounds at the Hollywood Legion Stadium.

Both fighters are good boxers but more exciting, both hit hard with either hand.

Bassey has won 55 fights, lost 10 and drew in another. He has scored 20 knockouts, according to the record book. He says he knocked out 15 others in Nigeria but counts them as unimportant affairs.

Moore has had 41 bouts. He has won 35, lost five and scored 15 knockouts. He has had one draw.

DEFENDING CHAMPS

Tech Nine Opens Season Thursday

RUSTON, La. (Special) —Louisiana Tech's defending Gulf States conference baseball team, with a letterman returning for every position, opens play here at 1:30 p.m. Thursday in a twinbill against Oklahoma Baptist university.

Coach Berry Hinton's hard-hitting crew won 13 and lost five a year ago with a 9-4 mark in the GSC, good enough to grab the loop title.

The infield, outfield, and catcher are back intact, with the principal loss being the graduation of Jess Mercer, star righthander who posted a 5-1 record.

Lonnie Carlisle, a .316 hitting backstop, is back, along with B. K. Miller (.304), Charlie Garris (.316), and Clyde Thompson (.351), in the outfield.

While basketballer Moreland is getting ready, Hinton can either use freshman Eddie Francis at first base, or else bring in Thompson from the outfield, with Spec Lewis replacing him in left field. Hinton can also use pitchers J. W. Mercer and Gareth Methvin at first.

Mercer, who won three and lost two last year with a 2.70 ERA, and Methvin, who had a 4-1 mark, are expected to carry the load on the mound with freshman Sonny Parker, mighty - mite southpaw.

Hare Raising Survives Foul Claim To Win

BOWIE, Md. (AP)—Hare Raising, a longshot from the W. H. Bishop Stables, won the $28,750 Bowie Handicap by three lengths Saturday after surviving a foul claim.

Hare Raising, with jockey Robert Lee Baird up, turned in a time of 1:44 3-5 for the mile and a sixteenth considered a test for the $100,000-added John B. Campbell Memorial Handicap, of the same length, set March 28.

Jockey Nick Shuk, who finished second on Edward Potter Jr's Plion, an 8-5 favorite, complained to stewards his mount was bothered by Hare Raising on the first turn and along the backstretch.

The claim was disallowed and Hare Raising paid $14, $4.20 and $3.20 while Plion returned $3.40 and $2.60. Plion was tiring badly at the end but lasted for place about three quarters of a length in front of John S. Kelly's Deack Duncan, who paid $6.60.

Owner - trainer Bishop claimed Hare Raising just three months ago for only $7,000. Saturday's net winning purse of $18,437.50 increased the 6-year-old's earnings for his new owner to $42,167.50.

Fred J. Thompson's Sabotage, top weighed at 115 pounds largely because of his Feb. 28 victory in the Southern Maryland Handicap, finished last.

Hare Raising, coupled in the wagering with stablemate Pete's Folly, went out to fight Plion for the lead at the first turn but it was not until midway on the last turn that Hare Raising could take command.

Writers Select Oscar Robertson Player Of Year

President Herb Good said Robertson easily outdistanced fellow All-America Bailey Howell of Mississippi State in the voting. Jerry West, All-America for West Virginia, was third.

Rain Delays Third Round At Pensacola

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP)—Wind and rain Saturday forced postponement of the third round of the $15,000 Pensacola open Golf Tournament The closing 36 holes will be played Sunday, weather permitting.

Paul Harney, the long driver from Worcester, Mass., holds the half-way lead with 69-65—134, 10 under par.

This was the third straight tournament of the winter pro golf circuit to be hampered by weather.

The touring pros were forced to complete the Baton Rouge Open two weeks ago with 36 holes on Sunday. And the final round of the New Orleans open last week was delayed until Monday because of rain.

About one-third of the field had completed play when officials halted competition.

Collins, one of the early starters, toured the 6,500-yard Pensacola Country Club course in 67, five under par, and took the early lead with a 54-hole total of 214. He had barely made the 36-hole cutoff Friday with 147. The cut off was at 148.

Mississippi Coaches To Hear Wyatt

JACKSON, Miss. (Special) — Bowden Wyatt, head football coach at the University of Tennessee, will be the featured football speaker at the Summer Coaching Clinic of the Mississippi Association of Coaches to be held in Jackson August 4-7.

Other featured speakers will be: Hank Iba, Oklahoma State basketball coach; and Gomer Jones, line coach at the University of Oklahoma. A nationally famous trainer, to be announced later, will also be on hand.

Wyatt started his head coaching career at Wyoming University in 1947 after serving as end coach at Mississippi State. Wyatt was an All-SEC and All-America end at the University of Tennessee under Coach Bob Neyland. He moved from Wyoming to Arkansas, where he took a team that was not supposed to win a single game and built a Southwest Conference champion and Cotton Bowl participant.

Hank Iba has been the head basketball mentor at Oklahoma State for the past 25 seasons. He has produced two NCAA champions, has been Coach of the Year, and is a member of the Helms Foundation Hall of Fame. Iba, who has won a total of 619 collegiate basketball games, is also athletic director at Oklahoma State.

Gomer Jones might be described as the "power behind the power" at the University of Oklahoma. He has worked closely with Head Coach Bud Wilkinson to produce national championship contenders. Jones has had many offers for head coaching jobs, but he prefers to remain at Oklahoma.

He has produced many All-America interior linemen: Bob Harrison (1958), Jerry Tubbs (1956), Kurt Burris (1954), J. D. Roberts (1953), Tom Catlin (1952), and Jim Weatherall (1951).

Better Bee Wins Miami's Appleton 'Cap

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—W. S. Miller's Better Bee came within three - fifths of a second of the Gulfstream Park track record for a mile and an eighth while winning the $15,000 Appleton Handicap Saturday.

The $16.10 chance was clocked in 1:47 2-5 as he defeated Amerigo, the 4 to 5 favorite owned by Mrs. Tilyou Christopher, by 2¼ lengths.

Bill's Sky Boy, representing Elmendorf Farm, was five lengths behind Amerigo and 2¼¼ lengths in advance of Mrs. Lora Birr's Belleau Chief.

Better Bee's place money was $5.60 and show price, $4.50. Amerigo returned $3 and $2.70 and Bill's Sky Boy paid $4.40.

The win in the $17,650 Appleton was worth $10,650 gross to Miller, who announced his horse would run against Bardstown and others next Saturday in the $100,000 added Gulfstream Handicap.

SCORING STATISTICS

Robertson Ends Season With 862

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cincinnati's Oscar Robertson finished the regular portion of the basketball season with 862 points and an average of 33.2 a game. And even though tournament games are included in the final statistics, that made winning the college title almost a can't miss proposition.

To bring Robertson's average down to the 29.3 point level of runner-up Leo Byrd of Marshall would require holding "Big O" to 18 points in four possible NCAA tournament games.

Byrd finished with 704 points in 24 games. Jim Hagan of Tennessee Tech is third on the list with 720 points and a 28.8 average.

Only two others of the top 10 scorers—Bob Boozer of Kansas State, No. 6, and Jerry West of West Virginia, No. 10—continued play in the national collegiate championships. Only a couple of incredible scoring performances could put them into contention.

Robertson was held to a subpar average of 24 points in his last two regular-season games. However, he is within 101 points of the two-year record of 1,947 made by Frank Selvy of Furman in 1953-54. Robertson already has surpassed one Selvy record with 554 free throws scored in two seasons.

The other individual titles apparently were decided in regular season play.

Records released Satuday by the NCAA Service Bureau and including games of March 9 show Ralph Crosthwaite of Western Kentucky on top in field goal percentage, Arlen Clark of Oklahoma State first in free throw percentage and Leroy Wright of College of The Pacific leading in rebound recoveries.

Clark took the free throw lead from Hank Stein of Xavier (Ohio) by making 24 straight against Colorado last week. That gave him a .867 mark to Stein's .860. Clark's 24 without a miss surpassed the single game record of 21 made by Yale's Johnny Lee in 1957.

Crosthwaite has a .645 field goal percentage to .609 for George Carter of Iona. Wright took .239 per cent of the rebounds in COP games. Bailey Howell had a .230 mark for Mississippi State.

Many contenders for team honors still are active in tournament play. Top teams through March 9 were:

Offense-Miami (Fla.) 87.6 points per game; defense—California, 50.1 points; rebounds—Michigan State, .590; field goal percentage—Auburn, .488; free throw percentage—Tulsa, .763; fewest personal fouls—Southern Methodist 13.3 per game; most personals—Missouri, 22.8 per game.

The individual scoring leaders (through March 10):

	G	FG	FT	Pts.	Avg.
1. Oscar Robertson, Cincinnati	26	294	274	862	33.2
2. Leo Byrd, Marshall	24	242	220	704	29.3
3. Jim Hagan, Tenn. Tech	25	254	212	720	28.8
4. Bailey Howell, Miss. State	25	231	226	688	27.5
5. Leo Ayersman, Va. Tech	21	204	148	536	26.5
6. Bob Boozer, Kansas State	25	229	185	643	25.7
7. Don Hennon, Pittsburgh	24	231	155	617	25.7
8. Jerry West, West Va.	30	294	180	768	25.6

One day a somewhat hesitant—but very charming—woman came into the office of a Member Firm and asked if she might see a Registered Representative. She was shown into Pete Jones' office. And the conversation went something like this:

The Woman: My name is Otter—Miss J. C. Otter. Now ... are you the person who will buy stocks and bonds for me?

Pete Jones: That's part of our job, Miss Otter. I will be glad to help you. So would any of our other Registered Representatives—or a Partner.

Miss Otter: Well, then I suppose you're the right man. But you see, now, what I'm really looking for is a second inco

Pete Jones: That's another part of our job, Miss Otter—and an important part. To help people invest sensibly ... to try to help them get the kind of second income they're looking for. I'll be happy to talk over your objectives with you.

Miss Otter is remarkably like many other women, and men, who are looking for a second income to extend their paychecks. And like them, she soon found out that the best way to start is to get some good advice. The place to get it is, of course, at the office of a nearby Member Firm of the Exchange.

Facts and advice about investing are basic to the service offered by Member Firms. Altogether, they spend millions on research to get facts. Whether you are just getting started, like Miss Otter, or are an experienced investor, this service is at your disposal.

Member Firms are subject to the strict rules of the New York Stock Exchange. Registered Representatives have to pass an examination about their knowledge of the securities business before they can serve investors. Their personal integrity is also carefully examined.

When you visit a Registered Representative, don't be concerned about the amount you have to invest. Many people start with the convenient Monthly Investment Plan and become part-owners of a company for as little as $40 every 3 months up to $1,000 a month.

Of course, you should never invest on tips or rumors. Whether you decide on common stock or preferred stock or bonds—whatever you and your Registered Representative feel will meet your needs and pocketbook — remember that stock and bond prices go down as well as up. Not every company makes a profit or pays interest or dividends. And it's sensible to invest money left over after living expenses and emergencies are provided for. Another good idea: From time to time, ask your Registered Representative to go over your h s with you.

As Miss Otter learned about these services, she seemed to relax and began to enjoy her talk with Pete Jones.

Miss Otter: I like your candor, and you seem to know your business. What is the procedure if I decide to invest in a stock on the New York Stock Exchange?

Pete Jones: We transmit your order to our broker on the floor of the Exchange. That's the nation's market place where orders to buy and sell come together from all over the country. There he finds a seller and your order is executed, usually in a matter of minutes. It's the same when you want to sell. And all you pay for this service is a modest commission.

Miss Otter: Fair enough, Mr. Jones. I'll think it over. I'm sure I'll be back to get started on that second income.

If you, like Miss Otter, like the idea of getting started on a second income, why not get in touch with a Member Firm of the Exchange. Ask for a copy of "INVESTMENT FACTS." It lists more than 300 stocks that have paid dividends every three months from 20 to 95 years and gives many other helpful facts about investing. It also describes the convenient Monthly Investment Plan. Or just mail the coupon below and a free copy will be sent to you.

Dynamic Deer Management Program Needed In State

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first in a series of stories dealing with outdoor problems. The Morning World begins this series in recognition of "National Wildlife Week," March 15-21. Today's article is a bold approach to problems facing the Louisiana deer herds. Don't miss this series of other wildlife problems in the News-Star starting Monday through Friday.

By E. R. McDONALD SR.
Chairman, La. Wild Life and Fisheries Commission

Louisiana has always had deer management problems!

A reluctance on the part of the general public to accept the principles of game management and the lack of recognition of a rapidly expanding hunter population and the decreasing accessible land areas to the hunters are three of the many deer problems confronting the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission today.

Among the other problems are a rapidly expanding deer population; a lack of adequate regulatory control measure over the harvest of deer and the lack of a comprehensive statewide deer tagging system.

During the past ten years, "the commission, largely through its trapping and transplanting program, has established a number of new deer herds throughout the state in areas where there has been good deer range. These transplanted deer have prospered well and increased in numbers in those areas where the local people were interested and provided protection during the years when the herd was being established.

As a result of this trapping and transplanting program, we have been able to open a number of areas to deer hunting that have not been open in many, many years. It is anticipated that several additional areas will be open for deer hunting during the next few years.

Because of this increase in our deer population, it becomes increasingly important that the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries commission put into effect a sound dynamic program of deer management here in Louisiana. In order to do this, a number of obstacles must be overcome. It is going to take the wholehearted cooperation of all sportsmen in Louisiana to institute such a program . . . and members of the Louisiana Wildlife Federation are in a better position than any other organized group in the state to take the lead in getting the necessary cooperation in order that this important program may succeed.

The greatest obstacle facing us today in our deer management program is the lack of necessary authority for the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries commission to establish deer seasons designed to harvest an adequate number of deer . . . regardless of sex or age.

Louisiana has been known as a "BUCK LAW" state! The Louisiana Legislature, during the 1958 regular session, gave the commission the authority to fix any sex deer seasons provided local parish officials approved such action.

From the experience gained during the past deer season, we have found this authority to be inadequate.

The reason is simply that this management practice cannot be applied in all places where needed. It has been amply demonstrated that the harvest of Buck Deer only, is not the answer for proper management of deer herds. However, before this commission can fix deer seasons which will provide for the harvesting of any deer, regardless of sex or age, we must have a planned method for controlling the taking of deer on an individual herd basis.

The only proven method devised to this date is a statewide, enforceable tagging system should be flexible to the extent that the harvest of deer in one given herd may differ from that of another herd. For instance, it may be necessary to take bucks and does or just doe deer in one area of the state and bucks only in another area.

The modern concept of game management indicates that the harvest of only buck deer may be necessary only during the period of early establishment of a deer herd.

This brings up another important problem . . . that is the apparent reluctance on the part of the general public to accept the principles of sound game management. Adherence to these principles may be more important in deer management than in the management of other game species.

For instance, improper management of a small game species may result in the waste of the resources. However, mismanagement of a deer herd not only results in the waste of a resource, but also reduces the deer herd and the range at that time and possibly forever.

After a range reaches its optimum carrying capacity under poor management, you can expect a decrease in reproductive success, antler growth and body weight and an increase in the danger of disease and parasites.

With this same range under good management, a deer herd could be maintained at near optimum or most favorable population levels resulting in good reproductive success, good antler growth, good body weight. . .and a decrease in disease and parasites. Furthermore, under good management, a greater annual harvest of deer could be realized.

This type of management cannot be obtained other than in a well-regulated harvest of any deer, regardless of sex or age. Under a good deer management program the hunter can expect to harvest as many as five 1½-year-old deer in good condition in comparison with one deer under poor herd management.

It is recognized that we are faced with a rapidly expanding hunter population and a decreased amount of accessible land areas to the hunter. This points up the necessity for managing our deer herds in order to get maximum production.

An effective tagging system should provide the answer to this rapidly expanding hunter population. This should give a more equitable distribution of the kill among an ever-increasing number of deer hunters in our state. . . and as you know, these numbers are fantastic!

Although the season limit has been two bucks for many years, it has been impossible to enforce it because there was no way to determine just how many bucks were killed in any one season by any one hunter. You and I know MANY hunters have taken more than the season bag limit of two Bucks.

If an effective method of control can be put into practice, there will be more deer available to all the sportsmen of the state.

Since we agree that the hunting population is increasing, year by year, it is time to wake up to the fact that the land areas available to the hunter are rapidly shrinking.

It is a well-known fact that large acreages formerly open to the general public are now closed because of the increased number of hunting clubs in our state. In addition to the increased number of hunting clubs, that remove acreage from public hunting, agricultural and industrial expansion is taking the toll of more land acres that once was open to the public for hunting. This limits public hunting opportunities! Althoughh this commission recognizes hunting clubs as a part of our American heritage, they are, nevertheless, creating a public hunting problem, and we must therefore redouble our efforts to provide additional hunting opportunities for the individual sportsman.

Another major problem that faces the individual hunter today is the landowner-sportsman relationship. This not only applied to deer, but to all other game species. This is a problem of the sportmen of the state and one over which the Wild Life and Fisheries commission has no control.

Although it is written in our Constitution that the game belongs to the people of the state, we must state the fact that the landowner controls access to the land and is responsible for the production of most of our game.

The day that the sportsman realizes that he must offer some help to the landowner, then that will be the day of closer relationship between the landowner and the sportsman. . .and this presents a challenge to every member of the Louisiana Wildlife Federation.

I suggest the Louisiana Wildlife Federation appoint a committee of its hardest working members to study this problem.

The Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries commission is also faced with a challenge. In acknowledging these problems, as we recognize them, our objective is to establish a sound deer management program that will meet the needs of the Louisiana sportsmen.

Our game management areas are distributed throughout the State of Louisiana. It is our intention to utilize these areas to the fullest extent in order to provide maximum hunting opportunities. This game management area program is a continuous one and we intend to exert every effort toward the expansion of this program. Additional acreage is being considered for more game management areas. In the past, we have experienced difficulties at the local level in managing these areas as needed. Accordingly, better cooperation on the part of the local people will be necessary if we are going to invest the sportsman's dollars in providing future hunting opportunities.

Members of the Wildlife Federation, through their local units, can make a valuable contribution toward overcoming these obstacles. Cooperation of sportsmen in support of such a program is most essential if we are to see it to a successful conclusion.

The information obtained through the operation of our game management areas will be applied where applicable to other deer herds.

We need specific information concerning the deer herds of Louisiana in addition to those in the game management areas.

It is our intention to draft proper and necessary legislation which will be presented to the next regular session of the Louisiana Legislature. Such legislation will include the permission to inaugurate a comprehensive statewide tagging system. It will also include provisions that will give the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries commission necessary authority to establish any sex deer seasons wherever and whenever needed.

Possibly the best approach to this would be a big game license which would assist in the implementation of a comprehensive tagging system and provide additional funds that are needed to carry out such a program.

I want to assure you that the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries commission will exert every effort toward carrying out a deer management program designed to meet the needs of an expanding deer population and an ever-increasing number of hunters on the scene today.

The Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries commission will use every education media available, including the LOUISIANA CONSERVATIONIST, to acquaint the general public with these problems and principles regarding good deer management in our state.

Your wholehearted support of this dynamic program is needed. You may rest assured that the members and staff of the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries commission are vitally interested in this giant undertaking and by working as a team with the officers and members of the Louisiana Wildlife Federation, we hope to see a new day of deer management here in Louisiana.

WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Kid Bassey Risks Feather Title Against Davey Moore

LOS ANGELES (AP) — World champion Hogan (Kid) Bassey of Nigeria risks his featherweight title for the second time Wednesday night in a 15-round fight with Davey Moore of Springfield, Ohio.

The little Nigerian won the championship when he whipped Cherif Hamia in Paris in 1957.

Moore, at 24 two years younger than the champion, has won 13 straight fights, dating back to 1957. He capped his drive toward a championship encounter when he blasted Moreno out in one round here last Dec. 11

Willie Ketchum, Davey's astute handler who had been clamoring for a crack at the title for months, and matchmaker George Parnassus of the Olympic Auditorium Fight Club promptly came to terms.

ABC does the TV, starting at 10 p. m., EST.

Bassey, who earned a $75,000 guarantee for the Moreno fight, which was held outdoors in Wrigley Field, gets a guarantee of 66 bouts. Bassey was stopped twice because of severe cuts.

Moore was dropped to the canvas in the first round by Charley Riley of St. Louis in 1954, when Riley was a knockout menace. Davey got up and went on to win the fight.

Moore's stock soared considerably when Bassey hit the deck in his non-title engagement last December with Ernesto Parra of Mexico. Parra is not rated a deadly puncher but he scored a clear knockdown. Bassey recovered and went on to win the decision in 10 rounds at the Hollywood Legion Stadium.

Both fighters are good boxers but more exciting, both hit hard with either hand.

Bassey has won 55 fights, lost 10 and drew in another. He has scored 20 knockouts, according to the record book. He says he knocked out 15 others in Nigeria but counts them as unimportant affairs.

Moore has had 41 bouts. He has won 35, lost five and scored 15 knockouts. He has had one draw.

DEFENDING CHAMPS

Tech Nine Opens Season Thursday

RUSTON, La. (Special) —Louisiana Tech's defending Gulf States conference baseball team, with a letterman returning for every position, opens play here at 1:30 p.m. Thursday in a twinbill against Oklahoma Baptist university.

Coach Berry Hinton's hard-hitting crew won 13 and lost five a year ago with a 9-4 mark in the GSC, good enough to grab the loop title.

The infield, outfield, and catcher are back intact, with the principal loss being the graduation of Jess Mercer, star righthander who posted a 5-1 record.

Lonnie Carlisle, a .316 hitting backstop, is back, along with B. K. Miller (.304), Charlie Garris (.316), and Clyde Thompson (.351), in the outfield.

While basketballer Moreland is getting ready, Hinton can either use freshman Eddie Francis at first base, or else bring in Thompson from the outfield, with Spec Lewis replacing him in left field. Hinton can also use pitchers J. W. Mercer and Gareth Methvin at first.

Mercer, who won three and lost two last year with a 2.70 ERA, and Methvin, who had a 4-1 mark, are expected to carry the load on the mound with freshman Sonny Parker, mighty - mite southpaw.

Hare Raising Survives Foul Claim To Win

BOWIE, Md. (AP)—Hare Raising, a longshot from the W. H. Bishop Stables, won the $28,750 Bowie Handicap by three lengths Saturday after surviving a foul claim.

Hare Raising, with jockey Robert Lee Baird up, turned in a time of 1:44 3-5 for the mile and a sixteenth considered a test for the $100,000-added John B. Campbell Memorial Handicap, of the same length, set March 28.

Jockey Nick Shuk, who finished second on Edward Potter Jr'.s Plion, an 8-5 favorite, complained to stewards his mount was bothered by Hare Raising on the first turn and along the backstretch.

The claim was disallowed and Hare Raising paid $14, $4.20 and $3.20 while Plion returned $3.40 and $2.60. Plion was tiring badly at the end but lasted for place about three quarters of a length in front of John S. Kelly's Deack Duncan, who paid $6.60.

Owner - trainer Bishop claimed Hare Raising just three months ago for only $7,000. Saturday's net winning purse of $18,437.50 increased the 6-year-old's earnings for his new owner to $42.167.50.

Fred J. Thompson's Sabotage, top weighed at 115 pounds largely because of his Feb. 28 victory in the Southern Maryland Handicap, finished last.

Hare Raising, coupled in the wagering with stablemate Pete's Folly, went out to fight Plion for the lead at the first turn but it was not until midway on the last turn that Hare Raising could take command.

Writers Select Oscar Robertson Player Of Year

President Herb Good said Robertson easily outdistanced fellow All-America Bailey Howell of Mississippi State in the voting. Jerry West, All-America for West Virginia, was third.

Rain Delays Third Round At Pensacola

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP)—Wind and rain Saturday forced postponement of the third round of the $15,000 Pensacola open Golf Tournament The closing 36 holes will be played Sunday, weather permitting.

Paul Harney, the long driver from Worcester, Mass., holds the half-way lead with 69-65—134, 10 under par.

This was the third straight tournament of the winter pro golf circuit to be hampered by weather.

The touring pros were forced to complete the Baton Rouge Open two weeks ago with 36 holes on Sunday. And the final round of the New Orleans open last week was delayed until Monday because of rain.

About one-third of the field had completed play when officials halted competition.

Collins, one of the early starters, toured the 6,500-yard Pensacola Country Club course in 67, five under par, and took the early lead with a 54-hole total of 214. He had barely made the 36-hole cutoff Friday with 147. The cut off was at 148.

Mississippi Coaches To Hear Wyatt

JACKSON, Miss. (Special) — Bowden Wyatt, head football coach at the University of Tennessee, will be the featured football speaker at the Summer Coaching Clinic of the Mississippi Association of Coaches to be held in Jackson August 4-7.

Other featured speakers will be: Hank Iba, Oklahoma State basketball coach; and Gomer Jones, line coach at the University of Oklahoma. A nationally famous trainer, to be announced later, will also be on hand.

Wyatt started his head coaching career at Wyoming University in 1947 after serving as end coach at Mississippi State. Wyatt was an All-SEC and All-America end at the University of Tennessee under Coach Bob Neyland. He moved from Wyoming to Arkansas, where he took a team that was not supposed to win a single game and built a Southwest Conference champion and Cotton Bowl participant.

Hank Iba has been the head basketball mentor at Oklahoma State for the past 25 seasons. He has produced two NCAA champions, has been Coach of the Year, and is a member of the Helms Foundation Hall of Fame. Iba, who has won a total of 619 collegiate basketball games, is also athletic director at Oklahoma State.

Gomer Jones might be described as the "power behind the power" at the University of Oklahoma. He has worked closely with Head Coach Bud Wilkinson to produce national championship contenders. Jones has had many offers for head coaching jobs, but he prefers to remain at Oklahoma.

He has produced many All-America interior linemen: Bob Harrison (1958), Jerry Tubbs (1956), Kurt Burris (1954), J. D. Roberts (1953), Tom Catlin (1952), and Jim Weatherall (1951).

Better Bee Wins Miami's Appleton 'Cap

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—W. S. Miller's Better Bee came within three - fifths of a second of the Gulfstream Park track record for a mile and an eighth while winning the $15,000 Appleton Handicap Saturday.

The $16.10 chance was clocked in 1:47 2-5 as he defeated Amerigo, the 4 to 5 favorite owned by Mrs. Tilyou Christopher, by 2¼ lengths.

Bill's Sky Boy, representing Elmendorf Farm, was five lengths behind Amerigo and 2¼¼ lengths in advance of Mrs. Lora Birr's Belleau Chief.

Better Bee's place money was $5.60 and show price, $4.50. Amerigo returned $3 and $2.70 and Bill's Sky Boy paid $4.40.

The win in the $17,650 Appleton was worth $10,650 gross to Miller, who announced his horse would run against Bardstown and others next Saturday in the $100,000 added Gulfstream Handicap.

Hemus Praises Rookie Hurler

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) —Manager Solly Hemus of the St. Louis Cardinals, rates rookie pitcher Bob Gibson on a par with the hardest throwing pitchers in the majors.

"I'd say the kid's fast ball is as alive as that of Bob Turley's," Hemus said.

SCORING STATISTICS

Robertson Ends Season With 862

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cincinnati's Oscar Robertson finished the regular portion of the basketball season with 862 points and an average of 33.2 a game. And even though tournament games are included in the final statistics, that made winning the college title almost a can't miss proposition.

To bring Robertson's average down to the 29.3 point level of runner-up Leo Byrd of Marshall would require holding "Big O" to 18 points in four possible NCAA tournament games.

Byrd finished with 704 points in 24 games. Jim Hagan of Tennessee Tech is third on the list with 720 points and a 28.8 average.

Only two others of the top 10 scorers—Bob Boozer of Kansas State, No. 6, and Jerry West of West Virginia, No. 10—continued play in the national collegiate championships. Only a couple of incredible scoring performances could put them into contention.

Robertson was held to a subpar average of 24 points in his last two regular-season games. However, he is within 101 points of the two-year record of 1,947 made by Frank Selvy of Furman in 1953-54. Robertson already has surpassed one Selvy record with 554 free throws scored in two seasons.

The other individual titles apparently were decided in regular season play.

Records released Satuday by the NCAA Service Bureau and including games of March 9 show Ralph Crosthwaite of Western Kentucky on top in field goal percentage, Arlen Clark of Oklahoma State first in free throw percentage and Leroy Wright of College of The Pacific leading in rebound recoveries.

Clark took the free throw lead from Hank Stein of Xavier (Ohio) by making 24 straight against Colorado last week. That gave him a .867 mark to Stein's .860. Clark's 24 without a miss surpassed the single game record of 21 made by Yale's Johnny Lee in 1957.

Crosthwaite has a .645 field goal percentage to .609 for George Carter of Iona. Wright took .239 per cent of the rebounds in COP games. Bailey Howell had a .230 mark for Mississippi State.

Many contenders for team honors still are active in tournament play. Top teams through March 9 were:

Offense-Miami (Fla.) 87.6 points per game; defense—California, 50.1 points; rebounds—Michigan State, .590; field goal percentage—Auburn, .488; free throw percentage—Tulsa, .763; fewest personal fouls—Southern Methodist 13.3 per game; most personals—Missouri, 22.8 per game.

The individual scoring leaders (through March 10):

	G	FG	FT	Pts.	Avg.
1. Oscar Robertson, Cincinnati	26	294	274	862	33.2
2. Leo Byrd, Marshall	24	242	220	704	29.3
3. Jim Hagan, Tenn. Tech	25	254	212	720	28.8
4. Bailey Howell, Miss. State	25	231	226	688	27.5
5. Leo Ayersman, Va. Tech	21	204	148	536	26.5
6. Bob Boozer, Kansas State	25	229	185	643	25.7
7. Don Hennon, Pittsburgh	24	231	155	617	25.7
8. Jerry West, West Va.	30	294	180	768	25.6
9. Tony Windis, Wyoming	19	178	177	463	24.4
10. Tom Hawkins, Notre Dame	21	191	113	495	23.6

One day a somewhat hesitant—but very charming—woman came into the office of a Member Firm and asked if she might see a Registered Representative. She was shown into Pete Jones' office. And the conversation went something like this:

The Woman: My name is Otter—Miss J. C. Otter. Now . . . are you the person who will buy stocks and bonds for me?

Pete Jones: That's part of our job, Miss Otter. I will be glad to help you. So would any of our other Registered Representatives—or a Partner.

Miss Otter: Well, then I suppose you're the right man. But you see, now, what I'm really looking for is a second inco

Pete Jones: That's another part of our job, Miss Otter—and an important part. To help people invest sensibly . . . to try to help them get the kind of second income they're looking for. I'll be happy to talk over your objectives with you.

Miss Otter is remarkably like many other women, and men, who are looking for a second income to extend their paychecks. And like them, she soon found out that the best way to start is to get some good advice. The place to get it is, of course, at t ce of a nearby Member Firm of the Exchange.

Facts and advice about investing are basic to the service offered by Member Firms. Altogether, they spend millions on research to get facts. Whether you are just getting started, like Miss Otter, or are an experienced investor, this service is at your disposal.

Member Firms are subject to the strict rules of the New York Stock Exchange. Registered Representatives have to pass an examination about their knowledge of the securities business before they can serve investors. Their personal integrity is also carefully examined.

When you visit a Registered Representative, don't be concerned about the amount you have to invest. Many people start with the convenient Monthly Investment Plan and become part-owners of a company for as little as $40 every 3 months up to $1,000 a month.

Of course, you should never invest on tips or rumors. Whether you decide on common stock or preferred stock or bonds—whatever you and your Registered Representative feel will meet your needs and pocketbook—remember that stock and bond prices go down as well as up. Not every company makes a profit or pays interest or dividends. And it's sensible to invest money left over after living expenses and emergencies are provided for. Another good idea: From time to time, ask your Registered Representative to go over your h s with you.

As Miss Otter learned about these services, she seemed to relax and began to enjoy her talk with Pete Jones.

Miss Otter: I like your candor, and you seem to know your business. What is the procedure if I decide to invest in a stock on the New York Stock Exchange?

Pete Jones: We transmit your order to our broker on the floor of the Exchange. That's the nation's market place where orders to buy and sell come together from all over the country. There he finds a seller and your order is executed, usually in a matter of minutes. It's the same when you want to sell. And all you pay for this service is a modest commission.

Miss Otter: Fair enough, Mr. Jones. I'll think it over. I'm sure I'll be back to get started on that second income.

If you, like Miss Otter, like the idea of getting started on a second income, why not get in touch with a Member Firm of the Exchange. Ask for a copy of "INVESTMENT FACTS." It lists more than 300 stocks that have paid dividends every three months from 20 to 95 years and gives many other helpful facts about investing. It also describes the convenient Monthly Investment Plan. Or just mail the coupon below and a free copy will be sent to you.

THIS IS A LOUISIANA SUCCESS STORY

$7,233,500.00

Business Written in February, Our First Month in Production

Representing 544 Contracts

The National Investors Life Insurance Company

of Louisiana

an Old Line Legal Reserve Life Insurance Company

We sincerely extend our appreciation to the people of this great State of Louisiana who have had faith in the Organization and Management and in the projection and blueprinting of this Company's operation, which has made this success story possible.

From the best information available, this is a National Record for the first month's written business of any newly organized Company. Before the first contract was offered to the public, our Company capitalized in excess of $1,000,000 surplus and capital, having obtained 2,892 citizens as Stockholders representing every parish in the State.

Our plan is to write in excess of $35,000,000 of business by December 31, 1959. $7,233,500.00

Business Written in February, Our First Month in Production

Representing 544 Contracts

The National Investors Life Insurance Company

of Louisiana

an Old Line Legal Reserve Life Insurance Company

We sincerely extend our appreciation to the people of this great State of Louisiana who have had faith in the Organization and Management and in the projection and blueprinting of this Company's operation, which has made this success story possible.

From the best information available, this is a National Record for the first month's written business of any newly organized Company. Before the first contract was offered to the public, our Company capitalized in excess of $1,000,000 surplus and capital, having obtained 2,892 citizens as Stockholders representing every parish in the State.

Our plan is to write in excess of $35,000,000 of business by December 31, 1959. Our agency staff consists of 87 representatives who are thoroughly trained and qualified and who are currently offering our special Stockholders Charter Contract which has many remarkable features. You made it possible for us to make it possible for you.

IN STRATEGIC MIDEAST

Charges By Arab Leader May Force Soviets' Hand

CAIRO (UPI) — United Arab Republic President Gamal Abdel Nasser's charges of a Communist plot to create a giant Red state in the Mideast may force the Kremlin's hand in the strategic area, Western diplomats said Saturday.

So far the Russians have not commented on Nasser's bitter accusation . that Communists and their "stooges" in Iraq are bent on destroying Arab unity and nationalism and replacing it with Communism.

The Russians could react where it woud hurt Nasser most — in the pocketbook, the dipomatst said. His anti-Communist charges were made at a time when Russian experts were in Cairo to study plans for the first stage of the Aswan High Dam construction on the Nile.

The Russians have promised a 100 - million dollar loan and Soviet equipment and engineers — but they may withdraw the offer, the Western diplomats said.

The Communist bloc also has supplied modern tanks and Mig jets to the U A R armed forces, which could also be choked off on a signal from Moscow.

Nasser's three angry speeches against Communists and Iraq followed Iraqi Premier Abdel Karim Kassem's suppression of a nationalist revolt at Mosul this week and an Iraqi government claim that the U A R provoked and aided it.

Western diplomats said that although the Russians, silent until now despite Iraqi accusations of Nasser's role in the revolt, might have to take sides. The Moscow line so far has been that "colonial imperialists" — the West — were behind the Iraq revolt.

The Russians were not expected to appreciate Nasser' scharge the Communists in Iraq were working "according to inspiration from abroad" and were "stooges of the foreigners."

The prestige of both the Western world and Nasser have plunged in Iraq, U P I foreign editor Phil Newsom reported in a dispatch from Baghdad Saturday. A violent anti - Nasser campaign is underway there, the dispatch said, and Nasser is being pictured as an ally of "Western imperialists."

Although the bulk of the venom is aimed at Nasser, Newsom said, the cause of the West has taken a nosedive in Iraq and Soviet prestige has increased.

Even as Nasser continued his anti - Iraq, anti - Communist onslaught, economic aid talks between Iraq and the Soviet Union were being held in Moscow "in an atmosphere of complete understanding."

Iraqi Ambassador to Moscow Abdel Wahab Mahmud said in the Soviet capital that the two countries are preparing an agreement on economic and technical cooperation that was expected to be signed shortly. He said the "non - political" agreement would provide for Soviet technicians and engineers to go to Iraq.

Backing Nasser's charges of a Communist plot to take over Iraq and later all the Middle East was the chief of staff of the Iraqi rebels, Mahmoud Aziz El Haj.

El Haj, who escaped from the revolt scene at Mosul into Syria, told the newspaper Al Ahram Saturday, that rebel leader Col Abdul Wahub Shawaf went to Baghdad three times to warn Kassem about increasing Communist infiltration of the Army.

All Shawaf got was promises and an autographed photograph, El Haj said. The Army around Mosul was forced to continue to fight increased Communist pressure.

The climax came when the Communists scheduled a mass "peace partisans" rally in Mosul for March 6, El Haj said, and four trainloads of armed Communists arrived there.

El Haj said the Army clashed with the Communists and thus the revolt was born. It had not been planned carefully in advance, he said. He said Shawaf was killed by a Kurdish male nurse when he went to the hospital to have a wound dressed.

Another Cairo newspaper, the weekly Akhbar El Yom, said it had learned the Iraqi Communist Party had asked for the formation of a Communist government and Kassem has promised to do so. The weekly said Kassem would be kept on as a "figurehead president."

Pastor Shot By Layman In Church Feud

MILTON, Fla. (UPI) —A long-simmering squabble between a local preacher and four members of his congregation erupted in gun play this week, leaving the pastor with a leg wound and one of the laymen in jail.

The Rev. Olen Taylor was shot in the leg Thursday when he tried to put a padlock on the front door of the West Side Freewill Holiness Church, whose congregation numbers about 100.

Arrested and later released on $1,500 bond was layman Calvin Glover, who police said fired two shots at the minister. The other bullet hit Taylor's automobile.

Authorities said the trouble started last November when Glover and four other members of the congregation decided they were dissatisfied with Taylor and tried to bring in another preacher from Alabama. They felt they had a right to do so since they were members of the original group that bought the church property back in 1955, the year before Taylor came to the pulpit.

However, Taylor refused to step down, and filed an injunction in circuit court to get the four lay members to stop interfering with his sermons. He claimed they talked while he tried to preach, and didn't want to sing the same hymns as the rest of the congregation.

When Taylor went to church Thursday, he found Glover putting up a barbed wire fence around the front of the small building.

Deputy sheriff Donald Bronson said some heated words followed, and Glover began shooting.

College Here Offers Special Marine Study

Courses in marine biology and marine geology now are available to Northeast State students at the Gulf Coast Research Laboratory, Ocean Springs, Miss., President George T Walker announced yesterday.

These offerings have been made possible through an agreement between Northeast and the Board of Trustees of Institutions of Higher Learning of Mississippi.

Regular college credit will be given for the studies.

The agreement also provides that local college students are eligible to enroll in other courses which might be established in biology an geology.

Northeast will have complete control of registration, including the charge of the usual fees required by the institution. The college has set up course numbers to be listed in both the Northeast and Gulf Coast Research Laboratory catalogues.

The Laboratory will offer board and room for students of the Monroe college at the same rate as that provided for Mississippi students.

Prerequisites for admission to the Research Laboratory will be determined by the director, Dr. Gordon Gunter, or other professors of the institute in the same manner as they are determined for Mississippi Students.

OPERATED

The Gulf Coast Research Laboratory is operated by the Board of Trustees of Mississippi's Institutes of Higher Learning with the sponsorship of an advisory board of the Mississippi Academy of Sciences.

Emphasis in the teaching program is given mainly to advanced training in the marine phases of geology and biology. Lecture courses designed for the master's degree and problem courses are offered during both the summer and regular terms. Nine staff members carry on work during the long session and 15 people comprise the summer school staff Dr. H. J. Bennett, professor of zoology at Louisiana State University is a member of the faculty.

The Laboratory is on Mississippi Sound where all varieties of estuarine and marine fauna and flora of the northern Gulf of Mexico are available.

Included in the physical plant are two brick buildings, a research laboratory and teaching laboratory the station boat, with large working space, two wooden laboratories, two dormitories, dining hall, faculty residence and cottages.

Network To Fight Equal Time Ruling

CHICAGO (AP)—The president of the Columbia Broadcasting System said Saturday an all-out fight will be waged against the Federal Communications Commission's ruling requiring equal time for all political opponents.

Dr. Frank Stanton called the Feb. 19 FCC ruling on newscasts "perhaps the most severely crippling decision ever handed down with regard to broadcast journalism." He said if the FCC does not reconsider and reverse itself, CBS intends to appeal to the courts, to Congress and to the people.

He told a general conference of CBS television network affiliates that the decision makes it a mathematical impossibility for broadcasting to report any political campaign in its own way.

Stanton said the fight will be directed only to the ruling that Section 315—the equal time provision—is applicable to newscasts.

The ruling was handed down in the Lar Daly case in Chicago. Daly is a perennial and so far unsuccessful office seeker. He announced himself a candidate for both the Republican and Democratic nominations for mayor of Chicago.

Both Mayor Richard Daley, the Democratic candidate for renominaiton, and former Congressman Timothy Sheehan, his Republican opponent, appeared on TV newscasts. Daley and Sheehan were telecast filing their nomination papers. Daley also was telecast greeting President Arturo Frondizi of Argentina on the latter's arrival in Chicago and again during the opening of the March of Dimes campaign.

The FCC held this news coverage must be matched by alloting equal time to Lar Daly on a regular news broadcast.

Stanton said the original appearances of the mayor and Sheehan "were obviously unavoidable in any adequate television coverage of news of wide general interest."

"The CBS television network alone devoted about 20 per cent of our television newscast time during the 1956 campaign period to the presidential and vice presidential candidates of the two major parties," he added. "Some time on virtually every newscast —from Labor Day to election day —was devoted to the campaign.

"Under the Daly decision we would have been required to give equivalent time—on these regular newscasts—to all candidates of all parties who asked for it. There were, as near as can be calculated, 24 presidential and vice presidential candidates of 12 parties. To furnish them all with equivalent time would have taken some 38 hours, approximately 20 per cent more than all the time spent by all our television network newscasts on all the news.

"The absurdity of this can be multiplied by almost any factor you choose . . . where you may have a dozen or more of candidates for a single nomination and many more than a dozen or a score once the crackpots learn the implications of this decision."

He said if broadcasters are denied their responsibility in handling news of political campaigns "we have opened the door to all kinds of invasions, restrictions and harassments of our news function."

A bill is pending in the House to exempt newscasts from the provisions of Section 315, when the political candidate in no way initiates the recording or the broadcast.

VOTERS UNPREDICTABLE

Both Young, Old Elected To Offices

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American voter remains an unpredictable critter.

Psychologists tell us that we tend to put our faith in those who are near us in age, who think pretty much as we do, who are in our economic bracket, who have had similar military experience.

But try to translate this into voting habits, and you're in trouble

Take age.

As a nation, we're living longer.

A census report says: "The population 65 years and over continued to show rapid gains. There were 15 million persons 65 years and over in July, 1958, compared with 12.2 million in 1950 and fewer than 9 million in 1940."

And since none of our present whopping baby crop has matured to voting age—1944 was our first year to produce three million babies—it would seem that voters naturally would be turning to well-seasoned politicians.

There's evidence that might support such a conclusion.

Dwight D. Eisenhower, if he lives out his present term, will be the oldest president we have ever had. Sen. Theodore Francis Green (D-RI) at 91 is the oldest senator in our history.

But in one portion of the political arena the opposite seems to be happening. Our governors appear to be getting younger

Don't demand infallible proof, but that's the impression of officials at the Council of State Governments. Tney say that governors in their 30s or 40s were once considered rarities. Now they turn up regularly.

Look at some of the comparative youngsters who came home winners in the November gubernatorial elections:

J. Howard Edmondson of Oklahoma, 33.

John Patterson of Alabama, 36.

Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon, 36.

Ernest F. Hollings of South Carolina, 36.

Grant Sawyer of Nevada, 39.

Ralph Herseth of South Dakota, 39

Ernest Vandiver of Georgia, 40.

They joined Gov. Cecil H. Underwood of West Virginia, who has been in office two years and still is only 36.

At the other end of the list, there's David L. Lawrence. He's embarking on a new career as governor of Pennsylvania at 69.

So what can you conclude? Only that the ways of politics and politicians—and we voters who support or desert them—are wonderously mysterious.

The youngest governor we've ever had was Stevens Thomson Mason, who was known as the boy governor of Michigan.

Mason became secretary of Michigan Territory when he was 19 years old. When Michigan was admitted as a state in 1837, Mason became its first elected governor. By this time he had aged considerably. He was 25

IN STRATEGIC MIDEAST

Charges By Arab Leader May Force Soviets' Hand

CAIRO (UPI) — United Arab Republic President Gamal Abdel Nasser's charges of a Communist plot to create a giant Red state in the Mideast may force the Kremlin's hand in the strategic area, Western diplomats said Saturday.

So far the Russians have not commented on Nasser's bitter accusation . that Communists and their "stooges" in Iraq are bent on destroying Arab unity and nationalism and replacing it with Communism.

The Russians could react where it woud hurt Nasser most — in the pocketbook, the dipomatst said. His anti-Communist charges were made at a time when Russian experts were in Cairo to study plans for the first stage of the Aswan High Dam construction on the Nile.

The Russians have promised a 100 - million dollar loan and Soviet equipment and engineers — but they may withdraw the offer, the Western diplomats said.

The Communist bloc also has supplied modern tanks and Mig jets to the U A R armed forces, which could also be choked off on a signal from Moscow.

Nasser's three angry speeches against Communists and Iraq followed Iraqi Premier Abdel Karim Kassem's suppression of a nationalist revolt at Mosul this week and an Iraqi government claim that the U A R provoked and aided it.

Western diplomats said that although the Russians, silent until now despite Iraqi accusations of Nasser's role in the revolt, might have to take sides. The Moscow line so far has been that "colonial imperialists" — the West — were behind the Iraq revolt.

The Russians were not expected to appreciate Nasser' scharge the Communists in Iraq were working "according to inspiration from abroad" and were "stooges of the foreigners."

The prestige of both the Western world and Nasser have plunged in Iraq, U P I foreign editor Phil Newsom reported in a dispatch from Baghdad Saturday. A violent anti - Nasser campaign is underway there, the dispatch said, and Nasser is being pictured as an ally of "Western imperialists."

Although the bulk of the venom is aimed at Nasser, Newsom said, the cause of the West has taken a nosedive in Iraq and Soviet prestige has increased.

Even as Nasser continued his anti - Iraq, anti - Communist onslaught, economic aid talks between Iraq and the Soviet Union were being held in Moscow "in an atmosphere of complete understanding."

Iraqi Ambassador to Moscow Abdel Wahab Mahmud said in the Soviet capital that the two countries are preparing an agreement on economic and technical cooperation that was expected to be signed shortly. He said the "non - political" agreement would provide for Soviet technicians and engineers to go to Iraq.

Backing Nasser's charges of a Communist plot to take over Iraq and later all the Middle East was the chief of staff of the Iraqi rebels, Mahmoud Aziz El Haj.

El Haj, who escaped from the revolt scene at Mosul into Syria, told the newspaper Al Ahram Saturday, that rebel leader Col Abdul Wahub Shawaf went to Baghdad three times to warn Kassem about increasing Communist infiltration of the Army.

All Shawaf got was promises and an autographed photograph, El Haj said. The Army around Mosul was forced to continue to fight increased Communist pressure.

The climax came when the Communists scheduled a mass "peace partisans" rally in Mosul for March 6, El Haj said, and four trainloads of armed Communists arrived there.

El Haj said the Army clashed with the Communists and thus the revolt was born. It had not been planned carefully in advance, he said. He said Shawaf was killed by a Kurdish male nurse when he went to the hospital to have a wound dressed.

Another Cairo newspaper, the weekly Akhbar El Yom, said it had learned the Iraqi Communist Party had asked for the formation of a Communist government and Kassem has promised to do so. The weekly said Kassem would be kept on as a "figurehead president."

College Here Offers Special Marine Study

Courses in marine biology and marine geology now are available to Northeast State students at the Gulf Coast Research Laboratory, Ocean Springs, Miss., President George T Walker announced yesterday.

These offerings have been made possible through an agreement between Northeast and the Board of Trustees of Institutions of Higher Learning of Mississippi.

Regular college credit will be given for the studies.

The agreement also provides that local college students are eligible to enroll in other courses which might be established in biology an geology.

Northeast will have complete control of registration, including the charge of the usual fees required by the institution. The college has set up course numbers to be listed in both the Northeast and Gulf Coast Research Laboratory catalogues.

The Laboratory will offer board and room for students of the Monroe college at the same rate as that provided for Mississippi students.

Prerequisites for admission to the Research Laboratory will be determined by the director, Dr. Gordon Gunter, or other professors of the institute in the same manner as they are determined for Mississippi Students.

OPERATED

The Gulf Coast Research Laboratory is operated by the Board of Trustees of Mississippi's Institutes of Higher Learning with the sponsorship of an advisory board of the Mississippi Academy of Sciences.

Emphasis in the teaching program is given mainly to advanced training in the marine phases of geology and biology. Lecture courses designed for the master's degree and problem courses are offered during both the summer and regular terms. Nine staff members carry on work during the long session and 15 people comprise the summer school staff Dr. H. J. Bennett, professor of zoology at Louisiana State University is a member of the faculty.

The Laboratory is on Mississippi Sound where all varieties of estuarine and marine fauna and flora of the northern Gulf of Mexico are available.

Included in the physical plant are two brick buildings, a research laboratory and teaching laboratory the station boat, with large working space, two wooden laboratories, two dormitories, dining hall, faculty residence and cottages.

Pastor Shot By Layman In Church Feud

MILTON, Fla. (UPI) —A long-simmering squabble between a local preacher and four members of his congregation erupted in gun play this week, leaving the pastor with a leg wound and one of the laymen in jail.

The Rev. Olen Taylor was shot in the leg Thursday when he tried to put a padlock on the front door of the West Side Freewill Holiness Church, whose congregation numbers about 100.

Arrested and later released on $1,500 bond was layman Calvin Glover, who police said fired two shots at the minister. The other bullet hit Taylor's automobile.

Authorities said the trouble started last November when Glover and four other members of the congregation decided they were dissatisfied with Taylor and tried to bring in another preacher from Alabama. They felt they had a right to do so since they were members of the original group that bought the church property back in 1955, the year before Taylor came to the pulpit.

However, Taylor refused to step down, and filed an injunction in circuit court to get the four lay members to stop interfering with his sermons. He claimed they talked while he tried to preach, and didn't want to sing the same hymns as the rest of the congregation.

When Taylor went to church Thursday, he found Glover putting up a barbed wire fence around the front of the small building.

Deputy sheriff Donald Bronson said some heated words followed, and Glover began shooting.

Argentinians Tell Of Native Customs

Argentina has always been represented in our mind by great masses of people shouting, "Peron!" "Peron!"; by people who allowed themselves to be bought off by Eva Peron's Lady-Bountiful routine, financed from the peole's own pockets; and, of late, by pictures on our living room TV screens of multitudes again repeating the chilling chant, "Peron!" "Peron!" "Peron!"

An evening spent with four visiting Members of the Argentine Chamber of Deputies has scraped beneath the headlines, and brought that country as close to me as down-the-block. The four were in Crossett as a part of their tour of this country in the Leader Exchange Program conducted under the auspices of the United States Department of State.

WOMEN'S CLOTHES

Senor Domingo Cialzeta, from Corrientes, is 61 years of age, with the twinkle in the eye of a man of 25, and a fresh and joyous interest in everyone he meets and all he sees. He said when he saw Crossett, a town of 6,000, "New York could not exist without small communities like yours; but your community could exist without New York." In answer to questions he said that most of all when he came to this country he was surprised to find that all women do not dress like Marilyn Monroe, quickly adding that this pleased him — to find our women dressing very much like those of Argentina. He glanced at the glowing candles on the dining table in the home where we were guests and asked, "Why is it that with such wonderful lights (indicating the overhead lighting throughout the rooms) you have candles?" We answered, "For glamour — for atmosphere."

Senor Jorge D. Ferraris is a young man of 30, who has been married only one year. We asked if it was unusual for a man to wait until he was 29 years old to be married. The answer from all four men was, "No, it is the custom. The housing shortage in Argentina is acute, and a man cannot find a home earlier." Further, the entire group feels that marriage at 28 or 29 is good, and largely the reason for the low divorce rate in Argentina compared with that in the United States. One of the men said that, "When a woman marries at 18, she is all broken down by the time she is 30 — which is not good." Since all four men spoke through an interpreter, we were not able to clear up the correlation between the early marriage and the early "breakdown." However, we think that in Argentina the inadequate housing and crowding in the cities almost invariably throws the young married couples into poor housing conditions, which results in very hard work for the women, thus "breaking them down" so soon.

STUDIED LAW

Back to Senor Ferraris. His wife was a Law student when he married her a year ago, and she is continuing her law studies. Which brings up a very interesting trend in education for women. Ten years ago there were twice as many men as women in the law schools. Now they are about equal in number. In the universities, social and education fields there are more women than men. Ninety per cent of the teachers in Argentina are women.

We gathered the impression that the percentage of women finishing college, in relation to those who start, is much higher there than in this country. The reason for this is undoubtedly the fact that marriage comes comparatively later. The men marry girls four or five years their junior — which gives the girls time to finish college and even work a year or so before marriage. However, when they marry, the men expect them to stop work and settle down to housekeeping. Thirty per cent of the women are employed in offices and other skilled or professional work. Of that 30 per cent only 10 per cent are married. We will be interested in watching in future years to see how much the increasing trend toward women in college will cause those women to work at the careers for which they prepare themselves. The women, by the way, vote. In Argentina voting is compulsory, and eligible citizens who do not vote are fined.

LABOR SAVERS

Whne we have talked with people from Japan, England, Holland, and Denmark, and asked what they would take back from the United States if they could take just one thing — the women have invaraibly said, "Your washing machine!" We asked the question of the four Deputies. They said washing machines are available in Argentina, and registered no interest in labor-saving appliances. Senor Jara Melagrani said thoughtfully, "I would like to take back to Chaco your formula for roads, and for our people the ability to produce steel in the open hearth." He was immensely impressed by the highways which link towns and cities all over our country, and is well aware of the importance of steel making in the total economy of any modern country.

Senor Rosario Domingo Dias, the father of "tres" teen-aged boys, and Senor Jara Melagrani were interested in explaining to us the great differences between the teen-aged person in Argentina and in the United States. They say that in Argentina the father is definitely the Head of the House. There is strictly no division of authority. He is High man. No child would ever dream of challenging his father's orders. Children are closely chaperoned for all boy-girl activities, and the question of using the family car is non-existent. We asked how they miantained this marvellous discipline of the growing boys and girls. "By talking to them and lecturing them." We, in the midst of raising two of our own, remained dubious. Howveer, later one of the men said, "If a 15 year old boy took the car once, he would get such a licking he wouldn't do it again." That added. All agree that the family in their country is a very close-knit group, with deviation from the wishes of the parents unthinkable.

The men all gathered 'round the interpreter at this point in our discussion. They told us that the trend in education is changing gradually, under the influence of our great proponents of progressive education and public schools, John Dewey and Horace Mann. The individual child is being given more thought with consideration for personality differences and varying talents. This emphasis on the importance of the child is being carried into the home. There are two forms of the word, "you," in Spanish. "Usted," is used in a very formal manner, for people to whom only the ultimate in respect is felt. "Tu," is the informal "you," used in addressing equals. Until recently the "usted," form was invariably used between child and father. In this new trend toward recognizing the importance of the child, many times a child will use the informal, "tu," in conversation with his father. We suggested to the men that right there was a good place to stop in relaxing of the parental authority. However, they are convinced that the basic status of the father in the family will not really change for centuries. Our comment was, "That's what the Pilgrims thought!!"

Later at dinner in a hotel one of the men glanced ruefully at the cup of coffee and glass of water beside his plate and commented that in Argentina no meal is complete without wine. We asked if there are "dry" provinces and areas there as there are in the U. S. The men replied in unison and very emphatically "No! They would HANG anyone who tried such a thing!" laughing heartily at the silly thought.

On the serious side, those four men, all of whom have been in jail at one time or another for fighting the Peron regime, left us with the feeling that the government of Argentina is in good hands, and her people are truly our neighbors, whom we must visit sometime.

The escort-interpreter, Theodore R. Herrera, of U. S. State Department, is the medium through whom these four men learn of us, and we of them. Mr. Herrera is tireless in his efforts to relay questions and answers. This is not easy when one man is the voice for four spirited Latin Americans. In addition to the numbers, there is also the fact that in simultaneous translation, it takes 30 per cent more time to express a sentence in Spanish than in English. Mr. Herrera says there are two reasons for this. the Spanish language is more formal, and more flowery, while English is more flexible.

He might be asked a question which he has answered for the group a hundred times on the trip; yet, he will turn to the men and get the answer again straight from them. His unfailing courtesy and tireless efforts to remove the language barrier existing between the visitors and their hosts form a vital link in the accomplishment of the mission of this Exchange Leadership Program.

Watson Restoring Old Fort Jessup

The State Conference Daughters American Revolution heard Henry Clay Watson, historian and museum designer for the State Parks and Recreation Commission, speaker as their second general session here.

Watson is of New Orleans and maintains his office in Memorial Hall Museum. He is also conservator for the Louisiana Historical Association.

He spoke on his current commission, "The Restoration of Old Fort Jessup". The fort is in Sabine Parish and the project is installing a museum in the newly reconstructed officers quarters of the Fort, which will also include the commanding officer's bedrooms furnished as if Zackary Taylor himself were using the room.

Zackary Taylor, as a young man founded the fort in 1822 and later as General Taylor came back as commanded to command the troop and lead the American expeditionary force into Mansfield in 1848. According to Watson, "We have just completed the new museum at the Battle of Mansfield State Park."

Watson's work is well known from diaramas he has installed for the Louisiana State Museum at the Cabildo in New Orleans. There are two diaramas in the museum at Mansfield and there will be one diarama at Fort Jessup showing the entire fort as it looked under reconstruction in 1840.

Watson is unique in that he is a one man team creating his own designs for the work he is commissioned to do. He does all the art work, diaramas and installation in addition to the historical research which is a full job in itself and the States Park Commission feels proud to have his services. Finding furniture and building the diaramas is most meticulous and the time of the opening of the Fort Jessup will be announce at the close of this year. Mr. Watson has completed his research in the Washington Archives and the early history of Sabine Parish.

Fort Jessup is the nucleous in West Louisiana telling the complete State story as it was the fartherest American outpost in the West in Reconstruction era

Court Contempt Hearing Reset In Laurel Case

LAUREL, Miss. (AP)—Hearing against attorney A. S. Scott Jr. of Laurel and two others, accused of taking a nine-year-old girl from a foster home, was postponed Saturday.

Youth Court Judge Rip Montgomery rescheduled the hearing for next Saturday. He said the postponement was asked by Scott's counsel and the county prosecutor.

Constable Lee Clark and W. V. Andrews, the child's father, face the same charges.

Scott said he took the girl, placed in the home by Montgomery, to Jackson for a physician's examination after the operator of the home refused to take the child to a doctor.

Andrews and his wife were charged with involuntary manslaughter in the Jan. 27 fatal beating of 14-month-old Terisa Walker, Andrews' step-daugher by a previous marriage.

Fleeing Negro Is Fatally Shot In New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—A Negro who resisted officers checking a bar Saturday was shot and killed in flight after pursuing officers fired warning shots into the air.

The victim was George Wright, 30.

The argument started when police questioning several bar persons, sought to get identiifcation papers from Wright and he resisted. Patrolman Sanford Krasnoff said Wright drew a knife.

Wright was disarmed and taken outside, where he fled.

The fatal bullet struck Wright as he attempted to climb a fence.

Argentinians Tell Of Native Customs

Argentina has always been represented in our mind by great masses of people shouting, "Peron!" "Peron!"; by people who allowed themselves to be bought off by Eva Peron's Lady-Bountiful routine, financed from the people's own pockets; and, of late, by pictures on our living room TV screens of multitudes again repeating the chilling chant, "Peron!" "Peron!" "Peron!"

An evening spent with four visiting Members of the Argentine Chamber of Deputies has scraped beneath the headlines, and brought that country as close to me as down-the-block. The four were in Crossett as a part of their tour of this country in the Leader Exchange Program conducted under the auspices of the United States Department of State.

WOMEN'S CLOTHES

Senor Domingo Cialzeta, from Corrientes, is 61 years of age, with the twinkle in the eye of a man of 25, and a fresh and joyous interest in everyone he meets and all he sees. He said when he saw Crossett, a town of 6,000, "New York could not exist without small communities like yours: but your community could exist without New York." In answer to questions he said that most of all when he came to this country he was surprised to find that all women do not dress like Marilyn Monroe, quickly adding that this pleased him — to find our women dressing very much like those of Argentina. He glanced at the glowing candles on the dining table in the home where we were guests and asked, "Why is it that with such wonderful lights (indicating the overhead lighting throughout the rooms) you have candles?" We answered, "For glamour — for atmosphere."

Senor Jorge D. Ferraris is a young man of 30, who has been married only one year. We asked if it was unusual for a man to wait until he was 29 years old to be married. The answer from all four men was, "No, it is the custom. The housing shortage in Argentina is acute, and a man cannot find a home earlier." Further, the entire group feels that marriage at 28 or 29 is good, and largely the reason for the low divorce rate in Argentina compared with that in the United States. One of the men said that, "When a woman marries at 18, she is all broken down by the time she is 30 — which is not good." Since all four men spoke through an interpreter, we were not able to clear up the correlation between the early marriage and the early "breakdown." However, we think that in Argentina the inadequate housing and crowding in the cities almost invariably throws the young married couples into poor housing conditions, which results in very hard work for the women, thus "breaking them down" so soon.

STUDIED LAW

Back to Senor Ferraris. His wife was a Law student when he married her a year ago, and she is continuing her law studies. Which brings up a very interesting trend in education for women. Ten years ago there were twice as many men as women in the law schools. Now they are about equal in number. In the universities, social and education fields there are more women than men. Ninety per cent of the teachers in Argentina are women.

We gathered the impression that the percentage of women finishing college, in relation to those who start, is much higher there than in this country. The reason for this is undoubtedly the fact that marriage comes comparatively later. The men marry girls four or five years their junior — which gives the girls time to finish college and even work a year or so before marriage. However, when they marry, the men expect them to stop work and settle down to housekeeping. Thirty per cent of the women are employed in offices and other skilled or professional work. Of that 30 per cent only 10 per cent are married. We will be interested in watching in future years to see how much the increasing trend toward women in college will cause those women to work at the careers for which they prepare themselves. The women, by the way, vote. In Argentina voting is compulsory, and eligible citizens who do not vote are fined.

LABOR SAVERS

Whne we have talked with people from Japan, England, Holland, and Denmark, and asked what they would take back from the United States if they could take just one thing — the women have invaraibly said, "Your washing machine!" We asked the question of the four Deputies. They said washing machines are available in Argentina, and registered no interest in labor-saving appliances. Senor Jara Melagrani said thoughtfully, "I would like to take back to Chaco your formula for roads, and for our people the ability to produce steel in the open hearth." He was immensely impressed by the highways which link towns and cities all over our country, and is well aware of the importance of steel making in the total economy of any modern country.

Senor Rosario Domingo Dias, the father of "tres" teen-aged boys, and Senor Jara Melagrani were interested in explaining to us the great differences between the teen-aged person in Argentina and in the United States. They say that in Argentina the father is definitely the Head of the House. There is strictly no division of authority. He is High man. No child would ever dream of challenging his father's orders. Children are closely chaperoned for all boy-girl activities, and the question of using the family car is non-existent. We asked how they miantained this marvellous discipline of the growing boys and girls. "By talking to them and lecturing them." We, in the midst of raising two of our own, remained dubious. Howveer, later one of the men said, "If a 15 year old boy took the car once, he would get such a licking he wouldn't do it again." That added. All agree that the family in their country is a very close-knit group, with deviation from the wishes of the parents unthinkable.

The men all gathered 'round the interpreter at this point in our discussion. They told us that the trend in education is changing gradually, under the influence of our great proponents of progressive education and public schools, John Dewey and Horace Mann. The individual child is being given more thought with consideration for personality differences and varying talents. This emphasis on the importance of the child is being carried into the home. There are two forms of the word, "you," in Spanish. "Usted," is used in a very formal manner, for people to whom only the ultimate in respect is felt. "Tu," is the informal "you," used in addressing equals. Until recently the "usted," form was invariably used between child and father. In this new trend toward recognizing the importance of the child, man times a child will use the informal, "tu," in conversation with his father. We suggested to the men that right there was a good place to stop in relaxing of the parental authority. However, they are convinced that the basic status of the father in the family will not really change for centuries. Our comment was, "That's what the Pilgrims thought!!"

Later at dinner in a hotel one of the men glanced ruefully at the cup of coffee and glass of water beside his plate and commented that in Argentina no meal is complete without wine. We asked if there are "dry" provinces and areas there as there are in the U. S. The men replied in unison and very emphatically, "No! They would HANG anyone who tried such a thing!" laughing heartily at the silly thought.

On the serious side, those four men, all of whom have been in jail at one time or another for fighting the Peron regime, left us with the feeling that the government of Argentina is in good hands, and her people are truly our neighbors, whom we must visit sometime.

The escort-interpreter, Theodore R. Herrera, of U. S. State Department, is the medium through whom these four men learn of us, and we of them. Mr. Herrera is tireless in his efforts to relay questions and answers. This is not easy when one man is the voice for four spirited Latin Americans. In addition to the numbers, there is also the fact that in simultaneous translation, it takes 30 per cent more time to express a sentence in Spanish than in English. Mr. Herrera says there are two reasons for this. the Spanish language is more formal, and more flowery, while English is more flexible.

He might be asked a question which he has answered for the group a hundred times on the trip; yet, he will turn to the men and get the answer again straight from them. His unfailing courtesy and tireless efforts to remove the language barrier existing between the visitors and their hosts form a vital link in the accomplishment of the mission of this Exchange Leadership Program.

THIS BUILDING is rebuilt. Shows in the distance reconstructed officer's quarters not yet in an attractive state, ghost like now in relation to the kitchen.

OFFICERS QUARTERS stood in front of these originally (Eight with kitchens behind). The commission is outlining where the quarters stood by restoring the pillars. The kitchens were immense buildings.

Watson Restoring Old Fort Jessup

The State Conference Daughters American Revolution heard Henry Clay Watson, historian and museum designer for the State Parks and Recreation Commission, speaker as their second general session here.

Watson is of New Orleans and maintains his office in Memorial Hall Museum. He is also conservator for the Louisiana Historical Association.

He spoke on his current commission, "The Restoration of Old Fort Jessup". The fort is in Sabine Parish and the project is installing a museum in the newly reconstructed officers quarters of the Fort, which will also include the commanding officer's bedrooms furnished as if Zackary Taylor himself were using the room.

Zackary Taylor, as a young man founded the fort in 1822 and later as General Taylor came back as commanded to command the troop and lead the American expeditionary force into Mansfield in 1848. According to Watson, "We have just completed the new museum at the Battle of Mansfield State Park."

Watson's work is well known from diaramas he has installed for the Louisiana State Museum at the Cabildo in New Orleans. There are two diaramas in the museum at Mansfield and there will be one diarama at Fort Jessup showing the entire fort as it looked under reconstruction in 1840.

Watson is unique in that he is a one man team creating his own designs for the work he is commissioned to do. He does all the art work, diaramas and installation in addition to the historical research which is a full job in itself and the States Park Commission feels proud to have his services. Finding furniture and building the diaramas is most meticulous and the time of the opening of the Fort Jessup will be announce at the close of this year. Mr. Watson has completed his research in the Washington Archives and the early history of Sabine Parish.

Fort Jessup is the nucleous in West Louisiana telling the complete State story as it was the farthest American outpost in the West in Reconstruction era

Court Contempt Hearing Reset In Laurel Case

LAUREL, Miss. (AP)—Hearing against attorney A. S. Scott Jr. of Laurel and two others, accused of taking a nine-year-old girl from a foster home, was postponed Saturday.

Youth Court Judge Rip Montgomery rescheduled the hearing for next Saturday. He said the postponement was asked by Scott's counsel and the county prosecutor.

Constable Lee Clark and W. V. Andrews, the child's father, face the same charges.

Scott said he took the girl, placed in the home by Montgomery, to Jackson for a physician's examination after the operator of the home refused to take the child to a doctor.

Andrews and his wife were charged with involuntary manslaughter in the Jan. 27 fatal beating of 14-month-old Terisa Walker, Andrews' step-daugher by a previous marriage.

'Sound And Fury' Now At Paramount

The film, which was partly made in the Mississippi area, had it's world premiere last week at the Paramount Theatre in Jackson. The story from the pen of William Faulkner, is said to be the one that made him the boldest writer in America today. The film centers on a blistering story of love and transgression in the South.

Miss Woodward further enhances her already enviable reputation as an actress of range and power, in the role of the daughter of a Southern household, whose mother had disappeared immediately after the child was born, some 17 years before. The girl, feeling unloved, unwanted, put upon and seemingly is constantly driven by Yule Brynner, the stepuncle, who supports and rules the household firmly.

The picture was produced by Jerry Wald, who barred the secrets of New England in "Peyton Place." The director was Martin Ritt, who did such notable work as the recent "No Down Payment" and "The Long Hot Summer." Yul Brynner and Joanne Woodward are ably supported by Ethel Waters, Stuart Whitman, and Margaret Kleighton in top supporting roles.

GREENE COMEDY PLANNED

NEW YORK (AP) —A comdey based upon the reminiscences of French novelist Colette has been put on the Broadway agenda of producers Cheryl Crawford and Joel Schenker.

Entitled "My Mother's House," the play is the work of Bertram Greene, whose main writing activities have been in television and radio. Miss Crawford and Schenker this season have exhibited "Shadow of a Gunman" and "The Rivalry," both to critical applause.

NEW PLAY FOR ROZ

NEW YORK (AP)—Another play has been written for Rosalind Russell by the author of her hit, "Auntie Mame."

Frederick Brisson, Broadway producer and husband of the film star, said production of the comedy drama "All About Love" is planned for next season.

The play is credited to Patrick Dennis, and the book upon which it is based to Virginia Rowans. Both are pennames of Edward E. Tanner III.

AT JIM THEATRE—Deborah Kerr attempts to penetrate the cold exterior of Russian officer Yul Brynner, who is holding up a group of travelers from Budapest seeking safety in Austria. The scene is from "The Journey," which opens Thursday at the Jim Theatre.

AT JOY DRIVE IN—Argentine beauty Linda Cristal, Canadian Lorne Smith and American Jock Mahoney form the international trio in Universal-International's color-CinemaScope production of "The Last of the East Guns," which opens today at the Joy Drive-In.

Commemorative Stamp Issued For NATO Group

The 4-cent NATO 10th anniversary commemorative stamp to be issued April 4 (as mentioned in this column last week) will feature the NATO emblem and motto.

The four-pointed star appears to the left of the adhesive superimposed on a solid dark circle. Upper right is "NATO" and below are the years "1949-1959." The simple design was by the noted artist Stevan Dohanos.

Collectors desiring first day cancellations may send their addressed envelopes to the Postmaster, Washington, 13, D. C., together with remittance to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed prior to April 4. The outside envelope to the Postmaster should be endorsed "First Day Covers NATO Stamp."

The North Atlantic Treaty Organization came into being when the treaty was signed in Washington, D. C. on April 4, 1949.

U. S. Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield announced that the 8-cent "World Peace Through World Trade" commemorative postage stamp originally scheduled for issuance April 19 at Washington, D. C. will be issued April 20. The reason for the change was that "it was not considered desirable to have a first day sale on Sunday."

Haiti has issued anew set of six stamps honoring Pope Pius

XII. Three are for airmail and three for regular postage. The 10 centimes regular and the 50 centimes airmail depict Pope Pius XII with children. The 50 centimes regular and the 1.50 gourde airmail show a portrait of the Pope praying. The 2 g regular and the 2.50 g airmail illustrate the Pope giving blessings.

Eire will issue a special cachet cover honoring St. Patrick's Day on March 17. The two color cover will have a drawing of Cahir Castle, County Tipperary, Ireland. The covers will be mailed from Ireland with Irish stamps postmarked Cahir.

Collectors desiring covers may write to Irish Cachet Covers, 947 East 32nd St., Brooklyn 10, N. Y. Covers cost 40 cents each.

POPULAR
By WILLIAM D. LAFFLER

NEW YORK (UPI) — One of the most enjoyable of stereo records is a dance LP made by an old pro who may win wider acclaim than he ever hoped for.

Sannella's name may be unfamiliar to the younger generation but others will remember him as a pioneer recording artist and one- time mainstay on radio. He was a featured soloist for Nathaniel Shilkret's orchestra and radio buffs of the 1930's tapped their feet to his steel guitar breaks on "Happy Days Are Here Again."

"Pan - Americana" is an eminently listenable as well as danceable LP. Side two is particularly outstanding. It opens with "The Poor People of Paris," slides into "Moritat" and winds up with an off - beat cha cha cha version of the jazz classic. "Ja da." Sound separation is sharp with no wandering or twinning. If this record doesn't make Sanella a hero, his case is hopeless.

Stereo Standouts: Teresa Brewer is something like a transistor, tiny but powerful. She belts the numbers in "Teresa Brewer and the Dixieland Band" (Coral CRL-757245) . . . "The Cheerleaders Sing Dixieland Jazz" (Carlton STLP 12-105) also puts emphasis on voices but the music is more swing than Dixie. . . "Jumpin' With Jonah" by Jonah Jones (Capitol ST - 1039) was good enough on a conventional disk but is a real jumper on stereo.

LP of the Week: "I've Heard That Song Before" by Patti Page (Mercury MG - 2038) hustles an ever-popular songbird through a variety of tunes that would cause a lesser singer to stumble.

Single of the Week: "No Joey Tonight" and "A Soul Full of Sunshine, A Heart Full of Love" by Bonnie King (Brunswick 9-55116). Bonnie knows how to handle a ballad as well as a bouncier tune.

Sure-fire Singles: "Kiss Me and Kiss Me and Kiss Me" by Perry Como (RCA Victor 47-7464), "Where's the Girl" by Julius La Rosa (Roulette R-4135), "Hi Hon" by the Blockbusters (Crystallette 725X) and "The Rockin' Bee" by Leon Merian and his Orchestra (20th-Fox 45-129.)

Also recommended: "Folk Songs from the Far Corners" (Disneyland WDL - 3006) and "Waltzes" by Daniel Ericourt (Kapp 9021.)

CONCERT
By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK (UPI)—Glucks opera "Alceste" makes very pleasant phonograph listening, particularly with Kirsten Flagstad and Raoul Jobin as the principal singers, even though it long ago ceased being a piece for the opera house.

That's because the stage action and emotion are painfully obsolete. But the music still glows and warms and you can ignore the words that go with it. A most musicianly recording, this. Its principals are backed by Geraint Jones conducting his own orchestra and singers (London-OSA-1403).

Bruno Walter's newest recorded performance of Beethoven's "Eroica" symphony is a mellow one. Nothing is hurried and nothing is pushed; you feel the conductor is seeking to permit deeper meanings to come through that might have been lost in a tautly concentrated playing.

GALLIC COMEDY PLANNED

NEW YORK (AP) — Three leading French stars are booked to appear on Broadway next fall in a Gallic comedy, "Caprice." They are Louis Jourdan, Claude Dauphin and Jean Pierre Aumont.

"Caprice" is adapted from a play by Armand Salacrou that has had three, successful runs in Paris.

LITTLE THEATRE

As we go to press the big news is — an extended run! As you know, "Pajama Game" was going full force last night for the first night of its hold-over engagement; we're sold out for tonight as well; and we know at this point that we'll show Tuesday night, too. But not Monday night! On Monday night the play is being suspended in order for Director Uttal to cast for the next play. Goodness, these days we can't even get finished with one show before we've plunged headlong into the next one! Time was when we held try - outs for the following show after the current production closed. But then not many Little Theatre plays enjoy the prestige of an extended run by popular demand — as 'Pajama Game" is doing.

Again let us remind you of readings for the fourth show of the season. It's "Detective Story"—one of the really bright spots in twentieth century theatre. It's a good, solid show which has been entertaining audiences throughout the country for a number of years. "Detective Story" is one of those sure-fire plays, successful wherever it opens.

Try - outs for the next show will be tomorrow night — that's Monday, March 16 — at the Playhouse at Selman Field. The only try - outs will be that one night — so don't miss being there. Readings begin at 7:30 p.m. and we'll be looking for you. This is a show with a big cast — all sorts of roles available. So now's your opportunity to try your hand at acting if you've never tried before, but maybe have always hankered to give it a whirl. Hope we see you at the theatre Monday night.

You know, there's so much that's delightful about "Pajama Game" that it is just impossible to mention every phase of it that is so pleasing to the audiences. The energy and excitement of the cast is so contagious, the interesting costumes, the humor of the show, the love - interest, the staging, the lighting, the dancing, the music — all of these things and more all combine to create a production that is pleasing in every respect. Can you project yourself into director Uttal's place momentarily and think for a moment what you would have done had you been the one person responsible for coordinating, for directing every detail that went into the production of this mammoth show? Had we known that we were responsible for such a thing — well, most likely there would have been no "Pajama Game"! Working with literally dozens and lozens of people doing hundreds of jobs — both large and small — is no easy task. Staging the show, which includes mapping out every minute detail is far from simple. It was a monumental undertaking which has proved to be a real artistic success. Our hat is off to you, Director Uttal — and all your cast and crew!

And the music — isn't is exciting? All the flavor of a Broadway show comes throbbing from the "Pajama Game" orchestra! How fortunate we are to have such talented people in our midst! The orchestra sets the mood with the first strains of the overture—from that moment on one is completely caught up in the excitement of the whole thing. Another bouquet to Slick Lawson, a truly talented guy, who was completely responsible for the music and who directs the orchestra. It is all done with sensitivity and a real feeling for the mood and meaning of the show. We've been lucky to have Slick as Music Director for this production. Thanks a million, fellows, to both of you and all your co - workers for an evening of really solid entertainment.

See you Wednesday!

STAGE DIRECTORS JOIN

NEW YORK (AP)—Eliz Kazan, Cyril Ritchard and Bretaigne Windust are among outstanding stage mentors who are forming a new organization to be known as the Society of Stage Directors.

Planned to embrace both directors and choreographers, the organization's purposes are to establish "a standard of dignity and security long enjoyed by our colleagues in every other craft of the theater."

LONELY PEOPLE — Deborah Kerr and David Niven are two sensitive, lonely people drawn to each other in "Separate Tables." They have both received Academy Award nominations for their roles in the picture, which opens March 22 at the Paramount Theatre.

'Sound And Fury' Now At Paramount

The film, which was partly made in the Mississippi area, had it's world premiere last week at the Paramount Theatre in Jackson. The story from the pen of William Faulkner, is said to be the one that made him the boldest writer in America today. The film centers on a blistering story of love and transgression in the South.

Miss Woodward further enhances her already enviable reputation as an actress of range and power, in the role of the daughter of a Southern household, whose mother had disappeared immediately after the child was born, some 17 years before. The girl, feeling unloved, unwanted, put upon and seemingly is constantly driven by Yule Brynner, the stepuncle, who supports and rules the household firmly.

The picture was produced by Jerry Wald, who barred the secrets of New England in "Peyton Place." The director was Martin Ritt, who did such notable work as the recent "No Down Payment" and "The Long Hot Summer." Yul Brynner and Joanne Woodward are ably supported by Ethel Waters, Stuart Whitman, and Margaret Kleighton in top supporting roles.

GREENE COMEDY PLANNED

NEW YORK (AP) —A comdey based upon the reminiscences of French novelist Colette has been put on the Broadway agenda of producers Cheryl Crawford and Joel Schenker.

Entitled "My Mother's House," the play is the work of Bertram Greene, whose main writing activities have been in television and radio. Miss Crawford and Schenker this season have exhibited "Shadow of a Gunman" and "The Rivalry," both to critical applause.

NEW PLAY FOR ROZ

NEW YORK (AP)—Another play has been written for Rosalind Russell by the author of her hit, "Auntie Mame."

Frederick Brisson, Broadway producer and husband of the film star, said production of the comedy drama "All About Love" is planned for next season.

The play is credited to Patrick Dennis, and the book upon which it is based to Virginia Rowans. Both are pennames of Edward E. Tanner III.

AT JIM THEATRE—Deborah Kerr attempts to penetrate the cold exterior of Russian officer Yul Brynner, who is holding up a group of travelers from Budapest seeking safety in Austria. The scene is from "The Journey," which opens Thursday at the Jim Theatre.

AT JOY DRIVE IN—Argentine beauty Linda Cristal, Canadian Lorne Smith and American Jock Mahoney form the international trio in Universal-International's color-CinemaScope production of "The Last of the East Guns," which opens today at the Joy Drive-In.

Commemorative Stamp Issued For NATO Group

The 4-cent NATO 10th anniversary commemorative stamp to be issued April 4 (as mentioned in this column last week) will feature the NATO emblem and motto.

The four-pointed star appears to the left of the adhesive superimposed on a solid dark circle. Upper right is "NATO" and below are the years "1949-1959." The simple design was by the noted artist Stevan Dohanos.

Collectors desiring first day cancellations may send their addressed envelopes to the Postmaster, Washington, 13, D. C., together with remittance to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed prior to April 4. The outside envelope to the Postmaster should be endorsed "First Day Covers NATO Stamp."

The North Atlantic Treaty Organization came into being when the treaty was signed in Washington, D. C. on April 4, 1949.

U. S. Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield announced that the 8-cent "World Peace Through World Trade" commemorative postage stamp originally scheduled for issuance April 19 at Washington, D. C. will be issued April 20. The reason for the change was that "it was not considered desirable to have a first day sale on Sunday."

Haiti has issued anew set of six stamps honoring Pope Pius

XII. Three are for airmail and three for regular postage. The 10 centimes regular and the 50 centimes airmail depict Pope Pius XII with children. The 50 centimes regular and the 1.50 gourde airmail show a portrait of the Pope praying. The 2 g regular and the 2.50 g airmail illustrate the Pope giving blessings.

Eire will issue a special cachet cover honoring St. Patrick's Day on March 17. The two color cover will have a drawing of Cahir Castle, County Tipperary, Ireland. The covers will be mailed from Ireland with Irish stamps postmarked Cahir.

Collectors desiring covers may write to Irish Cachet Covers, 947 East 32nd St., Brooklyn 10, N. Y. Covers cost 40 cents each.

RECORDS

POPULAR
By WILLIAM D. LAFFLER

NEW YORK (UPI) — One of the most enjoyable of stereo records is a dance LP made by an old pro who may win wider acclaim than he ever hoped for.

Sannella's name may be unfamiliar to the younger generation but others will remember him as a pioneer recording artist and one- time mainstay on radio. He was a featured soloist for Nathaniel Shilkret's orchestra and radio buffs of the 1930's tapped their feet to his steel guitar breaks on "Happy Days Are Here Again."

"Pan - Americana" is an eminently listenable as well as danceable LP. Side two is particularly outstanding. It opens with "The Poor People of Paris," slides into "Moritat" and winds up with an off - beat cha cha cha version of the jazz classic. "Ja da." Sound separation is sharp with no wandering or twinning. If this record doesn't make Sanella a hero, his case is hopeless.

Stereo Standouts: Teresa Brewer is something like a transistor, tiny but powerful. She belts the numbers in "Teresa Brewer and the Dixieland Band" (Coral CRL-757245) . . . "The Cheerleaders Sing Dixieland Jazz" (Carlton STLP 12-105) also puts emphasis on voices but the music is more swing than Dixie. . . "Jumpin' With Jonah" by Jonah Jones (Capitol ST - 1039) was good enough on a conventional disk but is a real jumper on stereo.

LP of the Week: "I've Heard That Song Before" by Patti Page (Mercury MG - 2038) hustles an ever-popular songbird through a variety of tunes that would cause a lesser singer to stumble.

Single of the Week: "No Joey Tonight" and "A Soul Full of Sunshine, A Heart Full of Love" by Bonnie King (Brunswick 9-55116). Bonnie knows how to handle a ballad as well as a bouncier tune.

Sure-fire Singles: "Kiss Me and Kiss Me and Kiss Me" by Perry Como (RCA Victor 47-7464), "Where's the Girl" by Julius La Rosa (Roulette R-4135), "Hi Hon" by the Blockbusters (Crystallette 725X) and "The Rockin' Bee" by Leon Merian and his Orchestra (20th-Fox 45-129.)

Also recommended: "Folk Songs from the Far Corners" (Disneyland WDL - 3006) and "Waltzes" by Daniel Ericourt (Kapp 9021.)

CONCERT
By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK (UPI)—Glucks opera "Alceste" makes very pleasant phonograph listening, particularly with Kirsten Flagstad and Raoul Jobin as the principal singers, even though it long ago ceased being a piece for the opera house.

That's because the stage action and emotion are painfully obsolete. But the music still glows and warms and you can ignore the words that go with it. A most musicianly recording, this. Its principals are backed by Geraint Jones conducting his own orchestra and singers (London-OSA-1403).

Bruno Walter's newest recorded performance of Beethoven's "Eroica" symphony is a mellow one. Nothing is hurried and nothing is pushed; you feel the conductor is seeking to permit deeper meanings to come through that might have been lost in a tautly concentrated playing.

NEW YORK (AP) — Three leading French stars are booked to appear on Broadway next fall in a Gallic comedy, "Caprice." They are Louis Jourdan, Claude Dauphin and Jean Pierre Aumont.

"Caprice" is adapted from a play by Armand Salacrou that has had three successful runs in Paris.

LITTLE THEATRE

As we go to press the big news is — an extended run! As you know, "Pajama Game" was going full force last night for the first night of its hold-over engagement; we're sold out for tonight as well; and we know at this point that we'll show Tuesday night, too. But not Monday night! On Monday night the play is being suspended in order for Director Uttal to cast for the next play. Goodness, these days we can't even get finished with one show before we've plunged headlong into the next one! Time was when we held try - outs for the following show after the current production closed. But then not many Little Theatre plays enjoy the prestige of an extended run by popular demand — as 'Pajama Game" is doing.

Again let us remind you of readings for the fourth show of the season. It's "Detective Story"— one of the really bright spots in twentieth century theatre. It's a good, solid show which has been entertaining audiences throughout the country for a number of years. "Detective Story" is one of those sure-fire plays, successful wherever it opens.

Try - outs for the next show will be tomorrow night — that's Monday, March 16 — at the Playhouse at Selman Field. The only try - outs will be that one night — so don't miss being there. Readings begin at 7:30 p.m. and we'll be looking for you. This is a show with a big cast — all sorts of roles available. So now's your opportunity to try your hand at acting if you've never tried before, but maybe have always hankered to give it a whirl. Hope we see you at the theatre Monday night.

You know, there's so much that's delightful about "Pajama Game" that it is just impossible to mention every phase of it that is so pleasing to the audiences. ANCIENT WRITING BASIS OF ART

It is based on the fact that the Japanese language is a "pictorial" one, with written characters taken from the Chinese expressing ideas and concepts.

For centuries, Japanese have devoted themselves to developing a beautiful handwriting — calligraphy — reproducing the characters making up the language in graceful strokes of the brush.

Now artists are going many steps further. They take a specific character and "divorce it from its literal meaning" but retain its "spiritual identity" almost the same way that Western abstract artists may turn a still life into a seemingly indecipherable blob of paint on a canvas.

Thousands of Japanese still prefer the brush for formal occasions or aesthetic moments of inspiration even though the fountain pen is now the most popular writing instrument.

Down through the ages the Japanese way of writing simply developed into a refined art of copying an accepted style. Then all the brush master did was spend hours daily tracing, then repeatedly copying until he mastered to perfection that which belonged to someone else. Individuality and originality were lost.

Among them is Shiryu Morita who lives and works in Kyoto — Japan's ancient cultural capital.

Morita's black and white productions are more popular in the United States and Europe than they are in Japan. In France they are compared and evaluated with works by such noted abstract artists as the American Franz Kline and Frenchman Pierre Soulages, who use calligraphy as the basis of their art.

"Everything I want to express on paper," he says, "is concentrated within my soul and my brush. And when the brush touches the papaer I literally explode."

Morita contemplates a few minutes, then swishes a heavily soaked Chinese brush.

His brush swings over to the right, then swiftly to the left and then down again. With lightning speed it continues swishing up and over and down again.

True to the spirit of Oriental calligraphy, Morita paints on rice paper instead of canvas.

"The brush strokes, the light and dark swishes and their shadows should be visible," Morta says. "And you can't get this effect on canvas."

Morita contends that "Japanese letters have shape and form. They also have feeling. I want to bring life and expression to that feeling."

Morita, 45, lives in an old two - story house in the northern outskirts of Kyoto where he devotes much of his time editing two monthly pamphlets that are more in demand abroad than in Japan.

They are "Bokubi" which means "beauty of black and white" and "Bokujin" which means "man of black and white." He founded both publications eight years ago.

A comparatively quiet man, Morita doesn't accept any disciples. Asked why, he replies: "I have no time to give individual instructons. I'm still seeking a medium that I can call my own."

Morita's works are characterized by large bold dashing charcoal black strokes. He generally uses five large Chinese writing brushes tied together.

Morita claims that "the heart of the brush amply soaked with 'sumi' (ink) . . . the moment it touches the paper . . . that is the essence of my writing. It is that precise moment when I know whether I've produced a successful piece."

TV Western Dropped, But Bounces Back

It's "Tombstone Territory," which returned to ABC Friday night and looks good to continue its ride on the TV range. A lot of folks were surprised when the show was canceled last year.

"So was I," admitted young Pat Conway, who co-stars with Richard Eastham on the series. "The show had gotten good reviews and the ratings were okay. But we got caught in the middle of a shuffle of the advertising agencies that handled the sponsor."

When the show was dropped, the producers went ahead with 13 more films with the notion of syndicating the total of 52. But network interest revived, and "Tombstone Territory" may well continue for several more seasons.

That's okay with Pat, who doesnot mind hard work. He has experienced enough idleness as an actor.

There were times, in fact, when he might have concluded that his father was right. Pat is the son of the late Jack Conway, one of the great directors of MGM's heyday and maker of most of Clark Gable's action films.

"Dad didn't think much of my wanting to become an actor," Pat recalled. "He realized the great odds against finding success. It's true, of course. Of 10,000 members of the Screen Actors Guild, perhaps 1 per cent can make a good living from their profession.

"But the odds didn't scare me, When I was a kid, I decided there were two things I would like to be—an actor or a bum. The actor's life appealed to me more."

A Kiss And A Touch And Then Death For You

THE GHOST OF MONSIEUR SCARRON. By Janet Lewis. Doubleday. $3.95.

Louis XIV was old, the good people of Paris were hungry, a few rash spirits blamed the King's mistress Maintenon. The rashest wrote a pamphlet so scurrilous that Louis determined to hang the guilty.

Caught up helplessly in this plot and its dangerous ramifications are Jean Larcher, honest, loyal, Catholic bookbinder; Marianne his wife, pretty and too malleable; Nicolas their son, a restless journeyman; and Paul Damas, who comes from Auxerre which he fled when his master's wife, whom he seduced, told his master on him.

The scene moves from the den of the rebellious to the shop, the royal chambers at Versailles and the less luxurious settings for more plebeian rendezvous, the prosecutor's office, the sites of public execution and private vengeance. As Miss Lewis writes, tragedy closes in implacably, the clouds darken, there is the sickening smell of blood, and death comes in its awfullest forms, with agony, with rank injustice, with both.

Love turns killer. A kiss on the shoulder, a stolen touch, an assignation lead straight to death. The stark contrast between dalliance and bloody retribution packs this work with drama.

THEATRE TO BOATS

NEW YORK (AP) — Theatre producers come to Broadway from many other fields of business, but now a successful management team is doing a switch.

Robert E. Griffith and Harold S. Prince, who presented "Pajama Game" and "Damn Yankees," have set up a company to build cabin cruisers. Some of their show backers have become stockholders.

Battlefield Tears

EPITAPH FOR AN ENEMY. By George Barr. Harper. $3.50.

Baxter, a sergeant, leads the remnants of his platoon inland some two miles from the Normandy beachhead till he reaches the town of Merville. There a shot just in the nick of time kills the last remaining German, the 60 French survivors come out of hiding, and Baxter's commanding officer orders him to guide them down to the shore to be evacuated to England.

He would rather go on fighting, as he is pictured in this first novel, but this looks like a two - hour job, orders are orders and back he starts.

But to his great shock, his little band of liberated villagers, instead of hymning freedom, start hotly and meanly to quarrel — you collaborated! you sold produce to Germans! what did the mayor ever do for us?

Badgered by this dissension, the sergeant is caught also in another dilemma: Get off the beach, the beach master tells him, but the C. O. commands: Get back there. And as the helpless refugees shunt back and forth, a new picture of their experiences and of their inner natures forms in Baxter's mind. Though the enemy has occupied their homes, they have ignored the dictum, to hate, and learned the lesson, to love.

The first half of this story, in its cool telling, is more a witty description of the old familiar Army snafu than an account of hardships and suffering. But as the ill - fated inhabitants of the village become one by one more individual in our eyes, as we see more clearly the blonde Lili and her great-grandmother, the woman from Paris, the mayor, the grocer, and the dead German commandant, this turns from comedy to heart-warming tragedy. Even if you feel the first part does not quite prepare you for the second, even though the laughter is not the inevitable prelude to the tears, there are tears, and a fine, deep, touching pathos at the climax.

Cricket Smith, by Monte Linkletter (Harper): Anyone who grew up in a small town during the '30's and doesn't enjoy this little book has become hopelessly adult. The wondrous world of Cricket Smith, a preacher's nephew who is sore beset, is something to behold and to recollect. Chicket allows: "I never did get the tobacco habit, nor smoke much, nor drink beer stronger than root, but I always had a hard time staying away from the deacons daughters."

Cricket's adventures come through so real that for a while you will feel you didn't, after all, mislay your own youth. This is a book that can justly take its place with Huck Finn and Tom Sawyer.

John, King of England, by John T. Appleby (Knopf): The monarch who signed the Magna Carta made more trouble for himself than he could handle, and he got his come-uppance at Runnymee. This is an assiduously researched account of John's untrusting and untrusted life in an age of chivalry, duplicity, conspiracy, interdict and excommunication. To keep the troubled throne inherited from his brother, Richard of the Lion's Heart, John once tried to bargain for a Sultan's aid by promising that England would embrace Islam. Although inclusion of copious detail and obscure names slows the pace of the story, it is a rich treasury of medieval English history.

Acrobat Admits, by Alfred Grossman (Braziller): A literary venture into the grotesque, combining bitter wit, savage satire and frightening fantasy. The hero of this first novel, identified only as "George," is a young man working as an editor of a trade magazine. Bored with his job and just about everything else, George day-dreams himself into liaisons with two girls, becoming snared in a net from which he can't escape. This is a well-written, sparsely constructed novel as astringent as a gulp of quinine and as likely to leave a bad taste in your mouth.

"WEST SIDE" TO MOVIES

NEW YORK (AP) — The film rights to the Broadway hit musical "West Side Story" have been bought for $350,000 plus a share of eventual screen profits.

The independent movie company, Seven Arts Productions, isn't expected to make the film version for several years. The stage production goes on national tour following windup of its New York run. Another company is performing a box-office success in London.

RUNNING THE SCALES

With JOHN CALE

The Bel Canto Trio closed out the 1958-59 season for the Crossett, Arkansas, Community Concerts Association last night, with a performance in the community auditorium.

The group is made up of three young American artists each of whom has achieved distinction as a solo artist: Joan Brainerd, soprano, Charles K. L. Davis, tenor, and Robert Kirkham, baritone.

This marks the end of the third season in which concert groups in Crossett, Monroe and Alexandria have operated under a reciprocal agreement. According to all accounts, the idea has been successful with numbers of persons taking advantage of the nine or ten concerts per season offered them in the three cities.

ALEXANDRIA

The Alexandria association closed its season on February 12 with a concert of the Boston Pops orchestra under the direction of Arthur Fiedler. The Monroe association still has one attraction to go. The closing concert here will feature pianist Stanley Babin who will perform Monday evening, March 23 at 8:15 p.m. on the Neville High School stage.

The Louisiana Tech Concert Association has one remaining attraction, the Claremont Quartet scheduled to appear in Howard Auditorium on April 9. The Twin City Symphony orchestra has two more scheduled concerts: one in early April and a final performance set for May 7.

It should be mentioned here also that Northeast State College — the base of operations of the Twin City Symphony — has brought a fine artist and lecture series to this area during this season including the New York string trio, the Northeast faculty trio and the Eastman School of Music string quartet. While these programs have not been too well attended — with the notable exception of the faculty trio recital — the series marks the significant growth of cultural activities on the Northeast campus.

CROSSROADS

All of this adds up to the fact that northeast Louisiana is no longer a cultural void but more of a crossroads. A person living in the Monroe or Bastrop area, for example, has within easy reach the three Crossett concerts plus the three in Monroe. Add to this the list of half a dozen or so numbers on the La. Tech series in Ruston. In the field of local efforts, the Monroe Little Theatre and the Twin City Symphony add an additional nine performances to the list.

All of this totals close to two dozen when the two or three attractions booked privately (as were this season's "Auntie Mame" and "Four Freshmen.")

The bill for all of this would come to less than $25 — adult fare — and there would be an average of more than one attraction per week during the concert season from late October through March.

Europe long ago discovered the advantages of provincial concert halls. The most advanced idea of them all — the opera house in Bayreuth designed and pushed to completion by composer Richard Wagner before his death in 1883—is in a small city of 58,000. But the venture has proven an attraction for tourists from all over the world.

There are certain disadvantages to the American tour system which will be discussed in detail in future columns. But on all counts, it appears the small American city is now in a position to get the best in this field brought to its doorstep or next-doorstep.

Dreiser's Life In His Letters

Though Dreiser's "An American Tragedy" dates from the late 1920s, "Sister Carrie" appeared in 1900 and "Jennie Gerhardt," "The Financier," "The Titan" and "The Genius" in the next 15 years. So though Dreiser died only in 1945, his period, as we are apt to forget, is not one generation ago, but closer to two. He remembered seeing Mark Twain, drunk and gossiping about his wife, though a Mark Twain scholar challenged this statement. He came along when grown-ups were reading "The Girl of the Limberlost" and children were brought up on the "Little Colonel" series. But his impact on the book world, though he first made it so long ago, still hits us hard.

This 1,150 - page set contains about 600 letters. After an apprenticeship on newspapers in Chicago, St. Louis, and New York, he turned to magazine writing and editing; they gave him a living but he would always feel some scorn for those particular magazines and in general for the "Harlot Press," as he branded it. A friend urged him to try a novel, and it is then, in 1897, that Elias' selection begins.

His correspondence with H. L. Mencken fills many well deserved pages. Mencken, a man of wit, with a bite as painful as his bark, was a livelier writer, word for word, but lacked Deriser's depth and compassion. They shared common literary objectives, at least in their first years; preferred Germany to England even as World War I threatened and developed; and could both be unpleasantly snappish about Jews and Negroes. Dreiser was also, of course, a fervid anti-Catholic.

He had a temper, could throw a cup of coffee in Horace Liveright's face, and slap Sinclair Lewis; the former incident is covered in detail in these pages. But the world he lived in obliged him to be a fighter; of writers in his native land he believed in 1920 when he was almost 50, that "all who have attempted liberal and artistic writing in the best sence in America have failed, not of artistic achievement in the main but of public recognition and support."

He had some experiences that would have discouraged almost anyone else. At start he declared he would write novels only if he could earn a living at them— "If 'Jennie (Gerhardt) doesn't sell well, though, I won't hang on to this writing game very long." On top of this defiant attitude he ran into uncommon difficulties with two publishers, Doubleday who printed "Sister Carrie" under protest just to abide by its contract, and Harper, who printed a first edition of 10,000 copies (so he supposes) of "The Titan" and then decided not to publish. He bounced around from one house to another; and of course the trouble always was his pioneering realism; he wrote to Morris L. Ernst: "As to important literature or any sane survey of life, there is no more escaping sex or even pornography than there is of escaping your rent or your grocer's bill.

There is one love letter, and a pathetically callow one, too. For the rest, this is about Dreiser's professional life and thought. He writes to fellow professionals — Saroyan, Farrell, Gertrude Sarah Millin, George Jean Nathan, George Sterling, Arthur Davison Ficke, Barbusse, Ernest and Madeleine Boyd, Max Eastman.

As the editor himself, also Dreiser's biographer, implies, Dreiser was not a great letter writer. Some of this material, for instance, about what publishers to deal with and on what terms, can be boring. No secrets are revealed. Dreiser the person, it might be said, was not of the stature of Dreiser the writer. But nevertheless these letters, which tell so clearly how widely the author was involved in his time, constitute a literary treasure of rare value. He could be severe with the AFL and William Green, work for the freedom of Mooney and Billings (but never mention Sacco and Vanzetti), write to Franklin D. Roosevelt and Stalin, and at the very end become a Communist. The most perceptive assessment of the Dreiser situation is Elias' regret that "he never was a Zola to some Dreyfus." Always the emphasis is on social and human problems; we wish he had paid more attention to literary ones.

ANCIENT WRITING BASIS OF ART

It is based on the fact that the Japanese language is a "pictorial" one, with written characters taken from the Chinese expressing ideas and concepts.

For centuries, Japanese have devoted themselves to developing a beautiful handwriting — calligraphy — reproducing the characters making up the language in graceful strokes of the brush.

Now artists are going many steps further. They take a specific character and "divorce it from its literal meaning" but retain its "spiritual identity" almost the same way that Western abstract artists may turn a still life into a seemingly indecipherable blob of paint on a canvas.

Thousands of Japanese still prefer the brush for formal occasions or aesthetic moments of inspiration even though the fountain pen is now the most popular writing instrument.

Down through the ages the Japanese way of writing simply developed into a refined art of copying an accepted style. Then all the brush master did was spend hours daily tracing, then repeatedly copying until he mastered to perfection that which belonged to someone else. Individuality and originality were lost.

Among them is Shiryu Morita who lives and works in Kyoto — Japan's ancient cultural capital.

Morita's black and white productions are more popular in the United States and Europe than they are in Japan. In France they are compared and evaluated with works by such noted abstract artists as the American Franz Kline and Frenchman Pierre Soulages, who use calligraphy as the basis of their art.

"Everything I want to express on paper," he says, "is concentrated within my soul and my brush. And when the brush touches the papaer I literally explode."

Morita contemplates a few minutes, then swishes a heavily soaked Chinese brush.

His brush swings over to the right, then swiftly to the left and then down again. With lightning speed it continues swishing up and over and down again.

True to the spirit of Oriental calligraphy, Morita paints on rice paper instead of canvas.

Morita contends that "Japanese letters have shape and form. They also have feeling. I want to bring life and expression to that feeling."

Morita, 45, lives in an old two - story house in the northern outskirts of Kyoto where he devotes much of his time editing two monthly pamphlets that are more in demand abroad than in Japan.

They are "Bokubi" which means "beauty of black and white" and "Bokujin" which means "man of black and white." He founded both publications eight years ago.

A comparatively quiet man, Morita doesn't accept any disciples. Asked why, he replies: "I have no time to give individual instructons. I'm still seeking a medium that I can call my own."

Morita's works are characterized by large bold dashing charcoal black strokes. He generally uses five large Chinese writing brushes tied together.

Morita claims that "the heart of the brush amply soaked with 'sumi' (ink) . . . the moment it touches the paper . . . that is the essence of my writing. It is that precise moment when I know whether I've produced a successful piece."

TV Western Dropped, But Bounces Back

It's "Tombstone Territory," which returned to ABC Friday night and looks good to continue its ride on the TV range. A lot of folks were surprised when the show was canceled last year.

"So was I," admitted young Pat Conway, who co-stars with Richard Eastham on the series. "The show had gotten good reviews and the ratings were okay. But we got caught in the middle of a shuffle of the advertising agencies that handled the sponsor."

When the show was dropped, the producers went ahead with 13 more films with the notion of syndicating the total of 52. But network interest revived, and "Tombstone Territory" may well continue for several more seasons.

That's okay with Pat, who doesnot mind hard work. He has experienced enough idleness as an actor.

There were times, in fact, when he might have concluded that his father was right. Pat is the son of the late Jack Conway, one of the great directors of MGM's heyday and maker of most of Clark Gable's action films.

"Dad didn't think much of my wanting to become an actor," Pat recalled. "He realized the great odds against finding success. It's true, of course. Of 10,000 members of the Screen Actors Guild, perhaps 1 per cent can make a good living from their profession.

"But the odds didn't scare me. When I was a kid, I decided there were two things I would like to be—an actor or a bum. The actor's life appealed to me more."

A Kiss And A Touch And Then Death For You

Louis XIV was old, the good people of Paris were hungry, a few rash spirits blamed the King's mistress Maintenon. The rashest wrote a pamphlet so scurrilous that Louis determined to hang the guilty.

Caught up helplessly in this plot and its dangerous ramifications are Jean Larcher, honest, loyal, Catholic bookbinder; Marianne his wife, pretty and too malleable; Nicolas their son, a restless journeyman; and Paul Damas, who comes from Auxerre which he fled when his master's wife, whom he seduced, told his master on him.

The scene moves from the den of the rebellious to the shop, the royal chambers at Versailles and the less luxurious settings for more plebeian rendezvous, the prosecutor's office, the sites of public execution and private vengeance. As Miss Lewis writes, tragedy closes in implacably, the clouds darken, there is the sickening smell of blood, and death comes in its awfullest forms, with agony, with rank injustice, with both.

Love turns killer. A kiss on the shoulder, a stolen touch, an assignation lead straight to death. The stark contrast between dalliance and bloody retribution packs this work with drama.

THEATRE TO BOATS

NEW YORK (AP) — Theatre producers come to Broadway from many other fields of business, but now a successful management team is doing a switch.

Robert E. Griffith and Harold S. Prince, who presented "Pajama Game" and "Damn Yankees," have set up a company to build cabin cruisers. Some of their show backers have become stockholders.

Battlefield Tears

EPITAPH FOR AN ENEMY. By George Barr. Harper. $3.50.

Baxter, a sergeant, leads the remnants of his platoon inland some two miles from the Normandy beachhead till he reaches the town of Merville. There a shot just in the nick of time kills the last remaining German, the 60 French survivors come out of hiding, and Baxter's commanding officer orders him to guide them down to the shore to be evacuated to England.

He would rather go on fighting, as he is pictured in this first novel, but this looks like a two - hour job, orders are orders and back he starts.

But to his great shock, his little band of liberated villagers, instead of hymning freedom, start hotly and meanly to quarrel — you collaborated! you sold produce to Germans! what did the mayor ever do for us?

Badgered by this dissension, the sergeant is caught also in another dilemma: Get off the beach, the beach master tells him, but the C. O. commands: Get back there. And as the helpless refugees shunt back and forth, a new picture of their experiences and of their inner natures forms in Baxter's mind. Though the enemy has occupied their homes, they have ignored the dictum, to hate, and learned the lesson, to love.

The first half of this story, in its cool telling, is more a witty description of the old familiar Army snafu than an account of hardships and suffering. But as the ill - fated inhabitants of the village become one by one more individual in our eyes, as we see more clearly the blonde Lili and her great-grandmother, the woman from Paris, the mayor, the grocer, and the dead German commandant, this turns from comedy to heart-warming tragedy. Even if you feel the first part does not quite prepare you for the second, even though the laughter is not the inevitable prelude to the tears, there are tears, and a fine, deep, touching pathos at the climax.

Cricket Smith, by Monte Linkletter (Harper): Anyone who grew up in a small town during the '30's and doesn't enjoy this little book has become hopelessly adult. The wondrous world of Cricket Smith, a preacher's nephew who is sore beset, is something to behold and to recollect. Chicket allows: "I never did get the tobacco habit, nor smoke much, nor drink beer stronger than root, but I always had a hard time staying away from the deacons daughters."

Cricket's adventures come through so real that for a while you will feel you didn't, after all, mislay your own youth. This is a book that can justly take its place with Huck Finn and Tom Sawyer.

John, King of England, by John T. Appleby (Knopf): The monarch who signed the Magna Carta made more trouble for himself than he could handle, and he got his come-uppance at Runnymee. This is an assiduously researched account of John's untrusting and untrusted life in an age of chivalry, duplicity, conspiracy, interdict and excommunication. To keep the troubled throne inherited from his brother, Richard of the Lion's Heart, John once tried to bargain for a Sultan's aid by promising that England would embrace Islam. Although inclusion of copious detail and obscure names slows the pace of the story, it is a rich treasury of medieval English history.

Acrobat Admits, by Alfred Grossman (Braziller): A literary venture into the grotesque, combining bitter wit, savage satire and frightening fantasy. The hero of this first novel, identified only as "George," is a young man working as an editor of a trade magazine. Bored with his job and just about everything else, George day-dreams himself into liaisons with two girls, becoming snared in a net from which he can't escape. This is a well-written, sparsely constructed novel as astringent as a gulp of quinine and as likely to leave a bad taste in your mouth.

"WEST SIDE" TO MOVIES

NEW YORK (AP) — The film rights to the Broadway hit musical "West Side Story" have been bought for $350,000 plus a share of eventual screen profits.

The independent movie company, Seven Arts Productions, isn't expected to make the film version for several years. The stage production goes on national tour following windup of its New York run. Another company is performing a box-office success in London.

RUNNING THE SCALES

With JOHN CALE

The Bel Canto Trio closed out the 1958-59 season for the Crossett, Arkansas, Community Concerts Association last night, with a performance in the community auditorium.

The group is made up of three young American artists each of whom has achieved distinction as a solo artist: Joan Brainerd, soprano, Charles K. L. Davis, tenor, and Robert Kirkham, baritone.

This marks the end of the third season in which concert groups in Crossett, Monroe and Alexandria have operated under a reciprocal agreement. According to all accounts, the idea has been successful with numbers of persons taking advantage of the nine or ten concerts per season offered them in the three cities.

ALEXANDRIA

The Alexandria association closed its season on February 12 with a concert of the Boston Pops orchestra under the direction of Arthur Fiedler. The Monroe association still has one attraction to go. The closing concert here will feature pianist Stanley Babin who will perform Monday evening, March 23 at 8:15 p.m. on the Neville High School stage.

The Louisiana Tech Concert Association has one remaining attraction, the Claremont Quartet scheduled to appear in Howard Auditorium on April 9. The Twin City Symphony orchestra has two more scheduled concerts: one in early April and a final performance set for May 7.

It should be mentioned here also that Northeast State College — the base of operations of the Twin City Symphony — has brought a fine artist and lecture series to this area during this season including the New York string trio, the Northeast faculty trio and the Eastman School of Music string quartet. While these programs have not been too well attended — with the notable exception of the faculty trio recital — the series marks the significant growth of cultural activities on the Northeast campus.

CROSSROADS

All of this adds up to the fact that northeast Louisiana is no longer a cultural void but more of a crossroads. A person living in the Monroe or Bastrop area, for example, has within easy reach the three Crossett concerts plus the three in Monroe. Add to this the list of half a dozen or so numbers on the La. Tech series in Ruston. In the field of local efforts, the Monroe Little Theatre and the Twin City Symphony add an additional nine performances to the list.

All of this totals close to two dozen when the two or three attractions booked privately (as were this season's "Auntie Mame" and "Four Freshmen.")

The bill for all of this would come to less than $25 — adult fare — and there would be an average of more than one attraction per week during the concert season from late October through March.

Europe long ago discovered the advantages of provincial concert halls. The most advanced idea of them all — the opera house in Bayreuth designed and pushed to completion by composer Richard Wagner before his death in 1883—is in a small city of 58,000. But the venture has proven an attraction for tourists from all over the world.

There are certain disadvantages to the American tour system which will be discussed in detail in future columns. But on all counts, it appears the small American city is now in a position to get the best in this field brought to its doorstep or next-doorstep.

Dreiser's Life In His Letters

Though Dreiser's "An American Tragedy" dates from the late 1920s, "Sister Carrie" appeared in 1900 and "Jennie Gerhardt," "The Financier," "The Titan" and "The Genius" in the next 15 years. So though Dreiser died only in 1945, his period, as we are apt to forget, is not one generation ago, but closer to two. He remembered seeing Mark Twain, drunk and gossiping about his wife, though a Mark Twain scholar challenged this statement. He came along when grown-ups were reading "The Girl of the Limberlost" and children were brought up on the "Little Colonel" series. But his impact on the book world, though he first made it so long ago, still hits us hard.

This 1,150 - page set contains about 600 letters. After an apprenticeship on newspapers in Chicago, St. Louis, and New York, he turned to magazine writing and editing; they gave him a living but he would always feel some scorn for those particular magazines and in general for the "Harlot Press," as he branded it. A friend urged him to try a novel, and it is then, in 1897, that Elias' selection begins.

His correspondence with H. L. Mencken fills many well deserved pages. Mencken, a man of wit, with a bite as painful as his bark, was a livelier writer, word for word, but lacked Deriser's depth and compassion. They shared common literary objectives, at least in their first years; preferred Germany to England even as World War I threatened and developed; and could both be unpleasantly snappish about Jews and Negroes. Dreiser was also, of course, a fervid anti-Catholic.

He had a temper, could throw a cup of coffee in Horace Liveright's face, and slap Sinclair Lewis; the former incident is covered in detail in these pages. But the world he lived in obliged him to be a fighter; of writers in his native land he believed in 1920 when he was almost 50, that "all who have attempted liberal and artistic writing in the best sence in America have failed, not of artistic achievement in the main but of public recognition and support."

He had some experiences that would have discouraged almost anyone else. At start he declared he would write novels only if he could earn a living at them— "If 'Jennie (Gerhardt) doesn't sell well, though, I won't hang on to this writing game very long." On top of this defiant attitude he ran into uncommon difficulties with two publishers, Doubleday who printed "Sister Carrie" under protest just to abide by its contract, and Harper, who printed a first edition of 10,000 copies (so he supposes) of "The Titan" and then decided not to publish. He bounced around from one house to another; and of course the trouble always was his pioneering realism; he wrote to Morris L. Ernst: "As to important literature or any sane survey of life, there is no more escaping sex or even pornography than there is of escaping your rent or your grocer's bill.

There is one love letter, and a pathetically callow one, too. For the rest, this is about Dreiser's professional life and thought. He writes to fellow professionals — Saroyan, Farrell, Gertrude Sarah Millin, George Jean Nathan, George Sterling, Arthur Davison Ficke, Barbusse, Ernest and Madeleine Boyd, Max Eastman.

As the editor himself, also Dreiser's biographer, implies, Dreiser was not a great letter writer. Some of this material, for instance, about what publishers to deal with and on what terms, can be boring. No secrets are revealed. Dreiser the person, it might be said, was not of the stature of Dreiser the writer. But nevertheless these letters, which tell so clearly how widel, the author was involved in his time, constitute a literary treasure of rare value. He could be severe with the AFL and William Green, work for the freedom of Mooney and Billings (but never mention Sacco and Vanzetti), write to Franklin D. Roosevelt and Stalin, and at the very end become a Communist. The most perceptive assessment of the Dreiser situation is Elias' regret that "he never was a Zola to some Dreyfus." Always the emphasis is on social and human problems; we wish he had paid more attention to literary ones.

THE HOME SHIFT

Ground Cover Spares Mower

By MILDRED SWIFT

We'd like to invite our friends from surrounding towns to visit Ouachita Parish. Just drive around most any street and you'll see beauty in its spring dress.

If you'll wait until next Sunday, the crabapples should be in bloom, and maybe the azaleas. You'll feel the trip is well worthwhile.

For those in Ouachita, you'll see thousands of bulbs in bloom if you drive to Alto. They were simply gorgeous this last week end, and should still be in bloom today.

COCKSCOMB

The Cockscomb is named as such because one variety resembles a cocks' comb. It's an old-fashioned flower that has become popular since flower arranging has become an art.

Some new varieties of this plant are Maple Gold, Rose Beauty, Green Gold, Harlequin, Gold Dust, New Penny.

GROUND COVERS

With the shortage of garden help, gardeners have welcomed ground covers in the last few years. Grass is a ground cover, but we've discussed that subject. It's something that doesn't have to be mowed that we're thinking about now.

Any plant could be made a ground cover if planted close enough together. However, many plants will not thrive in tight quarters, and neither are they attractive.

For a taller ground cover for slopes, daylilies are most satisfactory. So are some of our hardy iris such as the white flag and the early purple. Both of these need at least a half day of sunshine. Maybe the daylilies could do with less. Asperdistra covers the ground well if the place is shady.

For lower ground covers, we usually turn to ajuga, strawberry begonia, sedum, vinca, ivy, liriope, monkey grass, maidenhair fern, oxalis, pachysandra, violets.

Taking these up separately, first — ajuga. Likes dense shade. Blue and white flowers in early spring and low rosettes of leaves.

Strawberry begonia — grows like a strawberry. Tolerates shade. Low grower. Foliage is colorful. In the spring it sends up spikes of small, white flowers.

Sedum is a moss, has fleshy leaves and grows very close to the ground. In the spring it has bright yellow flowers.

Vinca or trailing periwinkle has an arching effect as it trails along. Has blue flowers in the spring. Grows in sun or shade. Needs shearing about every five years. Takes over an area in a hurry. There's a variegated variety that more of us should use to get away from the monotony of all green.

MORE OF THE SAME

There are so many different kinds of ivy. Most of them do well as ground covers and do well in the shade. There are variegated varieties, but they're not nearly so hardy as the green. They are very, very beautiful (the green and white), especially as climbers.

Liriope and monkey grass make excellent ground covers. They multiply rapidly, and have a nice dark-green coloring. Of course, they are not good "walkers" as none of the ones mentioned. All grow too tall or too dense to be comfortable underfoot.

Maidenhair fern is not an evergreen. It is a lovely light green all spring and summer. It prefers shade, acid soil and moisture. Any of the ferns are excellent for covering areas, and they require the same conditions.

Oxalis makes a colorful ground cover with its lights green foliage and pink blossoms. However, it has a way of disappearing and coming back again.

Pachysandra (Japanese Spurge) is an upright growing plant. Grows in sun or shade. The foliage is glossy. I've found this a little hard to get started, but it is very pretty.

Santalina with its gray, mossy foliage is a gorgeous ground cover. It's expensive to get started, but it will thrive in hot, dry places where other plants will not grow.

Nothing is prettier than a violet ground cover. This plant likes partial shade, good soil with lots of humus and it must be watered, fertilized and sprayed for red spider. They'll get so thick they'll choke themselves out unless divided and reset every three or four years.

A PEST

For those who are thinking of planting the old cane bamboo—don't. It becomes a nuisance in a short time. It completely takes over, runs its roots under the ground, comes up yards away. I actually had a root to go under my house and come up on the other side.

This old pest depletes the soil of food and moisture and chokes out everything in its path. Not only will it be obnoxious to you, but to your neighbors.

PLASTIC STARCH

Have you tried the plastic starch? I had an old rayon blouse that was limp and lifeless. I followed the directions on the bottle of starch, ironed the blouse and it looks so fresh and nice.

This plastic starch gives life to nylon curtains. It works equally well on cotton and the new fabrics.

This is sold under a trade name. Ask in the stores.

THE SOUTHERN GARDENER

Refurbishing Perennial Beds

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

Once they are planted, we tend to neglect the perennials in our gardens. These plants that go on from year to year provide a lot of cut flowers and make a good show in flower gardens. They deserve a little more attention than they usually get in southern gardens.

It is a big job to dig up an old perennial bed and rejuenate the soil and then set the plants back. Fall flowering perennials like chrysanthemums need dividing in spring, while spring and summer kinds need it in late fall. This creates a dilemma as to when to take up the whole bed, but there will come a time when it must be done. Even as late as it is now, you can still refurbish your perennial planting. In order to disturb the garden as little as possible, the spring flowering plants may be left alone to flower in the coming weeks, and the summer and fall kinds may be removed entirely.

BIG CLUMPS

Take the summer and fall plants out in big clumps. Some of the clumps will be far too big to even lift them in one piece. You will just have to cut them into several clumps each and lift them out. While the soil is being made over, the clumps can be packed together tightly in semi - shade and kept sprinkled frequently till you are ready for them.

As we know, the ideal soil is composed of about one third each of clay, coarse sand and humus. If your soil is too heavy with clay, bring in really coarse —never, never fine—creek sand. If your soil is light and too sandy, bring in some heavier clayey material. Both kinds of soil will need humus in an old flower bed. Dig the area over thoroughly with a nursery spade. This instrument goes down eighteen inches or more and should be used in place of an ordinary long - handled shovel.

FERTILIZERS

After such preparation, it is easier to work humus of some kind down into the lower levels of the bed. Cow manure, if you can get it, is one of the best fertilizers in the world. Even when manure is used, however, a complete fertilizer is essential. Apply about five pounds per 100 square feet of 5-8-7, 5-10-10, 4-12-4 or 5-10-5, and work it into the top few inches of the soil after the bed has been worked up with the manure or other organic fertilizer and humus.

If your summer perennials have advanced so much in growth that you cannot divide them into small pieces, you will have to leave them in small clumps and set them back into the bed. A good mulch four inches deep over the bed will discourage weeds and preserve the waterings you give your bed. The spring flowers will keep the garden looking well and they can be taken up and divided this fall after frost has levelled everything again.

Georgia Farmers Get New Market

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department considers the farmers around Atlanta, Ga., a lucky group. They recently got a brand new, 10-million dollar market.

"If you ever had to fight your way through congested market streets to sell your produce, you'll know how lucky they are," the department said.

Although built primarily for Georgia farmers, farmers all over the country will benefit because Atlanta is an important market for produce. Fruits and vegetables move into Atlanta from just about every state. Almost 26,000 carloads of fruits and vegetables were unloaded in 1957.

The new market will help hold down costs of handling produce and also reduce spoilage. It was built by the state with the technical help of the department. One of the most modern facilities of its kind, designed to meet not only present but future needs, the market area covers 146 acres. It is 10 miles south of the center of Atlanta on U.S. Highway 41 and easily accessible for trucks. A railroad line also runs right into the area.

One of the main features is 16 farmers' sheds. These are covered so that produce can be unloaded and loaded without being exposed to the weather. The sheds provide 102,400 square feet of covered dock area and 389,120 square feet of covered loading and unloading space. There are 1,024 10-foot sales areas in the sheds. Farmers back up their trucks on one side of the sheds, buyers on the other.

There are nine dealers' buildings affording another 510,750 square feet of enclosed space and covered dock area. The dealers' buildings contain more than 200 wholesale stores. About one-fourth of the space in the buildings is refrigerated.

There is a hamper house, to supply baskets and other packaging materials, and a cannery. The market also has a gasoline station, two restaurants, a barber shop, a meeting room, food inspection and marketing information services, as well as offices for food brokers and management.

All buildings are of structural concrete to reduce fire loss and keep maintenance at a minimum. The entire site is enclosed with a man proof chain link fence, and entrances and exits are controlled from three gate houses.

The market is owned by the state and is operated by the Georgia Department of Agriculture. Construction was financed by bonds issued by a market authority set up by the Georgia General Assembly. State and U.S. Departments of agriculture worked closely with commercial architects in planning the layout.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture said that helping communities overcome their food marketing problems "is nothing new for these engineers and economists."

Irish President To Leave Sunday For U.S. Tour

DUBLIN (AP) — The leprechaun of Irish politics takes off Sunday for a tour of the United States.

President Sean (pronounced Shawn) O'Kelly—friends call him the leprechaun because of his 5-foot, 4-inch height—will be the first president of the Irish Republic ever to visit America while in office.

He will be the guest of President Eisenhower in Washington on St. Patrick's Day and may address a joint session of Congress.

Later, on March 20, O'Kelly will get the ticker tape treatment in New York City. Then he'll move on to Providence, R.I., Boston, Chicago and St. Paul, Minn., where he has cousins. He'll wind up the tour March 31.

Musical Festival Sunday At LSU

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Louisiana State University will open its 16th festival of contemporary music next Sunday.

The new music featured in the series of seven concerts will be performed by faculty and students of the LSU school of music, Tioga High School mixed chorus, the Louise McGehee school choir from New Crleans, the Baton Rouge Youth Symphony and eight soloists.

Little Early For Planting

By AUDREY DAWSON

It's time to start planting glads or almost time. Our specialist recommends start planting three weeks after last frost date and plant every two weeks until about July. You may want to get all your gladiolous planting done at one time, if so, choose the early, midseason and late varieties.

These flowers are pretty planted in rows, or in clumps. They really add a mass of color where you need color most.

If you plant in rows space them about six inches apart. If your soil is sandy, plant the corns six inches deep, if heavy, 3 inches. Moisten the bed after planting and keep watering lightly but remember too much water will rot the corns.

You may expect flowers about seventy to ninety days after planting - depending on the variety.

EGG MONTH

Mrs. Homemaker remember using eggs in the meals for your family means that you improve the health of your family. Here's a dozen ways eggs serve you.

Egg yolk is one of the first solid foods fed to babies.

Eggs are friendly to all other foods.

Eggs are easily and completely digested.

Eggs are a "mainstay" for a good breakfast.

Eggs are one of nature's most nearly perfect foods.

CHLORINE RESISTANT

Chlorine resistant finishes are now on the market in volumn, particularly in white and light colored fabrics likely to be subject to bleaching. It is no longer necessary for the homemaker to accept a light colored fabric which cannot be bleached by the usual methods. It is imperative, however, for the consumer to check hang tags when making a purchase, since this is the only way she will be able to tell whether or not the fabric is chlorine resistant. For labels stating "Do not use chlorine bleach" the homemaker should use a powder bleach since this bleach does not contain chlorine and will not turn the garment yellow.

WASH AND WEAR

There is no need to separate wash-wear cottons from others that are not wash-wear so long as they are similiar items. Color fast and soiled to about the same degree and the washing machine is not overloaded. Tests show that there is no critical temperature for untreated cottons. Therefore, hot water temperatures should be used for laundering white and color fast wash-wear cottons. Hot water is more effective for washing because it releases dirt more quickly, removes odor, and dissolves detergents rapidly. The latest information I have is that most cotton wash-wear and finishes perform equally as well then tumble dried as when drip dried. In fact wash wear cottons often have a better appearance after tumble drying than they do when handled by the drip dry method. A THOUGHT — You cannot establish sound security by borrowing.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Patio Garden Club Display

By MARY JARDINE

Patio Garden Club members created a very colorful flower show for the Garden Center this week. All the designs were eminently suitable for Easter decorations for the home.

Mrs. Jack Madden's period design was inspired by the recent lecture by Mrs. Irene Haddox of Dallas. Mrs. Haddox created many lovely designs in the Flemish, French, Georgian and Victorian manner.

SAUCE BOAT

A beautiful white sauce boat of Ironstone was selected by Mrs. Madden for her design of white, green and gold. The container was placed on a matching saucer with the top used as an accessory. A semi - crescent line pattern was established with pussy-willow branches. The catkins of a gold color picked up the gold in the cups of the fragrant paper-white narcissus which were massed in the foreground. Boxwood foliage was grouped on the left side of the arrangement making the design asymetrical in pattern. Very lovely for a chest in the living room, I can imagine it in a wood panelled room.

Mrs. Darrell Brisbin and Mrs. T. C. Holmes combined their talents in designing a modern arrangement featuring camellias. They selected a black compote for a container. Glossy, dark green pittosporum foliage established the asymetrical line. Rose red peony type camellias were placed in the center of the design accenting the line. Very lovely for a living room table or book case.

EASTER THEME

Center of attraction was the gay and colorful "Easter Egg Tree" arranged by Mrs. Don Giffen and Mrs. Ron Lee Davis, Jr. The "tree" was a gracefully curved manzanita branch secured to a needlepoint holder and placed in a bed of artificial grass on a lovely silver tray. The colorful eggs, all in pastel shades, were of styrofoam, and were decorated with nosegays of tiny flowers and ribbons all in pastel shades of pink, violet and yellow. Tiny fluffy chickens were perched on the tips of some of the branches. This lovely decoration, suitable for a buffet is most symbolic of the Easter season in that it exemplifies the joyous occasion and the various bright colors typify happiness.

Also on display was a narcissus collection from the garden of Mrs. B. H. Talbot of Ruston. Among the John Evelyn hybrid daffodils, called 'the weather-proof daffodils" were Duke of Windsor. This large white overlapping petals and pale yellow cup, flaring and nicely ruffled. Wodan, with a broad canary-yellow perianth and large flaring frilled crown of same color, edged with light orange. Lord Nelson in the giant trumpet class, is an enormous, pale yellow flower of elegant form. Broad, overlapping petals. Limone is a beauty. The perianth is primrose-yellow and trumpet of a lighter shade but broadly edged in darker yellow and nicely fringed.

Thalia, in the triandrus group is just beginning to bloom. The beautiful pure white flowers, two to four on a stem, are gracefully carried on the stem. Fragrant too. Another lovely one for this area is Silver Star with a star-shaped perianth of pure cream white and a wide mouthed short trumpet of primrose changing to creamy white. Mrs. Talbot reports that all the above mentioned have multiplied well in her garden in Ruston.

Confederate Fashion Show, Vicksburg, Miss. Each Tuesday and Thursday night during March. Old Court House Museum. Fifty beautiful models wearing costumes of the 1850-1860 period. Write for reservations.

Monaco Prince's First Birthday Is Quiet Affair

MONACO (UPI)—Prince Albert Alexandre Louis Pierre, son of Prince Rainier and Princess Grace of Monaco, was one year old Saturday.

The birthday celebration was strictly a family affair. It was in sharp contrast to the public celebrations touched off by his birth.

Last year, the ancient cannon fired a 101-gun salute to announce the news that the former Grace Kelly of Philadelphia and Hollywood had borne an heir to the throne of this postage-stamp sized principality on the Riviera.

Prince Rainier insisted the birthday celebrations be private. The young prince had a cake which he shared with his sister, Princess Carole, who was two years old last Jan. 23. And he was given toys.

Refurbishing Perennial Beds

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

Once they are planted, we tend to neglect the perennials in our gardens. These plants that go on from year to year provide a lot of cut flowers and make a good show in flower gardens. They deserve a little more attention than they usually get in southern gardens.

It is a big job to dig up an old perennial bed and rejuenate the soil and then set the plants back. Fall flowering perennials like chrysanthemums need dividing in spring, while spring and summer kinds need it in late fall. This creates a dilemma as to when to take up the whole bed, but there will come a time when it must be done. Even as late as it is now, you can still refurbish your perennial planting. In order to disturb the garden as little as possible, the spring flowering plants may be left alone to flower in the coming weeks, and the summer and fall kinds may be removed entirely.

BIG CLUMPS

Take the summer and fall plants out in big clumps. Some of the clumps will be far too big to even lift them in one piece. You will just have to cut them into several clumps each and lift them out. While the soil is being made over, the clumps can be packed together tightly in semi - shade and kept sprinkled frequently till you are ready for them.

As we know, the ideal soil is composed of about one third each of clay, coarse sand and humus. If your soil is too heavy with clay, bring in really coarse —never, never fine—creek sand. After such preparation, it is easier to work humus of some kind down into the lower levels of the bed. Cow manure, if you can get it, is one of the best fertilizers in the world. Even when manure is used, however, a complete fertilizer is essential. Apply about five pounds per 100 square feet of 5-8-7, 5-10-10, 4-12-4 or 5-10-5, and work it into the top few inches of the soil after the bed has been worked up with the manure or other organic fertilizer and humus.

If your summer perennials have advanced so much in growth that you cannot divide them into small pieces, you will have to leave them in small clumps and set them back into the bed. A good mulch four inches deep over the bed will discourage weeds and preserve the waterings you give your bed. The spring flowers will keep the garden looking well and they can be taken up and divided this fall after frost has levelled everything again.

Georgia Farmers Get New Market

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department considers the farmers around Atlanta, Ga., a lucky group. They recently got a brand new, 10-million dollar market.

"If you ever had to fight your way through congested market streets to sell your produce, you'll know how lucky they are," the department said.

Although built primarily for Georgia farmers, farmers all over the country will benefit because Atlanta is an important market for produce. Fruits and vegetables move into Atlanta from just about every state. Almost 26,000 carloads of fruits and vegetables were unloaded in 1957.

The new market will help hold down costs of handling produce and also reduce spoilage. It was built by the state with the technical help of the department. One of the most modern facilities of its kind, designed to meet not only present but future needs, the market area covers 146 acres. It is 10 miles south of the center of Atlanta on U.S. Highway 41 and easily accessible for trucks. A railroad line also runs right into the area.

One of the main features is 16 farmers' sheds. These are covered so that produce can be unloaded and loaded without being exposed to the weather. The sheds provide 102,400 square feet of covered dock area and 389,120 square feet of covered loading and unloading space. There are 1,024 10-foot sales areas in the sheds. Farmers back up their trucks on one side of the sheds, buyers on the other.

There are nine dealers' buildings affording another 510,750 square feet of enclosed space and covered dock area. The dealers' buildings contain more than 200 wholesale stores. About one-fourth of the space in the buildings is refrigerated.

There is a hamper house, to supply baskets and other packaging materials, and a cannery. The market also has a gasoline station, two restaurants, a barber shop, a meeting room, food inspection and marketing information services, as well as offices for food brokers and management.

All buildings are of structural concrete to reduce fire loss and keep maintenance at a minimum. The entire site is enclosed with a man proof chain link fence, and entrances and exits are controlled from three gate houses.

The market is owned by the state and is operated by the Georgia Department of Agriculture. Construction was financed by bonds issued by a market authority set up by the Georgia General Assembly. State and U.S. Departments of agriculture worked closely with commercial architects in planning the layout.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture said that helping communities overcome their food marketing problems "is nothing new for these engineers and economists."

Irish President To Leave Sunday For U.S. Tour

President Sean (pronounced Shawn) O'Kelly—friends call him the leprechaun because of his 5-foot, 4-inch height—will be the first president of the Irish Republic ever to visit America while in office.

He will be the guest of President Eisenhower in Washington on St. Patrick's Day and may address a joint session of Congress.

Later, on March 20, O'Kelly will get the ticker tape treatment in New York City. Then he'll move on to Providence, R.I., Boston, Chicago and St. Paul, Minn., where he has cousins. He'll wind up the tour March 31.

Musical Festival Sunday At LSU

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Louisiana State University will open its 16th festival of contemporary music next Sunday.

The new music featured in the series of seven concerts will be performed by faculty and students of the LSU school of music, Tioga High School mixed chorus, the Louise McGehee school choir from New Orleans, the Baton Rouge Youth Symphony and eight soloists.

Little Early For Planting

By AUDREY DAWSON

It's time to start planting glads or almost time. Our specialist recommends start planting three weeks after last frost date and plant every two weeks until about July. You may want to get all your gladiolous planting done at one time, if so, choose the early, midseason and late varieties.

These flowers are pretty planted in rows, or in clumps. They really add a mass of color where you need color most.

If you plant in rows space them about six inches apart. If your soil is sandy, plant the corns six inches deep, if heavy, 3 inches. Moisten the bed after planting and keep watering lightly but remember too much water will rot the corns.

You may expect flowers about seventy to ninety days after planting - depending on the variety.

EGG MONTH

Mrs. Homemaker remember using eggs in the meals for your family means that you improve the health of your family. Here's a dozen ways eggs serve you.

Egg yolk is one of the first solid foods fed to babies.

Eggs are friendly to all other foods.

Eggs are easily and completely digested.

Eggs are a "mainstay" for a good breakfast.

Eggs are one of nature's most nearly perfect foods.

CHLORINE RESISTANT

Chlorine resistant finishes are now on the market in volumn, particularly in white and light colored fabrics likely to be subject to bleaching. It is no longer necessary for the homemaker to accept a light colored fabric which cannot be bleached by the usual methods. It is imperative, however, for the consumer to check hang tags when making a purchase, since this is the only way she will be able to tell whether or not the fabric is chlorine resistant. For labels stating "Do not use chlorine bleach" the homemaker should use a powder bleach since this bleach does not contain chlorine and will not turn the garment yellow.

WASH AND WEAR

There is no need to separate wash-wear cottons from others that are not wash-wear so long as they are similiar items. Color fast and soiled to about the same degree and the washing machine is not overloaded. Tests show that there is no critical temperature for untreated cottons. Therefore, hot water temperatures should be used for laundering white and color fast wash-wear cottons. Hot water is more effective for washing because it releases dirt more quickly, removes odor, and dissolves detergents rapidly. The latest information I have is that most cotton wash-wear and finishes perform equally as well then tumble dried as when drip dried. In fact wash wear cottons often have a better appearance after tumble drying than they do when handled by the drip dry method. A THOUGHT — You cannot establish sound security by borrow-

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Patio Garden Club Display

By MARY JARDINE

Patio Garden Club members created a very colorful flower show for the Garden Center this week. All the designs were eminently suitable for Easter decorations for the home.

SAUCE BOAT

A beautiful white sauce boat of Ironstone was selected by Mrs. Madden for her design of white, green and gold. The container was placed on a matching saucer with the top used as an accessory. A semi - crescent line pattern was established with pussy-willow branches. The catkins of a gold color picked up the gold in the cups of the fragrant paper-white narcissus which were massed in the foreground. Boxwood foliage was grouped on the left side of the arrangement making the design asymetrical in pattern. Very lovely for a chest in the living room, I can imagine it in a wood panelled room.

Mrs. Darrell Brisbin and Mrs. T. C. Holmes combined their talents in designing a modern arrangement featuring camellias. They selected a black compote for a container. Glossy, dark green pittosporum foliage established the asymetrical line. Rose red peony type camellias were placed in the center of the design accenting the line. Very lovely for a living room table or book case.

EASTER THEME

Center of attraction was the gay and colorful "Easter Egg Tree" arranged by Mrs. Don Giffen and Mrs. Ron Lee Davis, Jr. The "tree" was a gracefully curved manzanita branch secured to a needlepoint holder and placed in a bed of artificial grass on a lovely silver tray. The colorful eggs, all in pastel shades, were of styrofoam, and were decorated with nosegays of tiny flowers and ribbons all in pastel shades of pink, violet and yellow. Tiny fluffy chickens were perched on the tips of some of the branches. This lovely decoration, suitable for a buffet is most symbolic of the Easter season in that it exemplifies the joyous occasion and the various bright colors typify happiness.

Also on display was a narcissus collection from the garden of Mrs. B. H. Talbot of Ruston. Among the John Evelyn hybrid daffodils, called 'the weather-proof daffodils" were Duke of Windsor. This large white overlapping petals and pale yellow cup, flaring and nicely ruffled. Wodan, with a broad canary-yellow perianth and large flaring frilled crown of same color, edged with light orange. Lord Nelson in the giant trumpet class, is an enormous, pale yellow flower of elegant form. Broad, overlapping petals. Limone is a beauty. The perianth is primrose-yellow and trumpet of a lighter shade but broadly edged in darker yellow and nicely fringed.

Thalia, in the triandrus group is just beginning to bloom. The beautiful pure white flowers, two to four on a stem, are gracefully carried on the stem. Fragrant too. Another lovely one for this area is Silver Star with a star-shaped perianth of pure cream white and a wide mouthed short trumpet of primrose changing to creamy white. Mrs. Talbot reports that all the above mentioned have multiplied well in her garden in Ruston.

Confederate Fashion Show, Vicksburg, Miss. Each Tuesday and Thursday night during March. Old Court House Museum. Fifty beautiful models wearing costumes of the 1850-1860 period. Write for reservations.

Monaco Prince's First Birthday Is Quiet Affair

MONACO (UPI)—Prince Albert Alexandre Louis Pierre, son of Prince Rainier and Princess Grace of Monaco, was one year old Saturday.

The birthday celebration was strictly a family affair. It was in sharp contrast to the public celebrations touched off by his birth.

Last year, the ancient cannon fired a 101-gun salute to announce the news that the former Grace Kelly of Philadelphia and Hollywood had borne an heir to the throne of this postage-stamp sized principality on the Riviera.

Prince Rainier insisted the birthday celebrations be private. The young prince had a cake which he shared with his sister, Princess Carole, who was two years old last Jan. 23. And he was given toys.

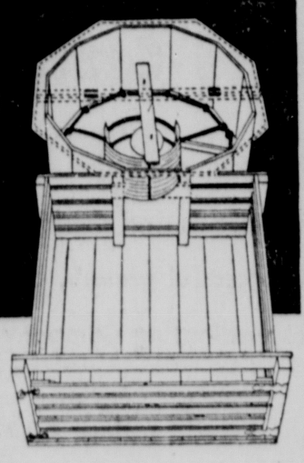
NEW PIGLOO® SYSTEM
Simple . . . different . . . low-cost
SAVES PIGS



The Pigloo System protects pigs from crushing by the sow, yet eliminates many "nurse-maid" chores necessary in central housing systems. Guard rails, safety hover, ingenious design of Pigloo protect pigs from crushing. Sow goes into Pigloo by herself to farrow, can leave it any time for feed and water.

New help in preventing disease, new low-cost, low-labor housing and management.

The Pigloo System isolates litters for disease control, yet groups units for easy choring. Pigloos and Hog Hutches, used for breeding and market herd, are portable, practical housing. Feeders and waterers are outside shelter area, allowing full use of mechanical equipment. You can expand housing in economical units.

FREE! Pigloo Booklet. Ask us for a free copy of the booklet, "Nutrena Pigloo System." It describes this practical new system in detail, tells how you can get started.

Pigloos distributed exclusively by Nutrena dealers

Nutrena FEED SERVICE
Nutrena Weight-Cycle Feeds are a natural combination with the Pigloo System. Both are tailored to the natural needs of pigs at all stages from farrowing to market.

WOODROW WILSON FELLOWSHIPS, each amounting to $1,500 plus tuition and fees, have been awarded to these three Louisiana Tech seniors. They are (left to right) Virginia Ann Crowley, Ruston; Gordon Robertson, Pollock, and Catherine Kendall, Clay. These are the first Tech students to be granted the Woodrow Wilson awards. Miss Crowley tentatively is planning to attend Duke University; Miss Kendall will enter the University of North Carolina. Both Miss Crowley and Miss Kendall will do graduate work in English. Robertson will study history.

College To Host 5th Science Fair

Northeast State will sponsor the fifth Regional Science Fair on Friday and Saturday, E. J. Foster, acting head of the pure and applied science department, announced.

The immediate purpose of the fair is to provide students with an opportunity to participate in scientific projects and displays.

Dr. H. F. Cross, assistant professor of biological science and fair chairman, explained that taking part in the event may stimulate students to become more interested in the study of science. He said that activity in the display may interest parents and the public in the scientific ability of young people, and give students and teachers opportunity to see what they are doing in this field.

Students who won first or second place in a local science fair are eligible to enter exhibits in the Regional Fair. Schools which have not held a local science fair may select two projects from each contest division within each of the three class divisions to enter at the Regional event

The three class divisions comprise: senior-including grades 10, 11 and 12; junior-including grades 7, 8 and 9: elementary-grades 1-6.

Students may consult with teachers or parents in the construction of their exhibits but the work on the projects must be theirs.

Graduating seniors, only, are eligible to enter exhibits in the scholarship division.

Exhibitors must set up exhibits in the Administration Building at Northeast from 2 p. m. Friday to 9 a. m. Saturday. Exhibits will be removed from the display area at the end of the program on Saturday at 5 p. m.

Awards will be offered to first, second and third place winners in each of the seven contest divisions of the senior section, and the three contest divisions of the junior division will receive ribbons and silver medals. First place winners in each of the seven contest divisions of the senior group will be designated as champions

Grand champions will be chosen from the senior and junior sections and each will be awarded a purple ribbon. Certificates of merit will be given to all participants. Winners will not be selected from the elementary division.

Prizes for scholarship will be determined by a special committee, Dr. Cross explained. Bases for these awards will include a personal interview with the exhibitor and consideration of his scholastic record.

Librarians Meeting In Baton Rouge

BATON ROUGE (Special) —The Louisiana Association of School Librarians will hold its spring meet in conjunction with the annual convention of the Louisiana Library Association here, March 19-21.

Miss Jean Royston, librarian at W. W. Lewis Junior High School in Sulphur, president of the LASL, will preside at the meeting which will be held Friday, March 20, at 9 a. m. in the Capitol House.

Featured speaker of the meet will be Julian Bryan, executive director of the International Film Foundation. Bryan became famous in the '30's as a roving reporter for "March of Time."

At this time a literary award will be presented the author whose book is considered the outstanding contribution to Louisiana literature in 1958 and Modisette Awards will be given to the outstanding parish library, school library, and library trustee.

RENOVATION BEGINS

Historic Building To Become Museum

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) —Mississippi's Old Captiol, commanding the city from atop LeFluer's bluff for the last 126 years, soon will be a museum depicting the state's often-turbulent, often-sentimental history.

Work has been under way less than a month.

But already, workmen have laced the structure with scaffolding inside and outside and have torn away the mottled stucco cover, exposing century and a quarter-old brick and stone.

Renovation includes strengthening the building structurally, replacing the worn copper dome with copper sheathing, replacing worn brick and crumbling stone, and restoring the interior to the original splendor that brought an extra surge of pride into every Mississippian's heart.

However, this doesn't mean workmen will turn back the Old Capitol calendar to 1840. Rather, the building will be restored as accurately as possible while giving it a functional reason for existence.

Four interior areas to be restored accurately, including furniture and decorations, are the four-story-high rotunda, the governor's office, the Senate and House of Representatives chamber.

The House chamber will include the speaker's platform and some legislatve desks and chairs. But most of the room will be filled with auditorium-style seats to permit lectures and meetings.

The rest of the building will be designed to house a state historical museum. Space will be provided for exhibits, collection files, work rooms, a laboratory, and staff offices.

So far, the Legislature has appropriated only enough money — $1,617,948 — for restoring the building. The 1960 Legislature will be asked to provide funds for converting the building into a museum and for obtaining exhibits.

Preliminary plans for the museum call for a chronological history of the state from early archeological eras to modern industrial expansion.

These well-planned exhibits would enable Mississippians and tourists to grasp a general knowledge of state history by merely strolling leisurely through the building.

In addition, the overall museum program would include lectures, tours, films and recordings, modern display techniques, special exhibits and changing exhibits.

Overall authority in transforming the Old Capitol into a museum lies in the State Building Commission.

Planning and administering the museum itself was given to the State Department of Archives and History.

The State Budget Commission allocates funds by direction of the Legislature.

Growning needs of state government forced erection of a larger capitol. In 1833, the Legislature ordered a $350,000 building and chose LeFleur's bluff as the site.

LeFleur's Bluff, a high point of land overlooking both the city and the Pearl River, was so named because a French trader operated a trading post there for many years.

Homeowners In West Monroe Said Lagging

Signing of homestead exemption application forms in West Monroe and the new annexations to the city are lagging "badly", Ouachita parish Tax Assessor Bert Coverdale said yesterday.

The application forms are now ready for signatures by the home owners in the assessor's office, first floor of the parish court house.

"While the deadline is still some time away, April 15, those persons who wait until the last minute will not be able to be served as quickly as those who are coming now," the assessor said. Homeowners must sign the forms to take advantage of the lowered state and parish taxes.

Property owners in the City of Monroe are signing the forms at "a fine rate," Coverdale pointed out.

Meanwhile in the rural wards, "outside the Cities of Monroe and West Monroe", deputies are continuing to work the area in an effort to get all the exemption forms signed as quickly as possible.

WOODROW WILSON FELLOWSHIPS, each amounting to $1,500 plus tuition and fees, have been awarded to these three Louisiana Tech seniors. They are (left to right) Virginia Ann Crowley, Ruston; Gordon Robertson, Pollock, and Catherine Kendall, Clay. These are the first Tech students to be granted the Woodrow Wilson awards. Miss Crowley tentatively is planning to attend Duke University; Miss Kendall will enter the University of North Carolina. Both Miss Crowley and Miss Kendall will do graduate work in English. Robertson will study history.

College To Host 5th Science Fair

Northeast State will sponsor the fifth Regional Science Fair on Friday and Saturday, E. J. Foster, acting head of the pure and applied science department, announced.

The immediate purpose of the fair is to provide students with an opportunity to participate in scientific projects and displays.

Dr. H. F. Cross, assistant professor of biological science and fair chairman, explained that taking part in the event may stimulate students to become more interested in the study of science. He said that activity in the display may interest parents and the public in the scientific ability of young people, and give students and teachers opportunity to see what they are doing in this field.

Students who won first or second place in a local science fair are eligible to enter exhibits in the Regional Fair. Schools which have not held a local science fair may select two projects from each contest division within each of the three class divisions to enter at the Regional event

The three class divisions comprise: senior-including grades 10, 11 and 12; junior-including grades 7, 8 and 9: elementary-grades 1-6.

Students may consult with teachers or parents in the construction of their exhibits but the work on the projects must be theirs.

Graduating seniors, only, are eligible to enter exhibits in the scholarship division.

Exhibitors must set up exhibits in the Administration Building at Northeast from 2 p. m. Friday to 9 a. m. Saturday. Exhibits will be removed from the display area at the end of the program on Saturday at 5 p. m.

Awards will be offered to first, second and third place winners in each of the seven contest divisions of the senior section, and the three contest divisions of the junior division will receive ribbons and silver medals. First place winners in each of the seven contest divisions of the senior group will be designated as champions

Grand champions will be chosen from the senior and junior sections and each will be awarded a purple ribbon. Certificates of merit will be given to all participants. Winners will not be selected from the elementary division.

Prizes for scholarship will be determined by a special committee, Dr. Cross explained. Bases for these awards will include a personal interview with the exhibitor and consideration of his scholastic record.

Librarians Meeting In Baton Rouge

BATON ROUGE (Special) —The Louisiana Association of School Librarians will hold its spring meet in conjunction with the annual convention of the Louisiana Library Association here, March 19-21.

Miss Jean Royston, librarian at W. W. Lewis Junior High School in Sulphur, president of the LASL, will preside at the meeting which will be held Friday, March 20, at 9 a. m. in the Capitol House.

Featured speaker of the meet will be Julian Bryan, executive director of the International Film Foundation. Bryan became famous in the '30's as a roving reporter for "March of Time."

At this time a literary award will be presented the author whose book is considered the outstanding contribution to Louisiana literature in 1958 and Modisette Awards will be given to the outstanding parish library, school library, and library trustee.

RENOVATION BEGINS

Historic Building To Become Museum

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) —Mississippi's Old Captiol, commanding the city from atop LeFluer's bluff for the last 126 years, soon will be a museum depicting the state's often-turbulent, often-sentimental history.

Work has been under way less than a month.

But already, workmen have laced the structure with scaffolding inside and outside and have torn away the mottled stucco cover, exposing century and a quarter-old brick and stone.

Renovation includes strengthening the building structurally, replacing the worn copper dome with copper sheathing, replacing worn brick and crumbling stone, and restoring the interior to the original splendor that brought an extra surge of pride into every Mississippian's heart.

However, this doesn't mean workmen will turn back the Old Capitol calendar to 1840. Rather, the building will be restored as accurately as possible while giving it a functional reason for existence.

Four interior areas to be restored accurately, including furniture and decorations, are the four-story-high rotunda, the governor's office, the Senate and House of Representatives chamber.

The House chamber will include the speaker's platform and some legislatve desks and chairs. But most of the room will be filled with auditorium-style seats to permit lectures and meetings.

The rest of the building will be designed to house a state historical museum. Space will be provided for exhibits, collection files, work rooms, a laboratory, and staff offices.

So far, the Legislature has appropriated only enough money — $1,617,948 — for restoring the building. The 1960 Legislature will be asked to provide funds for converting the building into a museum and for obtaining exhibits.

Preliminary plans for the museum call for a chronological history of the state from early archeological eras to modern industrial expansion.

These well-planned exhibits would enable Mississippians and tourists to grasp a general knowledge of state history by merely strolling leisurely through the building.

In addition, the overall museum program would include lectures, tours, films and recordings, modern display techniques, special exhibits and changing exhibits.

Overall authority in transforming the Old Capitol into a museum lies in the State Building Commission.

Planning and administering the museum itself was given to the State Department of Archives and History.

The State Budget Commission allocates funds by direction of the Legislature.

Growning needs of state government forced erection of a larger capitol. In 1833, the Legislature ordered a $350,000 building and chose LeFleur's bluff as the site.

LeFleur's Bluff, a high point of land overlooking both the city and the Pearl River, was so named because a French trader operated a trading post there for many years.

Homeowners In West Monroe Said Lagging

Signing of homestead exemption application forms in West Monroe and the new annexations to the city are lagging "badly", Ouachita parish Tax Assessor Bert Coverdale said yesterday.

The application forms are now ready for signatures by the home owners in the assessor's office, first floor of the parish court house.

"While the deadline is still some time away, April 15, those persons who wait until the last minute will not be able to be served as quickly as those who are coming now," the assessor said. Homeowners must sign the forms to take advantage of the lowered state and parish taxes.

Property owners in the City of Monroe are signing the forms at "a fine rate," Coverdale pointed out.

Meanwhile in the rural wards, "outside the Cities of Monroe and West Monroe", deputies are continuing to work the area in an effort to get all the exemption forms signed as quickly as possible.

Religion In Schools Topic Of Document

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

Circulating among major Protestant denominations is a 32-page mimeographed "working paper" that may turn out to be one of the most significant documents of the year.

Drafted by a special committee of the National Council of Churches, it is the first step toward a united Protestant stand on the thorny question:

How should public schools deal with religion?

Catholics and Jews long ago took firm — and directly opposite —positions on this issue. Catholices say public schools should forth-rightly teach faith in God and obedience to moral laws. Jews say tax-supported institutions must follow a strict hands-off policy toward religion.

Although Protestants constitute a large numerical majority in the United States, their influence in this debate has hitherto been negligible. When Protestantism spoke on the subject at all, it spoke in a babble of voices.

In an effort to remedy this situation, the National Council of Churches last year set up a Committee on Religion and Public Education, composed of representatives from 25 major Protestant bodies. This committee has taken on the formidable task of working out a policy statement that will be acceptable, if not to all Protestants, at least to a respectable number of them.

The "working paper" is the first fruit of the committee's labors. Comment is being invited from the participating denominations. It doubtless will undergo considerable revision before it is presented for official adoption by the National Council. But even in its present preliminary form, it is a noteworthy document.

It asserts that public schools should use their influence to sustain the "basic view of life" held by most Americans — "that God is, and that He is the creator and sustainer of human life and of all its precious values."

The report recognizes that even this simple affirmation of God's existence would conflict with the beliefs of a small minority of Americans — about 4 per cent, according to census surveys—who classify themselves as atheists.

But it says that it is "practically impossible" for public schools to "maintain a strict neutrality" on the question of God's existence.

"The actual results of a studied neutrality is practical support for the view that God does not count."

It points out there is no historical justification for any argument that the U. S. Constitution requires such neutrality on the part of public institutions. The founding fathers did not hesitate to express their belief in God in the Declaration of Independence. And in every generation since, American government at all levels has professed belief in God—by opening courts and legislative sessions with prayer, by inscriptions on coins and currency, by providing chaplains for the armed forces, by exempting churches from taxation.

While calling for a forthright acknowledgment of God in public schools, the Protestant document warns that "it is probably not possible for the public schools to go much farther than this" without violating "our cherished American principles of separation of church and state."

"The public schools cannot corporately be committed to the Christian God," the report says. "The Jewish child must in no way be embarrassed for his Judaism. No preferment, overt or implied, of one religious establishment over another should be tolerated for a single school session."

ON THE MOVE

NEW YORK (UPI) —The National Industrial Conference Board reported Thursday that 20 per cent of the nation's 175 million persons changed their residences between 1957 and 1958.

One-sixth of those moving migrated to different states, the board said.

Missionary Finds Word For 'Saved'

By TOM HENSHAW
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The missionary had spent many months among the Meo people of Indo-China, trying to interpret the scriptures to them in their own language. But he had yet to find the word or phrase that adequately described the key Christian concept of salvation.

True, he knew the word "pang" meant to save and, for want of a better one, he had been using it. But, "pang" was a fairly common Meo word that somehow failed to put across the deeper meanings of salvation.

Then one day a Meo woman fell from a bridge into a swollen stream. The missionary, jumped in and pulled her out.

"Ah," said a watching Meo, "you 'tse' her."

'You mean I 'pang' her, don't you?" asked the missionary.

"Oh, no," said the Meo. "You 'tse' her. That means you saved her by putting yourself in the same danger."

"What better way is there of describing how Jesus died to save mankind?" says Dr. Eugene A. Nida, secretary for translation of the American Bible Society. "Just that one word made a big difference in attitude of the Meo people toward Christianity."

The Meo missionary is only one of many devoted workers around the world engaged in the immensely difficult task of translating and interpreting the scriptures in obscure languages.

"One might think that the more primitive the people, the simpler their language would be," says Dr. Nida. "That is not true.

"For instance, the Nuer language, spoken in the Sudan, has 14 distinct basic vowel sounds.

One of the most difficult jobs that confront translators is that of entering a language area cold. Where do you start? Dr. Nida explains:

"Pay close attention to the first words they say to you. Chances are those words are a greeting. But be careful. There may be separate greetings for men and women, or even for older men or married women.

"Get them to examine your equipment and talk about it. Pretty soon you'll get the phrase 'What is this?' Then you try the phrase on some of their things. Pretty soon you'll have a good vocabulary of their nouns.

"Then try to get their expression for 'What's he doing.' You can do this by doing something odd yourself. It's almost a certainty that someone will ask 'What is he doing?' Then, you can ask the same question of them."

PLENTY OF STEEL

NEW YORK (UPI) — The steel industry this year has the capacity to provide 1,681 pounds of raw steel for every person in the continental U. S. The steel would come from furnaces that operate in 29 out of the 49 states.

Canon To Fill Pulpit At Grace Church

The Rev. Canon C. Rankin Barnes, Secretary of the National Council of the Protestant Episcopal Church, will be the guest preacher at Grace Church at the 9:00 and 10:00 a.m. services today.

Canon Barnes is Secretary of the House of Deputies of the General Convention of the Episcopal Church, which post he has held since 1946. He was born in Manitowac, Wisconsin and educated at the University of California and a graduate of General Theological Seminary.

Prior to his national post, his ministry was spent in southern California. He received the D. D. degree from Church Divinity School of the Pacific and a S. T. D. degree from General Theological Seminary. He is a member of the National Association of Social Workers and a director of the Church's Historical Society and a Trustee of General Theological Seminary.

L.T.I. Slates Youth Week Services Here

Youth Week will be observed at the Louisiana Training Institute today in a special worship service conducted by protestant boys. The theme for the week is "Ambassadors for Christ."

The pastor for the morning worship period will be Richard Gros from Morgan City. In charge of the music for the occasion will be Milton Platt from Shreveport and Ronnie Brothers from the First Baptist Church of Monroe.

Named superintendent of Sunday School for the week was William Carl, of Westwego. His teachers were named as follows: Victory Powell, Lake Charles; Billy Simmons, Franklinton; Don Word, Iowa, La.; Clinton Hilebrabdt, Leesville; Steve Williams, New Orleans; Mercer Hemperly, Shreveport; Harry Gill, DeRidder; and Sammy Whitlock, West Monroe.

The religious education classes during the week will be taught by Billy Platt, Richard Everett, David Stanley and Milton Platt, all of Shreveport; O. C. Thompson and Richard Bruno, Lake Charles; Albert Williams, Howard Seals, New Orleans; Charles Loper and Herbert Harper, Bossier City; Charles Sandifer, Bunkie; James Ford, Dallas; James Bateman, Franklinton; Kenneth Courtney, Baton Rouge; Earl Ellender, Sulphur, and Larry Causey, West Monroe.

The Wednesday evening prayer service will be conducted by Charles Sandifer who will be assisted by Gerald Lavala from Ruston. Special music for this service will be provided by boys who reside in Redbud Hall.

It was pointed out all positions were filled by volunteers.

BUFFALO, N. Y. (UPI) — W. J. Milligan of Orchard Park caused quite a stir in the Erie County auto bureau when he bought 1959 registration plates for his cars — a 1909 Sears motorbuggy and a 1913 Model-T Ford.

Presbyterians Discuss Work By Brazilians

Miss Irece Wanderley, from Racife, Brazil, spoke to the Presbyterian women of this area Thursday. She was at First Church, Monroe, from 10:00 to 12.00 a.m. and at Memorial Church West Monroe, from 6:00 to 8:00 p.m.

Miss Wanderley was brought to this country by the Board of Women's Work to speak about the chosen project for the "Birthday Offering" of 1959; namely, a school for Presbyterian lay workers in Brazil.

She is the principal of the Agnes Erskine School, and teaches Educational Sociology and Psychology there. She studied at the General Assembly's Training School in Richmond, Virginia, from 1953 to 1955. She received a master's degree in Religious Education and then returned to Brazil to work in her own home town.

Religion In Schools Topic Of Document

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

Circulating among major Protestant denominations is a 32-page mimeographed "working paper" that may turn out to be one of the most significant documents of the year.

Drafted by a special committee of the National Council of Churches, it is the first step toward a united Protestant stand on the thorny question:

How should public schools deal with religion?

Catholics and Jews long ago took firm — and directly opposite —positions on this issue. Catholices say public schools should forth-rightly teach faith in God and obedience to moral laws. Jews say tax-supported institutions must follow a strict hands-off policy toward religion.

Although Protestants constitute a large numerical majority in the United States, their influence in this debate has hitherto been negligible. When Protestantism spoke on the subject at all, it spoke in a babble of voices.

In an effort to remedy this situation, the National Council of Churches last year set up a Committee on Religion and Public Education, composed of representatives from 25 major Protestant bodies. This committee has taken on the formidable task of working out a policy statement that will be acceptable, if not to all Protestants, at least to a respectable number of them.

The "working paper" is the first fruit of the committee's labors. Comment is being invited from the participating denominations. It doubtless will undergo considerable revision before it is presented for official adoption by the National Council. But even in its present preliminary form, it is a noteworthy document.

It asserts that public schools should use their influence to sustain the "basic view of life" held by most Americans — "that God is, and that He is the creator and sustainer of human life and of all its precious values."

The report recognizes that even this simple affirmation of God's existence would conflict with the beliefs of a small minority of Americans — about 4 per cent, according to census surveys—who classify themselves as atheists.

But it says that it is "practically impossible" for public schools to "maintain a strict neutrality" on the question of God's existence.

"The actual results of a studied neutrality is practical support for the view that God does not count."

It points out there is no historical justification for any argument that the U. S. Constitution requires such neutrality on the part of public institutions. The founding fathers did not hesitate to express their belief in God in the Declaration of Independence. And in every generation since, American government at all levels has professed belief in God—by opening courts and legislative sessions with prayer, by inscriptions on coins and currency, by providing chaplains for the armed forces, by exempting churches from taxation.

While calling for a forthright acknowledgment of God in public schools, the Protestant document warns that "it is probably not possible for the public schools to go much farther than this" without violating "our cherished American principles of separation of church and state."

"The public schools cannot corporately be committed to the Christian God," the report says. "The Jewish child must in no way be embarrassed for his Judaism. No preferment, overt or implied, of one religious establishment over another should be tolerated for a single school session."

ON THE MOVE

NEW YORK (UPI) —The National Industrial Conference Board reported Thursday that 20 per cent of the nation's 175 million persons changed their residences between 1957 and 1958.

One-sixth of those moving migrated to different states, the board said.

Missionary Finds Word For 'Saved'

By TOM HENSHAW
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The missionary had spent many months among the Meo people of Indo-China, trying to interpret the scriptures to them in their own language. But he had yet to find the word or phrase that adequately described the key Christian concept of salvation.

True, he knew the word "pang" meant to save and, for want of a better one, he had been using it. But, "pang" was a fairly common Meo word that somehow failed to put across the deeper meanings of salvation.

Then one day a Meo woman fell from a bridge into a swollen stream. The missionary, jumped in and pulled her out.

"Ah," said a watching Meo, "you 'tse' her."

'You mean I 'pang' her, don't you?" asked the missionary.

"Oh, no," said the Meo. "You 'tse' her. That means you saved her by putting yourself in the same danger."

"What better way is there of describing how Jesus died to save mankind?" says Dr. Eugene A. Nida, secretary for translation of the American Bible Society. "Just that one word made a big difference in attitude of the Meo people toward Christianity."

The Meo missionary is only one of many devoted workers around the world engaged in the immensely difficult task of translating and interpreting the scriptures in obscure languages.

"One might think that the more primitive the people, the simpler their language would be," says Dr. Nida. 'That is not true.

"For instance, the Nuer language, spoken in the Sudan, has 14 distinct basic vowel sounds.

One of the most difficult jobs that confront translators is that of entering a language area cold. Where do you start? Dr. Nida explains:

"Pay close attention to the first words they say to you. Chances are those words are a greeting. But be careful. There may be separate greetings for men and women, or even for older men or married women.

"Get them to examine your equipment and talk about it. Pretty soon you'll get the phrase 'What is this?' Then you try the phrase on some of their things. Pretty soon you'll have a good vocabulary of their nouns.

"Then try to get their expression for 'What's he doing.' You can do this by doing something odd yourself. It's almost a certainty that someone will ask 'What is he doing?' Then, you can ask the same question of them."

PLENTY OF STEEL

NEW YORK (UPI) — The steel industry this year has the capacity to provide 1,681 pounds of raw steel for every person in the continental U. S. The steel would come from furnaces that operate in 29 out of the 49 states.

Bible Words for Today

PHILIPPIANS 2:3 — "Let this mind be in you, which was also in Christ Jesus." (KJV)

* * *

First of all, there was in Jesus Christ the humble mind. True humility is the doorway to all spiritual growth. It produces a life that is simple, genuine, approachable. One who has this quality erects no false barriers between himself and others.

A second characteristic of the mind of Christ was obedience. We are told that he was obedient even unto death. His life is an immortal demonstration of the fact that there is an order, a discipline in the spiritual world. Jesus persistently refused to temporize with truth. To obey the truth honestly is a revolutionary business. Are we willing to let its demands be wrought out in our lives?

In the third place, the Master was possessed of a sacrificial mind. He was willing to follow the road to the end, though it brought him loneliness, disappointment and Calvary. Our surrender must be complete, if we are to have the mind of Christ.

L.T.I. Slates Youth Week Services Here

Youth Week will be observed at the Louisiana Training Institute today in a special worship service conducted by protestant boys. The theme for the week is "Ambassadors for Christ."

The pastor for the morning worship period will be Richard Gros from Morgan City. In charge of the music for the occasion will be Milton Platt from Shreveport and Ronnie Brothers from the First Baptist Church of Monroe.

Named superintendent of Sunday School for the week was William Carl, of Westwego. His teachers were named as follows: Victory Powell, Lake Charles; Billy Simmons, Franklinton; Don Word, Iowa, La.; Clinton Hilebrabdt, Leesville; Steve Williams, New Orleans; Mercer Hemperly, Shreveport; Harry Gill, DeRidder; and Sammy Whitlock, West Monroe.

The religious education classes during the week will be taught by Billy Platt, Richard Everett, David Stanley and Milton Platt, all of Shreveport; O. C. Thompson and Richard Bruno, Lake Charles; Albert Williams, Howard Seals, New Orleans; Charles Loper and Herbert Harper, Bossier City; Charles Sandifer, Bunkie; James Ford, Dallas; James Bateman, Franklinton; Kenneth Courtney, Baton Rouge; Earl Ellender, Sulphur, and Larry Causey, West Monroe.

The Wednesday evening prayer service will be conducted by Charles Sandifer who will be assisted by Gerald Lavala from Ruston. Special music for this service will be provided by boys who reside in Redbud Hall.

It was pointed out all positions were filled by volunteers.

NEW LOOK

BUFFALO, N. Y. (UPI) — W. J. Milligan of Orchard Park caused quite a stir in the Erie County auto bureau when he bought 1959 registration plates for his cars — a 1909 Sears motorbuggy and a 1913 Model-T Ford.

Presbyterians Discuss Work By Brazilians

Miss Irece Wanderley, from Racife, Brazil, spoke to the Presbyterian women of this area Thursday. She was at First Church, Monroe, from 10:00 to 12.00 a.m. and at Memorial Church West Monroe, from 6:00 to 8:00 p.m.

Miss Wanderley was brought to this country by the Board of Women's Work to speak about the chosen project for the "Birthday Offering" of 1959; namely, a school for Presbyterian lay workers in Brazil.

She is the principal of the Agnes Erskine School, and teaches Educational Sociology and Psychology there. She studied at the General Assembly's Training School in Richmond, Virginia, from 1953 to 1955. She received a master's degree in Religious Education and then returned to Brazil to work in her own home town.

DEADLINE MAR. 16

Cotton Farmers Elect Programs

DELHI (Special) — Louisiana Delta Council yesterday announced that through March 6 a total of 327 area cotton farmers with original 1959 allotments of 12,096 acres have selected choice B Plan, according to state office Agricultural Stabilization and conservation Service figures released March 13.

For Louisiana the figures are 1,689 farms signed for plan "B", representing 27,694 acres.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture previously disclosed that nationally 34,034 farms with allotments of 994,538 acres had chosen the plan B.

Delta Council Manager Harvey P. Grant, Jr., Delhi, explained that cotton farmers this year for the first time had the choice of programs A or B.

Briefly, in 1959 a farmer could elect prior to March 16 Plan A under which he chose to plant his original allotment with a guaranteed 80 per cent of parity support price or he could select Plan B whereby he could increase his acreage by 40 per cent with a guaranteed 65 per cent support price.

Grant said that the number of farmers deciding to take the Choice B program and the cotton acreage involved have about doubled in the period since the last government report for February 20.

He stated, however, that it was anticipated that many more area farmers will choose Plan B before the March 16 deadline despite the relatively small number involved. He added that although there was considerable indecision initially among farmers regarding the choice programs, recent developments indicated a trend toward more participation in the B Plan.

Regarding the official ASC statistics, Grant submitted the following breakdown on the Choice B sign-ups through March 6:

AREA PARISHES	NO. OF FARMS	ACREAGE ALLOTMT. CHOICE B
Caldwell	10	381.3
Catahoula	3	58.4
Concordia	8	184.1
East Carroll	29	1,402.1
Franklin	66	2,816.0
Madison	44	3,177.5
Morehouse	46	3,175.4
Ouachita	30	1,428.7
Richland	39	1,653.6
Tensas	32	1,980.8
West Carroll	20	677.2
Area Totals	327	16,935.1

The percentage of farmers electing Choice B in the U.S. were 3.6; in Louisiana, 3.7 and in the Council area, 2.7 per cent.

The percentage of the acreage in the original allotments choosing Choice B were U.S., 6.1; per cent Louisiana, 4.8 and in the Council area, 4.7.

The size of the original average allotment electing Choice B in the U.S. was 29.2 acres; in Louisiana, 16.9 acres and in the Council area, 37.0 acres.

Grant reminded all cotton farmers that the deadline for selecting an option under this year's program is March 16. Those who have not selected Plan B by that time will be automatically classed in Plan A, he said.

He emphasized that Louisiana Delta Council is urging all cotton farmers who will not plant their 1959 allotment to preserve the acreage for themselves, their parish and the state by releasing it to the parish ASC office for reallocation within the parish.

Arkansas farmers choosing plan B were 1,944, representing 106,212 acres - in Mississippi 1,742 farmers selected plan "B". They represented 91,070 acres.

IN BUSINESS, FINANCE

Production, Stocks Continue To Climb

By WALTER BREEDE JR.

NEW YORK (AP) — Rising production, a booming stock market and jubilation over statehood for Hawaii helped propel the U.S. economy toward new highs this week. But there was some concern in business circles about the foreign situation.

Storm warnings on the international front included the abortive anti-communist uprising in oil-rich Iraq, the deepening crisis in Berlin and the imposition of mandatory curbs on oil imports.

The import curbs evoked strong protests in Canada which regards the United States as its prime petroleum market.

At home, the government came out with a somewhat discouraging report on unemployment. Jobs increased in February but so did the number of jobless, with 4,749,000 Americans seeking work and unable to find it.

Most other business indicators looked good.

Once again, the stock market soared through the roof. The steel industry set a new production record for the second week in a row. Freight carloadings for the week ended March 7 were the highest in three months. Private housing starts in February were the highest for that month since 1955.

With Easter shopping off to a fast start, department stores in the March 7 week scored a five per cent sales gain over last year.

Although down a shade from the previous week, auto production racked up a hefty gain of 53 per cent over last year's total.

Stock sales for the week totaled 21,187,160 shares against 21,018,300 shares last week and 12,006,845 in the same week last year. Bond sales had a par value of $37,888,700 in the latest week compared to $40,036,000 in the previous week and $23,611,000 in the corresponding 1958 week.

Congressional action making Hawaii the 50th state brought predictions of a tourist boom in the land of pineapple plantations, surf boards and hula dancers. Jet passenger planes will soon make the trip from California in about four hours.

In addition to sugar and pineapples, assets of the new state include: a thrifty and industrious population of 613,000 (unemployment last year averaged only 1.6 per cent of the labor force), a thriving retail business which can draw on total personal income of more than a billion dollars a year, and a bustling garment industry.

Just about everybody was happy about Hawaiian statehood except flag manufacturers, who saw stars. They've just gone into mass production of a re-designed flag with a 49th star for Alaska.

Mandatory controls on oil imports jolted the petroleum industry this week, causing joy in the Texas oil fields and consternation among East Coast oil refiners. The Eastern refiners import large amounts of low-cost foreign crude oil and process it into heating oils and gasoline.

Biggest question for consumers was: Would compulsory import quotas push fuel oil and gasoline prices up? In ordering mandatory restrictions, the White House ruled that import quotas will be relaxed if prices of domestic oil products get out of hand — a procedure which calls for government policing of price boosts.

At week's end, Union Oil Co. announced it will increase prices it pays for crude oil bought in California and the Four Corners area. Standard Oil Co. (Ind.) raised gasoline prices in northern Illinois. But the Tri-State (Pennsylvania-New York-New Jersey) area around Port Jervis, N.Y., saw the start of no-holds-barred gasoline price war.

Briefly over the business scene: Ford jumped the gun in the economy car race. It announced that, barring an unforeseen change in the public's attitude, it will put a "compact" car into production next fall. . .The Eisenhower Administration turned thumbs down on proposals to boost the present dollar-an-hour minimum wage to $1.25. . . Tidewater Oil Co. introduced a new gasoline which is said to reduce air pollution in auto exhausts. It's getting a tryout in the Los Angeles smog. . . Westinghouse Electric Corp. will build the nuclear propulsion machinery for Britain's first atomic submarine, the "Dreadnought."

Girl, 17, Ends Record Perch As Flagpole Sitter

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — "I'm glad it's all over," said 17-year-old Mauri Rose Kirby, as she came down from her lofty perch Saturday, claiming a new flagpole sitting record of 211 days, 9 hours.

The carhop was lowered from a 71-foot tower in a bosun's chair attacked to a derrick.

"I'm going to try my best to dance," said Miss Kirby when asked what she wanted to do now that she was back on the ground. "And my first dance is going to be the guitar boogie shuffle."

During her long stay in a wooden hut on the tower, Miss Kirby had a tooth pulled and weathered temperatures of 13 degrees below zero.

Stock Prices Continue To Forge Ahead

By ED MORSE
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market churned ahead to successive record highs this week despite losses among some leading oils and motors.

The so - called glamor stocks went to the fore again, some of them making tremendous gains.

Besides the electronic-missile-rocket group there were solid gains among such old standbys as utilities, steels and coppers.

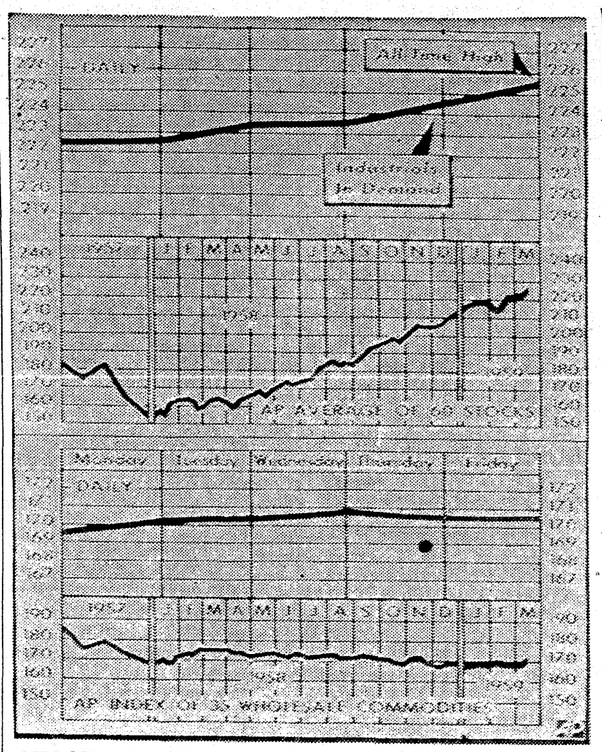
Volume for the week soared to 21,187,160 shares compared with 21,018,300 in the prior week. Both totals were the biggest for any week since the week ended last Oct 18 when 24,402,570 shares were traded.

While the pressure of funds for investment from institutional sources such as mutual funds, pension funds, insurance companies and the like remained consistent, brokers also reported a stepped-up volume of orders from the general public.

The market background included such items as these:

Steel production at a record high for a single week; sales of new cars for January and February at a record total; President Eisenhower's indication that any war over the Berlin crisis would be a nuclear combat rather than a ground war; the President's proclamation of mandatory oil import curbs for petroleum and his order for oil price policing; turmoil in oil-rich Iraq; higher copper prices; increasing interest rates.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose $3.10 to $225.50. This average hit new records on four straight days.



STOCKS ON RISE AGAIN — The Associated Press average of 60 stocks recorded an all-time high when it closed the past week at 225.5 from 222.4 a week earlier. The weekly volume was the heaviest since mid-October. Led by livestock and nonferrous metals, the commodity index moved higher this week to 170.5 from 169.6 in the preceding period. TREASURY HAS NO ALTERNATIVE

U.S. Borrowing Of Cash Helps Promote Inflation

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Treasury is promoting inflation of the money supply just as surely as if it were printing paper greenbacks.

The Treasury doesn't like this, of course, because it could lead to inflation of the whole economy. At the moment, however, it sees no clear way out.

Investor fears of rising interest rates and inflation have made it difficult — if not impossible — for Uncle Sam to borrow needed billions on a long term basis, or even for an intermediate period like five years. As a result, he has had to concentrate on getting short term loans which are much more inflationary.

Many of these loans, which come due in three months to three years, are kissing cousins of greenbacks and they create a paradox.

Uncle Sam has trouble getting less-inflationary long term loans, partly because of inflation fears. So he borrows on a short term basis and thus reinforces the very fears which are compounding his problem.

For Secretary of the Treasury Robert B. Anderson, this is a bitter irony. Anderson is so vocal a foe of inflation that Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill) recently accused him of being obsessed on the subject.

The Treasury chief is acutely aware that he, through his department, is helping to increase the inflation potential he decries.

Anderson has made a point of acquainting a number of recent visitors with the relationship between bank loans and inflation.

The secretary begins by asking the visitor's opinion on "monetization of the debt." He has found that a surprising number of government and business leaders are puzzled by the term. In such cases, he launches into a simple explanation.

Assume the Treasury borrows a million dollars from a Washington bank. What is involved?

The Treasury gives the bank a piece of paper — a government security—which says Uncle Sam has borrowed a million dollars and will repay in so many years at a fixed rate of interest. Because the worth of this piece of paper is vouched for by Uncle Sam, it assumes real value and is listed among the bank's assets.

On the liability side of the bank's ledger is written an offsetting entry. The bank sets up a new deposit of one million dollars against which the government can write checks to pay its bills.

Anderson asks, where did the bank get this million dollars? Did it take the cash out of someone else's account and give it to the Treasury?

The answer is that it got the money from no one. It created one million dollars worth of credit on the strength of the Treasury's I.O.U.

At this point the visitor is apt to comment, "That's just like printing greenbacks, and I'm against that."

Carrying the illustration further, as soon as the government writes checks against that deposit, money which didn't exist before goes into circulation.

This is inflation of the money supply.

The picture could change for the worse this year, however, if the Treasury continues to do most of its borrowing on a short term basis. The "greenbacks" could get out of hand.

IN MISSISSIPPI AREA

Oil Tests Indicate Major Discovery

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—A major deep oil pool discovery may be in the offing in Simpson County.

Jett Drilling Co.'s Wildcat Magee No. 1, sec. 17-1N4E, flowed oil from two paluxy sands this week.

A sand at 12,121-41 feet tested 397 barrels of 38 gravity oil and a sand at 12,174-87 feet flowed 437 barrels of oil daily.

Earlier tests in the Mooringsport zone at 12,548-82 feet flowed 217 barrels of 37 gravity oil daily.

The well-watched venture was drilled to 14,521 feet. The Hosston and Sligo zones failed to produce commercially.

The well is five miles southwest of Mendenhall and 15 miles southwest of the Martinville oil field.

The venture has logged oil shows of undetermined commercial worth in the Tuscaloosa zone at 8,123-51 feet. Contract depth is 13,500 feet and reports indicate the well may go deeper.

Pan American Petroleum Corp. is below 14,200 feet in the Jefferson Davis County wildcat Holloway No. 1, sec. 24-8N-20W.

Slight gas shows were logged in the Rodessa zone at 14,112-28 feet. Formation test on a Paluxy said at 13,266-74 feet recovered gas and condensate.

The second well in the recently found Morton oil field in Scott County is near the coring point.

The rapidly expanding Little Creek oil field of Lincoln and Pike counties continues to be the most active area in the state. Nine rigs are operating on the Pike County side and five on the Lincoln County side.

In the hardrock country of northeast Mississippi, production tests are under way at an Oktibbeha County wildcat.

McAlester Fuel Oil Co.'s Sudduth No. 1, sec. 6-19N-15E, nine miles north of Starkville, is being tested at 5,888-910 feet. Total depth is 11,420 feet.

In Hinds County, near the Bolton field, California Co. is below 10,500 feet in the wildcat Easterling No. 1, sec. 3-5N-3W. Contract depth is 12,500 feet.

Field drilling during the week:

In Adams County's Sibley field, Humble Oil and Refining Co. completed the Black No. 11, sec. 23-5N-3W, at 118 barrels of oil daily from a Wilcox sand at 6,458-62 feet.

In Adams County's Lagrange field, Cities Service completed the Ayers No. 12, at 58 barrels of oil daily from a sand at 4,628-32 feet.

In Issaquena County's Valley Park Field, American Petrofina and F. Goodstein completed the Delta Wildlife No. 1, sec. 5-9N-6W, at 47 barrels of oil daily from a sand at 6,418-23 feet.

In Clarke County's Junction City field, Southwest Gas Producing Co. completed the Scott No. 1, sec. 30-2N-17E, at 92 barrels of oil daily from a sand at 3,706-72 feet.

In Pearl River County's Pistol Ridge field, Lyle Cashion completed the Hinson No. 1, sec. 1-1S-14W, at 61 barrels of oil daily from a sand at 7,409-12 feet.

In Pearl River County's Pistol Jidge field, Humble Oil and Refining Co. completed the Shultze No. 1, sec. 4-1S-14W, at 41 barrels of oil daily from a sand at 8,404-29 feet.

Abandoned wells included:

Franklin County: Serio-Punches Oil Co. abandoned the USA No. D-2, sec. 9-5N-2E in Richardson Creek field, dry at 4,785 feet.

Sharkey County: Hargrave Oil Corp. abandoned the wildcat sec. 17-10N-5W dry at 8,683 feet.

Yazoo County: Trotter, May and Benke abandoned the wildcat McGraw-Curran Lumber Co. No. 1, sec. 4-11N-3W, dry at 6,608 feet.

Cotton Futures Mostly Down In Week's Trading

NEW YORK (AP) — Cotton futures prices were mostly on the downside this week. On the New York Cotton Exchange, nearby May scored a net gain of 95 cents a bale but all other active contracts finished in lower ground. Net losses ranged from 65 cents a bale.

The March, 1959, contract went off the board Thursday with a net advance of $2.70 a bale as shorts at the last minute ran to cover.

Plus factors in futures trading during the week included short covering, mill price fixing and some buying prompted by the possibility of a right "free" cotton supply later in the season. The new crop months were helped by the transferring of longs from the nearer positions.

Bearish influences included profit taking and some hedge selling.

Exports of U.S. Cotton for the week ended Tuesday were estimated by the New York Cotton Exchange service bureau at 60,000 bales vs. 31,000 a week ago and 79,000 in the year-ago week. Shipments for the season through Tuesday were estimated at 1,908,000 bales. This compares with exports of 3,396,000 bales at approximately the same time last season. Some trade sources expressed belief the estimate of 1,908,000 bales might be on the high side.

Stocks Are Much Sounder Today Than In Year 1929

By ELMER C. WALZER

NEW YORK (UPI)—Storks and business are much sounder today than they were in 1929, say the experts of Wall Street who scoff at the suggestion of a wild break.

Recurrence of the 1929 - 1932 stock market collapse is as remote as a recurrence of the black death, with mutual funds and institutional security holders standing as bulwarks against it, says Emerson W. Axe, president of the Axe - Houghton Mutual Funds.

Keith Funston, Stock Exchange president, explodes the myths which say today's stock market is uncomfortably similar to that of 1929. Differences between the past and the present, says Funston, "are in my opinion more striking than the similarities."

Each of these men admits we are not depression-proof. "Any depression we do have is sure to be far less severe than the one that closed out the 20s and ushered in the 30s," according to Axe.

Neither one appears even to hint at a depression or recession in business at this time. Each is discussing the market background and its inherent strength.

None of the experts in Wall Street or out denies that the stock market can take a big spill. In fact, some of them hold that a shakeout would be a good thing for the market at this time to consolidate its rise and make it more durable for the future.

Some think a 10 per cent drop would be in order. Few, however, think a decline would go to more than five per cent before strong new buying came in to arrest the decline.

Axe lists his beliefs on the market strength as follows: absence of speculation on thin margin; better seasoned common stocks largely held by long term investors, greater potential credit supply; stronger position of the banks; and the large holdings of mutual funds and institutions.

This matter of the market's strength comes up each time the list spurts to new highs. How long will this rise last, ask the uninformed. Will there be a break similar to that of 1929-1932? Will there be a wild and wooly depression resulting from a market break? To these questions, the experts answer that no wild break is in sight.

Now there are more than five billion shares listed with a value of more than $280 billion. In 1929 there were one billion shares valued at 90 billion dollars.

Margins today are 90 per cent. In 1929 they were down as low as 10 per cent.

Actual credit for carrying stocks is less than one third that of 1929.

This is a cash investment market. The 1929 market was a shoestring financed speculative market.

Funston, like Axe, points out that today there are in the market professionally managed financial institutions - trustees for other people's money — lending a steadying influence.

Also today there are strict regulations against illegal manipulation which was the order of the day in 1929. And there is a new profession of security analysts who help make for sound investment.

Funston also stresses that the market is not for the selected few any more but for the many. The present base of ownership of stocks has been unofficially estimated at 10 million persons, against 8,600,000 in 1956.

Why has the market gone up as it has? Here is a composite of expert opinion:

Inflation has turned people away from bonds to stocks, and their demand has sent prices up sharply and caused a scarcity of stock.

Heavy buying of mutual funds forces the funds to buy more stocks to keep their money invested, adding to the stock scarcity. Also pension funds, colleges and other institutions are turning to stocks in their portfolios as hedges against inflation.

Tax laws lock in wealthy investors and prevent corporations from doing their financing in new stock issues that could break the shortage log jam.

In addition to tax law changes, the market needs a sound dollar, say the experts. They do not expect a return of the dollar of old, but a steady currency now would help all around, the market men say. Investors would continue to hold stocks, but there'd be better markets for bonds too and this would help the Treasury Department with its financing woes.

Two momentous advances in the field of termite control have been announced by the Orkin Exterminating Company. They are: (1) the formulation of Orkil, the most effective termiticide available; and (2) the world's strongest surety bonded guarantee against future termite damage.

Since termites have already started swarming in this area, these two developments are especially significant and will be of interest to all homeowners.

Grain Futures Contracts Make Broad Advances

By GIL MAYO
AP Business News Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Grain futures brokers on the Board of Trade appeared this week to have priced themselves out of some competitive commercial advantage on broad advances for December contracts.

It was rather significant that the steep climbs were made almost entirely on so-called technical and speculative trading. Domestic commercial demand was not more than moderate at any time and export business was small although a large volume of potential export sales developed for which some buying was known to have taken place in the wheat pit.

The military uprising in Iraq set off a mild flurry early in the week but it was cancelled out the following day as prices settled back in about the same range as the advance that was attributed to it.

RENEW DIPLOMATIC TIES

MELBOURNE, Australia (UPI) —Australia and the Soviet Union provisionally agreed Friday to resume diplomatic relations broken five years ago after the expose of a Russian spy ring.

DEADLINE MAR. 16

Cotton Farmers Elect Programs

DELHI (Special) — Louisiana Delta Council yesterday announced that through March 6 a total of 327 area cotton farmers with original 1959 allotments of 12,096 acres have selected choice B Plan, according to state office Agricultural Stabilization and conservation Service figures released March 13.

For Louisiana the figures are 1,689 farms signed for plan "B", representing 27,694 acres.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture previously disclosed that nationally 34,034 farms with allotments of 994,538 acres had chosen the plan B.

Delta Council Manager Harvey P. Grant, Jr., Delhi, explained that cotton farmers this year for the first time had the choice of programs A or B.

Briefly, in 1959 a farmer could elect prior to March 16 Plan A under which he chose to plant his original allotment with a guaranteed 80 per cent of parity support price or he could select Plan B whereby he could increase his acreage by 40 per cent with a guaranteed 65 per cent support price.

Grant said that the number of farmers deciding to take the Choice B program and the cotton acreage involved have about doubled in the period since the last government report for February 20.

He stated, however, that it was anticipated that many more area farmers will choose Plan B before the March 16 deadline despite the relatively small number involved. He added that although there was considerable indecision initially among farmers regarding the choice programs, recent developments indicated a trend toward more participation in the B Plan.

Regarding the official ASC statistics, Grant submitted the following breakdown on the Choice B sign-ups through March 6:

AREA PARISHES	NO. OF FARMS	ACREAGE ALLOTMT. CHOICE B
Caldwell	10	381.3
Catahoula	3	58.4
Concordia	8	184.1
East Carroll	29	1,402.1
Franklin	66	2,816.0
Madison	44	3,177.5
Morehouse	46	3,175.4
Ouachita	30	1,428.7
Richland	39	1,653.6
Tensas	32	1,980.8
West Carroll	20	677.2
Area Totals	327	16,935.1

The percentage of farmers electing Choice B in the U.S. were 3.6; in Louisiana, 3.7 and in the Council area, 2.7 per cent.

The percentage of the acreage in the original allotments choosing Choice B were U.S., 6.1; per cent Louisiana, 4.8 and in the Council area, 4.7.

The size of the original average allotment electing Choice B in the U.S. was 29.2 acres; in Louisiana, 16.9 acres and in the Council area, 37.0 acres.

Grant reminded all cotton farmers that the deadline for selecting an option under this year's program is March 16. Those who have not selected Plan B by that time will be automatically classed in Plan A, he said.

He emphasized that Louisiana Delta Council is urging all cotton farmers who will not plant their 1959 allotment to preserve the acreage for themselves, their parish and the state by releasing it to the parish ASC office for reallocation within the parish.

Arkansas farmers choosing plan B were 1,944, representing 105,212 acres - in Mississippi 1,742 farmers selected plan "B". They represented 91,070 acres.

IN BUSINESS, FINANCE

Production, Stocks Continue To Climb

By WALTER BREEDE JR.

NEW YORK (AP) — Rising production, a booming stock market and jubilation over statehood for Hawaii helped propel the U.S. economy toward new highs this week. But there was some concern in business circles about the foreign situation.

Storm warnings on the international front included the abortive anti-communist uprising in oil-rich Iraq, the deepening crisis in Berlin and the imposition of mandatory curbs on oil imports.

The import curbs evoked strong protests in Canada which regards the United States as its prime petroleum market.

At home, the government came out with a somewhat discouraging report on unemployment. Jobs increased in February but so did the number of jobless, with 4,749,000 Americans seeking work and unable to find it.

Most other business indicators looked good.

Once again, the stock market soared through the roof. The steel industry set a new production record for the second week in a row. Freight carloadings for the week ended March 7 were the highest in three months. Private housing starts in February were the highest for that month since 1955.

With Easter shopping off to a fast start, department stores in the March 7 week scored a five per cent sales gain over last year.

Although down a shade from the previous week, auto production racked up a hefty gain of 53 per cent over last year's total.

Stock sales for the week totaled 21,187,160 shares against 21,018,300 shares last week and 12,006,845 in the same week last year. Bond sales had a par value of $37,888,700 in the latest week compared to $40,036,000 in the previous week and $23,611,000 in the corresponding 1958 week.

Congressional action making Hawaii the 50th state brought predictions of a tourist boom in the land of pineapple plantations, surf boards and hula dancers. Jet passenger planes will soon make the trip from California in about four hours.

In addition to sugar and pineapples, assets of the new state include: a thrifty and industrious population of 613,000 (unemployment last year averaged only 1.6 per cent of the labor force), a thriving retail business which can draw on total personal income of more than a billion dollars a year, and a bustling garment industry.

Just about everybody was happy about Hawaiian statehood except flag manufacturers, who saw stars. They've just gone into mass production of a re-designed flag with a 49th star for Alaska.

Mandatory controls on oil imports jolted the petroleum industry this week, causing joy in the Texas oil fields and consternation among East Coast oil refiners. The Eastern refiners import large amounts of low-cost foreign crude oil and process it into heating oils and gasoline.

Biggest question for consumers was: Would compulsory import quotas push fuel oil and gasoline prices up? In ordering mandatory restrictions, the White House ruled that import quotas will be relaxed if prices of domestic oil products get out of hand — a procedure which calls for government policing of price boosts.

At week's end, Union Oil Co. announced it will increase prices it pays for crude oil bought in California and the Four Corners area. Standard Oil Co. (Ind.) raised gasoline prices in northern Illinois. But the Tri-State (Pennsylvania-New York-New Jersey) area around Port Jervis, N.Y., saw the start of no-holds-barred gasoline price war.

Briefly over the business scene: Ford jumped the gun in the economy car race. It announced that, barring an unforeseen change in the public's attitude, it will put a "compact" car into production next fall. . The Eisenhower Administration turned thumbs down on proposals to boost the present dollar-an-hour minimum wage to $1.25. . . Tidewater Oil Co. introduced a new gasoline which is said to reduce air pollution in auto exhausts. It's getting a tryout in the Los Angeles smog. . . Girl, 17, Ends Record Perch As Flagpole Sitter

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — "I'm glad it's all over," said 17-year-old Mauri Rose Kirby, as she came down from her lofty perch Saturday, claiming a new flagpole sitting record of 211 days, 9 hours.

The carhop was lowered from a 71-foot tower in a bosun's chair attacked to a derrick.

"I'm going to try my best to dance," said Miss Kirby when asked what she wanted to do now that she was back on the ground. "And my first dance is going to be the guitar boogie shuffle."

During her long stay in a wooden hut on the tower, Miss Kirby had a tooth pulled and weathered temperatures of 13 degrees below zero.

Stock Prices Continue To Forge Ahead

By ED MORSE
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market churned ahead to successive record highs this week despite losses among some leading oils and motors.

The so - called glamor stocks went to the fore again, some of them making tremendous gains.

Besides the electronic-missile-rocket group there were solid gains among such old standbys as utilities, steels and coppers.

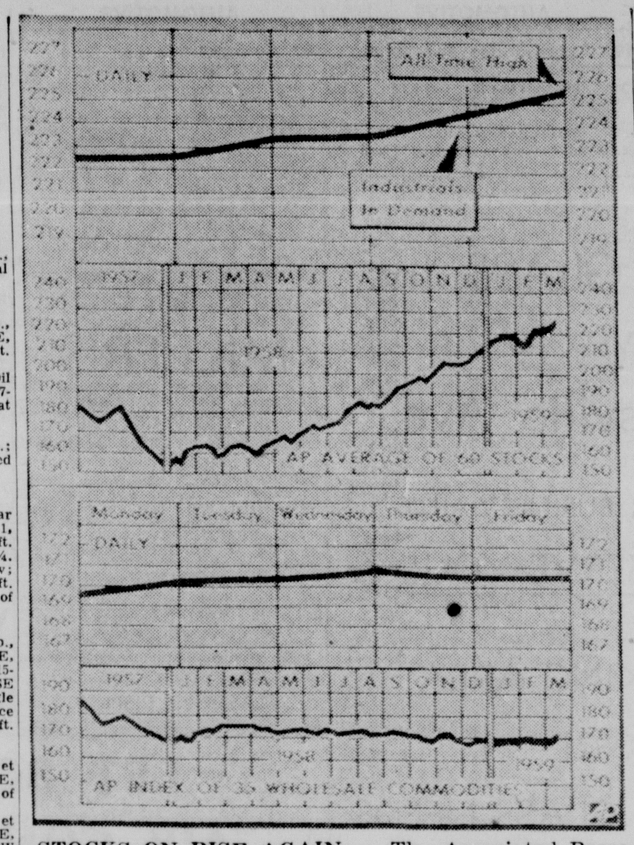
Volume for the week soared to 21,187,160 shares compared with 21,018,300 in the prior week. Both totals were the biggest for any week since the week ended last Oct 18 when 24,402,570 shares were traded.

While the pressure of funds for investment from institutional sources such as mutual funds, pension funds, insurance companies and the like remained consistent, brokers also reported a stepped-up volume of orders from the general public.

The market background included such items as these:

Steel production at a record high for a single week; sales of new cars for January and February at a record total; President Eisenhower's indication that any war over the Berlin crisis would be a nuclear combat rather than a ground war; the President's proclamation of mandatory oil import curbs for petroleum and his order for oil price policing; turmoil in oil-rich Iraq; higher copper prices; increasing interest rates.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose $3.10 to $225.50. This average hit new records on four straight days.



STOCKS ON RISE AGAIN — The Associated Press average of 60 stocks recorded an all-time high when it closed the past week at 225.5 from 222.4 a week earlier. The weekly volume was the heaviest since mid-October. Led by livestock and nonferrous metals, the commodity index moved higher this week to 170.5 from 169.6 in the preceding period. TREASURY HAS NO ALTERNATIVE

U.S. Borrowing Of Cash Helps Promote Inflation

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Treasury is promoting inflation of the money supply just as surely as if it were printing paper greenbacks.

The Treasury doesn't like this, of course, because it could lead to inflation of the whole economy. At the moment, however, it sees no clear way out.

Investor fears of rising interest rates and inflation have made it difficult — if not impossible — for Uncle Sam to borrow needed billions on a long term basis, or even for an intermediate period like five years. As a result, he has had to concentrate on getting short term loans which are much more inflationary.

Many of these loans, which come due in three months to three years, are kissing cousins of greenbacks and they create a paradox.

Uncle Sam has trouble getting less-inflationary long term loans, partly because of inflation fears. So he borrows on a short term basis and thus reinforces the very fears which are compounding his problem.

For Secretary of the Treasury Robert B. Anderson, this is a bitter irony. Anderson is so vocal a foe of inflation that Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill) recently accused him of being obsessed on the subject.

The Treasury chief is acutely aware that he, through his department, is helping to increase the inflation potential he decries.

Anderson has made a point of acquainting a number of recent visitors with the relationship between bank loans and inflation.

The secretary begins by asking the visitor's opinion on "monetization of the debt." He has found that a surprising number of government and business leaders are puzzled by the term. In such cases, he launches into a simple explanation.

Assume the Treasury borrows a million dollars from a Washington bank. What is involved?

The Treasury gives the bank a piece of paper — a government security—which says Uncle Sam has borrowed a million dollars and will repay in so many years at a fixed rate of interest. Because the worth of this piece of paper is vouched for by Uncle Sam, it assumes real value and is listed among the bank's assets.

On the liability side of the bank's ledger is written an offsetting entry. The bank sets up a new deposit of one million dollars against which the government can write checks to pay its bills.

Anderson asks, where did the bank get this million dollars? Did it take the cash out of someone else's account and give it to the Treasury?

The answer is that it got the money from no one. It created one million dollars worth of credit on the strength of the Treasury's I.O.U.

At this point the visitor is apt to comment, "That's just like printing greenbacks, and I'm against that."

Carrying the illustration further, as soon as the government writes checks against that deposit, money which didn't exist before goes into circulation.

This is inflation of the money supply.

The picture could change for the worse this year, however, if the Treasury continues to do most of its borrowing on a short term basis. The "greenbacks" could get out of hand.

Oil Tests Indicate Major Discovery

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—A major deep oil pool discovery may be in the offing in Simpson County.

Jett Drilling Co.'s Wildcat Magee No. 1, sec. 17-1N4E, flowed oil from two paluxy sands this week.

A sand at 12,121-41 feet tested 397 barrels of 38 gravity oil and a sand at 12,174-87 feet flowed 437 barrels of oil daily.

Earlier tests in the Mooringsport zone at 12,548-82 feet flowed 217 barrels of 37 gravity oil daily.

The well-watched venture was drilled to 14,521 feet. The Hosston and Sligo zones failed to produce commercially.

The well is five miles southwest of Mendenhall and 15 miles southwest of the Martinville oil field.

The venture has logged oil shows of undetermined commercial worth in the Tuscaloosa zone at 8,123-51 feet. Contract depth is 13,500 feet and reports indicate the well may go deeper.

Pan American Petroleum Corp. is below 14,200 feet in the Jefferson Davis County wildcat Holloway No. 1, sec. 24-8N-20W.

Slight gas shows were logged in the Rodessa zone at 14,112-28 feet. Formation test on a Paluxy said at 13,266-74 feet recovered gas and condensate.

The rapidly expanding Little Creek oil field of Lincoln and Pike counties continues to be the most active area in the state. Nine rigs are operating on the Pike County side and five on the Lincoln County side.

In the hardrock country of northeast Mississippi, production tests are under way at an Oktibbeha County wildcat.

McAlester Fuel Oil Co.'s Sudduth No. 1, sec. 6-19N-15E, nine miles north of Starkville, is being tested at 5,888-910 feet Total depth is 11,420 feet.

In Hinds County, near the Bolton field, California Co. is below 10,500 feet in the wildcat Easterling No. 1, sec. 3-5N-3W. Contract depth is 12,500 feet.

Field drilling during the week:

In Adams County's Sibley field, humble Oil and Refining Co. completed the Black No. 11, sec. 23-5N-3W, at 118 barrels of oil daily from a Wilcox sand at 6,458-62 feet.

In Adams County's Lagrange field, Cities Service completed the Ayers No. 12, at 58 barrels of oil daily from a sand at 4,628-32 feet.

In Issaquena County's Valley Park Field, American Petrofina and F. Goodstein completed the Delta Wildlife No. 1, sec. 5-9N-6W, at 47 barrels of oil daily from a sand at 6,418-23 feet.

In Clarke County's Junction City field, Southwest Gas Producing Co. completed the Scott No. 1, sec. 30-2N-17E, at 92 barrels of oil daily from a sand at 3,706-72 feet.

In Pearl River County's Pistol Ridge field, Lyle Cashion completed the Hinson No. 1, sec. 1-1S-14W, at 61 barrels of oil daily from a sand at 7,409-12 feet.

In Pearl River County's Pistol Jidge field, Humble Oil and Refining Co. completed the Shultze No. 1, sec. 4-1S-14W, at 41 barrels of oil daily from a sand at 8,404-29 feet.

Abandoned wells included:

Franklin County: Serio-Punches Oil Co. abandoned the USA No. D-2, sec. 9-5N-2E in Richardson Creek field, dry at 4,785 feet.

Sharkey County: Hargrave Oil Corp. abandoned the wildcat sec. 17-10N-5W dry at 8,683 feet.

Yazoo County: Trotter, May and Benke abandoned the wildcat McGraw-Curran Lumber Co. No. 1, sec. 4-11N-3W, dry at 6,608 feet.

Cotton Futures Mostly Down In Week's Trading

NEW YORK (AP) — Cotton futures prices were mostly on the downside this week. On the New York Cotton Exchange, nearby May scored a net gain of 95 cents a bale but all other active contracts finished in lower ground. Net losses ranged from 65 cents a bale.

The March, 1959, contract went off the board Thursday with a net advance of $2.70 a bale as shorts at the last minute ran to cover.

Plus factors in futures trading during the week included short covering, mill price fixing and some buying prompted by the possibility of a right "free" cotton supply later in the season. The new crop months were helped by the transferring of longs from the nearer positions.

Bearish influences included profit taking and some hedge selling.

Exports of U.S. Cotton for the week ended Tuesday were estimated by the New York Cotton Exchange service bureau at 60,000 bales vs. 31,000 a week ago and 79,000 in the year-ago week. Shipments for the season through Tuesday were estimated at 1,908,000 bales. This compares with exports of 3,396,000 bales at approximately the same time last season. Some trade sources expressed belief the estimate of 1,908,000 bales might be on the high side.

Stocks Are Much Sounder Today Than In Year 1929

By ELMER C. WALZER

NEW YORK (UPI)—Storks and business are much sounder today than they were in 1929, say the experts of Wall Street who scoff at the suggestion of a wild break.

Recurrence of the 1929 - 1932 stock market collapse is as remote as a recurrence of the black death, with mutual funds and institutional security holders standing as bulwarks against it, says Emerson W. Axe, president of the Axe - Houghton Mutual Funds.

Keith Funston, Stock Exchange president, explodes the myths which say today's stock market is uncomfortably similar to that of 1929. Differences between the past and the present, says Funston, "are in my opinion more striking than the similarities."

Each of these men admits we are not depression-proof. "Any depression we do have is sure to be far less severe than the one that closed out the 20s and ushered in the 30s," according to Axe.

Neither one appears even to hint at a depression or recession in business at this time. Each is discussing the market background and its inherent strength.

None of the experts in Wall Street or out denies that the stock market can take a big spill. In fact, some of them hold that a shakeout would be a good thing for the market at this time to consolidate its rise and make it more durable for the future.

Some think a 10 per cent drop would be in order. Few, however, think a decline would go to more than five per cent before strong new buying came in to arrest the decline.

Axe lists his beliefs on the market strength as follows: absence of speculation on thin margin; better seasoned common stocks largely held by long term investors, greater potential credit supply; stronger position of the banks; and the large holdings of mutual funds and institutions.

This matter of the market's strength comes up each time the list spurts to new highs. How long will this rise last, ask the uninformed. Will there be a break similar to that of 1929-1932? Will there be a wild and wooly depression resulting from a market break? To these questions, the experts answer that no wild break is in sight.

Now there are more than five billion shares listed with a value of more than $280 billion. In 1929 there were one billion shares valued at 90 billion dollars.

Margins today are 90 per cent. In 1929 they were down as low as 10 per cent.

Actual credit for carrying stocks is less than one third that of 1929.

This is a cash investment market. The 1929 market was a shoestring financed speculative market.

Funston, like Axe, points out that today there are in the market professionally managed financial institutions - trustees for other people's money — lending a steadying influence.

Also today there are strict regulations against illegal manipulation which was the order of the day in 1929. And there is a new profession of security analysts who help make for sound investment.

Funston also stresses that the market is not for the selected few any more but for the many. The present base of ownership of stocks has been unofficially estimated at 10 million persons, against 8,600,000 in 1956.

Why has the market gone up as it has? Here is a composite of expert opinion:

Inflation has turned people away from bonds to stocks, and their demand has sent prices up sharply and caused a scarcity of stock.

Heavy buying of mutual funds forces the funds to buy more stocks to keep their money invested, adding to the stock scarcity. Also pension funds, colleges and other institutions are turning to stocks in their portfolios as hedges against inflation.

Tax laws lock in wealthy investors and prevent corporations from doing their financing in new stock issues that could break the shortage log jam.

In addition to tax law changes, the market needs a sound dollar, say the experts. They do not expect a return of the dollar of old, but a steady currency now would help all around, the market men say. Investors would continue to hold stocks, but there'd be better markets for bonds too and this would help the Treasury Department with its financing woes.

James E. Coleman, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Coleman, 1305 West Main street, El Dorado, Ark., has joined the technical staff of the Esso Research Laboratories in Baton Rouge.

A graduate of El Dorado High School, Coleman received his BS and MS degrees in physical chemistry from Louisiana State University. He will receive a PhD in physical chemistry in March from Ohio State University.

The Crossett Company has announced that it will spend about $800,000 this year on the installation of new equipment to improve the quality of kraft paper produced at the Crossett, Ark., paper mills.

This will be the second major modernization and expansion project to be announced at the Crossett Company's paper division within the past four months.

Archie D. Yawn, with Southern Airways since its beginning in 1949, has been appointed general sales manager, Frank W. Hulse, president, has announced.

Formerly a Southern Airways regional sales manager, Yawn was named sales promotion manager in February of 1957. This post was a newly - created one in which Yawn directed Southern's public relations activities supervised interline sales efforts and was co - ordinator and administrator of all phases of the company's sales promotion and advertising activities.

Two momentous advances in the field of termite control have been announced by the Orkin Exterminating Company. They are: (1) the formulation of Orkil, the most effective termiticide available; and (2) the world's strongest surety bonded guarantee against future termite damage.

Since termites have already started swarming in this area, these two developments are especially significant and will be of interest to all homeowners.

Grain Futures Contracts Make Broad Advances

By GIL MAYO
AP Business News Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Grain futures brokers on the Board of Trade appeared this week to have priced themselves out of some competitive commercial advantage on broad advances for December contracts.

It was rather significant that the steep climbs were made almost entirely on so-called technical and speculative trading. Domestic commercial demand was not more than moderate at any time and export business was small although a large volume of potential export sales developed for which some buying was known to have taken place in the wheat pit.

The military uprising in Iraq set off a mild flurry early in the week but it was cancelled out the following day as prices settled back in about the same range as the advance that was attributed to it.

RENEW DIPLOMATIC TIES

MELBOURNE, Australia (UPI) —Australia and the Soviet Union provisionally agreed Friday to resume diplomatic relations broken five years ago after the expose of a Russian spy ring.

WELL, WELL! LOOKING FOR A BARBERSHOP, NATURE BOY?

NUPS! I COME TO TRY OUT FUR A BASEBALL PITCHER.

HAW, HAW!

WHAT'S YOUR SPECIALTY? SLIDER, SINKER, SCREWBALL?

WELL, I DON'T RECKON I GOT A SPECIALTY. I JIST RARES BACK AND CHUNKS.

YEE, HEE, HEE! RARES BACK AND CHUNKS! THAT FRACTURES ME!

STOP RIDING HIM, YOU JOCKEYS!... AND SINCE YOU, MR. "HOMERUN" BATTS, THINK YOU'RE SO SHARP TODAY, SUPPOSE YOU SHOW HOW SHARP YOU ARE IN BATTING PRACTICE AGAINST HIM.

OBOY! WILL I CLOBBER THAT HAYSEED!!

I'LL CLOBBER HIM PLUMB OUTA THE PARK!

STRIKE ONE!

ZING!

STRIKE THREE, OLD BUDDY-BUDDY! YOU'RE OUT!

LOOK, DING, NO ROOKIE YOKEL CAN THROW A FAST BALL I CAN'T HIT. GIMME ANOTHER CHANCE AT THAT CLODHOPPER.

OKAY, BATTING CHAMP! KEEP SWINGING AND LET'S SEE HOW GOOD YOU REALLY ARE.

STRIKE TWENTY-THREE!

YAH-YAH! WHEN YOU GONNA START CLOBBERIN' HIM?

THOUGHT YOU WAS A FAST-BALL HITTER, "HOMERUN!"

CONFOUND IT! IF I CAN'T HIT THE HAYSEED, I'LL BUNT 'IM TO DEATH!

MAYBE WE SHOT TOO GOOD, BUD! ONLY ONE OF THEM LASTED LONG ENOUGH TO TALK AT ALL! MAYBE IF.....

NO, SUSIE! WHAT MORE COULD ANY OF THEM HAVE TOLD US?

HE SAID: "WE TOSSED 'EM INTO.....". ONLY ONE PLACE HE COULD HAVE MEANT! OFF THAT PIER INTO THIRTY FEET DEEP WATER, RUNNING OUT TO SEA!

YES, BUD! BUT IT'S HARD TO FACE FACTS, SOMETIMES!

WHILE IN A CABOOSE IN THE RAILROAD YARDS-

BOY-OH-BOY, DID WE SEE ONE TONIGHT. OUT ON PIER NINE! BANG! BANG! BANG! JUST LIKE TELEVISION!

HA! THAT DAME! TH' PISTOL SHE WAS PACKIN'. THAT LONG!

AND SHOOT! I SEEN ONE O' THEM HOODS SHE HIT! I BET IT KNOCKED HIM TEN FEET!

KILL HIM?

KILL HIM! I'LL SAY! TH' GUY WITH HER-- A POLICE INSPECTOR, THEY SAID!

WHAT WAS IT ALL ABOUT?

TH' PUNKS HAD KIDNAPED SOME KID!

YEAH! THEY'D THROWN HER OFF TH' PIER, ONE OF 'EM SAID, 'FORE HE CASHED IN!

SHOOTIN'S TOO EASY FOR JERKS LIKE THEM!

WE'D HAVE GOT MORE O' TH' STORY BUT WE HAD TO PICK UP THAT EMPTY BOXCAR OFF TH' PIER.

HA! DIDJA EVER THINK WHAT SOME OLD BOXCARS HAVE SEEN IN THEIR TRAVELS?

'MAGINE WHAT THAT BOXCAR CAN TELL HIS PALS, AS HE GOES BUMPIN' AROUND TH' COUNTRY!

FOR A BRAKEMAN, YOU GOT A REAL POET'S WAY O' THINKIN'!

A TALKIN' BOXCAR! POET, MY EYE! THAT GUY'S GONE!

MAD, MAN! REAL MAD! WELL, JOE'S GOT TH' GREEN! LET'S ROLL!

GOTTA GET TH' TAPE OFF. I'M SORRY, SANDY! JUST 'MEMBER, LIKE TH' OLD SAYIN', "IT ONLY HURTS FOR A LITTLE WHILE"! IF Y'DIDN'T HAVE SO MANY WHISKERS!

An exciting message for women who don't know how beautiful their skin can be—

WAKE UP!

PRAISE REMOVES THE SOAP AND COSMETIC FILMS THAT HIDE YOUR NATURAL BEAUTY.

"Wake up the sleeping beauty in your skin" with Praise... the totally new kind of soap

Every woman has a natural beauty sleeping inside her skin. Are you going to let yours sleep for the rest of your life? WAKE IT UP!

Wake up to Praise! The totally new kind of soap!

New mild Praise uncovers your natural beauty. Its unique action deep-cleans away soap film and cosmetic film that other soaps don't even touch. Praise removes bacteria that cause skin blemishes. Leaves nothing on you but a cleaner, healthier skin.

Want proof you can see? It's in your own bathtub. Unlike ordinary soaps, Praise leaves no bathtub ring. That's how you know it's so different. That's how you know it can't leave a soap film on you.

Perhaps best of all—this new kind of soap is a miracle of mildness. Packed with rich cold cream, Praise is so mild it makes the so-called "mild baby soaps" seem harsh by comparison.

Wake up the sleeping beauty in your skin! With Praise! It's a totally new kind of soap!

FOR MEN'S SUITS

Lighter Colors Are Seen Soon

Why is it a man will wear red slacks, a yellow shirt, and a bold patterened sports coat on the weekend, but on Monday he wears a dark gray suit, a white shirt, and a subdued tie to the office, and would think it outrageous to wear anything "louder"? Sometimes it seems men's suit styles and colors are unalterably drab-looking.

But this summer there is real news in men's suits! In color, in styling, and in weight.

LIGHTER COLORS FOR SPRING

For too many years now men have been wearing dark colors all year round. This summer, suit colors are going lighter — and after wearing black and dark grays and charcoal browns in the cold months, a man will be able to join in some of nature's springtime gaiety by putting on a light gray or blue suit, or a tan one. And it's about time

Men's summer suits are now being made in such fabulously lightweight tropical worsteds — 5½ to 6 ounces to the yard — that a man can really look forward to comfort on even the hottest days. Wrinkle - resistant worsted feather - weight suits are the perfect choice for July days because the more open weave construction of wool means it can best take the transition from hot streets to air-cooled offices. And nothing tailors like wool — even these almost see-through weights. Or keeps its press and fresh look, even on the most humid days.

THE CONTINENTAL LOOK

The new look in suits is the Continental silhouette. Inspired by Italian suit design, this model means a shorter jacket with a coat front that is cutaway and rounded, with some waist suppression, and slanted pockets. Most Continental models will have two buttons rather than three and peak lapels rather than the notch lapels we have been accustomed to the past few years. The more high fashion models will have cuffed sleeves, no cuffs on the trousers, and no chest pocket. The shorter jacket makes a short man look leggier, taller, yet it looks good on a tall, thin man, too. The man with a paunch, however, had best try a modified version, because of the cutaway front.

The most popular suit model this spring and summer will be the American Ambassador model. Inspired by California designers, this suit coat will have a squarer shoulder with a forward pitch to the sleeve — which is a flattering silhouette to the man of mature proportions. The three buttons will be placed fairly close together below a long rolling lapel with a small notch.

THE "IVY LEAGUE" LOOK

The college man and the young executive will continue to champion the Natural Shoulder model, or so-called "Ivy League" look— with no padding in the shoulders, straight-hanging lines, and three buttons . . . a trim look flattering to today's weight - conscious male.

In wool and worsted suits you can find your widest range of patterns. Stripes and solids will still be most popular, but there are many elegant patterns available — muted plaids, ombre stripes, jacquard weaves. The man who buys a Continental model suit will also want an unusual pattern — like the shepherd checks being shown.

American men are in a dress-up mood, and American women are very happy with the news

New Topcoats Are Lighter And Shorter

Spring topcoats — lighter than ever in weight, but just as warm as the heavier versions of past seasons — are making style news right now.

These new topcoats weigh scarcely more than a Spring suit, yet they give all the warmth needed in nippy weather, hold shape well, and many boast a built-in resistance to wrinkling.

The new styling also features shorter lengths this Spring. And there are new colors and shades that give the latest models a truly new look.

Among the newest models is an adaptation of the split raglan style that is now seen so much in rainwear. They're tailored for a set-in sleeve effect when seen from the front, while having the easy - fitting raglan sleeve look at the back.

Designers of the new shorter length coats indicate they will prove to be a boon on car-driving occasions or for men who do a lot of walking. Lengths have been shortened by as much as three inches in some models. Aside from its practical features, the new length boasts what the designers call "better balance" in appearance.

But whatever length is to be preferred, topcoats for this Spring will be found in a superb variety of fabrics, including silky gabardines, luxurious shetlands, rugged tweeds, durable covert cloths and classic polos.

Complementing the new "continental" suits are topcoats tailored for the same trim, slimming effect and other detailing inspired by what's being worn right now in European capitals.

"Ivy" styles are also much in evidence, including models that feature natural shoulders and sweeping raglan lines.

"Since 1889"

GIVE ME A 'NORFOLK' JACKET in a cool, loosely-woven wool Shetland, and I'll wear it every day on vacation. What I like is smart appearance, comfortable fit.

Shirts For '59 Have Accent On Color, Comfort

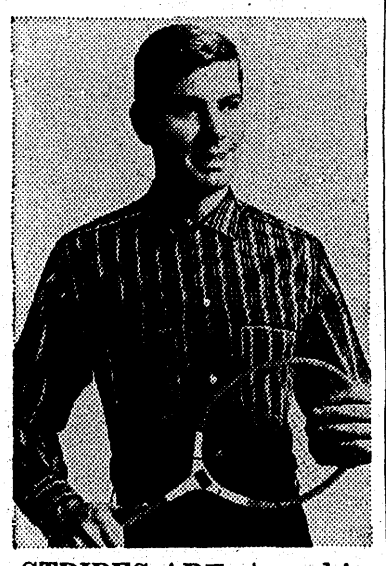
New self-ventilating fabrics tell the story — tiny air vents in the fabric that can't be seen with anything short of a microscope. However, they do the twin job of making a man look his best at business or other work, while at the same time keeping him cool and comfortable.

Short-sleeved shirts, so much in demand last year, are making a bigger impact than ever this year and will be worn widely by men who demand comfort along with style when the thermometer reaches its mid-summer peaks.

Built for comfort, the new shirts for this season are fashioned for handsome good looks as well — in solid colors, or stripes and fancy patterns. Collar styles include the popular button-down, English tabs, pin tabs, wide or modified spreads round pin tabs and the low-set vanishing band types.

Sports shirts are making their appearance in a dazzling variety, to be worn either as tuck-ins or outside the slacks. Among these styles are cardigan shirts, jacket types, trimmed-down pull-overs and shirts with fly-fronts that hide the buttons.

Stripes, plaids and check will continue to be popular, but they are supplemented this year by a new accent on "wood-cut" prints, neat foulard patterns, and solid colors with an iridescent sheen. As to color, blue is the word this year — blue in all shades from the pale sky tints to deep navy.



STRIPES ARE starred in this new sport shirt for spring, made of "miracle" cotton, which requires little ironing. Collar can be worn opened or closed (black knit tie suggested).

WE SNAPPED YOU. Now you snap us in our new wool sports coats. Bruce, on steps, wears a lustrous gray and silver check wool blazer that's lighter than a pound of feathers. My jacquard weave wool sports coat comes in a neat diamond pattern.

WOOL IS IDEAL

Comfort Is Key To The Traveler

Most families like to take their vacation in a car. There's plenty of room for the kids, the dog, all the clothes, the baby's favorite toys — everything can be put in somewhere. You stop when you want, you eat and sleep where you want; you are your own boss. And the family has its fun together.

Whether this year you plan a long drive to the National Parks of the West or to a lake sixty miles from home, you want to take the right clothes with you. If you don't plan a proper wardrobe a lot of the enjoyment of a vacation can be spoiled.

COMFORT IN HIS CLOTHES

When a man travels, he likes to be comfortable. When driving, he wears a sports shirt, and walk-shorts or slacks — all lightweight, uninhibited in color. When he goes away for a vacation, he takes a suit for evening, a sports jacket and a sweater, just in case. He prefers wool, because it holds up through a trip, always looks neater and fresher, makes him feel comfortable but well - dressed.

Walk - shorts — most popularly worn with knitted wool shirts this summer — come in all the brightest colors and in white and black. New are the lightweight wools with patterns, everything from stripes to plaids to novelty prints. The same is true of slacks — one of the smartest resort outfits this summer will be a pair of plaid worsted slacks worn with a solid-color wool blazer. Husband and wife can find matching "his and hers" walk - shorts and slacks, too, for a "togetherness" ensemble that will keep your friends talking.

BIGGEST COLOR: BLUE

The color you will see most this spring and summer is blue — in all shades from deepest navy to light copen blue. It will often be contrasted with white — for example, white slacks with a blue pullover shirt. But the high fashion colors are the yellows — mustard, lemon, bronze, brass —and they will look best, of course, worn with browns.

Low - holers — three or four buttons placed low to create a deep V-opening — are the smartest styling in both wool sweaters and leisure jackets. Many have shawl collars, but the newest style jacket has no collar — a cardigan effect that is cooler in hot weather, a very sensible design. Knitted wool sweater - shirts are another welcome innovation, worn outside the trousers, very casual and comfortable, again usually in cardigan style.

THE ODD JACKET

When travelling, it's good to have one sports jacket hanging in the back of the car that you can slip on when you have lunch or stop to inquire about motel rates. A wool blazer is the most versatile jacket — it's sporty, yet has a neat and tailored look. Also be sure to pack a lamb's wool sleeveless sweater, just in case it gets chilly when you drive up into the high Sierra mountains.

Have you seen the new Velcro closure on sweaters, jackets, slacks, and just about every other item of apparel you can think of?

It eliminated buttons, zippers, or snaps. Two pieces of tape mesh together for a firm closure, so that you can close your jacket with a pat of your hand and peel it open just as easily. Almost every men's store and men's department will have stock to demonstrate.

YOUR TRAVEL SUIT

If you are roughing it on a camping trip in Maine, a sports coat will probably be the dressiest clothes you will need. But if you plan on visiting Washington or San Francisco as part of your vacation you will feel much more comfortable if you take a suit. Pack carefully and it will lie flat, take up little room in the suit-case and hang out beautifully — if it's wool. Your tropical - weight worsteds are light and comfortable, yet tailor perfectly; you'll feel assured and relaxed in the smartest restaurants and supper clubs of any city.

Wool jersey is something new this year that makes packing a real cinch. When unpacked these sports coast, suits, and slacks spring back into shape like a sweater. The idea is new and items are limited in the stores, but it's easy to predict a big future for wool jersey clothes.

WE'RE TAKING A CRUISE on the Great Lakes. These green and black plaid slacks in wool flannel are easy to live in. Pleatless. Cuffless. Merrill-Sharpe's knitted wool sports shirt is cool, weightless. Wife liked the outfit so much she bought an identical one in "her" size.

Healthy Trend Sweeping America; High Schoolers Now Dressing Up

CONTINUING in popularity is the "American Ambassador" silhouette. In a gray ombre stripe in a spring - weight wool, Fashion Park shows square shoulders and maintains a slim and long look.

The day when the junior-high and high-school boy thought the only way to dress was as sloppily as possible — in blue jeans and a leather jacket — is gone. To look like that today is "square." Today the young man wants to look like older brother at college. Nor can Mother take him to the store and buy his clothes for him. He knows exactly what he wants — the "Ivy League" look.

And it has to be authentic. He is aware not only of natural shoulders and no pleats in his trousers, but he wants, too, to have the traditional lap seams, hook vent in back, and flap back pockets on his trousers. There are young men's clothes in the new Continental silhouette, but until it becomes more popular on college campuses, the high school boy will insist on the traditional "Ivy League" mode in both his dress and sports clothes. We have to admit he looks mighty good dressed up his way!

His favorite Sunday suit right now may well be made out of all-wool hopsacking, a loose weave with a smart look, that, sure enough, is also being worn by brother at college. There are wool hopsackings for spring that weigh only 6½ to 7 ounces to the yard —they are really feather-weight. And you'd better pack that suit, too, when you go on vacation this summer. When you visit Disneyland and come into Los Angeles for dinner on La Cienega Boulevard, he'll want to look just as dressed up as Dad.

In his sports coats, too, he wants to emulate the university look. He likes a navy wool blazer, perhaps with an emblem on the chest pocket. Wool hopsacking is also a favorite in sports coats — and there are hopsacking blazers in black, red, white, and olive, as well as navy. The plaid sports coat is also currently popular, rapidly replacing stripes as a favorite pattern and the new combination colors are burgundy with black and olive with black.

A TOUCH OF COLOR

Another neat touch that has become popular are fancy linings in those hopsacking suits and navy blazers. These vary from paisley designs to rich stripes to solid bright reds, but they are all colorful and in good taste.

He chooses his sweater in the same way — in imitation of a campus favorite, the shetland. There are shaggy shetland sweaters that are very light in weight for spring, and they come in both the solid colors and in new, very wide horizontal stripes of two contrasting shades.

CUFFLESS TROUSERS

Mother will be pleased to know the cuffless trousers are getting to be the accepted mode among the grade and high school crowd. Cuffs are only dirt catchers anyway, and if the boys decide they like their pants slim and tapered and that leaving off cuffs heightens the trim look of "Ivy," so much the better.

This look is "the thing," even down on the ten - year - old level; they, too, have their hopsacking suits, their blazers, their plaid sports jackets, their pleatless flannels. It's a neat look and Mother is pleased about that, too. But more than anything, she appreciates the value of wool in the clothes of children who play in the yard, or sprawl on the floor when reading the comics, or stretch to contortions when jitterbugging at the high school prom. No one is harder on clothes than the younger members of the family and nothing can take the beating, yet look as good, as clothes made of wool.

All in all, it's very well-dressed young men you see in the neighborhood these days. There have even been instances where the son's recent interest in clothes has shamed Dad into going out and getting something new for his wardrobe.

SHAGGY SHETLAND sweater is a "must" in spring. Here's one in wide stripes that will retain good looks even in a baseball game. Black and olive-green are favored colors. By Alps Sportswear.

Neckties Have Bold Patterns

Many of the new neckties are flaunting bright Spring-like colors, bolder patterns and lighter shades. Among the top neckwear choices are shantungs, in both bright and dull silk surfaces. Stripes and plaids predominate. The under-knot pattern or design is headed for quite a comeback this season. These are the ties that show a distinctive pattern under the knot, and go well with striped, checked or plaided shirt fabrics.

Popular as ever are the neckties in both stripes and some new motifs. Along with the classic regimentals and club colors, there are some new off-shades that are particularly striking. Also important for spring are bright and cheerful white background ties with color splash designs.

FORCED TO STAND

Granderson was fined for discharging a firearm inside the city.

The shoeless - coatless body of Tomoko Takekawa, 27, a stewardess for British Overseas Airways Corp. (BOAC), was found Tuesday night in a lonely section of Tokyo's outskirts. An autopsy showed marks on her neck which police said indicated she probably was strangled.

THE TOGGERY Quality Clothes

211 DeSiard

Newly styled for dress are these slimly tapered shoes in smooth true brown leather with wing-tip effect in small perforations in vamp. Lightweight leather sole is cropped close to shoe's contour.

Soft brushed leather in dark gray is featured in these two-eyelet tie leisure shoes with popular stitched moc toe. Flexible leather sole is recessed under the arch for fashionable new effect.

Simply detailed for business wear are these two-eyelet bluchers in finely grained leather in the new true brown to go with dark blue suits. New note of particular fashion interest is the inverted seam.

Men's Suits Now Present Wide Choice

"Continental" is the word for the newest style trend in men's suits, this spring. Featured are jackets somewhat shorter than other styles, coming with two-buttons as well as three. Other Continental highlights include a wider, more rounded opening at the bottom of the coat front, side vents, flapped slant pockets, a choice of peaked, semi-peaked or notched lapels and an extra trim cut to the trousers.

For the man likes change in easy stages, there is also the modified Continental with center vent and straight pockets, with or without flaps.

Still very popular are the "Ivy" with its natural shoulders and straight-hanging sides, and the "American Ambassador," the middle-of-the-road suit with slight suppression at the waist, which will probably continue as number one seller in men's suits for this Spring.

Happily, therefore, today's male has three important spring styles to select from, all in excellent taste, each reflecting something of the wearer's attitude regarding his apparel.

Common to all styles is the narrow lapel and the slimline trousers. While the trousers of the Italian Continental do have pleats, there are only single pleats on either side of the front, and these are of modest depth.

'MIDWEIGHT' SUITS

The new season also introduces new "midweight" suits for days that are neither hot nor cold but in between the two. Hitherto, many men have shifted from winterweight clothes to summerweight before summer actually arrived, often because medium weight styles were in short supply and the choice was limited.

This Spring, the story is quite different. The new midweights come in a profusion of models and in all types of fabrics, including flannels, slick finished worsteds, hopsacking weaves and tweeds. Colors for the most part range in medium tones, in harmony with the season. Incidently, midweight suits are good for both Spring and Fall, just right for nippy, but not cold weather.

With respect to summerweight suits (which are lighter in weight and cooler than ever), medium shades appear to be crowding out last year's deeper tones, although the latter are still in evidence. Plain weaves, intricate patterns, plaids and the now-familiar iridescent effects are all in top favor.

The appearance of check patterns is something new this year—neat and small and subdued enough to cater to the most conservative tastes. Stripes and solids will continue in popularity.

Looming large on the spring style scene are the newest developments in wash-wear suits. Great attention has been given to precision balancing of the yarns that go into these suits, proper mill finishing and exacting care in construction of the garments themselves. Even the linings are specially woven and treated.

The result is just about perfect performance in washwear suits. Provided the owner follows the simple laundering instructions found on the sewn-in labels, they can be washed and "dripped dry" and ready for wear with little or no retouching.

TOPCOATS LIGHTER

Topcoats for Spring are lighter in weight and shorter in length. Fabrics include gabardines, shetlands, tweeds, covet cloths, and polos. Many models are tailored for a trim, slimming effect.

Sport jackets are fashioned for comfort in warm weather in lighter-than-ever wool fabrics, wash-wear fabrics or blends. Models range all the way from the traditional blazers in solid colors to jackets in bold checks and king-sized plaids.

Editor Objects To Castro As Press Speaker

NEW BEDFORD, Mass. (AP) — Charles J. Lewin, editor of the New Bedford Standard-Times, says Fidel Castro's schedule appearance before the American Society of Newspaper Editors "is an insult to many member editors."

Lewin sent a telegram yesterday to ASNE president George W. Healy Jr. of New Orleans in which he said:

"This is the first time in my 23 years as a member that ASNE has asked editors to honor a dictator who has ordered mass lynchings after fake trials."

The New Bedford editor said that in inviting the Cuban prime minister to speak at the ASNE's convention in Washington April 17, the society "is now joining television reportorial actors to present Castro propaganda to the people of the United States."

In New York, where he is attending a meeting of the Pulitzer Prize advisory board, Healy said Castro "was invited in the belief that we ought to take a look at him and he ought to take a look at us."

Healthy Trend Sweeping America; High Schoolers Now Dressing Up

CONTINUING in popularity is the "American Ambassador" silhouette. In a gray ombre stripe in a spring - weight wool, Fashion Park shows square shoulders and maintains a slim and long look.

Neckties Have Bold Patterns

Many of the new neckties are flaunting bright Spring-like colors, bolder patterns and lighter shades. Among the top neckwear choices are shantungs, in both bright and dull silk surfaces. Stripes and plaids predominate. The under-knot pattern or design is headed for quite a comeback this season. These are the ties that show a distinctive pattern under the knot, and go well with striped, checked or plaided shirt fabrics.

Popular as ever are the neckties in both stripes and some new motifs. Along with the classic regimentals and club colors, there are some new off-shades that are particularly striking. Also important for spring are bright and cheerful white background ties with color splash designs.

The day when the junior-high and high-school boy thought the only way to dress was as sloppily as possible — in blue jeans and a leather jacket — is gone. To look like that today is "square." Today the young man wants to look like older brother at college. Nor can Mother take him to the store and buy his clothes for him. He knows exactly what he wants — the "Ivy League" look.

And it has to be authentic. He is aware not only of natural shoulders and no pleats in his trousers, but he wants, too, to have the traditional lap seams, hook vent in back, and flap back pockets on his trousers. There are young men's clothes in the new Continental silhouette, but until it becomes more popular on college campuses, the high school boy will insist on the traditional "Ivy League" mode in both his dress and sports clothes. We have to admit he looks mighty good dressed up his way!

His favorite Sunday suit right now may well be made out of all-wool hopsacking, a loose weave with a smart look, that, sure enough, is also being worn by brother at college. There are wool hopsackings for spring that weigh only 6½ to 7 ounces to the yard —they are really feather-weight. And you'd better pack that suit, too, when you go on vacation this summer. When you visit Disneyland and come into Los Angeles for dinner on La Cienega Boulevard, he'll want to look just as dressed up as Dad.

In his sports coats, too, he wants to emulate the university look. He likes a navy wool blazer, perhaps with an emblem on the chest pocket. Wool hopsacking is also a favorite in sports coats — and there are hopsacking blazers in black, red, white, and olive, as well as navy. The plaid sports coat is also currently popular, rapidly replacing stripes as a favorite pattern and the new combination colors are burgundy with black and olive with black.

A TOUCH OF COLOR

Another neat touch that has become popular are fancy linings in those hopsacking suits and navy blazers. These vary from paisley designs to rich stripes to solid bright reds, but they are all colorful and in good taste.

He chooses his sweater in the same way — in imitation of a campus favorite, the shetland. There are shaggy shetland sweaters that are very light in weight for spring, and they come in both the solid colors and in new, very wide horizontal stripes of two contrasting shades.

CUFFLESS TROUSERS

Mother will be pleased to know the cuffless trousers are getting to be the accepted mode among the grade and high school crowd. Cuffs are only dirt catchers anyway, and if the boys decide they like their pants slim and tapered and that leaving off cuffs heightens the trim look of "Ivy," so much the better.

This look is "the thing," even down on the ten - year - old level; they, too, have their hopsacking suits, their blazers, their plaid sports jackets, their pleatless flannels. It's a neat look and Mother is pleased about that, too. But more than anything, she appreciates the value of wool in the clothes of children who play in the yard, or sprawl on the floor when reading the comics, or stretch to contortions when jitterbugging at the high school prom. No one is harder on clothes than the younger members of the family and nothing can take the beating, yet look as good, as clothes made of wool.

All in all, it's very well-dressed young men you see in the neighborhood these days. There have even been instances where the son's recent interest in clothes has shamed Dad into going out and getting something new for his wardrobe.

FORCED TO STAND

His old friend shot him in the seat of the pants with a small-bore shotgun, Jones said.

Granderson was fined for discharging a firearm inside the city.

The shoeless - coatless body of Tomoko Takekawa, 27, a stewardess for British Overseas Airways Corp. (BOAC), was found Tuesday night in a lonely section of Tokyo's outskirts. An autopsy showed marks on her neck which police said indicated she probably was strangled.

SHAGGY SHETLAND sweater is a "must" in spring. Here's one in wide stripes that will retain good looks even in a baseball game. Black and olive-green are favored colors. By Alps Sportswear.

ARE YOUR SLACKS out of style? New this spring are front pockets and side adjustments. Breeze-weight wool slacks go beltless, cuffless and pleatless — yet hold a press.

Front Pockets Take Over Wool Slacks

Have you taken a close look at your slacks lately? Chances are, if you compare them to the new exceptionally lightweight worsteds now in men's shops, you'll notice a marked difference in styling.

The slacks in your closet are probably more fully cut, with double pleats on each side of zipper, have conventional pockets, and of course, come with a buckled backstrap. To borrow an old phrase, all these details are old hat — and date them as yesteryear's.

SLIM LOOK LEADS

Let's see what's new. Your eye is directed first to the unusual styling of the waistband and pockets. Let's take the waistband first. Most new worsted slacks come without belt loops, for the emphasis today is on trim extension waistbands and side tabs that make you look slim. You'll marvel at how they fit more comfortably around your waist, and without pleats, provide you with a trimmer appearance. And these cool wool tropicals have the ability to "give" with your body movements yet retain their neat shape. Golfers, take note!

Now, about pockets. They've finally dared to make the move to the front of the trouser. West of the Mississippi, they're proudly called "frontier" pockets, but east of the Great Divide, it's something to do with the new Italian influence that's making a tremendous change in the styling of clothing for us, Americans. And it's a welcome change, too.

You'll find these new sports slacks in the coolest wool-worsteds, some practically tissue-thin, and in patterns. Miniature checks and muted plaids are taking the place of drab solids. They're the perfect complement to a navy flannel blazer. One last word. Have them tailored cuffless for the "new" look.

SOME PEOPLE are surprised to learn that many of Hathaway's most attractive shirts cost well under $10.

This antique English print, for example, costs $6.95. Yet it has all of Hathaway's exemplary workmanship. Hand-turned collar. Nearly invisible single-needle stitching. And note the way Hathaway's pattern matches perfectly at pockets, cuffs, and across the front.

The shirt bottom is cut straight like a jacket, so you can wear it outside your trousers.

BIG SPRING WEEKEND, and the pretty miss can't decide because both dates are dressed in the masterful manner in easy-to-look-at tropical wool sports coats. Chap, with straw hat, is counting on his ombre striped, gray and burgundy cool wool blazer. From Cricketeer. But chap, with smile, exudes confidence in a gray and maroon check tropical. Pockets have new lap seam, no flap By Mavest. Pretty miss in Isetta wears bright coral wool sweater.

VARIATION OF A COLLEGE TRADITION — The low-holer lamb's wool cardigan in char-gray trimmed with red and black diamond panels. Come spring, and undergrads gladly shed heavy jackets for these cardigans and also Shetland pullovers. Both are essential.

Right Clothes At College Could Mean Good Position

"Interviewers will be on campus May 14 and 15," says the college newspaper, and the seniors take notice. Every spring corporations comb the graduating classes of American universities for boys who show not only good academic records, but personality, poise and leadership possibilities.

The student's clothes make a difference. Surveys of corporation executives have over and over again proved that the appearance of a man has a lot to do with management's evaluation of him —and how much more so with a first interview, when opening impressions mean so much.

THE 'IVY LEAGUE' LOOK

Once dress might have been a problem for the college man—he may have worn just anything, not caring about clothes, not even owning a good suit. But that time has long passed. The college man knows exactly how he likes to dress — the "Ivy League" look has swept the country and boys on campuses in California or Michigan or Alabama wear very much the same dress as those on Eastern college campuses. It's the wool suit without padding in the shoulder, straight - hanging lines, no trouser pleats. And the college man — tall and slim — looks good in his suit.

He likes plain dark colors or perhaps a stripe or a subdued plaid. The black wool suit is rapidly replacing dark gray or navy as his "best" suit. Though wool flannels are still a favorite, he's now tending toward worsted flannels and all wool - worsteds with a harder finish — they keep their press beautifully and keep, too, his pressing bills to a minimum.

While the college man is conservative in his suits, he is getting more and more uninhibited in his sportswear. The madras craze was college inspired and one of the smartest of the new sports jackets is a lightweight wool in a madras plaid. Plaids and checks have taken the lead away from stripes in sports jackets, and large plaids, too, in startling color combinations, like blue with olive, burgundy with black, royal blue with brown, and mustard with black.

THE BLAZER

The blazer is still the college man's current favorite in a sports jacket. The single-breasted model in navy is most popular, but there are double-breasted models, there are blazers in red, white, black, and olive, and there are breeze-weight wool blazers, too, in wide "blazer" stripes — all with the traditional metal buttons.

Slacks, too, look different. The back buckle has all but disappeared, and most wool trousers will have flapped back pockets. New beltless models in all wool flannel with side extension bands are growing popular. The more fashion - conscious college man will wear his slacks without cuffs, and for real summer rakishness there are slim, pleatless tropical-worsted slacks in bold plaids and checks, that look best worn with a solid - color wool blazer.

Whether the summer finds him at his first serious job, or taking it easy till the fall term starts, the college man will be recognized by his "educated dress."

THIS IS THE SUIT collegians wear on spring weekends. The "Natural Shoulder" in a lighter gray tone and in a lighter wool is styled for young men on campus, many of whom prefer conservative fashions that do not make the look conspicuous.

338 DESIARD · MONROE LA

Newly styled for dress are these slimly tapered shoes in smooth true brown leather with wing-tip effect in small perforations in vamp. Lightweight leather sole is cropped close to shoe's contour.

Soft brushed leather in dark gray is featured in these two-eyelet tie leisure shoes with popular stitched moc toe. Flexible leather sole is recessed under the arch for fashionable new effect.

Simply detailed for business wear are these two-eyelet bluchers in finely grained leather in the new true brown to go with dark blue suits. New note of particular fashion interest is the inverted seam.

Men's Suits Now Present Wide Choice

"Continental" is the word for the newest style trend in men's suits, this spring. Featured are jackets somewhat shorter than other styles, coming with two-buttons as well as three. Other Continental highlights include a wider, more rounded opening at the bottom of the coat front, side vents, flapped slant pockets, a choice of peaked, semi-peaked or notched lapels and an extra trim cut to the trousers.

For the man likes change in easy stages, there is also the modified Continental with center vent and straight pockets, with or without flaps.

Still very popular are the "Ivy" with its natural shoulders and straight-hanging sides, and the "American Ambassador," the middle-of-the-road suit with slight suppression at the waist, which will probably continue as number one seller in men's suits for this Spring.

Happily, therefore, today's male has three important spring styles to select from, all in excellent taste, each reflecting something of the wearer's attitude regarding his apparel.

Common to all styles is the narrow lapel and the slimline trousers. While the trousers of the Italian Continental do have pleats, there are only single pleats on either side of the front, and these are of modest depth.

'MIDWEIGHT' SUITS

The new season also introduces new "midweight" suits for days that are neither hot nor cold but in between the two. Hitherto, many men have shifted from winterweight clothes to summerweight before summer actually arrived, often because medium weight styles were in short supply and the choice was limited.

This Spring, the story is quite different. The new midweights come in a profusion of models and in all types of fabrics, including flannels, slick finished worsteds, hopsacking weaves and tweeds. Colors for the most part range in medium tones, in harmony with the season. Incidently, midweight suits are good for both Spring and Fall, just right for nippy, but not cold weather.

With respect to summerweight suits (which are lighter in weight and cooler than ever), medium shades appear to be crowding out last year's deeper tones, although the latter are still in evidence. Plain weaves, intricate patterns, plaids and the now-familiar iridescent effects are all in top favor.

The appearance of check patterns is something new this year—neat and small and subdued enough to cater to the most conservative tastes. Stripes and solids will continue in popularity.

Looming large on the spring style scene are the newest developments in wash-wear suits. Great attention has been given to precision balancing of the yarns that go into these suits, proper mill finishing and exacting care in construction of the garments themselves. Even the linings are specially woven and treated.

The result is just about perfect performance in washwear suits. Provided the owner follows the simple laundering instructions found on the sewn-in labels, they can be washed and "dripped dry" and ready for wear with little or no retouching.

TOPCOATS LIGHTER

Topcoats for Spring are lighter in weight and shorter in length. Fabrics include gabardines, shetlands, tweeds, covet cloths, and polos. Many models are tailored for a trim, slimming effect.

Sport jackets are fashioned for comfort in warm weather in lighter-than-ever wool fabrics, wash-wear fabrics or blends. Models range all the way from the traditional blazers in solid colors to jackets in bold checks and king-sized plaids.

Slacks range from the still popular "Ivy" models with back-flap pockets to the new Continentals, featuring a single pleat cut, trim lines, polo pockets and other interesting details.

Editor Objects To Castro As Press Speaker

NEW BEDFORD, Mass. (AP) — Charles J. Lewin, editor of the New Bedford Standard-Times, says Fidel Castro's schedule appearance before the American Society of Newspaper Editors "is an insult to many member editors."

Lewin sent a telegram yesterday to ASNE president George W. Healy Jr. of New Orleans in which he said:

"This is the first time in my 23 years as a member that ASNE has asked editors to honor a dictator who has ordered mass lynchings after fake trials."

The New Bedford editor said that in inviting the Cuban prime minister to speak at the ASNE's convention in Washington April 17, the society "is now joining television reportorial actors to present Castro propaganda to the people of the United States."

In New York, where he is attending a meeting of the Pulitzer Prize advisory board, Healy said Castro "was invited in the belief that we ought to take a look at him and he ought to take a look at us."

Sports Clothes Tops In Spring

Here's information on what's new in sports wear this spring and summer. We've carefully checked the stores, bearing in mind easy - to - wear and easy to-care-for spring wool clothes. Leading sportsmen, too, were quizzed. Now we're passing on to you what the experts have told us.

Whether you're interested in golf, skeet - shooting, tennis, sailing, or just relaxin' in the sun, the new warm - weather fashions are styled right for around the clock.

CHECK LIST FOR GOLFERS

Basic to a golfer's wardrobe are cool wool slacks in neat black and white hound's tooth checks and bold plaids. They're a welcome change from gray flannel. The new wool tropicals are practically tissue thin, yet the sturdy wool fiber holds its shape. The weaves are porous enough to allow for circulation of air to keep you cool and comfortable on the green. For sportsmen new to the game, golf slacks are fuller at the knee, come with extension waistbands which don't cut into the waist the way a belt may. Ask any golf pro at any club and he'll tell you to look for slacks with extra - deep pockets with places for holding tees, and even a loop for your towel.

That golfing shirt should be in a porous knit that will "give" as you swing the club. Knitted wool shirts not only do this, but also "spring" back into shape. They absorb perspiration, keep you dry and comfortable as only a natural fiber can, and their dyes don't run. Wear blue this spring because it's the big color and the coolest looking.

Whatever the sport, a light-on-the-shoulder hip jacket helps prevent chills afterward. The new short jackets come in neat brown and white checks, oyster white wool gabardines. And they're water - repellent, some Syl - mer treated — to protect you during a sudden spring shower.

CONTINENTAL BLAZER FOR YACHTSMEN

The yachtsman, in particular, should bear in mind the double-breasted wool flannel blazer in navy. What to look for? Deep side vents, slaned flapped pockets and a semi - peaked lapel. Whether your craft is docked on the Great Lakes, on Long Island Sound, or near the Golden Gate, you'll earn the accolades of your crew if you contrast the navy blazer with a hound's tooth check or muted plaid wool flannel slacks.

Skin - divers, water - skiers, and those who stick to the old-fashioned breast - stroke, will find the new wool jersey trunks that the college lads are wearing easiest to swim in. They are cut brief. They come in checks and stripes. Once on land, wool jersey dries in a matter of minutes.

'True Brown' Is Dominant Color In Men's Shoes

"True Brown" is the dominant color note in men's leather shoes this spring. True brown shoes, with no reddish undertone, are the ideal color go-together with lighter blue suits and slacks in fashion this season.

Versatile true brown leather is just as correct with leisure fabrics of paisley and batik prints. And, of course, it blends smoothly with a muted brown business suit.

Blue slacks and jackets are set off neatly by the woody colors like olivewood, dark oak and hemlock — a brown with a fine-lined bark-like grain. The newest tones — buckeye and club brown — are welcome accents with all except the most formal fashions.

The spring shoe silhouette has the Americanized continental look, which is slightly tapered. Square toes will be popular with supple, sturdy leather soles underlining the gently blunted toe.

Interpreted in softer grain leathers and modified to fit the American foot, fashion-setting dress casuals carry through the slim lightweight trend that teams comfort with a dressed up appearance. Dress shoes are available in soft grained and smooth leathers, Morocco, Morocco-and-grain combinations, boarded leathers and Cordovan.

Detailing such as perforated wing tips, centerline seams and novelty stitching adds flair and swagger to an all-leather shoe. Hand stitching innovations, like guantone, give a simple mocassin front a custom-made air.

Equally "right" for dress-up, the blucher has been streamlined. From its plain toe, centerline seam breaks the severity of a grained leather upper.

Brighter Look In Spring Hats Now Available

Hats for Spring are following the color trend to medium shades this season, and as a result, they're brighter and more cheerful.

Styles and shapes have undergone a few changes, too — with shapes a bit smaller and brims showing a "deep - dish" effect.

In harmony with the lighter-shade trend in suits and coats, the season's hats are in hues of gray, brown and green, among others. Some are in a mixture of these hues, with none predominating. Many of these springtime lightweight felts, incidentally, are crushable. The traveling man can squeeze one into a suitcase, and out it comes looking as good as ever at journey's end.

For dress-up wear this Spring, black felts are at the top of the list. The use of black has also spread to some sport hats, especially those with colorful bands and feather trims.

Hat shapes range all the way from the center - crease style favored by "Ivy" fans to the familiar Tyrolean sports types. The center - dent shape, introduced last Fall, remains in favor. Many men will also like the Tele-pinch shapes seen in recent seasons.

NEWSPAPER SUSPENDED

ANKARA, Turkey (UPI) —The newspaper Ulu was suspended for one month and its editor, Ulku Arman, was sentenced to 16 months imprisonment Wednesday for publishing a story critical of the government. The paper's attorneys said the decision will be appealed.

I'M GLAD I'm nine. I get lots of attention. Here I am in the park. It's Easter Sunday, and I'm in a new suit — and it fits. It's real Ivy like my big brother's in wool herringbone. By Airansun.

TRIP OF A LIFETIME, and we're glad we've packed the right sports clothes for our holiday in Europe. My gray shadow-check, zephyr-weight wool sports blazer is great for traipsing around the Queen Mary. Fellow passengers tell me I'll get lots of mileage out of it later on because European days and nights are cool. Pockets sport inverted pleats, something different.

TWO WEEKS FUN IN THE SUN, and these cool white flannel walk-shorts fill the bill on board ship and when sight-seeing in port. They're all-wool, hold a press, shed dirt and are pleatless. From Dunlee. Shirt's a knitted wool jersey, very cool, doesn't wrinkle. The black front panel is a smart contrast to the gray body. Short-sleeved for summer comfort.

WOOL IS GOOD IDEA

Pack Crush-Proof Clothes For Summer European Trip

Who hasn't been to Europe these days? It seems everyone has either been or is planning on going. The new jet flights make it from New York to London in 6½ hours, which is about the time it takes to drive from Cincinnati to Cleveland. Of course, many people who are in no hurry like the relaxation of a boat — for nothing makes one let go more than being in the middle of the oceans on, say, one of the luxurious Queens.

Packing seems to be a task most people dread; there is no reason to. If people enjoy planning their trip in every other way —pouring over maps and deciding what cities they want to see in their allotted time — there is no reason planning a travel wardrobe shouldn't be just as much fun. You just decide what you need and what you want to take to be able to enjoy your stay, lay everything out, and pack it carefully, the big items in first, the smaller items tucked into a corner or into shoes or slippers.

PACK WOOL

The best tip you can give any man planning a trip abroad is to pack wool. Europe's climate is not our own; even in the summer, many parts of Britain and the Continent are chilly at night, and you'll find snow in many parts of the Alps; the best way to feel secure and prepared is to take wool clothing, which will keep you comfortable during the day, warm during the evening. And of course, nothing retains its shape like wool — so that packing and hard use will still allow your clothes to look fresh and neat.

JERSEY SLACKS STAY FRESH

One of the best pieces of news for a man's travel wardrobe is the introduction of knitted wool jersey — in sports jackets, suits, and even slacks. These clothes spring out as fresh as when they were packed, just as your favorite wool sweater does. And there are no wrinkles.

And you'd best take a wool sweater or two with you — one long sleeve and one short sleeve. The long sleeve sweater will be perfect for the day when you want to hike around the Lake Country or stroll through the fishing villages of Portugal; and a sleeveless sweater slipped under your jacket can take the chill off at night. A wool shirt is a good thing to pack, too — for comfort when relaxing at your Tyrolean chalet in Austria. We recommend, too, taking along a short topcoat —just in case. If you are going to stay on through the cool months, there are topcoats with button - in wool linings that can double as a robe.

SPORTS COATS ARE ESSENTIAL

You'll wear a sports jacket often — when driving through the villages of Southern Italy or visiting the Chateaux of the Loire. It would be well to take more than one, if you can manage it — a wool Norfolk, say, for a real country gentleman's feel, and a little dressier jacket, like a wool tweed or a plaid, plus a very sporty one, like very lightweight wool two - button striped blazer for your days on the Riviera. And be sure to pack wool socks — you'll be glad you did for all that heavy walking, especially in the countryside.

Of course you'll need suits — for all your evenings in Europe's sophisticated cities. Before you leave might be a good time to buy your first Continental suit, certainly in the spirit of your trip and sure to look very elegant and suave.

If you are taking a cruise, by the way, it is a custom that the first night out, and also the last, a black tuxedo is worn. A black worsted dinner jacket — even in the summer — is really more practical for any lengthy trip. The peak lapel dinner jacket has returned and would be a wise choice for your journey.

If you are taking a cruise to South America, as you know, it will be winter down under while we're enjoying summer here. You'll want to pack accordingly —plenty of warm wool clothing. Any extensive cruise will pass through so many climates, it is much safer to have wool clothes in your wardrobe trunk.

Warm weather sports wear features lightweight fabrics and bright colors, as in this sport coat with burgundy and gold on navy. Fabric is blend of "Dacron" and cotton.

The Italian Continental is exemplified here in an all-wool tropical worsted suit in a black and navy stripe. Note two-button, deep cut-away front, narrow lapel.

GIVE ME A 'NORFOLK' JACKET in a cool, loosely-woven wool Shetland, and I'll wear it every day on vacation. What I like is smart appearance, comfortable fit.

WE SNAPPED YOU. Now you snap us in our new wool sports coats. Bruce, on steps, wears a lustrous gray and silver check wool blazer that's lighter than a pound of feathers. My jacquard weave wool sports coat comes in a neat diamond pattern.

WE'RE TAKING A CRUISE on the Great Lakes. These green and black plaid slacks in wool flannel are easy to live in. Pleatless. Cuffless. Merrill-Sharpe's knitted wool sports shirt is cool, weightless. Wife liked the outfit so much she bought an identical one in "her" size.

Shirts For '59 Have Accent On Color, Comfort

New self-ventilating fabrics tell the story — tiny air vents in the fabric that can't be seen with anything short of a microscope. However, they do the twin job of making a man look his best at business or other work, while at the same time keeping him cool and comfortable.

Short-sleeved shirts, so much in demand last year, are making a bigger impact than ever this year and will be worn widely by men who demand comfort along with style when the thermometer reaches its mid-summer peaks.

Built for comfort, the new shirts for this season are fashioned for handsome good looks as well — in solid colors, or stripes and fancy patterns. Collar styles include the popular button-down, English tabs, pin tabs, wide or modified spreads round pin tabs and the low-set vanishing band types.

Sports shirts are making their appearance in a dazzling variety, to be worn either as tuck-ins or outside the slacks. Among these styles are cardigan shirts, jacket types, trimmed-down pull-overs and shirts with fly-fronts that hide the buttons.

Stripes, plaids and check will continue to be popular, but they are supplemented this year by a new accent on "wood-cut" prints, neat foulard patterns, and solid colors with an iridescent sheen. As to color, blue is the word this year — blue in all shades from the pale sky tints to deep navy.

STRIPES ARE starred in this new sport shirt for spring, made of "miracle" cotton, which requires little ironing. Collar can be worn opened or closed (black knit tie suggested).

WOOL IS IDEAL

Comfort Is Key To The Traveler

Most families like to take their vacation in a car. There's plenty of room for the kids, the dog, all the clothes, the baby's favorite toys — everything can be put in somewhere. You stop when you want, you eat and sleep where you want; you are your own boss. And the family has its fun together.

Whether this year you plan a long drive to the National Parks of the West or to a lake sixty miles from home, you want to take the right clothes with you. If you don't plan a proper wardrobe a lot of the enjoyment of a vacation can be spoiled.

COMFORT IN HIS CLOTHES

When a man travels, he likes to be comfortable. When driving, he wears a sports shirt, and walk-shorts or slacks — all lightweight, uninhibited in color. When he goes away for a vacation, he takes a suit for evening, a sports jacket and a sweater, just in case. He prefers wool, because it holds up through a trip, always looks neater and fresher, makes him feel comfortable but well - dressed.

Walk - shorts — most popularly worn with knitted wool shirts this summer — come in all the brightest colors and in white and black. New are the lightweight wools with patterns, everything from stripes to plaids to novelty prints. The same is true of slacks — one of the smartest resort outfits this summer will be a pair of plaid worsted slacks worn with a solid-color wool blazer. Husband and wife can find matching "his and hers" walk - shorts and slacks, too, for a "togetherness" ensemble that will keep your friends talking.

BIGGEST COLOR: BLUE

The color you will see most this spring and summer is blue — in all shades from deepest navy to light copen blue. It will often be contrasted with white — for example, white slacks with a blue pullover shirt. But the high fashion colors are the yellows — mustard, lemon, bronze, brass —and they will look best, of course, worn with browns.

Low - holers — three or four buttons placed low to create a deep V-opening — are the smartest styling in both wool sweaters and leisure jackets. Many have shawl collars, but the newest style jacket has no collar — a cardigan effect that is cooler in hot weather, a very sensible design. Knitted wool sweater - shirts are another welcome innovation, worn outside the trousers, very casual and comfortable, again usually in cardigan style.

THE ODD JACKET

When travelling, it's good to have one sports jacket hanging in the back of the car that you can slip on when you have lunch or stop to inquire about motel rates. A wool blazer is the most versatile jacket — it's sporty, yet has a neat and tailored look. Also be sure to pack a lamb's wool sleeveless sweater, just in case it gets chilly when you drive up into the high Sierra mountains.

Have you seen the new Velcro closure on sweaters, jackets, slacks, and just about every other item of apparel you can think of?

It eliminated buttons, zippers, or snaps. Two pieces of tape mesh together for a firm closure, so that you can close your jacket with a pat of your hand and peel it open just as easily. Almost every men's store and men's department will have stock to demonstrate.

YOUR TRAVEL SUIT

If you are roughing it on a camping trip in Maine, a sports coat will probably be the dressiest clothes you will need. But if you plan on visiting Washington or San Francisco as part of your vacation you will feel much more comfortable if you take a suit. Pack carefully and it will lie flat, take up little room in the suit-case and hang out beautifully — if it's wool. Your tropical - weight worsteds are light and comfortable, yet tailor perfectly; you'll feel assured and relaxed in the smartest restaurants and supper clubs of any city.

Wool jersey is something new this year that makes packing a real cinch. When unpacked these sports coast, suits, and slacks spring back into shape like a sweater. The idea is new and items are limited in the stores, but it's easy to predict a big future for wool jersey clothes.

Your Sports Coat Out-Of-Style?

In the summer the family spends as much time out-of-doors as it can. If a man is in his own backyard, a pair of shorts and a shirt are all he needs to wear, but when the barbecue is at one's neighbor's, or the family decides to have dinner in the country or go to an air-conditioned movie, the first thing a man reaches for is his wool sports coat. He'll wear a tie if he has to, but his sports coat is a must.

Men are practical (in spite of what their wives may think!). They want comfort above all. And sports coats for summer are so lightweight and comfortable, they hardly feel any heavier on one's shoulders than a shirt. The smartest patterns are found in all-wool jackets that weigh only about one pound!

THE BLAZER

The wool blazer is going to be even more popular this summer than last. In navy it looks fine with white slacks or the new check and plaid slacks you'll see this season. But there are also striped blazers, and white and red blazers, and double - breasted blazers — all with the fancy metal buttons.

There will be many new styles in lightweight wool sports coats this year. The once popular Norfolk has returned, both in the traditional model and one with a yoke front. There are hacking jacket models — with slanted pockets, a ticket pocket and side vents — usually in bold checks and plaids. The new Italian Continental silhouette can be found in featherweight wool sports jackets, too — a shorter coat with two buttons and a cutaway front. Many jackets show novel pocket treatments — like curved V-shaped button flaps.

The patterns are bolder than last season — wide panel stripes, oversize plaids, madras type plaids in wool, and even wool challis and paisley patterns. And colors are brighter — mustards, reds, and multiple - color plaids and checks. The sports jackets are bold and cheerful, in tune with the summer sun and the fun of vacation and outdoor living this July and August.

THE CARDIGAN JACKET

Becoming more popular for warm weather are cardigan-jackets, with no lapels — extra light, very comfortable, and sensible for hot July days. You will find cardigan wool blazers in one button styling in all colors. Favorite fabrics are the cool open basket weaves and wool hopsackings.

Sports clothes take a lot of punishment in the summertime—it is wool that keeps its shape, wears best, and keeps you comfortable both in the hottest sun and the cooler evenings. And only wool has that noble look of a real gentleman's sports coat.

For all but the dressiest occasions, in summer it is a lightweight wardrobe friend.

Sportswear For Spring Is Colorful

As bracing as a Spring tonic is the 1959 range of masculine sportswear. In addition to colorful good looks, these garments for fun and leisure also boast new greater comfort and ease. And greater use of "science" fibers in the fabrics makes for easier care, says the American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear.

A quick run-down of what's new for and in tune with 1959 starts with sports jackets, fashioned in lighter than ever wool fabrics, wash - wear cottons, man - made fabrics, or blends of any or all of these. All are designed for that basic consideration: to keep cool in the hottest weather, and to look smart and crisp at all times.

As for the good looks, the jackets range all the way from the traditional blazers in solid colors, to bold checks and kingsized plaids. The muted tones of India madras are also in favor.

Fans of wool will find lightweight hopsacking weaves attractive, while other men will prefer the sleekness and sophistication of silk coats. Flannel blazers never go out of style, and this year will be found in solid colors, stripes, and again solids with contrasting piping.

The same variety and appeal are to be found in the range of sports slacks, with Ivy models heading the list for many. Some of these feature backflap pockets, English-inspired self-supporting beltless slacks, and the new-as-tomorrow "Continentals" which are distinguished by their single-pleat cut, slim lines, polo pockets and side tabs, among other features.

The growing demand for wash-wear slacks brings about a greater variety of them than ever. There are even wash-wear, featherlight flannel slacks this year, ready to wear after laundering and drip-drying. Other models include slacks with that now-familiar iridescent sheen effect and a great variety of patterned types that go with solid colored blazers.

It's a safe prediction that more men will turn out in walking shorts this year than ever, with Bermuda lengths or slightly longer versions getting the preference.

Sweaters continue to enjoy their great revival, with cardigans among the standouts. These feature button-up fronts among other styles, and are woven in lightweight wools, "science" yarns and cottons — or blends. Crew-necked bulky knits are showing in great profusion this Spring, along with V-neck styles, all in a range of colors and patterns that are open invitation to the leisure life.

Beachwear for 1959 is highlighted by a range of knit briefs, elasticized shorts, midlength boxer shorts and the new, long legged surf riders. As complements, cabana sets are available in great variety, with matching shirts and trunks in terry cloth and other cottons. Look also for terry lined beach coats and the new toweling cloth "ponchos" for comfortable dry-offs after a plunge in the surf, lake or pool.

GETS SIX MONTHS

ELSINORE, Calif. (AP) — A judge has sentenced the son of a prominent Lake Elsinore family to six months in jail for starting one of California's largest brush fires with an incendiary bullet.

Jerry H. Stewart, 21, was also fined $150 and placed on three years probation by Judge Stanley S. Root.

The fire, which took one life, swept 66,000 acres in three counties in the Cleveland National Forest Area last Dec. 14-17.

ENTIRELY NEW LOOK in men's worsted suits for spring '59 is the "Italian Continental." It's completely different in styling from any other silhouette. Already popular abroad, the "Italian Continental" in fine spring-weight worsteds is first making its appearance in these United States this spring. Here's what makes it different. . . the shorter coat with front rounded and more cutaway below lower button (only two buttons on jacket), slight waist suppression, angled pockets, rounded notches. Jacket has deep side vents. Note cuffless trousers. They're trimmer, more practical.

FOR MODERN JET AGE

New 'Italian Continental' Worsted Suit Travels Well

Five and one - half hours actual flying time between New York and Los Angeles on the new jets, and chances are the wool suit you have on at departure time from New York's Idlewild International will see you through important business appointments in Los Angeles that very same day. With distances between cities growing shorter, it's most important for executives to wear the newest styles in fine wool-worsted suits, in up-to-date wool clothes that are right at home wherever business takes you.

THREE MODELS

Here's what the top styles in men's medium - weight worsted suits will be this spring '59 . . . the Italian Continental, the American Ambassador, and the Natural Shoulder.

Newest entry is the Italian Continental. It originated in Rome only last fall among style-conscious businessmen. The true Italian influence is seen first in the length of the two - button worsted jacket: it's much shorter than other models, more cutaway, and has side vents. You'll notice, too, the definite shape to the silhouette. Pockets are angled, flapless. Lapels come semi - peaked. And trousers, which are beltless and held up with side adjustments are tapered, pleatless. We predict you'll wear them cuffless.

COOL BLUE IS NEW

You'll see the new Italian Continental in trans - season wool-worsteds comfortably thin for spring's warm - days and cool nights. If you're a travelin' man, you'll appreciate the way they hold a press. You'll admire the new smooth irridescent jacquard weaves in all shades of blue, the small checks in gray, and brown ombre stripes . . . shades and patterns which make the Italian Continental a handsome suit to own — and to wear.

LESS THAN A POUND the Shetland wool topper in the new shorter length is the perfect trans-season coat. Smart - looking in a brown diagonal stripe, it's the easiest-wearing coat for business and jet travel because it's wrinkle-resistant.

AMBASSADOR POPULAR

The American Ambassador, which made a favorable impression a few seasons back, continues to grow in popularity with mature businessmen throughout the country. The three - button American Ambassador in worsted emphasizes squarer shoulders, an indented jacket, flapped pockets, and slim trousers with single pleats. Trousers are worn cuffed. Easterners favor medium to dark shades. On the Pacific Coast, light to medium shades are more popular. Midwesterners and southerners go in for these tones, too.

WOOL HOPSACKING

The suit that did most to bring men's fashions to the fore is the Natural Shoulder which many call an "Ivy" suit because it was first worn by Ivy school graduates. Of the three, it's the most conservative in styling. This spring, commuting suburbanites will want to wear the Natural Shoulder in wool hopsacking that looks right in town and country.

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — A man with a flair for luck parlayed a $10 bill into $112,000 at a casino dice table here, according to a "Strip" hotel official.

Ivan Annenberg said the unidentified man held the dominoes for one hour and 55 minutes Tuesday night, one of the longest dice runs in Flamingo Hotel history. Annnberg, following hotel policy, would not identify the man.

FOR MEN'S SUITS

Lighter Colors Are Seen Soon

Why is it a man will wear red slacks, a yellow shirt, and a bold patterened sports coat on the weekend, but on Monday he wears a dark gray suit, a white shirt, and a subdued tie to the office, and would think it outrageous to wear anything "louder"? Sometimes it seems men's suit styles and colors are unalterably drab-looking.

But this summer there is real news in men's suits! In color, in styling, and in weight.

LIGHTER COLORS FOR SPRING

For too many years now men have been wearing dark colors all year round. This summer, suit colors are going lighter — and after wearing black and dark grays and charcoal browns in the cold months, a man will be able to join in some of nature's spring-time gaiety by putting on a light gray or blue suit, or a tan one. And it's about time

Men's summer suits are now being made in such fabulously lightweight tropical worsteds — 5½ to 6 ounces to the yard — that a man can really look forward to comfort on even the hottest days. Wrinkle - resistant worsted feather - weight suits are the perfect choice for July days because the more open weave construction of wool means it can best take the transition from hot streets to air-cooled offices. And nothing tailors like wool — even these almost see-through weights. Or keeps its press and fresh look, even on the most humid days.

THE CONTINENTAL LOOK

The new look in suits is the Continental silhouette. Inspired by Italian suit design, this model means a shorter jacket with a coat front that is cutaway and rounded, with some waist suppression, and slanted pockets. Most Continental models will have two buttons rather than three and peak lapels rather than the notch lapels we have been accustomed to the past few years. The more high fashion models will have cuffed sleeves, no cuffs on the trousers, and no chest pocket. The shorter jacket makes a short man look leggier, taller, yet it looks good on a tall, thin man, too. The man with a paunch, however, had best try a modified version, because of the cutaway front.

The most popular suit model this spring and summer will be the American Ambassador model. Inspired by California designers, this suit coat will have a squarer shoulder with a forward pitch to the sleeve — which is a flattering silhouette to the man of mature proportions. The three buttons will be placed fairly close together below a long rolling lapel with a small notch.

THE "IVY LEAGUE" LOOK

The college man and the young executive will continue to champion the Natural Shoulder model, or so-called "Ivy League" look— with no padding in the shoulders, straight-hanging lines, and three buttons . . . a trim look flattering to today's weight - conscious male.

In wool and worsted suits you can find your widest range of patterns. Stripes and solids will still be most popular, but there are many elegant patterns available — muted plaids, ombre stripes, jacquard weaves. The man who buys a Continental model suit will also want an unusual pattern — like the shepherd checks being shown.

American men are in a dress-up mood, and American women are very happy with the news

New Topcoats Are Lighter And Shorter

Spring topcoats — lighter than ever in weight, but just as warm as the heavier versions of past seasons — are making style news right now.

These new topcoats weigh scarcely more than a Spring suit, yet they give all the warmth needed in nippy weather, hold shape well, and many boast a built-in resistance to wrinkling.

The new styling also features shorter lengths this Spring. And there are new colors and shades that give the latest models a truly new look.

Among the newest models is an adaptation of the split raglan style that is now seen so much in rainwear. They're tailored for a set-in sleeve effect when seen from the front, while having the easy - fitting raglan sleeve look at the back.

Designers of the new shorter length coats indicate they will prove to be a boon on car-driving occasions or for men who do a lot of walking. Lengths have been shortened by as much as three inches in some models. Aside from its practical features, the new length boasts what the designers call "better balance" in appearance.

But whatever length is to be preferred, topcoats for this Spring will be found in a superb variety of fabrics, including silky gabardines, luxurious shetlands, rugged tweeds, durable covert cloths and classic polos.

Complementing the new "continental" suits are topcoats tailored for the same trim, slimming effect and other detailing inspired by what's being worn right now in European capitals.

"Ivy" styles are also much in evidence, including models that feature natural shoulders and sweeping raglan lines.

Sports Clothes Tops In Spring

Here's information on what's new in sports wear this spring and summer. We've carefully checked the stores, bearing in mind easy - to - wear and easy to-care-for spring wool clothes. Leading sportsmen, too, were quizzed. Now we're passing on to you what the experts have told us.

Whether you're interested in golf, skeet - shooting, tennis, sailing, or just relaxin' in the sun, the new warm - weather fashions are styled right for around the clock.

CHECK LIST FOR GOLFERS

Basic to a golfer's wardrobe are cool wool slacks in neat black and white hound's tooth checks and bold plaids. They're a welcome change from gray flannel. The new wool tropicals are practically tissue thin, yet the sturdy wool fiber holds its shape. The weaves are porous enough to allow for circulation of air to keep you cool and comfortable on the green. For sportsmen new to the game, golf slacks are fuller at the knee, come with extension waistbands which don't cut into the waist the way a belt may. Ask any golf pro at any club and he'll tell you to look for slacks with extra - deep pockets with places for holding tees, and even a loop for your towel.

That golfing shirt should be in a porous knit that will "give" as you swing the club. Knitted wool shirts not only do this, but also "spring" back into shape. They absorb perspiration, keep you dry and comfortable as only a natural fiber can, and their dyes don't run. Wear blue this spring because it's the big color and the coolest looking.

Whatever the sport, a light-on-the-shoulder hip jacket helps prevent chills afterward. The new short jackets come in neat brown and white checks, oyster white wool gabardines. And they're water - repellent, some Syl - mer treated — to protect you during a sudden spring shower.

CONTINENTAL BLAZER FOR YACHTSMEN

The yachtsman, in particular, should bear in mind the double-breasted wool flannel blazer in navy. What to look for? Deep side vents, slaned flapped pockets and a semi - peaked lapel. Whether your craft is docked on the Great Lakes, on Long Island Sound, or near the Golden Gate, you'll earn the accolades of your crew if you contrast the navy blazer with a hound's tooth check or muted plaid wool flannel slacks.

Skin - divers, water - skiers, and those who stick to the old-fashioned breast - stroke, will find the new wool jersey trunks that the college lads are wearing easiest to swim in. They are cut brief. They come in checks and stripes. Once on land, wool jersey dries in a matter of minutes.

'True Brown' Is Dominant Color In Men's Shoes

"True Brown" is the dominant color note in men's leather shoes this spring. True brown shoes, with no reddish undertone, are the ideal color go-together with lighter blue suits and slacks in fashion this season.

Versatile true brown leather is just as correct with leisure fabrics of paisley and batik prints. And, of course, it blends smoothly with a muted brown business suit.

Blue slacks and jackets are set off neatly by the woody colors like olivewood, dark oak and hemlock — a brown with a fine-lined bark-like grain. The newest tones — buckeye and club brown — are welcome accents with all except the most formal fashions.

The spring shoe silhouette has the Americanized continental look, which is slightly tapered. Square toes will be popular with supple, sturdy leather soles underlining the gently blunted toe.

Interpreted in softer grain leathers and modified to fit the American foot, fashion-setting dress casuals carry through the slim lightweight trend that teams com'ort with a dressed up appearance. Dress shoes are available in soft grained and smooth leathers, Morocco, Morocco-and-grain combinations, boarded leathers and Cordovan.

Detailing such as perforated wing tips, centerline seams and novelty stitching adds flair and swagger to an all-leather shoe. Hand stitching innovations, like guantone, give a simple mocassin front a custom-made air.

Equally "right" for dress-up, the blucher has been streamlined. From its plain toe, centerline seam breaks the severity of a grained leather upper.

Brighter Look In Spring Hats Now Available

Hats for Spring are following the color trend to medium shades this season, and as a result, they're brighter and more cheerful.

Styles and shapes have undergone a few changes, too — with shapes a bit smaller and brims showing a "deep - dish" effect.

In harmony with the lighter-shade trend in suits and coats, the season's hats are in hues of gray, brown and green, among others. Some are in a mixture of these hues, with none predominating. Many of these springtime lightweight felts, incidentally, are crushable. The traveling man can squ eze one into a suitcase, and out it comes looking as good as ever at journey's end.

For dress-up wear this Spring, black felts are at the top of the list. The use of black has also spread to some sport hats, especially those with colorful bands and feather trims.

Hat shapes range all the way from the center - crease style favored by "Ivy" fans to the familiar Tyrolean sports types. The center - dent shape, introduced last Fall, remains in favor. Many men will also like the Tele-pinch shapes seen in recent seasons.

NEWSPAPER SUSPENDED

ANKARA, Turkey (UPI) —The newspaper Ulu was suspended for one month and its editor, Ulku Arman, was sentenced to 16 months imprisonment Wednesday for publishing a story critical of the government. The paper's attorneys said the decision will be appealed.

I'M GLAD I'm nine. I get lots of attention. Here I am in the park. It's Easter Sunday, and I'm in a new suit — and it fits. It's real Ivy like my big brother's in wool herringbone. By Airansun.

TRIP OF A LIFETIME, and we're glad we've packed the right sports clothes for our holid·y in Europe. My gray shadow-check, zephyr-weight wool sports blazer is great for traipsing around the Queen Mary. Fellow passengers tell me I'll get lots of mileage out of it later on because European days and nights are cool. Pockets sport inverted pleats, something different.

TWO WEEKS FUN IN THE SUN, and these cool white flannel walk-shorts fill the bill on board ship and when sight-seeing in port. They're all-wool, hold a press, shed dirt and are pleatless. From Dunlee. Shirt's a knitted wool jersey, very cool, doesn't wrinkle. The black front panel is a smart contrast to the gray body. Short-sleeved for summer comfort.

WOOL IS GOOD IDEA

Pack Crush-Proof Clothes For Summer European Trip

Who hasn't been to Europe these days? It seems everyone has either been or is planning on going. The new jet flights make it from New York to London in 6½ hours, which is about the time it takes to drive from Cincinnati to Cleveland. Of course, many people who are in no hurry like the relaxation of a boat — for nothing makes one let go more than being in the middle of the oceans on, say, one of the luxurious Queens.

Packing seems to be a task most people dread; there is no reason to. If people enjoy planning their trip in every other way —pouring over maps and deciding what cities they want to see in their allotted time — there is no reason planning a travel wardrobe shouldn't be just as much fun. You just decide what you need and what you want to take to be able to enjoy your stay, lay everything out, and pack it carefully, the big items in first, the smaller items tucked into a corner or into shoes or slippers.

PACK WOOL

The best tip you can give any man planning a trip abroad is to pack wool. Europe's climate is not our own; even in the summer, many parts of Britain and the Continent are chilly at night, and you'll find snow in many parts of the Alps; the best way to feel secure and prepared is to take wool clothing, which will keep you comfortable during the day, warm during the evening. And of course, nothing retains its shape like wool — so that packing and hard use will still allow your clothes to look fresh and neat.

JERSEY SLACKS STAY FRESH

One of the best pieces of news for a man's travel wardrobe is the introduction of knitted wool jersey — in sports jackets, suits, and even slacks. These clothes spring out as fresh as when they were packed, just as your favorite wool sweater does. And there are no wrinkles.

And you'd best take a wool sweater or two with you — one long sleeve and one short sleeve. The long sleeve sweater will be perfect for the day when you want to hike around the Lake Country or stroll through the fishing villages of Portugal; and a sleeveless sweater slipped under your jacket can take the chill off at night. A wool shirt is a good thing to pack, too — for comfort when relaxing at your Tyrolean chalet in Austria. We recommend, too, taking along a short topcoat —just in case. If you are going to stay on through the cool months, there are topcoats with button - in wool linings that can double as a robe.

SPORTS COATS ARE ESSENTIAL

You'll wear a sports jacket often — when driving through the villages of Southern Italy or visiting the Chateaux of the Loire. It would be well to take more than one, if you can manage it — a wool Norfolk, say, for a real country gentleman's feel, and a little dressier jacket, like a wool tweed or a plaid, plus a very sporty one, like very lightweight wool two - button striped blazer for your days on the Riviera. And be sure to pack wool socks — you'll be glad you did for all that heavy walking, especially in the countryside.

Of course you'll need suits — for all your evenings in Europe's sophisticated cities. Before you leave might be a good time to buy your first Continental suit, certainly in the spirit of your trip and sure to look very elegant and suave.

If you are taking a cruise, by the way, it is a custom that the first night out, and also the last, a black tuxedo is worn. A black worsted dinner jacket — even in the summer — is really more practical for any lengthy trip. The peak lapel dinner jacket has returned and would be a wise choice for your journey.

If you are taking a cruise to South America, as you know, it will be winter down under while we're enjoying summer here. You'll want to pack accordingly —plenty of warm wool clothing. Any extensive cruise will pass through so many climates, it is much safer to have wool clothes in your wardrobe trunk.

Warm weather sports wear features lightweight fabrics and bright colors, as in this sport coat with burgundy and gold on navy. Fabric is blend of "Dacron" and cotton.

The Italian Continental is exemplified here in an all-wool tropical worsted suit in a black and navy stripe. Note two-button, deep cut-away front, narrow lapel.

BIG SPRING WEEKEND, and the pretty miss can't decide because both dates are dressed in the masterful manner in easy-to-look-at tropical wool sports coats. Chap, with straw hat, is counting on his ombre striped, gray and burgundy cool wool blazer. From Cricketeer. But chap, with smile, exudes confidence in a gray and maroon check tropical. Pockets have new lap seam, no flap By Mavest. Pretty miss in Isetta wears bright coral wool sweater.

VARIATION OF A COLLEGE TRADITION — The low-holer lamb's wool cardigan in char-gray trimmed with red and black diamond panels. Come spring, and undergrads gladly shed heavy jackets for these cardigans and also Shetland pullovers. Both are essential.

Right Clothes At College Could Mean Good Position

"Interviewers will be on campus May 14 ard 15," says the college newspaper, and the seniors take notice. Every spring corporations comb the graduating classes of American universities for boys who show not only good academic records, but personality, poise and leadership possibilities.

The student's clothes make a difference. Surveys of corporation executives have over and over again proved that the appearance of a man has a lot to do with management's evaluation of him —and how much more so with a first interview, when opening impressions mean so much.

THE 'IVY LEAGUE' LOOK

Once dress might have been a problem for the college man—he may have worn just anything, not caring about clothes, not even owning a good suit. But that time has long passed. The college man knows exactly how he likes to dress — the "Ivy League" look has swept the country and boys on campuses in California or Michigan or Alabama wear very much the same dress as those on Eastern college campuses. It's the wool suit without padding in the shoulder, straight - hanging lines, no trouser pleats. And the college man — tall and slim — looks good in his suit.

He likes plain dark colors or perhaps a stripe or a subdued plaid. The black wool suit is rapidly replacing dark gray or navy as his "best" suit. Though wool flannels are still a favorite, he's now tending toward worsted flannels and all wool - worsteds with a harder finish — they keep their press beautifully and keep, too, his pressing bills to a minimum.

While the college man is conservative in his suits, he is getting more and more uninhibited in his sportswear. The madras craze was college inspired and one of the smartest of the new sports jackets is a lightweight-wool in a madras plaid. Plaids and checks have taken the lead away from stripes in sports jackets, and large plaids, too, in startling color combinations, like blue with olive, burgundy with black, royal blue with brown, and mustard with black.

THE BLAZER

The blazer is still the college man's current favorite in a sports jacket. The single-breasted model in navy is most popular, but there are double-breasted models, there are blazers in red, white, black, and olive, and there are breeze-weight wool blazers, too, in wide "blazer" stripes — all with the traditional metal buttons.

Slacks, too, look different. The back buckle has all but disappeared, and most wool trousers will have flapped back pockets. New beltless models in all wool flannel with side extension bands are growing popular. The more fashion - conscious college man will wear his slacks without cuffs, and for real summer rakishness there are slim, pleatless tropical-worsted slacks in bold plaids and checks, that look best worn with a solid - color wool blazer.

Whether the summer finds him at his first serious job, or taking it easy till the fall term starts, the college man will be recognized by his "educated dress."

THIS IS THE SUIT collegians wear on spring weekends. The "Natural Shoulder" in a lighter gray tone and in a lighter wool is styled for young men on campus, many of whom prefer conservative fashions that do not make the look conspicuous.

ARE YOUR SLACKS out of style? New this spring are front pockets and side adjustments. Breeze-weight wool slacks go beltless, cuffless and pleatless — yet hold a press.

Front Pockets Take Over Wool Slacks

Have you taken a close look at your slacks lately? Chances are, if you compare them to the new exceptionally lightweight worsteds now in men's shops, you'll notice a marked difference in styling.

The slacks in your closet are probably more fully cut, with double pleats on each side of zipper, have conventional pockets, and of course, come with a buckled backstrap. To borrow an old phrase, all these details are old hat — and date them as yesteryear's.

SLIM LOOK LEADS

Let's see what's new. Your eye is directed first to the unusual styling of the waistband and pockets. Let's take the waistband first. Most new worsted slacks come without belt loops, for the emphasis today is on trim extension waistbands and side tabs that make you look slim. You'll marvel at how they fit more comfortably around your waist, and without pleats, provide you with a trimmer appearance. And these cool wool tropicals have the ability to "give" with your body movements yet retain their neat shape. Golfers, take note!

Now, about pockets. They've finally dared to make the move to the front of the trouser. West of the Mississippi, they're proudly called "frontier" pockets, but east of the Great Divide, it's something to do with the new Italian influence that's making a tremendous change in the styling of clothing for us, Americans. And it's a welcome change, too.

You'll find these new sports slacks in the coolest wool-worsteds, some practically tissue-thin, and in patterns. Miniature checks and muted plaids are taking the place of drab solids. They're the perfect complement to a navy flannel blazer. One last word. Have them tailored cuffless for the "new" look.

Your Sports Coat Out-Of-Style?

In the summer the family spends as much time out-of-doors as it can. If a man is in his own backyard, a pair of shorts and a shirt are all he needs to wear, but when the barbecue is at one's neighbor's, or the family decides to have dinner in the country or go to an air-conditioned movie, the first thing a man reaches for is his wool sports coat. He'll wear a tie if he has to, but his sports coat is a must.

Men are practical (in spite of what their wives may think!). They want comfort above all. And sports coats for summer are so lightweight and comfortable, they hardly feel any heavier on one's shoulders than a shirt. The smartest patterns are found in all-wool jackets that weigh only about one pound!

THE BLAZER

The wool blazer is going to be even more popular this summer than last. In navy it looks fine with white slacks or the new check and plaid slacks you'll see this season. But there are also striped blazers, and white and red blazers, and double - breasted blazers — all with the fancy metal buttons.

There will be many new styles in lightweight wool sports coats this year. The once popular Norfolk has returned, both in the traditional model and one with a yoke front. There are hacking jacket models — with slanted pockets, a ticket pocket and side vents — usually in bold checks and plaids. The new Italian Continental silhouette can be found in featherweight wool sports jackets, too — a shorter coat with two buttons and a cutaway front. Many jackets show novel pocket treatments — like curved V-shaped button flaps.

The patterns are bolder than last season — wide panel stripes, oversize plaids, madras type plaids in wool, and even wool challis and paisley patterns. And colors are brighter — mustards, reds, and multiple - color plaids and checks. The sports jackets are bold and cheerful, in tune with the summer sun and the fun of vacation and outdoor living this July and August.

THE CARDIGAN JACKET

Becoming more popular for warm weather are cardigan-jackets, with no lapels — extra light, very comfortable, and sensible for hot July days. You will find cardigan wool blazers in one button styling in all colors. Favorite fabrics are the cool open basket weaves and wool hopsackings.

Sports clothes take a lot of punishment in the summertime—it is wool that keeps its shape, wears best, and keeps you comfortable both in the hottest sun and the cooler evenings. And only wool has that noble look of a real gentleman's sports coat.

For all but the dressiest occasions, in summer it is a lightweight wardrobe friend.

Sportswear For Spring Is Colorful

As bracing as a Spring tonic is the 1959 range of masculine sportswear. In addition to colorful good looks, these garments for fun and leisure also boast new greater comfort and ease. And greater use of "science" fibers in the fabrics makes for easier care, says the American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear.

A quick run-down of what's new for and in tune with 1959 starts with sports jackets, fashioned in lighter than ever wool fabrics, wash - wear cottons, man - made fabrics, or blends of any or all of these. All are designed for that basic consideration: to keep cool in the hottest weather, and to look smart and crisp at all times.

As for the good looks, the jackets range all the way from the traditional blazers in solid colors, to bold checks and kingsized plaids. The muted tones of India madras are also in favor.

Fans of wool will find lightweight hopsacking weaves attractive, while other men will prefer the sleekness and sophistication of silk coats. Flannel blazers never go out of style, and this year will be found in solid colors, stripes, and again solids with contrasting piping.

The same variety and appeal are to be found in the range of sports slacks, with Ivy models heading the list for many. Some of these feature backflap pockets, English-inspired self-supporting beltless slacks, and the new-as-tomorrow "Continentals" which are distinguished by their single-pleat cut, slim lines, polo pockets and side tabs, among other features.

The growing demand for wash-wear slacks brings about a greater variety of them than ever. There are even wash-wear, featherlight flannel slacks this year, ready to wear after laundering and drip-drying. Other models include slacks with that now-familiar iridescent sheen effect and a great variety of patterned types that go with solid colored blazers.

It's a safe prediction that more men will turn out in walking shorts this year than ever, with Bermuda lengths or slightly longer versions getting the preference.

Sweaters continue to enjoy their great revival, with cardigans among the standouts. These feature button-up fronts among other styles, and are woven in lightweight wools, "science" yarns and cottons — or blends. Crew-necked bulky knits are showing in great profusion this Spring, along with V-neck styles, all in a range of colors and patterns that are open invitation to the leisure life.

Beachwear for 1959 is highlighted by a range of knit briefs, elasticized shorts, midlength boxer shorts and the new, long legged surf riders. As complements, cabana sets are available in great variety, with matching shirts and trunks in terry cloth and other cottons. Look also for terry lined beach coats and the new toweling cloth "ponchos" for comfortable dry-offs after a plunge in the surf, lake or pool.

GETS SIX MONTHS

ELSINORE, Calif. (AP) — A judge has sentenced the son of a prominent Lake Elsinore family to six months in jail for starting one of California's largest brush fires with an incendiary bullet.

Jerry H. Stewart, 21, was also fined $150 and placed on three years probation by Judge Stanley S. Root.

The fire, which took one life, swept 66,000 acres in three counties in the Cleveland National Forest Area last Dec. 14-17.

FOR LUCK

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — A man with a flair for luck parlayed a $10 bill into $112,000 at a casino dice table here, according to a "Strip" hotel official.

Ivan Annenberg said the unidentified man held the dominoes for one hour and 55 minutes Tuesday night, one of the longest dice runs in Flamingo Hotel history. Annnberg, following hotel policy, would not identify the man.

ENTIRELY NEW LOOK in men's worsted suits for spring '59 is the "Italian Continental." It's completely different in styling from any other silhouette. Already popular abroad, the "Italian Continental" in fine spring-weight worsteds is first making its appearance in these United States this spring. Here's what makes it different. . . the shorter coat with front rounded and more cutaway below lower button (only two buttons on jacket), slight waist suppression, angled pockets, rounded notches. Jacket has deep side vents. Note cuffless trousers. They're trimmer, more practical.

FOR MODERN JET AGE

New 'Italian Continental' Worsted Suit Travels Well

Five and one - half hours actual flying time between New York and Los Angeles on the new jets, and chances are the wool suit you have on at departure time from New York's Idlewild International will see you through important business appointments in Los Angeles that very same day. With distances between cities growing shorter, it's most important for executives to wear the newest styles in fine wool-worsted suits, in up-to-date wool clothes that are right at home wherever business takes you.

THREE MODELS

Here's what the top styles in men's medium - weight worsted suits will be this spring '59 . . . the Italian Continental, the American Ambassador, and the Natural Shoulder.

Newest entry is the Italian Continental. It originated in Rome only last fall among style-conscious businessmen. The true Italian influence is seen first in the length of the two - button worsted jacket: it's much shorter than other models, more cutaway, and has side vents. You'll notice, too, the definite shape to the silhouette. Pockets are angled, flapless. Lapels come semi - peaked. And trousers which are beltless and held up with side adjustments are tapered, pleatless. We predict you'll wear them cuffless.

COOL BLUE IS NEW

You'll see the new Italian Continental in trans - season wool-worsteds comfortably thin for spring's warm - days and cool nights. If you're a travelin' man, you'll appreciate the way they hold a press. You'll admire the new smooth irridescent jacquard weaves in all shades of blue, the small checks in gray, and brown ombre stripes . . . shades and patterns which make the Italian Continental a handsome suit to own — and to wear.

LESS THAN A POUND the Shetland wool topper in the new shorter length is the perfect trans-season coat. Smart - looking in a brown diagonal stripe, it's the easiest-wearing coat for business and jet travel because it's wrinkle-resistant.

AMBASSADOR POPULAR

The American Ambassador, which made a favorable impression a few seasons back, continues to grow in popularity with mature businessmen throughout the country. The three - button American Ambassador in worsted emphasizes squarer shoulders, an indented jacket, flapped pockets, and slim trousers with single pleats. Trousers are worn cuffed. Easterners favor medium to dark shades. On the Pacific Coast, light to medium shades are more popular. Midwesterners and southerners go in for these tones, too.

WOOL HOPSACKING

The suit that did most to bring men's fashions to the fore is the Natural Shoulder which many call an "Ivy" suit because it was first worn by Ivy school graduates. Of the three, it's the most conservative in styling. This spring, commuting suburbanites will want to wear the Natural Shoulder in wool hopsacking that looks right in town and country.
